THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

Shortly afterwards a Notice, or Department Order, dated April 2nd, 1851, was issued to postmasters regarding the rates of postage between Canada and the United States, California and Oregon. It is hardly necessary to reproduce this in its entirety and it will suffice to state that the rate on single letters to the United States was six-pence currency, equivalent to ten cents in United States money, while to California and Oregon the rate was nine pence currency per half-ounce. On newspapers, pamphlets, etc., the rates were the same as those for Canada itself with the stipulation that all such mail must be pre-paid. Certain offices were named for handling the mail between Canada and the United States, viz: Post Sarnia, Windsor, Fort Erie, Queenston (the channel of communication with the United States for the country west of Toronto), Niagara, Toronto, Cobourg (a communication during summer only, by steamer to Rochester), Kingston, Brockville, Prescott, Montreal, St. John's, Dundee, and Stanstead. On the 21st of April, 1851, an Order was issued from the Post Office Department referring to the issue of stamps. The most interesting paragraphs from this order are:—

Postage Stamps are about to be issued; one representing the Beaver, of the denomination of Three pence; the second representing the head of Prince Albert, of the denomination of Six pence; and the third, representing the head of Her Majesty, of the denomination of One shilling; which will shortly be transmitted to the Post Masters at important points, for sale. Any Letter or Packet, with one or more Stamps affixed, equal in amount to the Postage properly chargeable thereon, may be mailed and forwarded from any office as a pre-paid Letter or Packet; but if the Stamps affixed be not adequate to the proper Postage, the Post Master receiving the Letter or Packet for transmission will rate it with the amount deficient in addition. This Regulation concerning Letters short paid has reference only to Letters passing within the Province.

Stamps so affixed are to be immediately cancelled in the office in which the Letter or Packet may be deposited, with an instrument to be furnished for that purpose. In Post Offices not so furnished, the stamps must be cancelled by making a cross (X) on each with a pen. If the cancelling has been omitted on the mailing of the Letter, the Post Master delivering it will cancel the stamp in the manner directed, and immediately report the Post Master who may have been delinquent, to the Department. Bear in mind that Stamps must invariably be cancelled before mailing the Letters to which they are affixed.

It is rather interesting to note that the series comprised only three values, though the postal rates, as shown in the Notice quoted above, and further amplified in a lengthy set of "Regulations and Instructions" called for numerous rates of 1/2d and 1d as well as 7 1/2d so that it certainly seems strange that no provision was made for stamps by means of which such rates could be pre-paid.

The beaver is typical of Canada, for the prosperity of the Colony is largely founded on this animal, whose skin has been a valuable article of commerce since the days of the early trappers in the land of the maple tree. The choice of a beaver as the central theme of the design of Canada's first stamp—the 3d value—is, therefore, particularly appropriate. The stamp is rectangular in shape and the centrepiece is enclosed within a transverse oval band inscribed "CANADA POSTAGE" at the top, and "THREE PENCE" below. Above the beaver is an Imperial crown which breaks into the oval band and divides the words "CANADA" and "POSTAGE." This crown rests on a rose, shamrock, and thistle (emblematic of the United Kingdom) and on either side are the letters "V R" (Victoria Regina, i. e. Queen Victoria). In each of the angles is a large uncolored numeral "3". Mr. Howes tells us that this stamp was not so many years ago regardless of condition and we were called hard names by some old time dealers long since out of the game, for advising collectors not to buy damaged stamps. All is changed now, however, and many specialists in U. S. are collecting uncancelled Revenues—and some even insist on O. G. This may be the extreme but you will make no mistake in looking after quality as well as quantity in your collection.

The short cut to this is to put your name on our mailing list that we may not BOTH LOSE.

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

designed by Sir Stanford Fleming, a civil engineer and draughtsman.

The beaver, depicted on this stamp, rejoices in the scientific name of Castor fiber. It is a rodent of social habits and was at one time widely distributed over Europe and North America. It is now practically extinct except in Canada and even there it is said to be in great danger of extermination. Full-grown animals vary in length from thirty to thirty-six inches. They are covered with short, thick fur, which is of considerable value and their structural peculiarities are well worth noting. The beaver is furnished with powerful incisor teeth, with which it is able to bite through fairly large trees, and its fore paws are very strong. Its hind feet are webbed, so that it is a powerful swimmer, and its tail is flattened, and serves as an excellent rudder. Its ears are small and when laid back prevent any water entering them. Beavers generally live in colonies, and show remarkable intelligence and ingenuity in the construction of their homes or "lodges" and in the building of dams, where water in the vicinity of their dwellings has become too shallow to suit their tastes. These dwellings are often constructed on the banks of rivers, but the Canadian beaver is particularly fond of building lodges in the centre of large expanses of fairly shallow water. These are made of turf, tree-trunks, and other materials, and are often used as store houses for food reserves, as well as for living in.

The 6d stamp follows the usual upright rectangular form and its central design consists of the portrait of Prince Albert, the Royal Consort. The portrait is enclosed within an upright oval inscribed in a similar manner to the 3d but with, of course, "SIXPENCE" on its lower portion. The numeral "6" is shown in each of the four angles. Albert Francis Charles Augustus Emanuel the younger of the two sons of Ernest, Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, was born in 1819. He was carefully educated at Brussels and Bonn (1836-8), where he showed himself an ardent student, acquired many accomplishments, and developed a taste for music and the fine arts. King Leopold and Baron Stockmar had long contemplated an alliance between Prince Albert and Princess Victoria, and the pair were brought together in 1836. When the succession of Victoria was assured the betrothal took place, and on February 19th, 1840, the marriage, which was one of real affection on both sides, was solemnized in the Chapel Royal, St. James Palace. The Prince Consort's position as the husband of a constitutional sovereign was difficult, and in the early years of his married life his interference in matters of state was resented. Ultimately he became "a sort of minister, without portfolio, of art and education", and in this capacity won much esteem and popularity. He also interested himself in agriculture and in social and industrial reform. To him was due the Great Exhibition of 1851, which resulted in a balance of a million dollars available for the encouragement of science and art. His personal character was very high, and he exercised great influence on his children. He was an ideal consort, and entirely worthy of the title "Albert, the Good". On December 14th, 1861, he succumbed to an attack of fever, and was buried in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. His remains were afterwards removed to the mausoleum at Frogmore.

The 12d stamp is very similar in design to the 6d denomination but bears the portrait of Queen Victoria. The life and reign of Queen Victoria are matters of such general knowledge that biographical details are hardly necessary. A few words, however, regarding the source of this handsome portrait, which was used to adorn so many of the earlier British Colonial stamps, will not be amiss. Mr. Howes tells us that this portrait "was taken from the full length painting by Alfred Edward Chalon, R. A., which was ordered by the Queen for her mother, the Duchess of Kent, as a souvenir of Her Majesty's first visit to the House of Lords. The occasion was the prorogation of Parliament, on July 17th, 1837, and the Queen is portrayed in her robes of state, because of which fact the painting is sometimes described as 'in Coronation Robes', but this is erroneous."

The 12d requires a few words in explanation of the manner in which the value was expressed for "One Shilling" would appear to be a more natural form for this amount rather than "Twelve Pence". Mr. Donald A. King says:—"This was undoubtedly done intentionally, as though it was intended for a one shilling stamp, yet it could not be called that, as there were a number of shillings of different values in circulation in the Colony. If the stamp had been lettered 'One Shilling', the Post Office was liable to have tendered for it 6 1/2d, 7 1/2d, 10d, or 12d, according to locality."

Mr. Howes gives a fuller explanation which we cannot do better than quote in his own words:—

"A glance back at the rates of postage we have already quoted will show that it was generally necessary to give them in two forms, 'currency' and 'sterling'. The somewhat depreciated Canadian currency required fifteen pence, as will be noted, to equal the shilling sterling—a point brought out on the two stamps issued subsequently for the British Packet rates. Add to this fact that in New England the 'shilling' was a current expression for

16½ cents (10 pence currency), while in New York it represented 12½ cents (7½ pence currency) and we can readily see that in Canadian territory contiguous to these sections the number of pence to a 'shilling' might often be a debatable quantity. As a matter of fact the French Canadians of Lower Canada made general use of the 'shilling' as reckoned at 10 pence (20 cents) in the old currency, while the 'York shilling' was extensively used in Upper Canada. 'Twelve Pence' was without doubt wholly intentional, therefore, as the designation of the stamp, and was happy solution of any ambiguity in its use, even if it has proved a stumbling block to the understanding of latter day collectors."

NOTES ON RECENT ISSUES.

(C. Whitfield King & Co.'s List.)

Belgian Congo—A new set of stamps of the same designs as those of 1910 have been issued in new colours, except the 5, 10 and 25c, which, being in Postal Union colours, cannot be altered, but instead are slightly changed in the frame of the design, the values in words being added at the top of the stamps.
 We suppose this new issue has been rendered necessary through looting of the stock of the old issue by the Germans; these new stamps are expected to arrive about December 6th.

Epirus—The Macedonian stamps of 1, 2, 3 and 5 lepta have made their appearance overprinted for Northern Epirus in red instead of black. Our correspondent informs us that this was through an error of the printer, as only revenue stamps should be overprinted in red; of these surcharges it is stated that only 5,000 each were issued. We have not been able to obtain any of these stamps in the usual way, and it will therefore be impossible to distribute them to new issue clients.

Russia—The 10, 15 and 20 kopeks stamps of the Romanoff series have been printed on very thick paper, perforated, and printed on the back with the National Arms and an inscription signifi-ying that the stamps possess the same right of circulation as silver currency.
 Their issue has been rendered necessary owing to the scarcity of small coins, and we understand that their sale has been discontinued; they are available either as currency or for postage.

Trinidad—The current 1d stamp has been overprinted with a Red Cross bordered with black, and the date "21.10.15," on which date alone they were available.
 Our correspondent states that the whole issue was bought up in two hours, and that the printing of a second lot was found impracticable when this lot was exhausted, owing to some difficulty with regard to the plates. The stamps were issued ostensibly for the benefit of the Red Cross Society, but unless the Post Office charged a premium over the face value we cannot understand how the Society could benefit by their sale, as each stamp was available for postage to the extent of its face value.

SUBSCRIPTION COUPON CAMPAIGN.

By the MANAGING EDITOR.

Last week we outlined our plan for cooperative effort upon the part of our subscribers to reach the 10,000 subscription mark, and we hope for, and expect, a quick response upon the part of the many members of our Booster Club.

We shall make one change in the details of the plan. The coupons will be returned direct to the subscription getter rather than the office of the WEEKLY, and this will enable everyone to keep close tabs upon results.

As we said last week, the plan is a very simple one, and under it the new subscriber and the subscription getter will each have a premium. Neat coupons have been prepared to be used in ordinary correspondence, each coupon representing a yearly subscription at the regular price of 50c. On the reverse side of the coupon is a list of the premiums that the new subscriber can make a selection from, while the subscription getter can have a choice of any six months' premium, three months' extension of his subscription or 12½c cash rebate, whichever may be preferred.

At the end of every month based on the interest developed, prizes will be given the contestants who have the most coupons to their credit, and we shall not hesitate to let the public know the names of the boosters who are most active in pushing for the 10,000 mark.

May we send you a supply of coupons?

PHILIPPINES "O. B." STAMPS.

By Courtesy THEODORE SIDDALL.

In order to better keep the accounts of postage stamps bought for official use, the governor general addressed, in August last, instructions to the chiefs of the bureaus and offices of the government and to the provincial officials, to the effect that every stamp bought for official use should be marked on the face with the letters "O. B."

It has recently been discovered that some of the officials have been using stamps so marked for the purpose of paying small accounts to local merchants, who naturally have been using such stamps on their own correspondence. As this practice defeats the object in view in marking these stamps, the above mentioned order has now been amended by the issue of instructions to the postmasters to refuse to transmit any correspondence mailed by individuals or corporations when any part of the postage paid thereon is represented by postage stamps that are marked "O.
 B."—Manila El Comercio.

NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE.

Do not be alarmed should you fail to receive the next issue of the WEEKLY promptly on time. It will be a large number and severely tax the resources of our printing office. Give us a good wide margin of time before writing in for the missing number. We can promise a splendid treat for our readers.

ARE YOU PAID UP?

The discontinuance of a subscription to the WEEKLY cannot be made a matter of individual consideration. Our subscription list is too large for us to do this. We carry all subscribers for a period of three months, which allows ample opportunity for renewals. Subscriptions are discontinued automatically in the office where the paper is printed, and if your subscription should be discontinued it is done with no desire to give offense, but to comply with the Post Office regulations in regard to arrearages. If your subscription be in arrears and you do not want to miss any single number of the WEEKLY, the thing for you to do is to remit at once for the coming year.

Will Arrive.—The newspapers have told of the impending issue of a new two cent U. S. stamped envelope and we are able to furnish the official description of the variety. Attention is directed to the fourth clause which in the departmental order is headed "watermarks":

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20, 1915.

"1. Postmaster and employees of the postal service are notified that the Department is about to issue stamped envelopes bearing an embossed postage stamp of new design, described as follows:

2. The new stamp is printed in red ink and is in the form of a circle about 1 1/16 inches in diameter. In the center is embossed the head of Washington in profile, looking to the left. The sides and upper portion of the border carry the words 'United States Postage' in white capital letters, and within the border beneath the head, is the word 'cents.' with the numeral '2' on each side inclosed in a small white circle.

3. For awhile the Department can not fill all requisitions with the new envelopes. The old embossing dies will be displaced with dies of the new design gradually, and until all of the stamping machines are equipped with the new dies, return-card envelopes bearing either the old or the new stamp will be furnished in response to the requisitions of postmasters. Unprinted envelopes bearing the old stamp will be issued by the Department until the stock on hand is exhausted.

4. Stamped envelopes are now produced from paper bearing new watermark designs composed of a monogram of the letters 'US' one inch high and one-half inch wide. The year '1915' runs downwardly through the monogram from left to right, or horizontally through the upper part of the monogram, or horizontally through the lower part of the monogram, the different positions of the year indicating the mills which manufactured the paper.

Hardy Annual.—The annual report of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, recently published, affords an idea of the magnitude of the operations of this great organization, the stamp products of which are of so much interest to philatelists. The text of the report by the Director, Mr. J. E. Ralph, who is so favorably known to philatelists is fortified by an array of statistical tables that this year embrace the current revenue issues as well as the postage. Much information worthy of comment is carried by the tables, some of which we shall refer to in the next issue. Of the revenue stamps, 5,211,504 sheets were delivered to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and concerning them Director Ralph says: "These were the first revenue stamps printed in the bureau on offset presses, and it is pleasing to state that the stamps have been received very acceptably. The higher denominations of these stamps, few in number, were printed by the plate-printing process. The act referred to required the issue of these stamps within a short time after its passage, and it would have been impossible to produce them in time by any other than the offset process in a manner that would afford the required security together with satisfactory designs and a considerable saving was made by the use of this process." We learn that the "opium stamps authorized by the act of December 17, 1914, were also printed in the bureau on offset presses." The law that called the opium stamps into existence was duly described in the WEEKLY.

To Pursue.—The report says that three rotary web presses are in use "with resulting great economy" and we learn that two other presses are being built on which it "is proposed to print internal revenue stamps"; and undoubtedly the proprietary, documentary and wine stamps are referred to. To digress, we skip to another portion of the report, headed, "Scarcity of Certain Supplies." As is generally known, the basic ingredients in the composition of standard shades of dry colors used by the bureau in stamp printing have been made only in Germany, a source of supply that for some time has been unavailable. Mr. Ralph was far-sighted and enterprising enough to anticipate the stringency and at the beginning of the war, he bought all the supplies that the market afforded. This stroke of business was a profitable one and though the supplies have been exhausted for some time past, the stamp colors have been maintained approximately by the mixture of other materials. It is feared that more difficulty will be experienced the coming year although the chemists are bending every effort to discover substitutes of "domestic origin." This explanation will account for shades that are being noticed in our familiar issues.

Formosa.—A reader asks about the Formosan stamps whose cuts once embellished the catalogue. Up to the 1912 edition, two issues of Formosan stamps were listed in the American catalogue but since then, they have been "among the missing." In some of the foreign catalogues, one or both of the issues is given, up to this time. The reputation of the Formosan stamps was never considered beyond reproach and they were the target of many an unbeliever's shafts. Though they held out for years in our catalogue, they finally were dislodged. When the stamps appeared there was no national post established by China and only a local courier service was operated. The labels were premature and were described as "very nearly a purely native experiment." The labels were used as way-bills or receipts and at best may be said to have had a local significance. The stamps were catalogued by surference pending the receipt of incontrovertible news of the stamps; and once in the book, they were hard to get out. Mention may be made of labels issued in 1895 by the "Black Flags," who proclaimed a Formosan republic after the outbreak of the Chinese-Japanese war but by October, 1895, the Japanese had seen to it that the Black Flags no longer waved.

Holiday Greetings.—The receipt of holiday greetings from many of our subscribers makes us truly grateful. It is pleasant to feel that the WEEKLY is in the minds of a good number of our readers and we would have them understand that we hold their expressions of cheer at the highest sentimental quotations.

principal female characters is described as being a glutton for stamps. In fact, he is pictured as being so wild in his career for stamps that he is anathema to the household. One day, the sister of the ardent young philatelist received a letter from New York City, at her home in London whereupon the lad raised a great hullabaloo for the possession of the two cent current red which it was represented was missing in the collection. What stamps could he have had if not the commonest of them all? Surely, the one penny red of Great Britain was in it.

The Start.—We are pleased to find that Mr. W. G. Windhurst, Marion, Ohio, is proceeding with his plan to raise funds for the soldiers of the different warring nations through contributions of a philatelic nature which are to be disposed of at auction. On the revised scale on which Mr. Windhurst is basing his efforts, the success of the movement will be more certain, we think, than on the more pretentious outline first presented. It is fitting to say that Wm. H. Schaffner, president of the Marion County Bank, who has been appointed treasurer pro tem., of the fund, is a gentleman who has been most favorably known for many years and his coöperation is a distinct advantage to this charity.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Many cards and complimentary greetings have come to the WEEKLY office during the past few days. One of the most acceptable was from A. W. Dunning, who sent us a "weekly reminder calendar" for 1916.

—Elsewhere in this issue will be found the large advertisement of F. W. Reid, long a dealer in Denver, Colo., and now residing in Sydney, N. S. W. Ordinarily, we do not allow the WEEKLY to be used as a reference, but we have permitted this advertisement to go in reading as it does, knowing Mr. Reid as a reliable dealer and an old-time patron of our publication. He advertises a line of stamps that will prove attractive, and which he has had unusual facilities in securing. No cable addresses are registered during the war, but cables addressed "Reid, Victoria Arcade, Sydney" would reach him. We hope to number Mr. Reid as a regular advertiser.

—Herbert H. A. Fox gets ahead of our special number with a half-column advertisement this week. Mr. Fox has made a name for himself as an importer and dealer in British Colonials and has developed a splendid business in the short time that he has used our columns. We have always been able to give him a good name and our readers will find our endorsement a proper one.

—Malcolm H. Ayer, Jr.; calls our attention to the fact that there is a very interesting three-page article on the "Manufacture of Postage Stamps" in the January number of Pearson's.

—D. D. Berolzheimer in a letter to the WEEKLY suggests that we publish week by week a list of subscribers who would like to receive auction catalogs. There is a decided objection to our publishing in the WEEKLY names and addresses of collectors, which must be apparent. We are of the impression that any collector can receive auction catalogs regularly throughout the season by sending a post card request to the dealers using our columns.

AVOID IT.

TO THE EDITOR:

I am glad to see that Mr. Howes agrees with me regarding the solubility of dyestuffs in carbon tetrachlorid.

Since I wrote my note regarding the danger attending the use of the tetrachlorid, I have received from the U. S. Department of Labor a bulletin entitled: "Industrial poisons used in the rubber industry," which in forcible terms condemns the use of carbon tetrachlorid as being among the five most dangerous substances used in that industry.

Lehmann whose work is quoted, found that experiment shows that 2 to 3 grains of carbon tetrachlorid when in vapor form in one quart of air is dangerous within one-half hour.

I sincerely hope that all readers of the WEEKLY will avoid the use of this industrial poison, particularly as benzine is better for watermark work and more easily obtainable.

Yours truly,

L. D. BEROLZHEIMER, A. P. S. 3649.
 NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 21, 1915.

THE NEW GIBBONS CATALOG.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

The times change, and our stamps to some extent change with them. The stamps of Egypt are no longer to be sought for in the "foreign" catalogue; the land of the Pharaohs has become a British Protectorate, and the once foreign stamps are gathered into the great British group. The publishers have not adopted exactly the same attitude to the old issues of the former German colonies; these will be left in Part II, where it is to be hoped they will be all but forgotten, as the majority of them never served any bona-fide postal use, being printed and sold in Berlin to the stamp trade there.

Concerning the British and French provisional surcharges on former German colonial stamps, however, the publishers emphasize the fact that they will always be of a very high degree of interest, that in all cases the stocks on hand were but small, the greatest number of any one value being about 28,000, and there were several cases in which one, two, or three copies of a high value were seized and overprinted. Although the prices for these are already high, Messrs. Gibbons state, "We think they must constantly advance, as the supplies are so limited."

The collector who has invested in the old stamps of the British Empire has no reason to be concerned at the effect of the war upon the value of his stamps. By far the greatest demand on the stamp market is for the old issues of the home country and the Colonies, and as stocks are depleted, they can only be replenished at increased prices. So, after fifteen months of war, the prices of many of the stamps have had to be raised, especially those of Bahamas, British Guiana, Ceylon, Falkland Islands, Gambia, Hong Kong, Newfoundland, St. Helena, and St. Lucia. In this connection, the following pertinent hint is given by Messrs. Gibbons:

The war has bound together in an indissoluble manner the Mother Country and her Dominions across the seas, and for many years to come, we cannot imagine a patriotic Briton doing business with a German, and it seems to us that as years go on the tendency amongst us Britons will be more and more to specialise in our own stamps; for these and other reasons, we feel sure that, as an investment, the old postage stamps of Britain and her Dominions will rank above those of any other portion of the world.—London Telegraph.

G. W. MATTHEWS,

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Edward S. Horwitz reports having seen a copy of the new 11c stamp, precancelled "Minneapolis, Minn.," with the overprint inverted. Also, two varieties of the 2c Postal Savings envelope with the penalty overprint; one has the penalty printed across the face of the stamp, the other has six thick bars printed across the face of the stamp, and the penalty above the stamp. Scott does not list either of these.

Hugo Kuenstler has shown us three varieties of the Internal Revenue tax paid for 1915, a tobacco stamp, 1 ounce blue on white, showing an Indian head; and two snuff stamps, 1 ounce and 1 1/2 ounces, black on blue, each showing a growing tobacco plant.

Raymond Freshwater shows a copy of the 10c parcel post stamp, with a scratch on the plate, running through the "A" of "Parcel" and well down into the picture.

A. F. Simionescu reports having found the broken "N" variety in the 1/2c Proprietary of the current issue, and corroborates Mr. Reeder's statements regarding its appearance in the sheet.

H. C. Kendall submits specimens of the new envelope watermarks. Bartels calls these 19 and 20, and has already thoroughly exploited them in the Chronicle.

ARGENTINE.—Ewen's Weekly reports the 5c, ploughman type, on unwatermarked paper. It seems that this variety is due to the present scarcity of watermarked paper. There are several values of this series.

According to The Australian Philatelist, the 24c has appeared lithographed, and on paper with the honeycomb watermark.

Ewen's Weekly also reports a specimen of the 1912, 12c stamp with honeycomb watermark sideways.

AUSTRALIA.—The entire set up to 5sh appears now on paper with new watermark, Crown and narrow A. Specialists in these stamps will have their fun with the watermarks of which there are four distinct varieties, paper of which there is a variety in thickness, and perforations of which there are also a few varieties.—Hermann Focke says.

CYPRUS.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles the issue of a postcard, of the 1 piastre value, carmine on cream, with portrait of King George.

Post Card.
1pi carmine on cream.

DANISH WEST INDIES.—The issue of a new postcard, with portrait of King Frederic VIII., is chronicled by Maury's Collectionneur.

Post Card.
5b green on white.

JAPAN.—John C. Morgan has shown us specimens of the Coronation Commemorative stamps and official cards as noted last week. All of these, as well as Mr. Rasmussen's covers, have the special postmark used in honor of the event, special postmarks finding great favor with the Japanese postal authorities. This is further shown by two cards sent by Mr. Morgan, issued in honor of the Jubilee of the opening of the Port of Yokohama. These cards show Yokohama in 1859 and in 1909, and one has medallions with portraits of Commodore Perry, and the Emperor of Japan at the time of his visit.

2c on 15r gray green.

N. W. PACIFIC ISLANDS.—Hermann Focke writes: "Under date of October 20 I received another small consignment of stamps from Rabaul, which includes the 1d and 4d values. This issue will give ample work to the specialist, such as various types of "S" in "Islands", small "I" in same word, and broken letter "N". It is said that another printing has appeared on the stamps with the new watermark, but for this I do not vouch, as I have not seen them."

Later Mr. Focke writes: "I enclose two more interesting covers from this group of Islands in the Pacific, one from Nauru, or Pleasant Island, with the interesting communication from the Acting Post Master that 'no stamps are available' and the other from Rabaul with a number of Censor marks. The interesting side of this is that in spite of the fact that the stamp 'Passed by censor' appeared on the cover, this was opened by another Censor, his label covering the former stamp. It seems that one Censor did not trust the other! I have also seen a cover with these stamps from Herbertshöhe, with the 2c perforated 'O. S.' and the 1d and 2 1/2d ordinary postage."

RUSSIA.—Ewen's Weekly reports the new novelty in War stamps, printed because of a scarcity of small coinage change, which prompted the Russian Ministry of Finance to issue an order making postage stamps issued on the occasion of the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the founding of the House of Romanoff, legal tender. The stamps range in denomination from 1 to 20 kopecks, and are on thick paper with the Coat of Arms and inscription at back, and perforated 13.

War Stamps.

10k blue, back; inscription black.
15k red-brown; inscription black.
20k olive-green; inscription black.

TIMOR.—Scott's No. 80 for this Colony has appeared with the "Republica" overprint in a new setting in red. Only the first letter, the "R" is a capital, instead of all being capitals as in the case of all the other overprints. Hermann Focke reports this.

VICTORIA.—J. E. Lea sends us a photograph of the 1d green of the 1857-61 issue, perforated 12, and watermarked "FOUR PENCE". The 4d watermarked "ONE PENNY" is listed by Scott, but this is the first copy found with the first-named combination. Experts pronounce it a new discovery of a genuine rarity.

WHO IS "COLONIALS"?

Advertising in this week's paper under the name "Colonials" our subscribers are advised that the dealer is a thoroughly reliable one. Mail is ordered addressed to N. Y., care of an agency but both parties have been using the WEEKLY in previous years in a similar relationship, and as far back as 1902.

If you are interested in British Colonials you need not hesitate about writing "Colonials".

RUHLEBEN CAMP LABELS.

We are indebted to Chas. W. A. Braun for samples of some labels issued in connection with the British camp at Ruhleben, Germany, and we quote from his letter the following:

"I enclose herewith two interesting stamps. They were given to me by a friend who just returned from the British Civil Prisoner Camp in Ruhleben, Germany, where he had been interned since the outbreak of the war.

They were used to cover the postage on the camp paper, (edited by the prisoners) but printed in Spandau. These stamps were only to be used for postage within the camp, as letters and cards to places outside the camp need no postage and are delivered free. The cancellation R. X. D. PAID stands for "Ruhleben Express Delivery." Postal cards are delivered from one part of the camp to another for 1/3d, letters and the camp paper for 1/4d. As very few letters are sent between prisoners and the paper is practically a new venture the regular 1/4d stamps are surcharged 1/4d for these two items. As to colors I have no information, I do not know in how many colors the stamps are printed (or hand stamped) but think the enclosed are the only ones."

The two labels look as though they were made from a rubber stamp and are printed in green and black, respectively. Across the top of the stamp are the words "Ruhleben Express Delivery" in capital letters. At the bottom in two lines are the words "One-Third Penny". The value in the form of a fraction is in the center of the stamp, while on either side the word "Postage" is printed vertically. The surcharge referred to by Mr. Braun consists of the fraction "1/2" enclosed in a small circle, the overprinting being done in black on the green stamp and in green on the black stamp.

December 21, 1915.

The 348th (regular) meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society was held this evening at the Club Room. The application of Mr. Wm. T. Jenney was favorably voted on, and his membership number is No. 612. The regular business having been transacted and officers for the next year nominated the "Christmas Entertainment Committee" gave out many "beautiful" presents to the 38 members present, after which Mr. Farrar showed his collection of Mexico and a few postage stamp slides were thrown upon the screen as a sample of what could be done in that direction. After a pleasant evening the meeting adjourned at 10.35 p. m.

261st meeting was held December 16th. President Bartels called meeting to order at 8.45. Minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted. Mr. Julius Schack was proposed for membership by Mr. E. Koller, seconded by Mr. Denzau. Mr. E. Klein was appointed Stamp Expert, Mr. H. M. Lewy as Auctioneer, Mr. W. O. Staeb as Press Agent to see that the press is informed of special events. After some discussion, it was decided to avail ourselves of the exchange circuit of the American Philatelic Society, and Mr. Lewy volunteered his service to follow up the subject. Messrs. Hermann, Jancovich, Meininger and Schlesinger, exhibited their Saints, Mr. Meininger winning the exhibit, as neither Mr. Jancovich nor Mr. Schlesinger won this exhibit, they were tied for the trophies, so the President could not present the cups, and the cups are, therefore, to be held for 1916. Messrs. Burnett and Schack were visitors. Those present: Mrs. Held, Messrs. Bartels, Hermann, Koller, Denzau, Jancovich, Dr. Keidanz, Lewy, Schlesinger, Mouhib, Meininger, Moye. — W. O. STAEB, Sec.

Rather Personal

It is difficult to be personal in an advertisement. Type looks cold, and as you read it, it doesn't seem to be meant for you as an individual.—You are only interested to see what we have to say to stamp dealers in general, not necessarily to you.

Yet the advertising we have done in this paper, some of which you may have read, is intended for YOU. The accumulated prestige which 42 years of publication has given to ST. NICHOLAS is concentrated on you the instant your advertisement is read by thousands of interested youngsters. The boys and girls who read the first copy of ST. NICHOLAS in 1873, and patronized our first stamp advertiser (J. W. Scott) have grown up, some of them, to be adult collectors. And this has happened year after year. Doesn't this mean something to you personally? Don't you believe the weight of ST. NICHOLAS as a postage stamp collectors' medium for so many years can be of personal help to you during the winter of 1915-16. May we tell you more about our STAMP DIRECTORY?

St. Nicholas Magazine,
357 Fourth Ave., N. Y. C.

I will overlook your being personal if you will tell me one way I can start the New Year right.

THE BELGIAN RED CROSS STAMPS.

Two issues of Belgian Red Cross stamps have so far appeared during the great war, and a third issue was to have made its appearance on March 15th last, which however has been postponed. I give below details of the printing, etc., which I believe to be more correct than the figures published in a contemporary some months ago.

The first issue, which appeared on October 2d, 1914, consisted of two completely different types, which I shall call Type I and Type II. They were lithographed by Messrs. Verschueren, of Antwerp, and the plates from which they were printed were destroyed, after use.

TYPE I.

There are three values of Type I, the size of the stamps being $24\frac{1}{2} \times 34\frac{1}{2}$ mm. The picture represents the Monument to the Belgian Independence, or War of Independence Monument, which was inaugurated at the beginning of 1914 at Berchem, to commemorate the death of Frédéric de Mérode. Each stamp bears two red crosses in the lower cartouches and the value is in white on coloured ground in the upper corners. The sheets consisted of four blocks of 25 stamps (5 rows of 5 each) and the perforation is 14. When supplied to the post offices, each block of 25 stamps was separated and stamped "Dépot 1914" in one of the top corners generally, before being supplied to the post offices.

5 centimes, yellow-green; bright green. Cross, vermilion, pale vermilion, carmine.

20 centimes, pale mauve on white, purple on coloured paper, bright purple on pale mauve. Cross, vermilion, pale vermilion, carmine.

TYPE II.

There are also three values, but of a smaller size: 18×23 mm., representing King Albert in an oval on lined background, with a red cross in the lower left-hand corner, and the value in the cartouche of the lower right-hand corner. The sheets consisted of two blocks of 150 stamps each (10 rows of 15 each), perforated 14, and they were also provided with the stamp "Dépot 1914," generally inverted, on the upper left-hand corner, before being supplied to the post offices.

5 centimes, yellow-green, bright green. Cross, vermilion, carmine.

10 centimes, pale red, bright carmine-red.*
20 centimes, pale purple on white, bright purple on coloured paper. Cross, vermilion, carmine.

According to the Bollettino Filatelico, there exists a very scarce variety of the 10 centimes, not perforated on the left-hand side.

The stamps of this issue, used on letters bearing the postmark: "Le Havre—Seine Inférieure" from 18th to 23rd October, 1914, are, I think, bound to be of great value.

SECOND ISSUE. (TYPE III.).

This issue, as the first, consisted of three values, which were sold at Le Havre from January 2nd, 1915. They represent King Albert, and their size is 24×34 or $24\frac{1}{2} \times 34\frac{1}{2}$ mm. The frame is the same as in type I. (Monument), but a small c is added to the figure of the value in the upper cartouches.

This set was printed by Messrs. Waterlow Bros. and Layton, Ltd., London. Each sheet consisted of 4 blocks of 25 stamps (5 rows of 5 each), perforated 14. The first 180,000 sets were supplied to the post offices in sheets of 50, without the name of the printers. After this consignment they were supplied in sheets of 100 (in four blocks of 25), bearing the name of the printers. The control stamp "Dépot 1915" is only found on a few sheets of the first consignment, but it is found on all the sheets of 100 stamps supplied later. There exists a great variety of crosses and some scarce perforations which were only found in the first lot.

*NOTE.—The 5 and 20 centimes of the first issue (type I. and II.) were printed in two operations, the cross being printed in the second operation, so that it may be found in various positions.

The 10 centimes, on the contrary, were printed in one operation only, so that the cross is of the same colour as the rest of the stamp.

5 centimes (3,000,000) blue-green.
10 centimes (3,000,000) carmine. The cross and centre in rose.

30 centimes (1,000,000) mauve.
Varieties—Perf. 12×14 , about 3,000 copies of the 5 centimes are known.

Perf. 12, about 8,750 copies of the 20 centimes.

Perf. 14×12 , only a few sheets are known to have been issued.

Broken cross, on all values, 1 copy per sheet in first consignment only, after which the cross was retouched.

Specialists will find several varieties in the crosses, some being smaller or thinner than in the normal type; in some specimens, the cross seems broken on the left-hand side and in some on the right-hand side.

The most interesting varieties are certainly the following:—

20 centimes, King Albert with a gash under the lower lip (Roi Albert balafré).

5c, 10c, 20c, with broken épaulement (already chronicled on page 151 of Stamp Collecting, Vol. 4, No. 19).

The third issue (type 4) was to represent King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, and four values were intended to be issued. Unfortunately, the proofs, when submitted by Messrs. Waterlow to the Belgian Government, were refused, and the issue of this set has been postponed to an indefinite date.

All the Belgian Red Cross stamps were sold at double face value, of which amount, one-half went to the Post Office, and the other half to the Red Cross funds. They were only available for postage to and from Le Havre—Ste. Adresse—the portion of Belgium not invaded—the region of Baar-le-Duc. — Stamp Collecting.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Boston, Mass., Jan. 1, 1916.

To the Publishers of "Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News."
Gentlemen,—

Allow me to present to you officially, as representing for the time being the Philatelists of America most hearty congratulations on your 25th anniversary.
But few monthlies have reached this Silver Jubilee, and as the only weekly to accomplish it the achievement is certainly remarkable.
From the first issue to the present—and the writer has them all—the ideals have been high, the scope broad, the attitude fearless, just and helpful, until it finds itself today an indispensable friend of all from "amateur to specialist."

We sincerely wish you increased prosperity
as you start out for your "Golden Jubilee."
C. A. Howes, President.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

The three values forming this first issue were manufactured by Messrs. Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson, of New York, who are, perhaps, better known to fame as the engravers of the 1847, 5c and 10c stamps for the United States government. All three stamps were printed from plates engraved in taille douce the plates consisting of one hundred impressions arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten each. The manufacturer's imprint—"Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson, New York"—was engraved twice on each of the four sides quite close to the stamps. The imprints were so placed that the bottoms of the letters are always next to the stamps with the consequence that on the printed sheets of stamps the imprints read upwards at the left, downwards at the right, and upside down on the bottom margins.

A variety of the 3d denomination is catalogued with "double transfer". This is, of course, a plate variety caused like all similar ones by a faulty or incorrect rocking of the roller impression on the plate and a correction on top of this impression which did not always entirely obliterate the first impression. Mr. Howes says this variety "is recognized by the letters EE PEN being 'doubled' at the top, making it appear as if a line had been drawn through the words and giving it the name occasionally used of the 'line through threepence' variety." There are at least two other similar varieties of "double transfers" known on this value for in the Philatelic World for December, 1908, Mr. A. J. Sefi described and illustrated three different ones. One of these is a variety mentioned by Mr. Howes, another shows a distinct doubling of parts of the details of the two left-hand corners, while the third variety shows a doubling of the upper right hand corner. It is quite possible a close study of these stamps would reveal others and also similar varieties in the 6d and 12d. "Double strikes" are not uncommon on stamps produced by the line-engraved process though they are not often so striking as the first of these Canadian varieties and those found on the United States 10c stamp of 1847.

According to a valuable summary from official records published in the Metropolitan Philatelist we learn that the first delivery of stamps from the manufacturers took place on April 5th, 1851, when 100,000 of the 3d denomination were delivered to the Canadian Government. On April 20th, a second supply of the same value comprising 150,200 stamps arrived in Canada. On May 2nd 100,400 of the 6d were received followed two days later by 51,400 of the 12d this latter being the only consignment of the highest value ever received from the printers. We have already pointed out that the 3d was placed on sale on April 23rd, 1851. The date of issue of the 6d is not known for certain as there are no official records relating to this though, as a supply was received on May 2nd, they were doubtless issued some time during the same month. The 12d was issued on June 14th as we shall show later.

The three values of this series, as well as other denominations in pence issued later, were withdrawn from use on July 1st, 1859, when decimal currency was introduced. By means of much diligent search through Post Office Reports and other records Mr. Howes has determined that a total of 3,528,700 3d stamps were issued and a total of 402,900 of the 6d value. Some of both these values were issued with perforation late in 1857 or early in 1858. Unfortunately there is no means of separating these from the imperforate ones as shown by the official figures but if we use the somewhat rough-and-ready means of reckoning afforded by catalogue quotations it would seem that of the above totals about three million of the 3d and 325,000 of the 6d were imperforate.

The 12d value, as every collector knows, is a very rare stamp. Even had the full supply of 51,000 stamps, received in the first and only consignment from the manufacturers on May 4th, 1851, been issued, it would have been a rare variety, but as a matter of fact, the greater portion of the consignment was destroyed and only 1510 were actually issued. An interesting article published in the Metropolitan Philatelist in 1902 shows that this denomination was first issued on June 14th, 1851, and supplies were made to various post offices as follows:—

P. M. WOLSIEFFER, President-Mgr.
CHARLES BEAMISH, Secretary-Treas.

The consignment sent to Smith's Falls on December 4th, 1854, was the last distributed. While we can trace no official notice referring to the discontinuance of this denomination, or the actual date at which it ceased to be used, the writer of the article referred to above says that the balance of 49,490 stamps were destroyed on May 1st, 1857, "in accordance with the practice of the Department in cases of the discontinuance of stamps" though as this was the first Canadian stamp to be discontinued, a precedent could hardly have been established.

The following interesting excerpt from the Stamp Collectors' Magazine for April, 1870, states that the 12d value was discontinued in 1855 and it also lays considerable stress on the scarcity of used specimens of this stamp, viz:—

One of our readers observing from a reply we made to a correspondent in the last October number, that we were in doubt as to whether the 12d was ever actually used, has been good enough to write the Deputy Postmaster-General on the subject and has obtained from him the following reply:—

"OTTAWA, 28th October, 1869.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your note of the 26th inst., let me say that the twelve penny postage stamps were issued to the public in 1851, but did not find favor, and so few were sold—only a few hundred altogether in three or four years—that they ceased to be issued in 1855.

I am, dear Sir, yours very faithfully,
W. A. SMYTH."

This is satisfactorily conclusive as to the emission of the stamp in question; but if even only a few hundreds were used, we are surprised that no used copies turn up. Were they used otherwise than for postage? Mr. Philbrick informs us that no unused copy of the stamp was ever seen by him, nor does he know of its existence. Plenty of proofs on India paper, etc., exist, but the paper of the stamp was laid and thin, of a hard texture.

An extract from the Stamp Collectors' Monthly Gazette, published at St. John, New Brunswick, in September, 1869, shows that the rarity of the 12d was already recognised as witnessed by the fact that "even $5" could be obtained for a specimen. We give the paragraph in full:—

This stamp, as some of our readers are aware, was in use but a short time, so short, that many persons, even those residing in Canada, knew nothing about it. One gentleman living in Quebec, to whom we had written on the subject some time ago, informed us that we must have been laboring under some mistake, when we asked him for some particulars about it. He told us that no such stamp was ever issued; but a subsequent letter from him told a totally different tale (as was expected)—he gave us a few facts, and that was all we wanted. It was first intended for postage to England, and was actually used for a time. The postage was afterwards reduced and the 10d stamp took the place of the 12d. The latter is now (the genuine) one of the rarest in existence, and very readily obtains such prices as $4.00 and even $5.00 for one specimen. Proofs are often offered for sale on India paper, with the word 'specimen' written on one side. Amateur collections must content themselves with this last, for it is utterly impossible to obtain the real Simon Pure article for less than the sums we name, and even then, it is doubtful whether it can be had at the price or not. The color of the genuine stamp is black, it is an adhesive, and contains a portrait of Queen Victoria in an inscribed oval, with figures 12 at corners.

All three values of this first set were issued imperforate and while the 3d, of which at least three millions were issued, varies but little in shade, the 6d, printed in comparatively small quantities, provides a number of striking tints. In his check-list, Mr. Howes gives "black-violet, deep-violet, slate-violet, brown-violet, dull purple, slate, black brown, brownish black, and greenish black", and we have no doubt the list could be considerably amplified, though the above should be sufficient for the most exacting of specialists.

The catalogue gives two distinct sorts of paper—laid and wove—for all three values, with a sub-variety of the latter, designated "thin", for the 3d and 6d denominations. But specialists are not satisfied with this meagre classification and recognise numerous other varieties such as trick white laid, soft white wove, thin and thick grayish, thick hard, thick soft, ribbed, etc. Mr. D. A. King, in his article in the Monthly Journal, says, "There are fourteen varieties that we are able to distinguish", and he gives a general classification of their characteristics as follows:—

Series I, II, IV and V.—The texture of these papers is virtually the same, and it is indeed often difficult, particularly in the case of the 6d, to distinguish between the laid and wove papers. The lines in the laid paper are of a most peculiar character, and cannot, as a rule, be brought fairly out by holding the stamp between one's eyes and the light. The best way to test these two papers is to lay the stamps, face down, on a black surface, and let the light strike them at about an angle of fifteen degrees, when the laid lines are brought most plainly into view. It is necessary, however, to place the specimens so that the light will strike them parallel to their length, as the laid lines run horizontally in the 3d, and vertically in the 6d and 12d.

Series III.—This is an entirely different paper to those mentioned above. The laid lines are most distinct, while the paper is of a different texture and color from the regular gray shade.

Series VI.—The paper of this series is almost as thick as that employed for series XII. There is a vast difference, however, in its appearance, as the paper of series VI. is much harder than that of series XII. It feels greasy when rubbed between the thumb and finger, and the color of the

It is America's most progressive and fastest growing stamp society and by joining the same you are not only boosting organized philately, but lining up with the leading and most prominent philatelists of the country.

The S. P. A. has in addition to the Sales Department an Exchange Department through which you can exchange your duplicates, a skilled Auction Manager, an Attorney, Counterfeit Detector, and members are able to obtain the West which is the official organ of the society at 25c per year, one-third of regular price.

The Society issues a Year Book free to members, containing names and addresses of all members with the by-laws of the Society as well as reports of last convention. The annual convention held last year at Reading, Pa., was one of the most profitable and enjoyable meetings of its kind ever held.

The dues are very low in view of the many benefits. Many members have more than saved their membership fee by one purchase through the sales department, while the reduction you get on your West subscription will nearly pay it. Here is an opportunity to become affiliated with a fine society at a minimum cost.

THE PRODUCT OF THEIR ENERGY.

A PEN SKETCH OF THE MEN WHO ARE MAKING THIS PAPER A GREAT SUCCESS.

CHARLES E. SEVERN,
Editor of the WEEKLY.

The editor of the WEEKLY is without doubt occupying the foremost position in philatelic literature. While certain English journals might dispute our claim, nevertheless, the enormous circulation of the WEEKLY offers an audience that no other stamp publication can rival. Mr. Severn with his years of editorial experience is eminently fitted for this responsible post.

From its early days, our editor has been a worker with the WEEKLY. A student in philatelic research and skilled in the art of communicating his thoughts to paper, Mr. Severn became a valuable correspondent and soon editor of the paper. A financial interest in the paper was followed by the acquiring of larger interests until at the present time, he owns one-half of the WEEKLY stock.

It is needless to say that all his work has been of the highest order and the WEEKLY is fortunate in being able to command his ripened judgment and experience. The editorial department of the WEEKLY represents the highest degree of philatelic scholarship.

Mr. Wylie has been managing editor of the WEEKLY for the past eleven years, and for six years previously had assisted in the editorial management with special articles and correspondence. He is a member of the A. P. S., having served on the board of vice presidents, and is a past president of the Boston Philatelic Society. Unused British Colonies and United States and possessions are Mr. Wylie's favorite stamps, though he is interested in U. S. Revenues, including match and medicine. He takes a keen interest in original covers.

Mr. Wylie has taken quite an interest in public affairs and has twice been the Prohibition party candidate for governor of Massachusetts. In Beverly where he resides his radical views are respected and three years ago he was elected president of the board of aldermen by the largest vote ever given a local candidate in a contested municipal election. The following year he was re-elected, carrying each of the six wards. December, 1914, he was a candidate for mayor of Beverly and was defeated by the narrow margin of 29 votes in a total of nearly 4,000.

WILLARD O. WYLIE,
Managing Editor of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

Mr. Wylie has made four trips to Europe combining business with pleasure. He enjoys the acquaintance and friendship of the leading dealers of England and France and this is reflected in the patronage extended our advertising columns. He was in Christiania, Norway, when Germany declared war on Russia.

Mr. Jewett established the monthly Philatelic Herald, Vol. I, No. 1, in 1884, in Portland. A specimen copy is before us and it is typical of the first effort of a boy with a new printing office outfit, and quite a contrast with this number of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS which is a product of his establishment. Mr. Jewett established himself as a job printer and made good.

Mr. Jewett published the Herald for nearly five years, when he sold it and shortly after purchased the monthly Philatelic Era from Pickard & Eustis of Portland, in 1889. It was changed to a semi-monthly after a few years and on September 1, 1894, to a weekly and continued until sold to I. A. Mekeel in October, 1903. As stated elsewhere in this issue, the editorial management of the Era was placed in the hands of Willard O. Wylie and in the spring of 1904 the paper was consolidated with MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

During the years 1889-91, Mr. Jewett published a series of four philatelic handbooks in conjunction with J. H. Lyons, now with the New England Stamp Company.

In 1907, Mr. Jewett bought another printing plant and combined the two at the present location, 226-232 Federal St., Portland, incorporating the business as the Jewett Printing Co., of which he is treasurer and general manager. The plant has since expanded and now occupies nearly all of a two-story brick block in the very center of the city.

WILLIAM W. JEWETT,
Printer of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE 10c STAMP OF THE SERIES OF 1890, 1894-98.

R. MCP. CABEEN.

The discovery of a new variety of the 10c brown, 1898, by Mr. Bertram W. H. Poole and the subsequent explanation by Mr. Joseph B. Leavy in the Philatelic Gazette caused me to carefully examine my stamps of this period.

The two types of the stamp in question were not difficult to locate, but the second type (with lines overlapping the colorless oval) is not correctly described by Mr. Leavy.

He states in part: "The Bureau, to distinguish its stamps from those of the American Bank Note Co., engraved a small triangle in each of the upper corners of the dies of the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 10 and 15 cents. No other addition or alteration whatsoever was made to the dies; etc., etc. (The italics are Mr. Leavy's). Also, 'upon . . . the first transfer rolls of the 10c a portion of the ornamentation which encroached upon the white oval was cut away being Mr. Poole's Type I, the last transfer rolls of the 10c were the same as the die, without the ornamentation cut away, this being Mr. Poole's Type II'. An examination of the 10c stamps of 1894-98 will show conclusively that none of these stamps is identical with the die from which the 10c green of 1890 was made. On the original die the lower line of the colorless oval below the words TEN CENTS is thin and stops against the ornament above the numeral 10. On all the stamps of 1894-98 this line is unbroken and is particularly heavy below and to the right of the 'label shadow' and in addition the overlapping ornament has been erased from all the stamps of 1894-95 and from some of the stamps of 1898.

As is well known under ordinary methods, no alteration could be made to the transfer rolls which would produce the heavy unbroken oval line; on the other hand, the erasure of the ornaments must have been made on the transfer roll as no change in the die can be made to produce colorless lines.

R.M.P. Cabeen, del. '15

UNITED STATES • SERIES 1890, 1894-1898 • 10 CENT • V 066

It is my opinion that at the same time the triangles were added to this die, the oval line was recut to make it continuous and the transfer rollers were then made. Some of these transfer rolls were then worked over, the overlapping ornaments being erased and plates were made which produced the 10c, 1894-95, and part of the 1898.

When new rolls were necessary, probably about 1900, they were rocked from the original die but in the interval between 1894 and 1900 it was forgotten that the previous transfer rolls were trimmed. It was probably not thought necessary to compare the roller with current stamps and plates were made from which Type II 1898 were printed.

Without having seen the original die I cannot be absolutely certain but until I do see it, I am strongly of the opinion that it will show the recut oval line, and that it will be identical in every way with type II 1898 and not with the 10c, 1890.

If this die is identical with 1890 the only explanation left is that a secondary die was made, on which the oval line was recut, in order to preserve the original die intact. I do not take much stock in this theory for the Bureau engravers added the triangles and would feel equally free to alter other parts.

The diagram given is a card from my "variety" collection and shows the three stages of the 10c stamps, the upper drawing being the original die, as seen on the 10c 1890; the next is the completely altered design, line drawn in, but ornaments not erased.

The drawings are not exact enlargements of the stamps but answer the purpose well enough.

Can we not hear from someone who has access to the original die, on this question?

FOREIGN POST OFFICES IN CHINA.

The Chinese, having entered The International Postal Union will approach the Powers at the close of the European war with regard to the abolition of foreign post-offices in China. The Chinese post-office is rendering excellent and reliable service and when the foreign post-offices disappear as they unavoidably must in time, the only difference Americans and other foreigners will notice will be a slight increase in the expense of mail matter. Under existing conditions Americans in the Treaty Ports send and receive mail matter at domestic rates. The Chinese have for many years felt that the foreign mail competition in China is an injustice.—Shanghai East and West Review.

Stamps cataloging under $1.00 are put up in packets only, which, as usual, are returnable if unsatisfactory.

How many of the 8200 subscribers to this paper want to encourage a business run in a business way.

If you ask for approvals, send reference (a bank or two other dealers)—that's business.

We do a little business—three of us busy all the time—and the boss working nights. Around 21 years ago as a boy I made my first sale—20c worth of $1.00 mortgages at two cents per stamp (99½% discount). Since then we've expanded, but we want you to write about something, so we can get bigger and better and add to the success of a business established in 1894 and run

THE NEW JAPANESE SET.

We picture above the four values of the new coronation commemorative set. It will be seen that there are three designs. The 1½ sen shows the Imperial crown and the 3 sen the "Takimikura" or Imperial throne. The two higher values, used for foreign postage, show Shisheeden Hall, where the coronation took place. Long lines of native banners line the approach.

EDITORIAL.

The Prospectus—"In coming before the stamp collectors of the United States we have no apology to make. We shall occupy a field that is not or never has been filled—that of a regular weekly stamp newspaper. We have only to say that our existence is by no means experimental and that this paper will continue to be mailed every Wednesday in the year 1891. We know what we are about and we will make the paper a success, but we will say right here that money sent in for subscriptions is guaranteed and collectors will run no risk in the investment. Our subscription price is low ($1.00 for 52 numbers) and as we receive subscriptions for three or six months at the same rate there is no excuse why collectors should not commence with the first number It is not our purpose to fill our columns with heavy technical stamp articles but to be a newspaper, and with this in view we appoint you our special correspondent. Send us any item of news and we shall be very thankful, giving you credit or not, just as you desire. Gossip about people and things are acceptable but no unpleasant personalities. Many of our friends all over the United States promise regular letters and we hope and believe that this paper will do much to bring the stamp collectors of the country near together." In the foregoing words the WEEKLY was introduced to the philatelic world on January 7, 1891 by the C. H. Mekeel Stamp & Publishing Company of St. Louis. Its appearance may be said to have been practically unheralded although the cooperation of philatelic friends had been invited several weeks before. Pledges of support were made by George H. Watson, New York City, the leading postal card collector of the times and publisher of the Post Card; L. S. Morton, for many years secretary of the National Philatelic Society, New York; W. C. Stone, Springfield, Mass.; P. M. Wolsieffer, who promised to act as Chicago correspondent; M. F. Walton, Philadelphia,

As It Was—The WEEKLY as first published consisted of four pages of four columns each. The pages were somewhat larger than those now used but a bigger type was employed. The advertising in the first number consisted of five ads, one of which was that of a type-writer. Julius Conrath, Jr. & Co., St. Louis, Mo.; Excelsior Stamp Co., Hoosick Falls, N. Y.; A. N. Spencer, Cincinnati, and W. Sellschopp, San Francisco, were the dealers represented. From the reading columns of the first number we learn that the Chicago Philatelic Society had held a successful banquet on December 18th, 1890; that collectors were enjoined to plan to take part in the philatelic exhibit at the World's Columbian Exposition; that Durbin & Hanes new catalogue would illustrate watermarks; that Rochester "at last" had a philatelic society and that in New York City "the fight over the Metropolitan Philatelist seemed to be the most important thing here." Thus ran the world away in the first number of the WEEKLY. The start had been made and the succeeding weeks saw the new paper established as a permanent fixture of philately. The powerful auspices of the publishing company gave the paper a substance that was advantageous and it was not long before the new journal was secure in the regard of several thousand readers who were an ideal nucleus for a subscription list that was to be multiplied a good many times over. Year in and year out, the WEEKLY has brought its message with commendable regularity and its unswerving allegiance to the welfare of philately has been of inestimable value. The aim of the WEEKLY to encourage the interest of the average collector has been successfully maintained and the paper's underlying principles to adhere to the best traditions of collecting have been factors that contributed to the influence of this newspaper.

Future—While the story of the past of the WEEKLY is one of engrossing interest, yet it is to the future that we shall look for our greatest triumphs. For some time we have been shaping our course so that our service will be so adequate that we may feel that we are discharging our obligation to philately in a way to merit the good-will of even the most critical reader. For instance, the improvement in our reading columns by the incorporation in them of material of evident merit and instructive value will be an earnest of the determination of the publishers to make their paper more completely than ever before in a class by itself.

L'ale—Under date of December 24, 1915, the following notice was sent out from Washington: "Postmasters are notified that the Department's supply of Pacific-Panama commemorative stamps is exhausted. The stamps already issued will continue to be valid for postage and those on hand at post offices will be sold until exhausted." We may add that collectors have been regaled recently with marked shades in the two cent Panama-Pacific and at least one most beautiful color variant in the five cent, attributable, no doubt, to the difficulty in obtaining "supplies of standard shades of certain dry colors."

"Copied"—From an old work published in 1867 in Philadelphia on the manufacturing industries of the city, we take the following interesting notice:

"Butler and Carpenter's Engraving Establishment, where all the Revenue Stamps that have been required by the United States Government were made, may fairly be classed among the remarkable industrial concerns of Philadelphia.

In 1861, Mr. Joseph R. Carpenter, formerly of the firm of Toppan, Carpenter & Co., well known Bank Note Engravers, became associated with Mr. Butler, for the Engraving and Printing of Revenue Stamps, for which they had received a contract from the United States Government. They fitted up the third and fourth stories of the building before mentioned, two rooms forty by one hundred and fifty feet, in a tasteful manner, and here they have executed all the stamps that have been issued by the Internal Revenue Department, amounting in value to many millions of dollars. The process of engraving these stamps does not differ essentially from that of vignettes on Bank notes. The design is first engraved on a small piece of steel, which is afterwards hardened by exposure to heat, and then taken up on a roll of soft steel by means of a heavy pressure in a Bank Note transfer press. This roll is then hardened, and the picture is transferred from it, by pressure, to a large steel plate, the impressions being repeated, often as many as two hundred on a single plate. From this plate the final printing is executed on the ordinary steel plate printer's presses.

The sheets are then taken to an apartment in the fourth story, where they are gummed on the back and then dried, after which they are passed through a perforating machine, which produces the rows of holes that facilitate the separation of the Stamps. Messrs. Butler & Carpenter have in operation ten presses, and employ forty persons. In their office they have specimens of all the stamps that have been engraved by them, ranging in value from one cent to two hundred dollars, which form a most interesting collection.

It is obvious that the execution of this important contract involves great pe-

ENGRAVED AND LITHOGRAPHED.

It is not an easy thing for the collector offhand to tell the difference between the 1849 and 1870 issues of France. The catalog does not show these differences very distinctly, but the illustrations given will make them quite plain. In the engraved or 1849 type, the heads of wheat distinctly project beyond the head of Ceres, which is allegorical of the Republic. It will also be noted that the engraved design shows between the curved lines in the triangle small dots, while in the lithographed the lines are connected by small horizontal bars.

THE JAMAICA SO-CALLED "ERROR."

The following from Scott's Circular for November effectually disposes of the discovery made by an English exchange and recently quoted by the WEEKLY:—"In Ewen's Weekly Stamp News dated Sept. 25th announcement was made of the discovery of a few copies of the current 1 shilling stamp, black on green, with the head of King George printed, in error, in purple. A careful examination of copies of this stamp and of other current British Colonial stamps in black on green paper convinces us that the new discovery is not an error but the ordinary thing. When the stamps with white back (surface-colored paper) are held to the light and looked through it will be seen that the centres are not printed in black but in a dull violet. When we look at the stamps and not through them they appear to be printed all in black, though the centres do not usually seem as strong a color as the frames. Copies that have been wet show the centre in a more or less distinct violet tint. The stamps on paper colored through do not always show the contrasting centre and it is possible that some of them are printed entirely in black."

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The New American Government and Its Work.—By James T. Young of the University of Pennsylvania. This book is published by the MacMillan Co., 66 Fifth Av., New York City, and is one of the series of social science textbooks edited by Richard T. Ely. It would seem as though it would be impossible to write a new book dealing with the fundamental principles of our government without covering ground that had been covered many times before. We must confess, however, that the book before us is an extremely valuable contribution to our literature. The author deals with the duties of the president, the legislative bodies, and the judiciary. The portion of the book devoted to the powers of Congress is a very important part and very thoroughly covers the subject.

An interesting feature at the end of each chapter is a list of references and questions in textbook form. The student of American government will find this book a valuable help, and we take pleasure in giving it a hearty word of commendation. The price of the book is $2.25.

OUR COVER REBUS CONTEST.

It will be remembered that some months ago we inaugurated a contest for designs to be used in connection with the celebration of our 25th anniversary. Twenty-two designs were received and it was with difficulty that the winning entry was selected. In fact, two entries received the same award, but first honors were given Wm. H. Hoagland of Philadelphia. The cover on this issue shows a design the result of Mr. Hoagland's skill.

A number of stamps are represented in this design and we want our subscribers to tell us what stamps are pictured in part and what there is about the general make-up of the design that makes it appropriate for the purpose it serves. Entries will be received up to February 1, and the best replies will be awarded certain prizes as follows:—

1st: U. S. Revenue Album in cloth, also, catalog. Value, $10. Donated by George J. Carter.

2nd: Ne Plus Ultra Loose Leaf Blank Album. Value, $4. Donated by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co.

3rd: Howes, "Canada", cloth bound, a standard work. Value, $4. Donated by the New England Stamp Co.

4th: "Stamps of the Philippine Islands", by F. L. Palmer and J. M. Bartels. Autographed copy. Price, $2.50. Donated by the J. M. Bartels Co.

5th: Economist loose leaf album. "The New York", in cloth with 80 leaves, quadrille lined. Price, $2.00. Donated by the Economist Stamp Co.

We sincerely trust that the contest will be a very spirited one and the liberality extended by our dealer friends appreciated.

POSTAGE DUE STAMPS.

To Be Used in Payment of the Delivery Charge on Foreign Parcel-Post Packages.

It has come to the attention of the Department that certain post offices remit the amount of the delivery charge collected on foreign parcel-post packages to the exchange office from which the parcels were received instead of affixing to each parcel the necessary postage-due stamps in payment of the charge as required by Section 140 on page 116 of the Postal Guide for July, 1915.

Postmasters are directed, therefore, to adopt at their offices the measures necessary to discontinue the erroneous practice and to secure strict compliance with the regulations in regard thereto as prescribed in the above mentioned Section 140 of the Postal Guide and in Section 521 of the Postal Laws and Regulations.

WENDOVER NEEFUS.

Wendover Neefus, whose advertisement upon page 1 is always an attractive one, specializes in United States stamps and he has developed a large business in this direction. Mr. Neefus began his stamp business in 1894 and for a time conducted it with the assistance of his father. It has steadily developed until now there are few dealers who can surpass him in his chosen field. He now employs two clerks and his office is said to be a model of system. His special advertisement in this issue is an unusual one and is surely an indication that his office is seeking business on business basis. Mr. Neefus says too many dealers lack system and fail utterly in being of any aid to their customers.

Hudson is within easy reach of New York and Mr. Neefus keeps actively in touch with the metropolis and is an active student of its market conditions. He reports that an increasing number of collectors stop off on trips between New York and Albany and examine his stock, which is said to be one of the finest in the country.

Mr. Neefus has always been a great believer in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and it will be remembered by many of our readers that his enterprise secured the outside cover page of the New York Exposition Special.

OUR LIBERAL OFFER

In spite of our heavy advertising there are still several thousand "Weekly" readers who have never done business with us, but who would find it to their advantage to do so. Mainly to get in touch with these, though we will not bar our old friends from the offer, we make one of the most liberal offers that has appeared in this paper for a long time.

OUR OFFER With every order of $1 or more you can select any one of the free offers given with purchases of $1 or more. For $2 or more any one of the $2 offers, and for $10 or more any one of the $10 offers. One of the $1 free offers given to new applicants for our approval selections (see offer under "APPROVALS" on next page). These premiums are good desirable stamps worth having and not "junk". The goods are priced RIGHT regardless of any premium which gives you that much more value. We believe "Weekly" readers know a good thing when they see it and so have been careful to list only such items as we think we have enough of to meet the demand.

JANUARY BARGAIN LIST

16 pages of interesting offers at rock bottom prices for first class goods, in single United States and foreign stamps. Packets by countries. List of our approval books. List of prices we allow for U. S. in trade, and many other items. It's free for the asking if you are an active collector. Get the habit of ordering from these lists like several thousand other collectors have. We import from every part of the world and these lists offer stamps that the average dealer never has enough of to advertise, but which our foreign connections enable us to get.

This is our list No. 74. These Bargain lists have been issued for eight years and have had a larger circulation than any other stamp house organ in America. The postage bill on one issue alone was over $200.

Many of the leading American collectors and sharpest buyers order regularly from these lists, especially collectors in N. Y., Boston, Chicago and other large cities. They know the "hard-to-get" stamps, know that most of them are "snaps" at half cat. or less. We are always on the hunt for such stamps for our lists, and every issue contains many offers of such.

APPROVAL DEPARTMENT

FINE PREMIUMS TO NEW CUSTOMERS

PREMIUMS In order to induce those who have never tried our app. dept. to give it a trial we offer any one of the premiums given with $1. purchases free to anyone who sends for selection and is ready to spend $1. or more. Needless to say we want some proof of reliability.

PLEASE FILL OUT APPROVAL APPLICATION BLANK BELOW.

APPROVALS

Most collectors buy from approval lots. They like to look them over and see what they are getting. We know it and have made a specialty of APPROVAL business for 17 years. You might do a whole lot worse with your spare time these winter nights, than to have some of our approvals to look over and fill those spaces from.

We believe we have today the finest series of books out for the man who wants medium priced stamps. Our books are arranged so they are non-duplicating and a specially designed card index system enables us to keep a record of all books so you get something different each time.

Enormous variety, reasonable prices, (usually half cat. but many times less than that), neat, attractive books and many other features make it worth your while to look into our approval department if you buy from approval lots.

Hardly a day but what we get unsolicited testimonials from pleased approval buyers. Here is one from Canada recently to hand, and the party is rather fussy about what he buys, too.

Dear Sirs:—I herewith return Jumbo book, No. 15. It is quite a pleasure to select stamps from a book which in quality and condition is quite the best I have seen.

Yours truly,

We could print you others, along the same line from particular, experienced philatelists, and not over enthusiastic school boy collectors. We cannot suit everyone, that is impossible, but we fall down so few times that our average is pretty good. What do you say?

INDIA'S EARLIEST STAMPS.

The London Philatelist announces that the Government of India has presented to the Royal Philatelic Society nine lithographic stones and four engraved copper plates which are of a high degree of historical interest in connection with the early postage stamps of India. These engraved plates and stones were used in the production of the earliest general issues of postage stamps under the Honourable East India Company; they were prepared under the direction of Captain H. L. Thuillier, Deputy Surveyor-General in the Surveyor-General's Department at Calcutta in 1854-55. The gift includes:

LITHOGRAPHIC STONES.

1. Twenty-four half anna, in three rows of eight (eight arches variety).
2. Fourteen one anna, in two rows of seven, the first and seventh stamp in each row being the pointed bust variety.
3. Six octagonal two annas.
4. Six rectangular two annas.
5. Six half anna.
6. Six one anna.
7. Six octagonal eight annas.
8. Twenty-four octagonal four annas, April, 1855.
9. Twelve octagonal four annas (rosettes), 1854.

ENGRAVED PLATES.

1. Eight types of half anna.
2. Eight types of one anna.
3. Half anna (single).
4. Rectangular two annas, octagonal four annas, octagonal two annas, foliate ornament, and Queen's head.

These stones and plates will be added to the archives of the Royal Society, which already include a number of interesting plates of the early stamps of Mauritius, South Australia, and Prince Edward Island.—London Telegraph.

DIRECTOR RALPH'S ANNUAL REPORT.

We have received from Dr. A. R. Butler the annual report of J. E. Ralph, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. We quote two paragraphs that will be of interest to our readers:

New Revenue Stamps—The act of October 22, 1914, provides for the raising of revenue through the use of documentary, proprietary and cordial, wine, etc., stamps. 5,211,504 sheets of these stamps were delivered to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. These were the first revenue stamps printed in the bureau on offset presses, and it is pleasing to state that the stamps have been received very acceptably. The higher denominations of these stamps, few in number, were printed by the plate-printing process. The act referred to required the issue of these stamps within a short time after its passage, and it would have been impossible to produce them in time by any other than the offset process in a manner that would afford the required security together with satisfactory designs, and a considerable saving was made by the use of this process.

Scarcity of Supplies—Great difficulty was experienced during the year in procuring supplies of standard shades of certain dry colors used by the bureau, owing to the fact that the bases of these colors are materials made only in Germany. By prompt action at the beginning of the European war I procured all the available supplies in this country at prices from 100 to 200 per cent less than those at which they could later be obtained. These supplies were not sufficient for the year, however, and it was necessary to use such other materials as could be obtained and which approximated the requirements, and by mixtures of these various materials the standard shades were fairly well maintained. This

J. MURRAY BARTELS.

JOHN R. MILLER.

A. PERRIN.

THREE POPULAR NEW YORK DEALERS.

J. MURRAY BARTELS.

Mr. Bartels is an old advertiser in the WEEKLY and wherever located has been represented in our columns. He has a high class stock, as shown by his advertising announcements. He is an authority on United States envelopes and has contributed a great deal of information and interest to this sideline of collecting.

Mr. Bartels is a writer of no mean ability and his contributions to the philatelic press have been many. He is interested in the various philatelic societies and at the present time is the president of the New York Stamp Society. We are glad of the privilege of presenting him to our readers this week.

JOHN R. MILLER.

For nearly a dozen years the Manhattan Stamp Co. has been in business in New York City and for the larger part of that time at its present location at 38 E. 23 St. John R. Miller is the proprietor of the firm and is a very capable representative of the dealing end of philately. The office is a commodious one and large and well-filled safes give the visitor an idea of the stock carried. A further inspection reveals books well arranged, so as to suit any purse. There are stamps for the specialist as well as for the collector less advanced.

The firm can meet the wishes of anyone in the matter of albums and other accessories and we have always been glad to number this firm as one of our patrons.

A. PERRIN & CO.

The firm of A. Perrin & Co. is located at 124 E. 23 St., N. Y. City, and is the oldest 23rd Street firm in the stamp business, being established there in 1893. We are pleased to present for the first time a picture of the genial proprietor, Albert Perrin.

Mr. Perrin has applied himself very closely to business and has built up a splendid trade in both U. S. and foreign stamps. He has taken space continuously in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and is well represented in this particular number. His relationship with our subscribers has always been of the highest type so far as satisfactory dealings are concerned.

ESTABLISHED 30 YEARS

A BRIEF GLANCE AT SOME OF THE MORE PROMINENT FEATURES IN THE PAPER'S CAREER.

By CHARLES E. SEVERN.

A new generation of stamp collectors has arisen since the first number of the WEEKLY appeared on January 7th, 1891; and to the collector of to-day who does not concern himself with philately's past, it seems as though the paper has always existed. When the first number of the WEEKLY was distributed, thirteen hundred and six weeks ago, it was hailed as a daring and novel venture by the C. H. Mekeel Stamp and Publishing Company of St. Louis, a large corporation, but the projectors of the enterprise had every confidence in its ultimate success and expended in the aggregate in firmly establishing the paper. Naturally, there were many predictions by the more conservative collectors that a weekly stamp publication could not attain permanency under conditions as they prevailed twenty-five years ago. It was not long before all philatelists were impressed by the intelligent perseverance that was manifest in the management of the paper and the general disposition was to regard the WEEKLY as a fixture.

The editor of the WEEKLY was I. A. Mekeel whose genius later had its fruition in the general publishing field; and at the time of

Mr. Mekeel's Lamentable Death

in February, 1913, he had attained a national eminence as a publisher and successful business man. One of the early contributors to the WEEKLY was C. E. Severn of Chicago and in 1894, he became the paper's Chicago correspondent. In those days, a column or so of notes each week from the different stamp centers was a feature of the paper. Several years later, business vicissitudes were encountered by the corporation that published the WEEKLY that made a readjustment of its business necessary; and by an order of court, I. A. Mekeel became the buyer and owner of the WEEKLY. Soon, Mr. Mekeel's acumen led him to measure the advertising possibilities of the paper and he determined to launch a campaign that would thoroughly test them. He proposed to Mr. Severn that he become editor and part owner of the WEEKLY and early in 1898, with the WEEKLY as editor and partner was made. The paper was edited from Chicago, but published from St. Louis, and Mr. Mekeel, free to give his undivided attention to the business department, found a congenial occupation in expanding the advertising prestige of the WEEKLY.

For several years the paper flourished under these conditions, but it was not long before Scott F. Redfield of Smethport, Pennsylvania, who was publishing a weekly stamp paper at that period, merged his paper into the WEEKLY and became a part owner of the corporation which had been formed under the laws of the state of New York to conduct the WEEKLY. For a time the WEEKLY was printed at the plant of Mr. Redfield at Smethport, Pa., published by Mr. Mekeel in New York and edited by Mr. Severn in Chicago. At this period, the Boston correspondent of the WEEKLY was

Willard O. Wylie of Beverly,

Mass., and so capably did he discharge his duties that he was recommended to the notice of the owners. After Mr. Wylie had proved his ability further by planning special issues from start to finish, he was invited to become one of the corporation. In the meantime, the WEEKLY had purchased W. W. Jewett's Weekly Philatelic Era, an excellent publication that almost divided with the WEEKLY the regard of the collecting public and Mr. Wylie was placed in charge of the Era as a separate publication. By his conduct of the Weekly Philatelic Era, Mr. Wylie further emphasized his fitness for philatelic newspaper work and when

with the WEEKLY, Mr. Wylie, who had bought a tenth interest in the company, was made managing editor.

The interests of Mr. Mekeel in a general publishing sense were becoming more and more important and such were the demands made upon his time by affairs of magnitude that he could not give freely of his services to the corporation, although the paper continued to hold its warm place in his affections. It was advisable to re-incorporate the company under Massachusetts laws and publish the WEEKLY from Boston under Mr. Wylie's direction; and it was at this time or in 1904 that W. W. Jewett entered into a contract with the publishers of the WEEKLY whereby he was to print the paper in his plant at Portland, Maine. From that year, the WEEKLY until early in 1913, when I. A. Mekeel was stricken suddenly with death at his home in Montclair, New Jersey, and in our memorials of Mr. Mekeel, published on that sad occasion, tribute was paid to Mr. Mekeel's genius by its beneficiary, the WEEKLY. The controlling interest in the WEEKLY then became vested in the estate of I. A. Mekeel and for over two years, affairs remained the same. Finally, Mrs. Mekeel felt that it was advisable to dispose of her holdings and the consequence was that the two hundred and fifty-one shares that she held were acquired by Messrs. Severn, Wylie and Jewett, respectively.

The Appearance of Mr. Jewett

as a member of our little family was hailed with satisfaction, as under the present ownership, each of the proprietors is an actual worker in behalf of the WEEKLY and the hand-books that are published. Further, Mr. Jewett's dominant ability as a "boss printer" has fuller scope than ever before under the new management; and the remarkable record for typographical cleanliness that he has established in the WEEKLY will be excelled in the days to come.

Willard O. Wylie, who has distinguished himself as managing editor of the WEEKLY for eleven years, feels a greater enthusiasm than ever before in his work and he will bring all energy and enterprise to bear on the future career of the WEEKLY. Mr. Wylie's in connection with the company is eloquent testimony to his belief in and liking for the specialistic work.

Charles E. Severn, who as holder of half the stock of the company is president of the corporation, has grown up with the WEEKLY and knows it in every phase. His long service in the WEEKLY's cause in itself is proof that it is something of a labor of love for him to devote the most of his time to the paper's welfare.

We are confirmed in our belief that great days are in store for the WEEKLY and as evidences of the increasing usefulness of the paper become more and more apparent, we know that there will be generous recognition of the part that we are performing for the benefit of all philately; and through service of this kind, we shall have our profit.

So we begin another quarter century prepared to give the best there is in us for a Stronger Paper Than Ever Before.

Associated with us will be such workers as Bertram W. H. Poole whose contributions to the WEEKLY are standard productions; Henry A. Kidder and his "chronicle"; Bill Bloss and his department for the beginner; Frank E. Goodwin; R. E. R. Dalwick, and others.

We have already contributed a number of notable books to the literature of our hobby and numerous others will appear in coming months.

WITH THE TRADE.

The splendid half-page advertisement of Hugo Griebert & Co. cannot fail to attract attention. This firm is one of the highest standing and has been a steady patron of the WEEKLY. It was Mr. Griebert's intention to insert a cut illustrating the firm's premises at 170 Strand, but the prevailing restrictions were such that the necessary permission could not be obtained in time.

The Foye Stamp Co., Detroit, Mich., has commenced to take adlet space this week. The firm will be identified to many of our readers by the statement that last year it advertised in the WEEKLY under the name of the Western Stamp Co.

A series of advertisements will appear in the WEEKLY from J. C. auf der Heide of Hilversum, Holland. Our dealer friend promises to become a constant advertiser if sufficient patronage results and we commend the advertisements which will appear every other week to our readers' consideration. Mr. auf der Heide specializes in stamps, books, coins and medals and is a member of the more prominent philatelic societies, and among the number the American Stamp Dealers' Association. He has been in business thirty years and we give him a cordial welcome to our publication.

We are glad to note in this issue the wholesale advertisement of the Co-operative Exchange. We have had numerous inquiries concerning firms from whom small lots of stamps could be purchased at wholesale. This firm has just issued a large pricelist in which the advanced dealer as well as the less experienced can find something of merit.

An interesting set of countries is listed by H. W. Doscher & Co., as having been purchased from the Crocker collection. Collectors specializing in any of the countries named will find it to their interest to read carefully the advertisement found elsewhere in this issue. It was a stroke of enterprise upon the part of the firm that places it in the front ranks of the dealers.

George J. Carter has just issued a wholesale price list of large proportions and any dealer at all interested should make it a desk companion. We have deplored from time to time the lack of attention given the wholesale end of the stamp business and are pleased to encourage the efforts being put forth by some of our dealers to cater to the wholesale trade. Mr. Carter's name will be found frequently in this number. He believes in the WEEKLY as a publicity medium.

The Frank P. Brown Co. has recently purchased the well known Victoria collection of F. S. Cook, F. R. P. S. L. of this city. Excepting only the wonderful collection of Mr. Pack and Mr. Duveen, this was probably the finest lot of this country in America. It contains over 200 copies, including pairs and strips of the first issue, and nine practically complete plates of the 1854 issue. While no price is made public, we hear it was in excess of $2,000. Our congratulations to Mr. Brown.

Even the casual reader cannot fail to note the half page advertisement of Andrew Sledd, Decatur, Ga. It is not only a striking advertisement, but the prices will certainly command attention. No page in the entire issue will be more interesting than this particular one.

The outstanding feature of this special number is the bold stroke of enterprise shown by the firm of W. C. Phillips & Co. Taking as it does the two middle pages of the sheet, the editorial department is for once ousted from its regular position. The advertisement stands out prominently and will compel the readers' inspection. In justice to the firm, we feel that we should recognize the splendid bit of coöperation shown in this piece of advertising patronage.

H. F. Colman in a letter just at hand writes:—"I must admit that my adv. of Philippine envelopes has been very successful. I have received many more orders than I expected. I shall be more than pleased if the lot advertised this week goes as well." This reference is to the fine advertisement of U. S. Colonial envelopes found in Mr. Colman's regular position.

We have already given considerable space in the WEEKLY to exploiting the purchase of the United States portion of the Crawford collection by the Nassau Stamp Co. It was indeed a noteworthy transaction and gives the firm a leading position in the trade. Mr. Klemann has just returned from a trip to England and the many good things contained in this collection will be absorbed by United States specialists. A visit to the office of the Nassau Stamp Co. will furnish a feast of good things for anyone who delights in philatelic treasures.

St. Nicholas of New York City has been conducting a genuine publicity campaign in recent numbers of the WEEKLY, and lovers of the artistic have appreciated the splendid work done by the magazine's advertising manager and the Jewett Printing Co. This week, a fine large advertisement appears in the magazine's regular position. From the results the WEEKLY secures from advertising in St. Nicholas we can heartily recommend this magazine to stamp dealers generally as a producer of results. We desire to commend the interest taken in philately as shown in the current number. Hundreds of new collectors will be made by the publicity given stamp collecting. A neat pocket stockbook just at hand is another indication of the efforts being made to interest the subscribers of St. Nicholas to advanced philately. It behooves the dealers to encourage this splendid support of our hobby.

NEW ENVELOPES AND NEW WATER-MARKS.

Under date of December 20 official notice was sent out from the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General advising the public that the P. O. Department is about to issue a new stamped envelope bearing an embossed postage stamp of new design, the paper having a new watermark with interesting features.

We give the detailed description of the stamp and department regulations in regard to filling orders for the same, and would call attention to the section dealing with stamped envelopes. It will be noted that the relative position of the figures 1915 to the monogram will identify the mills which manufacture the paper.

The official order signed by A. M. Dockery reads in part as follows:—

"The new stamp is printed in red ink and is in the form of a circle about 1 1/16 inches in diameter. In the center is embossed the head of Washington in profile, looking to the left. The sides and upper portion of the border carry the words 'United States Postage' in white capital letters, and within the border beneath the head is the word 'cents' with the numeral '2' on each side inclosed in a small white circle.

For a while, the Department can not fill all requisitions with the new envelopes. The old embossing dies will be displaced with dies of the new design gradually, and until all of the stamping machines are equipped with the new dies, return-card envelopes bearing either the old or the new stamp will be furnished in response to the requisitions of postmasters. Unprinted envelopes bearing the old stamp will be issued by the Department until the stock on hand is exhausted.

A STUDY IN VALUES.

SPECIAL ATTENTION GIVEN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY STAMPS OF NICARAGUA.

By R. J. WAGNER.

For the past two or three years, most of my stamp time has been devoted to the very popular twentieth century issues of the South and Central American countries.

In that time, I have had unusual opportunities of observing in what quantities, the various stamps come, both in lots imported direct by myself, and also in large lots coming direct to one of the largest, if not the very largest, importer of these stamps in this country and with whom I am on very close terms. The best idea of the relative scarcity of the different stamps can be obtained in this way, and not by tables of "quantities issued." If one sees dozens of copies of a certain stamp to one copy of another, and notices that this is true in each of several lots coming from different parts of the same country, he can be sure one is much scarcer, because less used, than the other, even tho the same quantity of each was issued.

It is from such observations, covering a period of several years, that I have learned the things I will point out here—these are merely my views in the matter, and later developments may cause me to change my mind.

I have seen more lots from Nicaragua than any of the other South and Central American countries, and find the new issue taking the place of the surcharged "Cordoba" issue, but not so rapidly, as one would expect. Of the new issue, the "gold basis" set (the 1/2, 1, 2 and 5c) is getting plentiful, but the other values are coming rather slowly. The 3c and 4c seem to be but little used, strips of the common values being nearly always used.

The set surcharged on the blue officials will be good, they were in use but a short time, and not all offices seemed to have a supply of them. There is an unlisted variety of the 1c on 35c, in which on the upper left hand stamp, No.

1 on the sheet has no space between the "c" and the "0.01." I do not think this occurred on all sheets, but believe it was corrected, as was the error "c010," before all were printed.

Of the "Cordoba" set, the 1/2c denominations, and the 1c on 3c, No. 314, will be much scarcer used than unused, except the 1/2c on 1p, No. 311, which is the most common, used, of this denomination. The 3c on 6c, No. 324, and No. 320, are the other scarce ones of this series, with the 2c on 20c, No. 319, the best of all.

Of the Zelaya set (on the engine type), the 1/2c on 2c, No. 325, seems to be the best of the low values, and the 6c on 1p, No. 335, the best of the higher values, except the error, No. 332, and the 1p on 5p, No. 337. All are, in my opinion, worth fully as much in postally used condition as unused, except, as I have said before the 1/2c values, numbers 312 and 313, which are much more common unused, than used.

Many of this issue will be found postmarked New Orleans. These were mailed on the boat, and cancelled at the first P. O. thru which they passed. They are interesting, but not uncommon.

The jump in the new catalog price of the set Nos. 273 to 278 was merited, as they all come very slowly, but I do not think they are where they should be, yet. All are scarcer than the catalog price would indicate. No. 252 is priced too low, while No. 253 is a real rarity.

The high values of the American Bank Note Co. set of 1909, are all cut too low, while No. 226 could stand raising, it being the scarce one, the rest of that set are about right. All the raises of the surcharged issues of 1905 to 1911, seem merited, and the prices are now about as fair a criterion of value as could be desired.

The reductions in the 1903 Zelaya set, unused, was much needed, but postally used they are far from common. The reductions in the 1901 surcharged sets were also needed, and further cuts could be made there.

Taken as a whole, the twentieth century section of Nicaragua seems to me to be a mighty reliable and accurate price guide.

In Argentine Republic, the commemorative, No. 141, is priced much too low, while the 1p of 1908, No. 158, seems too high. No. 176 is much scarcer used postally, than unused, while the 4c of the two following sets, are the scarcest of the lower values.

In Bolivia, the 2b, No. 81, seems to be the most common of the commemorative set of 1909, in fact this one is the only one of the set I have seen in quantity, and then far from plenty. The lithographed 1c, No. 77, seems to be scarcer than the engraved, No. 70. Of the surcharged set of 1912, the 5c No. 100 seems to be the most common, the 10c No. 99, the scarcest, and the 2c and 5c of about equal scarcity, the 8c is the good value of the present 1913 set.

In Brazil, the 2,000r, No. 184, 600r, No. 189, and 1,000r, No. 191, all seem to be more common than the catalog price would indicate. All three could stand a price reduction.

In Chile, the commemorative set of 1910, the 3c, 12c and 25c are the scarcest of the lower values. If these were doubled in price, they would not be too high. The 3c sells in Chile for 4c each, the 25c at 20c each, and the 12c, No. 103, which was superseded by the 14c shortly after issue, sells there at seven times face. The 3c, which was superseded by the new 4c, and the 25c, No. 106, both sell in Chile, at over half Scott's catalog price.

Costa Rica, 6c, No. 56, is scarce postally used, while the next set seems a little more common perf. 14x14 than 11x14. All the 1911 surcharges, except possibly the 1c No. 78, 2c No. 79, 5c No. 80, and 10c No. 83, are much scarcer, postally used, than unused.

The 3c, No. 183, is the scarcest of that Ecuador set, but the entire set is good.

The 3c No. 196, of the 1911 set, seems much over-priced, and the 1912 surcharges, Nos. 200 to 203, will all be good property. No one seems to have them in quantity.

All the 1902 set of Guatemala, No. 114 to No. 123, seem over-priced, but this is not strange, as the set has been in use about 15 years, much longer than one set usually stays current in Central America. The 75c seems the good one of the set, except possibly the 2 pesos. The 50c and 1p are both very common.

In Honduras, the 1910 surcharges, Nos. 128, 129 and 130, are all good especially used. The two commemoratives, No. 139 and 140, are both scarce, no doubt both are speculative, while the recent surcharges seem priced about right. The black surcharges of 1913 seem much scarcer than the reds, and one dealer recently advertised a short time ago that the new 5c on 10c was the scarcest of them all. I get but few officials, and can form no idea of their relative scarcity.

I have had too few lots from Paraguay lately, to form any idea as to how the various values come—the same is true of Peru, but I do know that the little 4c, No. 170, is a mighty scarce stamp. It is worth all of catalog, now.

In Salvador, the catalog is mighty near right. I can see no place where it can be materially improved upon. The same can be said of Venezuela, but it is sadly off when it comes to Uruguay. The 1913 Centenario set is priced too low and the same thing can be said of the engraved series of 1910, high values, but it is in the numbers 174 to 178, 182, 183 and 196, where quotations are "off." From the prices asked abroad, and that seems to be the only place from which they can be obtained, they are worth four or five times catalog.

A letter concerning the new design for envelopes has been issued by the Post Office Department, and has already been printed in the WEEKLY.

BRAZIL.—Albert O. Tschudin also reports the current 200r stamp in the new ultramarine shade.

CUBA.—J. T. Perdomo informs us that the Havana papers of Dec. 21 announced that a new series of stamps is being prepared to take the place of the map set, and will soon be issued. As yet, the denominations, colors and design of the new stamps are not known, but it is certain they will show portraits of Cuban patriots. Pictures for engravings for the stamps have already been taken from the paintings in the private collection of Sr. Domingo Figarola Canada, Director of the National Library. Those to be reproduced in the stamps are the portraits of Narciso Lopez, Jose Marti, Antonio Maceo, Jose de la Luz, Caballero, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, Julio Sanguily, Tomas Estrada Palma, Calixto Garcia, Ygnacio Agramonte, Salvador Cisneros Betancourt and Maximo Gomez. Srs. Palma, Lopez, Cespedes and Betancourt are to be pictured for the first time on Cuban stamps.

Some new errors on the current map set have been reported by José Gutierrez Hernandez in El Coleccionista, as follows: 5c, the word "CINCO" has the letters "C" and "I" joined by a thin line on the upper part. On the 2c, the following varieties: "RFPUBLICA", "CUKA", "CURA", "CLIBA", "REPUELICA", "NEPUBLICA", "DUS" and "DRS". On the 1c stamps, there is another reading "CUEA" for CUBA. All varieties are due to imperfect cleaning of the plates.

I. C. Greene also calls attention to the fact that the new 10c stamp is in almost the same shade as the 8c map stamp of the same series, though the first is called black-brown or brown-olive and the other olive-green.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—The Sterling Stamp Co. has shown us the 1c official with red surcharge, Scott's No. 195, with an unmistakable double surcharge, one to the right and inclined downward.

JAMAICA.—A. C. Roessler informs us that a Red Cross stamp was issued about December 20, but so far as he knows, it has no postal value. Its use is permitted upon the face of letters and funds obtained are divided between the Red Cross and Aeroplane service.

JAPAN.—We are also indebted to the Sterling Stamp Co. for specimens of the Coronation stamps.

MEXICO.—Hermann Focke has shown us the new lithographed 10c stamp perforated 12 all around.

NEW ZEALAND.—A. C. Roessler reports having seen the 1/2d King George stamp overprinted "Official." The King Edward Stamps are still being printed. Mr. Roessler also submits a vertical pair of the 6d King Edward, the top stamp perforated 14 x 13 1/2, and the bottom stamp 14 x 14 1/2.

Official Adhesive.

1/2d green; King George.

RUSSIA.—A. C. Roessler sends us a couple of local stamps issued for Warsaw. They are roughly designed and printed in two colors on white wove paper, with a coarse mesh, and perforated 11 1/2. The values are expressed in "Groszy", and besides the values, the only inscriptions are "K. O. M. W." and "1915". The 10g value is printed in red with yellow background, and the 5g in very dark blue, or blue-black, with olive yellow background. The latter has been made into a provisional by having the old figures of value covered by a large "6".

SERBIA.—A. C. Roessler writes that he has been informed "from high authority" that stamps are being prepared in Berlin for use in Serbia, presumably in same style as those previously issued for Belgium and Poland. As the news has been slow in filtering through from Germany, they are probably on sale before this.

SWITZERLAND.—The Sterling Stamp Co. has shown us the new Charity stamps, which were to have been issued a year ago, but have just seen the light.

STAMPS OF GERMAN SOUTH WEST AFRICA

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

German South-West Africa includes the region lying between Portuguese West Africa and Cape Colony, except Walfish Bay, bounded on the west by the Atlantic Ocean and on the east by Bechuanaland. Its total area is estimated at 322,450 square miles and its population of some 200,000 includes about 5,000 whites. Before 1884 it was somewhat generally believed that this territory would ultimately form part of Rhodesia and was in fact a legitimate sphere for the future development of that British colony. Some of the small coast islets and the district on the mainland around Walfish Bay were occupied and officially recognised as British territory. Walfish Bay, an enclave in the German possessions, remains a dependency of Cape Colony and its importance as a naval station may be understood from the fact that it is the only sheltered outlet for a region of 400,000 square miles extending from Angola to the Cape and inland to Rhodesia.

Undeterred by the above facts an enterprising Bremen merchant, Herr Adolf Luderitz, bought from native chiefs on April 9th, 1883, the Bay of Angra Pequena for a consideration of 200 rifles and 2000 marks ($500.00). Shortly afterwards he concluded treaties with other chiefs whereby he obtained control of vast districts in the interior between Orange River and Cape Frio. On August 7th, 1884, the German flag was hoisted at Angra Pequena and on the 24th day of the same month a German protectorate was proclaimed over the whole region with the exception of the portion around Walfish Bay which had already been pre-empted by Great Britain. At first the new colony was known as Luderitzland, in honor of the merchant who was primarily responsible for its acquisition, but the name was shortly afterwards changed to German South-West Africa. After the usual protest and diplomatic wrangling, Germany's claim to the territory was duly recognised and boundaries were finally settled with Great Britain and Portugal by conventions in 1884, 1886 and 1890.

In his article in Gibbons Stamp Weekly, Mr. Barnsdall gives a number of interesting facts which I cannot do better than quote in full:

The acquisition of Angra Pequena is an interesting point in the history of European colonization. It was the first annexation made by Germany beyond Europe, the foundation stone, so to speak, of her colonial empire which has since developed with such surprising rapidity.

The country comprises the ill-defined territories of Ovampo, Damaraland and Great Namaqualand, and was long supposed to be a shady waste with no natural resources beyond its inaccessible mineral wealth. This is true only of Namaqualand, probably the most thinly-peopled and unproductive district of any of equal extent on the surface of the globe. Ovampo is fertile and suited to agricultural pursuits, while Damaraland is pastoral. Here are a few ostrich farms, and a beginning has been made with the cultivation of cotton, tobacco and vines. The chief industry is undoubtedly pastoral, and large herds and flocks of cattle and sheep belong to the natives. There is little agriculture but market gardening is common, a great variety of vegetables and fruit being grown. Copper has been found at Ovampo, and mining is carried on at Otavi and Tsumeb, both of which places are connected by railway with Swakopmund, the chief port. The natives understand the art of smelting and manufacture excellent ware. Diamonds are said to exist in the neighbourhood of Gibeon. Gold has been found, but not in sufficient quantity for working, and marble, asbestos, graphite, and other minerals have been observed.

In 1844, some Boers established themselves in the Ondango district, and founded Upingtonia in honor of the well-known statesman of Cape Colony. Though the district was fertile and well watered the climate was malarious, and the Republic gradually decayed. After the murder of the leader, Mr. Jordan, in 1886, it collapsed, and the Boer settlers accepted the German protectorate.

The natives are Bantu in the north, and Hottentot in the south. In Damara or Herero land there has been a continuous struggle for supremacy between the two races. Here under the "civilizing" agencies of European luxury (drink, etc.) the natives are gradually dying out, and when they have sufficiently thinned down it is the intention to introduce white settlers. It is to Damaraland that the colony looks for its future prospects, as in the other parts the natives quite hold their own against foreign invasion. There have been serious native revolts against the Germans, especially in 1904, when the Hottentots in Namaqualand and the Hereros in Damaraland united, and progress was in consequence greatly delayed.

The capital is Windhoek, 237 miles inland, connected by railway with the chief port Swakopmund, north of Walfish Bay. This port is likely to become useful with artificial aid. Other ports and important towns are Sandwich Haven; Omaruru, the chief market of the Hereros; Angra Pequena, with good anchorage but little use, lying in a barren district, destitute of fresh water; Otyimbingue, Okahandja, Gobabis and Keetmanshoop. There are no towns in the interior, only a few missionary stations and trading places. Postal communication, as in all German possessions, is well looked after, and between thirty and forty different postmarks are known.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

The first stamps issued in the colony consisted of the 3, 5, 10 and 20pf values of the 1889 issue of Germany surcharged "Deutsch-Sudwest-Afrika" in two lines reading diagonally upwards from the left lower corner. The 25pf and 50pf of the same series were also overprinted and though a number were sent to the Postal Union headquarters at Berne these values were never issued for postal use and none were ever sent to the colony. These unissued varieties are not particularly rare and can generally be purchased for about $2 each.

Reference List.

1897. German stamps of 1889 surcharged in black.

1. 3pf brown, Scott's No. 1.
2. 5pf green, Scott's No. 2.
3. 10pf carmine, Scott's No. 3.
4. 20pf ultramarine, Scott's No. 4.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

The 1897 issue had been in use but a little while when it was decided to make a slight change in the form of the overprint. The second line was made into one word "Sudwestafrika" to more closely harmonise with the German liking for long, unweildly words. At first the 3pf, 5pf, 10pf, 20pf and 50pf values were issued the chief Postmaster of the colony not ordering the 25pf as it was found that value was in little or no demand. However, on November 1st, 1899, a supply of 1000 stamps (ten sheets) of the 25pf was received at Windhoek and sold on that day only. Writing in Filatelie Facts and Fallacies in 1901, Mr. Sellschopp gives an entertaining account of the history of this short-lived stamp as follows:

It appears that as there was naturally very little call for a stamp of this

Another Special Offering

United States and Colonies

The following stamps are in good to fine condition, unless otherwise indicated. Unused copies for the most part have original gum; but this is not guaranteed. As this is a special offering, I cannot send on approval; but I shall cheerfully refund remittance in full and at once, if you are not satisfied with your purchase for any reason. Look over the list, select what you need, remit by check or money order: and remember that I guarantee to please you, or refund your money.

As for the prices, they speak for themselves. They average less than one-third catalogue; and are made so low only because I am selling out. I am offering collectors auction prices, and less; protecting myself,—but only in a measure,—within the 20% commission which an auction would cost me. It is not a mere claim, to secure business, but it is an actual fact that the collector is being given a substantial advantage in these special sales of mine. Secure a selection of my stamps; show it to any reputable dealer; ask him to duplicate it. If he will duplicate it at my prices, you may have my lot at 10% less than his lowest price.

Of numbers 74-82 I can supply large blocks, and sheets of some items.
As these stamps become too few for further advertising, I will put them in small packets, cat. $3.50 to $5.00 at $1.00 per packet. They will prove good value.

5. PHILIPPINES AND PORTO RICO.

I have a few of these stamps, mostly unused and of the better grades, which I am offering in general packets of either country or both, catalogue value $4.00 to $5.00, at $1.00 the packet. These are good stamps, and satisfaction is guaranteed as always.

12c FRANKLIN DOUBLE TRANSFER.

By KARL A. PEMBER.

Some time ago I found a slight double transfer or shifted die in a copy of the 12c Franklin. This led me to look for more and the search was rewarded by some very fine examples of "shift". Some copies show the shift more than others. All of the copies show a double line under Franklin's bust (No. 1 in cut), others show double lines in the shading of Franklin's coat (No. 3), others a double line at top of the white letters "CENTS" in the label (No. 2), others double lines in the oak leaf ornaments at the sides, and still others various combinations of all the above shifts, and a few show all the above.

These occur in an early plate which I understand is now destroyed. Used copies are not hard to find in looking over a lot of twelves, but the unused copies are pretty well out of stock at the post offices according to recent inquiries. Most of the examples that I have found have been in the upper left pane of the sheet which contains nearly sixty doubles. I have also found a few in the lower left pane of 100.

denomination, the local postmaster in the colony had not ordered it from Berlin, and the colony was entirely without this stamp. In order to create an absolutely unnecessary variety and in order further to make himself important, the purchasing agent for a large German society orders from the authorities 800 of these stamps which had no existence, at the same time notifying the Berlin authorities of the fact so that from Berlin the necessary number of this new stamp could be sent to Africa. It seems that this peculiar method was the usual one with all the more distant and less important colonies, like Marianen, Karolinen, Marshall Islands, etc. At the post-offices of these colonies comparatively few stamps were kept on hand, and orders of any large size were only filled, if at about the same time such order, by request of the ordering party had been sent out from Berlin.

Well, the 25pf stamps reached Southwest Africa to the number of 1000, with the same mail the letter to Mr. O., the purchasing agent arrived; but either the party addressed did not call at once at the office, or the letter was not promptly attended to in some other way. Somebody else got wind of the 1000 25pf stamps, and promptly bought the whole lot. A very large proportion of these rarities reached Germany on registered letters addressed to one post-office employé in Hamburg, and indirectly found their way into collectors' hands, naturally at pretty stiff figures, from about 6 to 10 or 12 marks each. Mr. O., the creator of this stamp was furious, and finds that it relieves his feelings by airing his disappointment in the German philatelic press, accusing various good people in various ways because they got the stamps that he ordered, and made the profit that he or his society had hoped for.

OUR EDUCATIONAL MOVIES—ONE VERSION OF THE ORIGIN OF THE POSTAGE STAMP.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
THE "ONE-LUNGER."

By EDWIN B. HILL.

I have seen many men and some women with the hopeless misery in their faces, that self-conscious stricken look which is the pariah's knowledge of doom: for this is the "Winter of our discontent," wherein the health-seeker from the East, fleeing the approaching cold, revels in the blue skies and glorious warmth of an Arizona winter. I repeat, I have seen many men—but keep me, pitying gods! from second sight of one passing face in which shone forth the hopeless longing for the home forever closed to him because of his affliction, and the thought of the possible fate of dear ones should his life and theirs further converge.

I had known Barton Mack as a boy and man; for he was from my home town. Unfortunately for him, he had not outgrown the illiberalism of youth. Our free full life did not appeal to him; and, besides, he was cursed with a certain aloofness which he could not overcome, and this, of itself, prevented the "mixing" essential to proper understanding of men and manners in the West. I had done my best but gave him up as hopeless a fortnight before. I couldn't even interest him in stamps. This morning he passed the shack, afoot, his face studiously set against me. I did not hail him, and my delinquency was strong on my conscience. When the sting of it was just taking hold, the inevitable cloud of dust appeared. It was a minute later that Jimmy O. threw himself from his petted cow-pony, hurtled his way up the path to the hammock, flopped into it, and delivered himself of the single phrase, "By heck!" that expressed for him sometimes grief, sometimes anger. Then he laughed.

"Say! It sure would get you! That old cow-puncher, Jack Frazer, 's got an auto—I see him stickin' the spurs into it an' yellin' 'whoa! whoa!' as he went up Mac Donald street, me wavin' my Scotch plaid at him an' yellin' fit to bust my lungs. I sure near got pinched by that new marshal, only the boys kidded him to a finish. An' Philmets, too—he's got an auto. Criminy Jims! Next we know, you'll be gettin' yours out, an' Jonny'll be buyin' one, an' the hull range'll smell o' gasoline, an'—"

Jimmy was out of breath. He rolled a cigarette, and looked quizzically at me, for my auto was taboo. I had bought "Doc" Palmer's one-lunger discard, which "Doc" declared would really go without the aid of horses, got stuck on the desert seven miles from home, and was towed ignominiously into town by two gleeful cowboys, one of whom insisted upon relieving me at the steering wheel. After that experience, I carefully locked the one-lunger in the shed and tinkered with it off and on. It had its fits and starts of going, but the fits predominated.

All of which is a stage aside.

"Anyway," resumed Jimmy, from the obscurity of cigarette smoke, "since Frevor Moore went 'hover 'ome' after sellin' his rancho to good ole Johnny Williams, an' ole Eddy Fyne's foreman, an' the red-headed girl in the postoffice is properly roped an' tied to her puncher choice—thereby deprivin' me of my light through life, I say, friend o' mine—"

Jimmy stopped, looking expectantly down the path. Barton Mack was passing once more, reading a letter. He looked up, smiled, spoke, and passed on. Jimmy turned to me again.

"It's a bum bully old world, an' we like it lots. But me—well, breathe it not—or at least gentle-like, I'm goin' back to college—Engineering fer mine."

I looked incredulous.

"Yes; I shall resume my studies and my English undefiled. This tranquil life has no further charms for me. Dad has issued his call to the wild—and I have heard it."

When Jimmy sloughed his range language I knew it was generally serious. This time it was fatal.

"Before I soak up education I'm continuin' human," declared Jimmy, with his whimsical smile. "Meantime, who's your friend?"

I told poor Mack's history from the cradle to the verge of the grave.

"And, Jimmy," I said in closing, "if there's anything you can do—anything you can think up to interest him, do it. It'll save his life."

Jimmy smoked and blew rings for an hour while I read the WEEKLY, small ads and all. Then he broke the silence.

"Speakin' of autos, what'll you take fer yours?"

"Jimmy," I said, sadly, "if you weren't a friend of mine I'd give it to you."

"Nope. I'll lease it," declared Jimmy.

So, for the sum of one dollar, to make it legal, Jimmy O. leased a certain Cadillac one-lunger, which I warranted not to go, and I further loaned him the use of tools and shop—garage, Jimmy insisted on calling it—for the same period. Jimmy took possession at once, and I started into the mountains that afternoon, to delve amongst some prehistoric dwellings.

Three weeks later I came into town, brown, unshaven, my clothing in rags, but rich with precious specimens of other days. A familiar chug-chug struck my ear, and behold! up the main street of Willow went my old one-lunger, Barton Mack at the wheel, Jimmy beside him.

"The holy pride of parenthood's in their systems," explained Jack Frazer, whom I encountered on the bank corner.

An hour later Jimmy came up the old path to the waiting hammock, dug up "the makin's" and when properly obscured, explained:

"You see, I knowed that boy was plumb dyin' fer somethin' to occupy his twenty-four hours, only eight of which he had to sleep in, so I thinks o' your auto. That'd keep anybody busy. Sure!"

I nodded approval.

"Then I milled around till eatin' time, an' follered 'em in to the chink's. Jack was there—an' Phil—an' Bart—all lookin' solemn as a Pima on parade. Me—I felt some swelled up."

"Hello!" I says. "Where's your auto, Jack?"

"Shop," says Jack, sour like.

"Broke a laig, Jack? You sure'll have to shoot it," I says. Bart snickered—fer the first time since he left home, I bet.

"Jack had to grin, an' he says: 'Well, ole scout, wait till you get one!'"

"Then Jack started to eat his soup, but I cooled it for him. I says:

"Me? Oh, I got one, now."

"Jimmy looked at me quizzically.

"But I won't repeat the language them two ole bachelors used up on me when they found it was Doc's—er—former patient. But say! the kid—Bart—he flares up an' butts in; says that auto was made in his ole town—Detroit-fer-Mine—nothin' to beat it, even if it was old and honest—an' he 'lowed he'd make it go if I'd let him. Say! He showed as much interest as an over-due mortgage, an' we fed 'im plenty."

"We never stopped fer pie, even, but hit it fer the garage. Say, if there's anythin' in mechanics Bart don't know, shoot me! He had to disembowel that auto an' for four days I was cleaning parts. Then he gets busy an' assembles. Go? You seen us!"

Jimmy swung back and forth, the joy of conquest in his soul. Up the path came Barton Mack, color in cheeks, and eyes alight with interest, with a warm clasp of the hand, he said:

"Can't thank you enough. If it hadn't been for 'Old Faithful' and Jimmy, here, I'd ended everything three weeks ago. Now I'll get well—the Doctor tells me so—I'll get all I needed was to take interest—"

"He's renewed the mortgage," interrupted Jimmy, from his obscurity.

"And I love the country and the people—and the family is coming out to spend the Winter!"

Mack was happy as a boy. He had arrived!

"One of his sisters collects stamps," added Jimmy, "an' she's goin' to bring 'em with her. She's got Monaco complete, shades an' all, an' two copies o' the five francs, first issue, Bart tells me. She specializes in Monaco, he says."

"She'll give you one of them sure, Jimmy," declared Mack. "I'll make her."

A. PERRIN & CO., INC.

124 EAST 23rd STREET,

Between Fourth and Lexington Avenues,

NEW YORK, N. Y.

WANTED---Philadelphia Locals---WANTED

For several years I have been gathering data in connection with the posts of Philadelphia, particularly the private posts which flourished from 1840-1862.

This is a greater undertaking than would appear to one who has not gone seriously into the matter as the history of the majority of these posts is most obscure, little or nothing having been written about them in the Philatelic press and the catalogs merely giving a list of the adhesive stamps and stamped envelopes without even attempting to locate the cities or towns where the posts operated.

Much information may be obtained from the letters, etc., handled by these posts. It will be my endeavor to gather a number of these original letters or "covers" and from them secure information concerning the duration of the posts, the dates of use of the various stamps, envelopes, handstamps, postmarks and cancelling devices.

I, therefore, wish to buy, on original letter or envelope (if envelope, to preferably have the letter enclosed) any of the stamps issued by D. O. Blood & Co., G. Carter, City Dispatch, Cressman & Co., Deming's Penny Post, Eagle Post, Guy's City Despatch, T. A. Hampton, G. S. Harris, Teese & Co., or any other Philadelphia private post.

Also adhesive stamps in pairs, blocks or sheets. (I do not want single adhesive stamps off cover.)

Also unused stamped envelopes.

Also proofs, essays, counterfeits, reprints, advertising labels, etc.

Also handstamps, postmarks, etc., of the above mentioned posts and other Philadelphia posts such as Stait's which did not use adhesive stamps or stamped envelopes. These should be on the original but I will also purchase any varieties, cut square, not in my collection.

Also circulars or other matter relating to these posts.

Also Philadelphia (governmental) postmarks prior to 1865 on cover. These include such postmarks as Germantown, Spring Garden, Frankford, Kensington, Manayunk, Byberry, etc.

Also railroad marks on letters originating at, or passing thru Philadelphia.

In fact everything pertaining to the postal history of Philadelphia before 1865.

This is addressed to collectors as well as dealers. Send what you have though it be but one piece. Mark with your lowest price (do not ask for offer) and you will hear from me promptly. Register sendings of value.

Anyone having items of interest, which are not for sale, is invited to send such items for inspection.

EARLY EUROPEANS!

(Old German States, Gt. Britain, Spain, Switzerland, etc.)

My next PUBLIC AUCTION SALE on JANUARY 29th will include a collection of Early European stamps formed before 1885.

A large number of these scarce and desirable stamps listing $5.00 each and upwards are offered and the wise collector, who knows how hard it is to find material of this class, will want to obtain some of the items. Also included in this sale is a good general collection so there should, in truth, be "something for everyone."

At my last sale nearly 50% of all lots were purchased by dealers who undoubtedly resold their purchases to customers at a substantial profit—enough said!

Catalogues of this sale are now ready and will be sent free on request. (Sale at the C. P. S. Club

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

Bi-sected stamps were not used in Canada to anything like the same extent that similar varieties were used in the other British North American provinces. The 6d is catalogued as having been divided diagonally and the halves used as 3d stamps, though there can have been no real necessity for such bi-section. A bi-sected stamp of quite another character was mentioned in the Monthly Journal for April, 1898, as follows:—

The Post Office describes a so-called "split provisional" of the early 3d stamp, which is described as consisting of one and a half of the unperforated 3d on wove, upon an entire envelope postmarked "Port Hope, July 16th, 1855, Canada, Paid 10c." Our contemporary does not appear to perceive that the postmark plainly indicates that the supposed half stamp is really only a badly cut copy; the 3d of Canada passed for 5 cents, and as this letter is plainly marked "Paid 10c", the stamps upon it evidently passed as two 3d, not as one and a half, which would have corresponded to no rate of postage.

The same journal, two months later, made more extended reference to this variety and while its bona-fides as a "split" is established its use as a half stamp is as much a mystery as ever. We cannot do better than give the paragraph in full:—

In the New Issues column of our number for April, we called in question the character of a supposed "split" three pence stamp of Canada, which had been chronicled in the Post Office, New York. In reply to our criticism, Messrs. Morgenthau & Co., the publishers of that magazine, have most kindly forwarded to us the letter bearing the divided stamp, and have requested our opinion upon it. The specimen is such a curious one and presents, we think, such a puzzle for philatelists, that we have taken the liberty—which we hope its owner will pardon—of having a photographic block made from it, and we give a full size illustration, showing both the stamps and the postmarks, herewith. As our readers may perceive, we were quite wrong in suggesting that the "split" stamp was merely a badly cut copy, as it appears to have been carefully bi-sected diagonally and to have been intended to pass as a half stamp, making up, with the entire stamp to which it is attached, a rate of 4½d. If this were all, though the specimen would be a great rarity—indeed, we believe it to be unique—it would not be necessarily a great puzzle to us. It is true that we do not know of any 4½d rate in Canada, and there never was a 4½d stamp in use there; but still, such a rate might have existed, although there was no possible means of making it up except by the use of at least three ½d stamps; but the puzzling part about this letter is that it is addressed from Port Hope in Canada to New York, the single rate from Canada to the United States was 10 cents; the letter is marked "CANADA—PAID 10 Cts." by the side of the stamps, and that rate was six-pence in Canadian currency. The whole document appears to us to be perfectly genuine and bona-fide; we have examined it with a skeptical mind and a powerful magnifying glass, and we can only say that if it is a "fake" it is wonderfully well done. On the other hand, if it is genuine, the half stamp must have done duty as a whole one, because it certainly took two 3d stamps to make up the 10 cents rate. The puzzle remains a puzzle to us, but we are grateful to Messrs. Morgenthau for their courteous reply to what may have appeared a captious criticism.

H. F. COLMAN, SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

also mentions the possibility of additions to the meagre set of three values then current, viz.:—

In March, 1854, the charge on packet letters between Canada and the United Kingdom and most foreign countries was reduced by the Imperial Government from 1s 2d sterling to 8d sterling the 1/2 oz., when sent in the closed mails through the United States, and from 1s sterling to 6d when sent from a provincial port—Quebec and Halifax. Should no further changes be likely soon to take place in the charges on the correspondence with England, it would promote the public convenience to procure postage stamps of the value of 10d and 7 1/2d respectively, to correspond with the present packet charges.

In the Postmaster-General's fourth annual report, issued in the following year, the above recommendation was adopted so far as the 10d value was concerned, for we read:—

To promote the general convenience of the public in prepaying letters to the United Kingdom at the new rate, postage stamps of the value of 10d currency, equal to 8d sterling, were procured, and issued to the public.

According to documentary evidence unearthed by Messrs. King and Howes the plate for this value was made, and the first stamps were printed from it during the last quarter of 1854, for in the Post Office accounts for that period the item, "Rawdon, Wright & Co., Making Stamps, £42:18:6," appears. According to another list compiled from official sources the stamps did not reach Canada until January 2nd, 1855, and though we know of no official document bearing on the actual date of issue, or of any very early dated cover, in view of the fact that the stamps represented a denomination for which there was an urgent demand, it is only reasonable to suppose that this 10d value was placed on sale some time during the month of January, 1855.

Mr. King states that this value was printed in sheets of 100 stamps, arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten, and with the manufacturers' imprint shown eight times on the margins, as in the case of the three stamps previously issued. Mr. Howes, however, is of the opinion that these 10d stamps were printed in sheets of 120, 10 rows of twelve each, like the 7 1/2d value issued later, and in support of his theory points out that the quantities delivered in the first supply (100,080) and second supply (72,120) are exactly divisible by 120 into 834 and 601 full sheets respectively, whereas neither of these numbers is divisible by 100 into an even number of complete sheets. In view of the absence of positive evidence in the shape of an entire sheet or full horizontal row of stamps, it must be admitted that there is much to be said in favor of Mr. Howes' theory. It will be noted the stamps have the values expressed in English currency, and the almost universal rule for stamps printed with values in shillings or pence, has been sheets of 60, 120, or 240 owing to the fact that with such an arrangement reckoning in this currency is greatly simplified.

The design corresponds in its general appearance to the 6d and 12d of 1851 though the portrait in the central oval is of Jacques Cartier, the discoverer of Canada. In the 'eighties there was some little discussion regarding the portrait on this 10d stamp some claiming it was not intended to represent Cartier, but Sebastian Cabot. A writer on the Halifax Philatelist for 1888 says: "It is identically the same as all the existing portraits of Jacques Cartier, and totally unlike those existing of Sebastian Cabot. The style of dress and the way the beard is worn is that of the sixteenth century, instead of the fifteenth. There is a very rare and old print of Sebastian Cabot, taken from the original painting in the possession of Charles Jost Harford, Esq., in the Legislative Library at Halifax, and anything more dissimilar to the face on the 10 pence stamp cannot be imagined." The official notice announcing the issue of the stamp, to which we have already referred, makes no mention of the design at all but the portrait is undoubtedly that of Cartier and Mr. Howes tells us that the original is a "three-quarter length portrait in the Hotel de Ville at St. Malo, France, the birthplace of Cartier." Jacques Cartier was born at St. Malo, as stated above, in 1491. In 1534 he sailed with two small vessels on a voyage of discovery, touching at Newfoundland, and discovering New Brunswick. In a second voyage (1535-6) he explored the St. Lawrence, and took possession of the land he discovered in the name of Francis I of France. He made a third voyage in 1541 and died in 1557.

The words CANADA POSTAGE and TENPENCE on the inscribed oval frame are separated by a small beaver at the right and three maple leaves at the left. In the lower corners are the

THE NEW ENVELOPES.

By H. F. KOHR.

The first of the new envelopes, recently announced by the Postoffice Department were placed on sale December 20, according to A. M. Dockery, Third Assistant Postmaster General. This was size 5 on white.

In answer to an inquiry, Mr. Dockery wrote as follows:

"The other envelopes listed in the price sheet will be issued from time to time as the necessary embossing dies are completed and placed in use, but the dates of future issues have not been fixed.

"As to the suggestion that some of the varieties of stamped envelopes might be discontinued, I beg to say that seven of them were dropped under the new contract effective July 1, 1915. The public demand for the remaining envelopes was sufficient to warrant their continuance, but others will be dropped in future if conditions justify it."

The envelopes dropped are No. 1 white, No. 2 amber, buff and blue; No. 4 amber, and No. 14 buff and blue.

This new stamp is slightly smaller than the old issue and considerably different from any two cent stamp hitherto printed. It is nearer in appearance to the 1-cent 1902 than any other.

It would appear also that there are to be three varieties of watermark in the new issue. Only watermarks with 1915 across the top or diagonally across the design have been seen by the writer. It is to be hoped that the multiplicity of die varieties will be avoided in the new issue. Not counting knife varieties, the last issue, including the varieties on the new paper, total, as the writer remembers the figures, more than 600 varieties.

U. S. ON UNWATERMARKED PAPER.

A Washington correspondent advises us that U. S. stamps are now being printed on unwatermarked paper. This is certainly interesting news. Will our readers be on the lookout for this paper? The information comes from a reliable source.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The stamp business of F. R. Holloway, Akron, O., has been purchased by the firm of Holloway & James and the advertisement of the new firm will be found elsewhere in this issue. We wish it a large measure of success.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Lionel Arnold and H. W. Boers.

—Arthur Lacey, who is playing in "Ruggles of Red Gap," at the Fulton Theatre, New York, would be glad to hear from any actor stamp collector. W. Harris, who publishes "Who's Who in Philately" has written him asking if he can give a list of such collectors.

—"I have a roll of current 1 cent part perforates (vertically perforated) which is so badly centered that the bottoms of the plate numbers are visible. The plate number occurs on every seventeenth stamp, and is alternately 7170 and 7171. I don't know whether this is of interest, but submit it for what it is worth."—JAS. LEWIS HOWE.

EDITORIAL.

Heavy Haul.—The colossal theft at St. Paul of "negotiable revenue stamps" to the value of one million dollars, as reported so sensationally in the daily press, starts a train of thought in the minds of those who have been watching the course of current revenue stamps. Will the authorities take any steps to invalidate the stamps that comprised the booty? Or has the loss been exaggerated so greatly that measures of the kind would not be justified on the score of time, inconvenience and expense? One may indulge in some speculation on the subject even though any eventualities may be wholly at variance with preconceived ideas. As for the negotiability of the loot, we can imagine easier things to dispose of than unused documentary stamps, the offering of which, alone could be construed into a suspicious circumstance. It is safe to say that no stamp dealer even though he be "without the pale" would act as an intermediary in marketing the spoils; and as for the dealers that we know, they will be gunshy of any unused revenues that may be seen looming up in the distance.

Nothing Serious.—Several readers have called our attention to a newspaper clipping that declared that it was illegal for any person to charge more than face value for unused United States stamps or post office price for U. S. envelopes. This question is a recurrent one and there was a time when some novelty attached to a discussion of it on the theory of its effect on the stamp business, if its limitations were construed literally. Section 2 of the Act of 1855 ruled: "That it shall not be lawful for any post master or other person to sell any postage stamp or stamped envelope for any larger sum than that indicated upon the face of such postage stamp . . ." The penalty provided for a violation of the act was a fine of not less than ten or more than five hundred dollars. The law was passed at a date before philately had made anything of a name for itself; and its purpose was to prevent trading upon the postal needs of the public when the prepayment of postage by stamps was first rendered obligatory. In California at that time there were shortages of stamps occasionally, where, we have read, unused stamps were offered at a big premium, by speculators on the very steps of the post offices whose stocks were depleted for the time being. The indignation of the department may be imagined at such treatment; and it was with the idea of prohibiting such actions that the law was passed.

The Right Spirit.—Here is an observation that we commend for favorable consideration by the stamp auction folks. To act upon the suggestion of our correspondent would be a graceful recognition of the claims to priority of the bidder who is at a disadvantage in comparison with the one who personally is present at the sale. However, it must be admitted that occasionally, the bidder who represents the out-of-town buyer is beaten to his limit, notwithstanding his nicety of calculation and despite his care; but if our correspondent's plan is adopted, an occasional exception will be tolerated: "As a result of repeated experiences in bidding at auction sales during the past few months, I have noticed that lots have been sold at my bid price but somebody else invariably got the stamp. Would it be out of the way to suggest with reference to auction sales that out of town bidders who do not have the privilege of seeing and examining the various lots be given the preference and that should the floor bidder want the lot, he should pay five or ten cents more for it than the mail bidder."

Staggering.—From Mr. Lewis A. McArthur, Portland, Oregon, we have received a chapter of revelations as follows: "It may interest your readers to know that documentary revenue stamps are now being used in Portland in place of wines and cordials stamps, the supply of the green stamps apparently having been exhausted. Oregon and Washington will swing into the dry column on January 1; and in Oregon particularly, many old acquaintances of J. Barleycorn are laying in a supply of wet goods in anticipation of the long drought ahead. This procedure has resulted in a great quantity of wines and liquors having been put on the market, with sales so large that the local supply of green wines and cordials stamps has been depleted; and consequently, documentary stamps are being used. I cannot learn authoritatively that the government has sold the red stamps with instructions to use them on bottles but there are a considerable number of the red documentary in use on bottles; and I have seen the two and four cent denominations so affixed. The question now presents itself as to how these original covers are to be collected. Are we to keep the 'package' and all? Perhaps we shall line a shelf in the den with a row of 'dead soldiers' showing the red stamps properly affixed and canceled. What will the prohibitionist collectors do? Will they want their rooms filled with empty bottles? Also, there is a delicate question as regards the preserving of larger packages with documentary stamps affixed, such as barrels and kegs. The writer would like advice." The situation described by our correspondent who wrote under date of December 28, 1915, is one that developed unexpectedly we suppose; and it is not hard to realize that a shortage of wines and cordials stamps resulted from the sudden demand for the stamps. The documentary series includes the values called for by the wines and cordials tax and so these stamps were used to fill the breach. It is just as well to place the circumstances on record for "future generations."

Strange.—Still on the subject of the current United States revenue stamps, Mr. J. N. Morse remarks: "Your editorial in No. 1304 under the head of 'An Odd One' put me in mind that I have something similar which was saved from one of the early sheets of documentary five cent on U. S. P. S. paper with the plate number in red ink (pen) 'P1-407.' You say that the one that you refer to is quite small; mine is ordinary good size." The plate number that we described on the $2 wines and cordials was "in a flowing and unstudied script" but engraved on the margin of the plate in the color of the stamp, green. Mr. Morse's emergency watermark is something in the way of a curiosity.

It Does Not Apply.—One of our readers, Mr. R. J. Tarry, Knoxville, Illinois, recently sent us a clipping from the Chicago Tribune wherein an inquirer asked if it were legal to sell "stamps from a vending machine that gives but four cents in stamps when five cents is deposited." The answer was returned: "The postal law is (see federal statutes vol. 5, page 868) that 'postage stamps shall not be sold for any larger sum than the value indicated on their face, nor stamped envelopes for more than is charged therefor by the postoffice department for like quantities.' This law also applies to stamp vending machines. Tribune Law Department." The question of the sale by vending machines of four cents' worth of stamps for five cents is open to argument, on the basis of legality, we think; and Mr. Tarry's opinion seems to be a common-sense one: "It is my belief that if a test case were made, the vending-machine people would take the stand that they were selling four cents' worth of stamps for four cents and one cents' worth of service."

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 W. 42nd Street, NEW YORKCHANGES IN CHINA.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

Events in Europe and the Near East have monopolised attention so much that important happenings in more distant lands have passed almost unheeded. In China the former President, Yuan-Shi-Kai, has, at the invitation of the Council of State, accepted the Throne of the Sons of Heaven, and in due course will don the Imperial yellow robe embroidered with the blue dragon. The dragon, in all probability, will appear again on the stamps of China, but in any case the new regime must produce a new issue of stamps.

Under the old Empire the dragon was the chief symbol of Imperial authority in the stamp designs. The catalogue of its anatomical parts is like a page from Rabelais. It has the head of a camel, horns of a deer, eyes of a rabbit, ears of a cow, neck of a snake, belly of a frog, scales of a carp, claws of a hawk, and palms of a tiger. It is a four-footed monster, and it is significant to philatelists that there are five claws to each foot on all true representations of the dragon, which betoken Imperial authority. The use of the five-clawed dragon as an emblem was exclusively reserved to the Imperial Government, and any unauthorised use of it was punishable as a capital offence.

This emblem first appeared on the stamps of the Shanghai Local Post in 1865, a crude set of designs, on which the dragon's beard was represented by seven bristles, and the tail has five claws. These rather trifling details are important to the collector, as all copies of the stamps which have more or fewer than this number of bristles or claws are forgeries. Eastern forgers, while they are very skilful and daring, rarely go so far as to commit the unpardonable sin of offending against the laws respecting the symbols of Imperial authority.
 This applies not only to the dragon, but also to the Japanese chrysanthemum, which, on the genuine stamps, is always represented with sixteen petals.

The dragon also appeared on the first issue of stamps for China proper (1878) for the postal service instituted by Sir Robert Hart in connection with the Customs Department, and the emblem was continued through practically all the stamp designs until the fall of the dynasty and the formation of the Republic under Yuan-Shi-Kai.

During the early days of the Republic in 1912 the stamps of the late Empire were provisionally converted into Republican stamps by an overprint in Chinese characters. In November, 1912, however, two sets of stamps were issued to commemorate the change of regime.
 One set bears a portrait of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the leader of the revolution. The portrait is in a frame in which are worked unripe ears of wheat, and the inscription reads "In Commemoration of the Revolution." The other set is similar in style, but bears the portrait of President Yuan-Shi-Kai, and the ears of wheat in the frame are ripe. The inscription reads "In Commemoration of the Republic."

From 1913 China has been using a set of stamps in three designs, all of which bear the inscription, "Republic of China" so, if the new regime be maintained, a new set of stamps will be necessary. It may be preceded by some provisional overprints, so collectors should look out for novelties from the new Celestial Empire.—London Telegraph.

DEATH OF J. W. RUSSELL.

We are sorry to be obliged to add another to the long list of men who have been prominent in Philately in the death of J. W. Russell, the treasurer of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. of New York, which occurred last week. Mr. Russell, although in the prime of life was one of the veterans of the stamp trade and there are very few in the business today who have seen so many years of service.

He had charge of their extensive correspondence and for the last two years has been treasurer of the corporation.
 He was very genial and made a host of friends both by personal contact and through the mails and his loss will be deeply felt by his business associates and all philatelists.

He was taken with a gripe cold just before Christmas and was housed for a few days but recovered enough to get out to the office one day. He suffered a relapse, however, and pneumonia set in and he passed away January 5th. The burial was from his late home in New Rochelle, N. Y., Friday evening, January 7.

OUR REBUS COVER CONTEST.

Already we can see indications of a lively interest in our cover rebus and we sincerely trust that the competition will be a strong one. Take the cover on last week's paper and see how many stamps are used in making the same.
 We offer a number of fine prizes to the subscribers sending in the best list of answers and we want the contest to be a spirited one. We have not indicated the number of stamps represented in this design for the simple reason that we believe it will add to the interest.

PASSAIC STAMP EXHIBIT.

V. D. MacBride sends us a clipping from the Passaic Daily News of Dec. 29 giving the particulars of the second anniversary meeting of the Passaic Stamp Club held the previous evening.

About thirty members and guests were present, from Passaic, Paterson, Rutherford, Clifton, Nutley and elsewhere in this section. H. H. Wilson of Brooklyn was the guest of honor of the evening and exhibited his collection of proofs and essays of United States postage stamps.

The Passaic Stamp Club has just received a charter as a branch society of the A. P. S. Meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesday evenings of each month and A. L. Landvatter, 58 Irving Place, is the secretary and treasurer.

The article in the News was well written and was furnished by Mr.
 MacBride.

less, we thank Francis A. Wheeler and others who have kindly notified us of such issues by their post offices.

BRITISH GUIANA.—Among recent importations have been copies of the current 2c stamp, with the ruled lines behind the value thin and faint, making the tablet appear much lighter than hitherto says Scott's Circular. The lines in the background of the circle containing the ship, on the sails, at right and left of "Postage & Revenue" and at left of the crown are also lighter than before. The same changes are noted in the 5c and 72c. We might have thought they were the result of cleaned plates on the 2c and 5c but the 72c has only just appeared in this design. We therefore conclude the alterations are intentional and have been made on the dies.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY has already called attention to variations in the tablets containing the value of several denominations of these stamps.

CANADA.—Mrs. Oughtred sends us the new War Tax stamp from the Dominion. Possibly a change of color may result, if the com-

War Tax Adhesive.

2c plus 1c carmine.

J. D. Cox has favored us with a copy of the official circular from the Canadian Postoffice Department regarding the above stamps, from which we take the following:

"The Department is issuing a stamp for postage and War Tax purposes, having a value of three cents. This is an ordinary two cents postage stamp surcharged as follows: 1 T c (one cent tax). This has been issued in response to the demand of the public for a stamp having the value of three cents, so that postage and war tax might be paid by affixing one stamp.

"Ordinary postage stamps and one cent and two cent postage stamps having impressed on them the words "War Tax" may continue to be used either for the prepayment of postage or the War Tax.

When the War Tax Act first went into effect the Inland Revenue Department issued five cent, twenty cent and fifty cent postage stamps bearing the words "War Tax" or "Inland Revenue War Tax" for Inland Revenue purposes only, and as previously advised, neither of these nor any other Inland Revenue War Tax stamps can be accepted for the payment of the War Tax on letters, post cards, postal notes or post office money orders, or for the payment of postage or any other postal charges."

We are also indebted to the following readers for information or samples of the new War Tax stamps:—G. Hemond, O. Kendall and George R. Hargraft.

INDIA.—Allan Greeley sends us a cover from Calcutta that bears the regular Calcutta postmark; "Too late" for mail boat; "Passed by Postal Censor 5 Calcutta"; and "Postal Censor, 10 July, 1915, Calcutta." There seems to be more formality than usual, and Mr. Greeley queries whether this indicates "internal trouble in India."

MEXICO.—Lowell J. Ragatz also reports the new 10c stamp as coming in perforated form.

PANAMA.—Scott's Circular has the following regarding the 1/2c claret (or rose) map stamp recently chronicled:

"Some weeks ago our firm received some copies of the 1/2c stamp of the 1911 type but printed in rose instead of orange. It was claimed that this was an error of color. The stamp has since been chronicled by various journals here and abroad but definite information about it is lacking. The stamp bears the imprint of the American Bank Note Co., and Mr. F. P. Brown writes that they make the following statement about it: "The half cent stamp as printed in red or pink was originally issued in 1908. In 1910 it was changed to orange." We feel that there must be some error in this statement. There are many keen philatelists in Panama and the Canal Zone who are always on the watch for changes and new varieties. We cannot believe the stamp could have escaped their notice for seven years. It is possible that the stamp was printed in 1908 and only recently put into use."

VENEZUELA.—Elliott Perry sends us the 5c value of the new set, as described in No. 1285. Other values were noted in Nos. 1289 and 1290. Presumably the other missing values, 10c, 25c, and possibly 40c, will soon be issued, in which case the stamps with three-quarters' portrait of Bolivar will become obsolete. Mr. Perry thinks these new stamps a highly creditable production. There are at least two distinct shades of the 15c olive, recently chronicled,—one yellowish and the other more greenish.

CERTAINLY, WE ARE GLAD TO HELP!

Every month a page in St. Nicholas tells up-to-date facts regarding stamps and stamp collecting. Here is an extract from a recent issue showing how we help to create and encourage new customers.

The present war has already furnished some stamps, and many more will follow. Parents should encourage their children to begin collecting now, to get as many of these "war issues" as possible, to become familiar with the meaning of the stamps so issued. It all will help the children, not only in their study of history and geography, but in many other educational ways. And all the time they are not studying, but having fun.

The people who read St. Nicholas are not the kind who try to collect stamps without paying for them. It is worth while to investigate St. Nicholas, and see how much we can help you in a real way.

CRAWFORD COLLECTION IN BOSTON.

The members of the Boston Philatelic Society are going to have a treat at their meeting, January 18, when John A. Klemann of the Nassau Stamp Co. is to exhibit a portion of the celebrated Earl of Crawford collection of United States stamps, proofs and essays which his firm has recently purchased. This is known as the best and most complete collection of United States in existence and was mounted and written up by the late owner on a cruise around the world in his yacht. The Mandel collection formed by the late Mr. Mandel, the expert of American Bank Note Co. and mounted in 30 large albums was the nucleus of the Crawford collection but at the time of his death it had nearly doubled in size.

PRECANCEL PARAGRAPHS.

By JOHN A. SOLOMAN.

The past year has surely been one of the greatest, if not the greatest, in the annals of precancel history. It is my opinion that the avalanche of Christmas precancels smashed all records to "smithereens." Many postmasters, particularly those in small cities and towns took advantage of the opportunity offered for the use of precancels during the holiday season and it seemed that precancels literally poured in. It will be many a day before even half of the new varieties can be properly chronicled.

It is pleasing to announce that Washington, our capital, is now in the precancel fold.

Reports from Maine have it that precancels were used from Portland clear to Aroostook County and all points between—during the Xmas season.

San Francisco has been using enormous quantities of the Panama issue in all denominations in up and down prints, but no double or other unusual varieties have as yet been announced. The Golden Gate City has also used considerable Parcel Post stamps and all denominations of the current issue from 1c to 20c.

Chicago's mail order houses are having their voluminous catalogues printed in Springfield, Mass., and they are being mailed with Springfield precancels.

It seems that precancels are traveling west, even beyond our Pacific Coast. Honolulu, Hawaii, the home of pineapples and missionary stamps, is now a regular dispenser of precancels. Shanghai, China, has appeared overprinted on the current issue, but whether this is official cannot be said. Perhaps Manila and Hong Kong will soon be with us.

Has anyone heard of Pike, New Hampshire? Well, that burg with the fish name has a real precancel, just the same.

Precancels have surely outstripped their rival, the permit. A few years ago, it seemed that permits would be the undoing of precancels. Permissible precancel matter of all kinds was sent out bearing permits and although many permits are still in use, precancels are now forging ahead and maintaining the more prominent position.

Toledo, Ohio, which has continually used one type for nearly two decades, recently broke its long record by using two different fonts.

Little Rhode Island was a veritable precancel bee hive during the holidays. Providence, as usual, sent out thousands of precancels. The busy city of Pawtucket also consumed a large quantity and the hustling towns of Westerly and Bristol used a goodly number.

The new 11c stamp received its precancel initiation soon after it was issued and is now being used by many of the larger cities.

Nobody works harder than the postman at the Xmas season but let deliveries be a little late and the public invariably sets up a howl. No one more than those in the Postal Service fully realize what a benefactor precancels really are—and were it not for the time and labor saved through the use of precancels during the holiday rush, the service would be considerably retarded.

Another Springfield has been added to the list of Springfields. This time, it is the Illinois, Springfield. The other two in the precancel fold are in Massachusetts and Ohio.

High precancel denominations are no longer the rarities they formerly were. A decade ago, a 10c or 15c precancel of most any city was considered quite a "find" but the parcel post has so revolutionized this that 20c and 30c values are quite common and even 50c and dollar precancels are frequently seen.

But few of the original types are in active use to-day. Of the few left, Lowell, Mass., is easily the leader. Lowell first issued precancels in 1895 and is to-day still adhering to its first type, a record to be proud of. Danbury, Conn., the city of hats, adopted precancels in 1898 and still adheres to its initial type. It can safely be said the 2c 1898 Danbury precancel is a very

THE LAST VILLA ISSUE

These are type-set stamps somewhat similar to Scott's type A53 but with "Anvil" seal. These stamps were prepared for use just before the Villa faction had to flee. The 5c and 10c were distributed to a number of offices and are fairly plentiful but the 1c, 2c and 20c are very rare for after about 1000 of each were sold at Hermosillo the balance of the stock was destroyed to prevent the stamps falling into the hands of Carranza officials.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

It will thus be seen that the 7½d value, which was recommended three years earlier (at the time the 10d was issued), materialised at last, though there appears to be no official record bearing on the date the new value was placed on sale to the public. The volume dealing with the postage stamps of British North America, published by the Royal Philatelic Society some twenty years ago, gives the date of issue as June 2nd, 1857, though no authority for this statement is given.

The design was adapted from that of the discarded 12d of 1851, the same portrait of Queen Victoria adorning the central oval. The inscribed band around this contains the words CANADA PACKET POSTAGE at the top, and SIX PENCE STERLING at the bottom, the two inscriptions occupying so much space that there was no room for dividing ornaments of any kind. In the upper and lower left hand corners is "6d stg." and in the right hand corners "7½d cy." is shown. A word of explanation regarding the use of the word PACKET in the inscription is necessary. This does not refer to any parcel post (indeed, there was no parcel post at that period) as has sometimes been erroneously asserted, but refers to the fast mail steamers of the day which were then known as "packets". This denomination, as shown by the extract from the Postmaster-General's report printed above, was intended for use on single letters sent to England via the Canadian packets.

This 7½d stamp was, according to Mr. Howes, printed in sheets of 120 arranged in ten horizontal rows of twelve each, each sheet showing the imprint of the manufacturers eight times on the margins as in the case of the values issued previous to 1857. Only one consignment, consisting of 834 sheets (100,800 stamps) was received, and as 17,670 of these were still on hand when the decimal currency was introduced in 1859, a simple calculation will show that the total quantity issued was 82,410 stamps.

Although there had been a real need for a halfpenny value since the first adhesives made their appearance in Canada—as shown by several rates it was impossible to prepay in stamps without them—it was not until 1857 that a stamp of this denomination was placed in use. The following circular announced their impending issue:—

POSTAGE ON NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

TORONTO, 18th July, 1857.

Under the Post Office Law of last Session taking effect from 1st August, 1857, Newspapers printed and published in Canada, and mailed direct from Office of Publication, will pass free of Canadian Postage.

Periodicals so printed, published, and mailed when specially devoted to Religious and to General Education, to Agriculture, or Temperance, or to any branch of Science, will pass free from any one Post-Office to another within the Province.

Transient and re-mailed Papers and Periodicals will pass by Post if prepaid by Postage stamp—one halfpenny if not exceeding 3 oz. in weight, and 2d if over 3 oz.

Postage Stamps of the value of one halfpenny each will be sold to the public at all the principal Post Offices (including all Money Order Offices), with a discount of 5 per cent. upon purchases of not less than twenty stamps and will be available in prepayment of Newspapers and Periodicals, and of Drop and Town Letters.

R. SPENCE, Postmaster-General.

The Royal Philatelic Society's book gives the date of the above notice—July 18th, 1857—as the date of issue of the new stamp but, as Mr. Howes observes "it is more likely that the stamp was issued on 1st August, the day the new rates took effect."

Although this stamp is generally conceded to be the last of the "pence" values to be issued, until more definite information regarding the date of issue of the 7½d can be procured, this supposition can rest on no more substantial basis than that of mere conjecture.

The design is quite unlike that of any of the other values expressed in pence and consists of the conventional profile portrait of the Queen shown on so many of the stamps of the British Empire, within an oval band inscribed CANADA POSTAGE, at the top, and ONE HALF PENNY, at the bottom. There are no numerals or inscriptions in the corners but merely a plain pattern of diagonally crossed lines. Mr. Howes states "the stamp was printed in sheets of 100, ten rows of ten, with the right marginal imprints as described for the series of 1851."

From the Postmaster-General's report we gather that 1,341,600 halfpenny stamps were received prior to October 1st, 1857, though whether these were all in one consignment or not is not quite clear. At any rate judging from the statement in the same report that "the Department has been led to take measures for obtaining . . . sheets perforated" it would appear that the above quantity comprised all the imperforate

EDITORIAL.

Our Big Number—Our twenty-fifth anniversary number received a welcome that was not a perfunctory expression of a passing or surface interest but on the contrary one whose sincerity was not to be mistaken. A good many of our readers feel that our success in operating to the satisfaction of collectors of two generations is well merited; and they have taken the trouble to tell us so. One discriminating reader says: "You have recorded a great achievement in philately, and you prove that the quality of permanence does exist in our world, notwithstanding that allegation to the contrary has been made so often. This demonstration alone makes you among the 'truly great' of our pursuit and you have taught a lesson of faith, loyalty and duty, whose true inwardness is understood by many but should be by all." The esteem of our readers naturally is appreciated; and we make grateful acknowledgment to all of those who have written to felicitate us on the occasion that we celebrated.

Needle In Haystack—A bit of testimony comes from Mr. E. R. Jacobs to the effect that a green cancellation on the three cent green, 1870 to 1882, is a scarcity of the first rank. In fact, a canceled three cent with the obliteration in an unmistakable green and not a disintegrated or discolored blue comes to the fore about once in 300,000 stamps. At least, Mr. Jacobs has examined about that number of the three cent before finding a marked and brilliant green "target" cancellation. Supply your own comment and say something about patience on a monument.

It Is Said—We have been informed that the Crawford collection of United States stamps has been sold intact to a gentleman who will preserve it in that condition. If the news is true, collectors generally will feel pleased that the wonderful collection is not to be dispersed; and a sort of national pride will be felt

No Effect—It is safe to say that no change will be made in the current revenue issues as a consequence of the theft of revenue stamps recently at St. Paul, Minn., and it is surmised that the loss was greatly exaggerated in the newspapers. We have been told that banks in some of the large cities have been notified of the robbery and warned to be on the watch for the stolen stamps.

In A Book—The following extract from a book published in 1856, while not particularly interesting is yet worth preserving because of its reflection of the time when the half-ounce postage rate to Great Britain was twenty-four cents: "Before the passage of the late Postal Treaty with Great Britain, a clerk in one of our large cities was sent to the post office to mail a letter containing an order for goods on an English house. The clerk pocketed the twenty-four cents which he had been intrusted with for the purpose of prepaying the letter; therefore agreeably to the postal arrangements then existing, it could not go by steamer but was sent by a sailing vessel. Consequently, the order was delayed, and therefore was not executed as promptly as the firm sending it had expected; and when the goods arrived they had fallen in value to such an extent that the firm in question incurred by the operation a loss estimated at at least ten thousand dollars."

* * *

Cut Out—A reader says that he has found an envelope that bears a three cent stamped envelope, 1864 design, cut round, and that was accepted without question as having paid the postage. He adds that it has been his experience that in the early days, only very rarely could the envelope stamps cut from the "cover" have been used in this manner, if the infrequency with which they are to be found is any criterion. It is unnecessary to say that even in the pioneer days of envelopes the use of the envelope stamps in the manner indicated was unauthorized and those letters that bore them that passed through the post did so inadvertently. One of the earliest postal laws pertaining to the subject was practically coincident with the appearance of stamped envelopes in the United States and provided that a letter bearing a stamp, cut or separated from a stamped envelope cannot be sent through the mails as a prepaid letter; and that stamps so cut or separated from stamped envelopes lose their legal value.

Even So—Saith a reader: "If you will promise to begin a series of 'philatelic coincidences,' to be continued by more or less veracious subscribers, I shall try my 'prentice hand on the following. When in New Orleans not a few years ago, I bought a fine ten cent, 1847, on cover, that was postmarked New York City and addressed to Detroit, Michigan. I live in a small New Jersey town and one afternoon, recently, a neighbor called to visit my wife. While I was fixing my stamps, my wife and friend, bent over the table somewhat indifferently. Suddenly a change came over our visitor and with an excited yell, she swooped down upon the ten cent 1847 envelope. 'Where did you get this?' she exclaimed; and proceeded to tell that the cover had been addressed to her 'dear, dear grandfather Sprague' whom she had often visited in his later years at his Detroit home. I may have spoiled the story in the telling but anyway, the coincidence is there."

He Is So Kind—A paying subscriber has presented us with a copy of George Horton's book "The Long Straight Road," which was published over a dozen years ago. A note refers us to a page where we find the sentence marked: "Postage stamps are better than dry rot, and coins have saved many a soul from utter weariness." While it is just possible that we may have referred approvingly to Mr. Horton's singularly clear concept a long time ago, a repetition in this regard will do no harm, particularly in the light of the added information that we have received about the author, who, we are told had distinct philatelic leanings and who as minister to Greece from the United States found time to indulge his inclination.

Lithographed—We forgot to mention that we have been receiving for some time past, the one and two centavos, current issue of Chili, in the designs and approximately, the colors of the engraved stamps. No doubt, further values of the lithographed stamps will make their appearance. Explanation to account for the lithographed stamps has not been received but possibly it hinges upon the difficulty of obtaining the color bases for use in plate printing. In this connection it has been reported to us that there is a probability that the stringency in coloring supplies may become so acute in the cases of some countries that various expedients may be resorted to to tide over the shortage. Marked shades may be anticipated and even changes in processes of printing looked for. All possibilities are problematical, it goes without saying, and no doubt, any action that may be called for will be taken suddenly. If one studies the question, theories may be evolved that will furnish food for speculation, at least; and the one who is inclined to forecast the philatelic future cannot be any the worse off, at any rate.

stamps of this denomination. On the other hand the total number of half-penny stamps issued was 3,389,960 and catalogue quotations for the imperforate and the perforated varieties hardly bear out the supposition that only the first lot were issued without perforation.

While the 10d value is found on several sorts of paper no such extreme variation is provided as in the case of the stamps of 1851. The 7 1/2d and 1/2d values, printed at a later date, provide still fewer varieties, which would seem to indicate that as time progressed the manufacturers exercised a nicer discrimination in their choice of paper. Most of the stamps seem to have been printed on a hard wove paper, varying a little in thickness; the 10d is found on a very thin paper; and the 1/2d is recorded on ribbed paper, though whether this is a true "ribbed" variety or merely the result of some peculiarity in printing is open to discussion. As the ribbed lines are anything but distinct, though the paper showing this peculiarity is a little softer than that generally used, it is more than likely that the ribbing was purely accidental.

Owing to the differing qualities of paper used the same idiosyncracies of measurement in the size of the designs may be noted, especially in the case of the 10d as was referred to in a previous chapter. But as all variations of this character in stamps printed from line-engraved plates were long ago conclusively proved to be due to nothing more exciting than paper shrinkage it is hardly worth while wearying our readers with a resurrection of all that has been written on the subject leading up to the proof. While examples showing the extremes of size are of interest in a specialized collection little can be said in favor of their philatelic value.

CHAPTER V.The Perforated Pence Stamps.

In the Report of the Postmaster-General for September 30th, 1857, to which we have already made reference, we read:—

Moreover, the Department has been led, by the increasing use of Postage Stamps, to take measures for obtaining the Canadian Postage Stamps in sheets perforated in the dividing lines, in the manner adopted in England, to facilitate the separation of a single stamp from the others on a sheet when required for use.

From the above statement, one would naturally infer that such a useful innovation would be adopted at once, especially so when it is considered that the utility and convenience of perforation had already been amply tested and had proved eminently satisfactory in England. Unfortunately, no further mention of perforation is made in the Reports of succeeding years, and this absence of direct official evidence combined with the existence of certain facts has given rise to much theorizing as to the actual date of issue of the perforated varieties, and as to whether the perforation was applied by the manufacturers of the stamps, by the Canadian Government, or by private parties in Canada.

Mr. Donald A. King in his article in the Monthly Journal says:—

It is an open question whether these stamps were delivered to the Canadian Post Office Department in a perforated condition or not. The manufacturers are wholly unable to throw any light on the subject; and while there is much to be said in favor of their having perforated the stamps, there are points against it almost as strong.

In favor of it there is the fact that, at the date that these stamps were issued, it was more than probable that a firm like the manufacturers would have perforating machines. The normal gauge of the perforated set is 12, that being the only size ever used by the manufacturers, or their successors, the American Bank Note Company; indeed, they call 12 their standard and only gauge.

On the other hand, we find that there are perforated stamps of the first series issued, viz., the 6d on laid paper; also, that there exist two different varieties of perforation that were never used by the makers, viz., one gauging 14, and another that is described in the American Journal of Philately for January, 1891, as follows:—

"CANADA.—In a large lot of pence issues, purchased by us lately, we have found two copies of the 3d, on greyish wove paper, perforated 13, with oblique parallel cuts. This seems to confirm the theory that the pence issues of Canada were not perforated by the manufacturers, but either by the Canadian Government, or by some persons authorized by them, who most likely experimented with different perforating machines, finally selecting the one perforating 12."

Considering these facts, it may be that the stamps were sent to Canada in an imperforate condition, and that the Post Office Department had them perforated there, either buying a perforating machine, or entrusting them to some manufacturers of stationery. Perforations gauging 13 and 14 may have been experimental, as specimens of these varieties are rare; perforation 12 being adopted as giving the best results, the other sizes not being at all clearly cut, as the 12 generally is. All the stock of 1/2d, 3d and 6d on hand would, in this case, have been perforated, which might account for the copy of the 6d on laid paper that is known in this condition. There always remains the query why the 7 1/2d and 10d were not treated in the same manner, and to this no answer can be given. Probably the safest theory to advance, and the one that I think is correct, is that the 12 gauge was the official one used by the manufacturers, and that the 13 and 14 were the result of private enterprise by people using large quantities of stamps, and they may possibly antedate the regularly perforated issue. This point can only be settled by copies being found on the original covers.

In commenting on the above it will save undue confusion if we state that the copy of the perforated 6d on laid paper to which Mr. King refers was proved to be a forgery as shown by the following extract from the American Journal of Philately for 1891:—

There is no longer any mystery in regard to the origin of that great rarity! the perforated 6 pence on laid paper, these stamps having been perforated for four or five years in the shop of Messrs. Benjamin, Sarpy & Co., Cullum street, London, who openly boast of having manufactured and sold those in the collection of the late Hon. T. K. Tapling and other prominent collectors.

G. W. MATTHEWS, MADISON, INDIANA

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—Another of our old
"Paquebot" friends has turned up, Bartlett Gatchell having shown us a cover with the above word handstamped in large letters over the current 2c United States stamp. The letter was mailed January 6 on the Ward Line steamer en route, and deposited in the post office at Havana, Cuba, January 12, six days later. These "Paquebot" letters are not uncommon in the West India mail, and simply indicate mail placed in the care of the purser of the steamer.

Henry Merlo shows a strip of the 1c stamps of the 1910 issue from the upper left hand corner of a sheet, the first stamp having a strong line of color across the temple, fully two millimeters long.

The current 2c stamp is now coming with the color showing through like the 3c recently noted and now common.

J. M. Bartels reports new envelopes
as follows:

Denom.	Die.	Size	Paper.	Wmk.	Kn.
1c	A	8	Amber	19	59
2c	C	5	White	19	87
*2c	A	2	White	20	94
2c	A ²	9	White	20	61
2c	E	13	Amber	20	89
4c	B	8	White	20	59

* Note size 2 with new low cut knife.

I. C. Greene has shown us the current 2c with pink back, both used and unused. Apparently, the ink used for printing these stamps, like the 3c chronicled some time since, contains some unusual chemical that strikes through the paper and shows through on the back. This appears even more plainly on soaked copies than on those that have not been used.

AFGHANISTAN.—A. C. Roessler sends us quite an exclusive bit of news from mysterious Afghanistan. This news he is sure cannot be obtained from anyone on this side of the Pond. As the mail between Afghanistan and India has been cut off and as the mails between India and England are rather uncertain, the continental papers are not likely to have this news early. Over a year ago, the WEEKLY chronicled upon Mr. Roessler's authority, a postal card issued by the Amir, showing his Highness, on the back of an elephant, tiger hunting.

This has now been issued and in addition a special adhesive has been put out for the sole purpose of mailing the card.
The card itself is of the usual size with a rather poorly made half-tone on one side; a line of Hindi beneath the cut.
On the reverse of the card, along the top is a line of native characters which we have been unable to have translated.
To the left are three lines which are obviously for the sender's name and address. In the place where the stamp usually goes is a box with apparently the Afghanistan equivalent for "Place stamp here." The stamp itself is 15x21 millimeters and is printed in the same shade of brown, as is employed in printing the card.

We have noticed three different half-tones:

1. A tropical garden, rustic work, arches. One noticeable thing is an arc light on a high pole.
2. Open tent with several hundred people dressed in European style. British soldiers.
3. Out-door scene. Amir at table serving tea.

AUSTRIA.—Lichtenstein.—The three stamps for these offices have now appeared on thin, unsurfaced paper.

CANADA.—We have been shown further specimens of the new 3c War Tax stamp of Canada by Arthur Barger, O.
Kendall and the New England Stamp
Co. Mr. Kendall corroborates Mrs.
Oughtred's statement regarding the unsatisfactory character of the makeshift, owing to the fact that the 2c and 3c will be of the same color, and liable to be mistaken one for the other, especially in a poor light.

NAURU.—According to the Postage Stamp stamps are to be overprinted for use in this island. The island lies near the Gilbert and Ellice group in the South Pacific.

POLAND.—Warsaw.—In regard to the Warsaw stamps noted last week, the following explanatory notes from A. O.
Tittmann will be of interest:

With the consent of the German Post Office authorities, the Citizens' Committee of Warsaw instituted a service for the delivery of all mail, and for this purpose issued a set of three stamps.
These were a 2 groszy for printed matter, 6 groszy for ordinary letters, and 10 groszy for letters weighing more than 25 grammes. The rate for ordinary letters was to have been 5 groszy, but this was considered insufficient. Therefore, the rate was raised to 6 groszy, and the 5gr stamp converted into a 6 groszy value by printing the figure "6" in two places over the old value. It is said that the 5gr stamps were not used as such without the overprint. The 2gr on 10gr and the 6gr on 5gr stamps are probably by this time obsolete, as the 2gr and 6gr values were to appear in altered designs and colors. The initials, "K. O. M. W." which appear on the stamps, stand for "Komitet Obywatelski Miasta Warszawsky" (Citizens' Committee of Warsaw). The 5gr shows the coat of arms of Warsaw and the 10gr the Polish Eagle. The cancelling stamp bears the inscription "K. O. M. St. W." at top and "Poczta Miejska" (Polish Mail) at the bottom. Mr. Tittmann says that "in Germany and Austria these stamps are the talk of the day, and there is a mild scramble for them."

THE MARKS STAMP CO.'S LIST.

The wholesale and retail pricelist just issued by the Marks Stamp Co. is a notable production and deserves more than an ordinary review. OUR COVER REBUS CONTEST.

It will be remembered that some months ago we inaugurated a contest for designs to be used in connection with the celebration of our 25th anniversary. Twenty-two designs were received and it was with difficulty that the winning entry was selected. In fact, two entries received the same award, but first honors were given Wm. H. Hoagland of Philadelphia.

A number of stamps are represented in this design and we want our subscribers to tell us what stamps are pictured in part and what there is about the general make-up of the design that makes it appropriate for the purpose it serves. Entries will be received up to February 1, and the best replies will be awarded certain prizes as follows:—

1st: U. S. Revenue Album in cloth, also, catalog. Value, $10. Donated by George J. Carter.

2nd: Ne Plus Ultra Loose Leaf Blank Album. Value, $4. Donated by the Scott Stamp & Coin Co.

3rd: Howes, "Canada", cloth bound, a standard work. Value, $4. Donated by the New England Stamp Co.

4th: "Stamps of the Philippine Islands", by F. L. Palmer and J. M. Bartels. Autographed copy. Price, $2.50. Donated by the J. M. Bartels Co.

5th: Economist loose leaf album. "The New York", in cloth with 80 leaves, quadrille lined. Price, $2.00. Donated by the Economist Stamp Co.

THE CANADA "XMAS" STAMP.

Canada was the only one of the dominions that considered the important step in the progress toward universal penny postage worthy of being indicated by a special postage stamp, and the stamp issued was that now familiar to every collector as the Christmas map stamp.

It was rather an ambitious venture to try and show the Empire on a postage stamp, for the Empire, as we are beginning to realise nowadays, is really quite a big concern; a postage stamp, on the other hand, is conveniently small. The Canadian Postmaster-General, then Mr. (afterwards Sir) William Mulock, formed the impression during a visit to the home country that we Britons really knew very little about the extent of the Imperial dominions, and of the great size of Canada compared with our own tight (no aspersions on the Liquor Control Board) little isle. He tried the Canadian artists for designs for a special stamp, but not one did he get to suit his taste, so he carried out a notion of his own, which was to demonstrate something of the vastness of the Britains beyond the seas. He is said to have roughed out the sketch himself of the map of the world on Mercator's projection, and an artist licked his design into shape for him.

The world on a stamp, with the British possessions coloured in true British red, was the result of the Postmaster-General's scheme of design; the text happily associates the introduction of Imperial Penny Postage with the Yuletide season—"Xmas 1898."

Opinions differ as to the appropriateness of the quotation, also inscribed on the stamp,

"We hold a vaster Empire than has been."

Punch was cheerfully sarcastic over the phrase which sounds so bumptious shorn of the context of the jubilee ode, "A Song of Empire," written by the Canadian poet, Sir Lewis Morris, in the diamond jubilee year, an ode the last

THERE'S AN EXTRA DAY THIS MONTH

Make it count! Do something unusual. Read this letter and then act at once.

"You ask me what I think about ads in St. Nicholas. Let me tell you an incident. I was recently at the Public Library at Forty-Second Street. I passed by a table at which was sitting a well-dressed lad, perhaps ten or twelve years old. I noticed that he had St. Nicholas open before him, and that he was reading the Stamp Page. Curiosity led me to watch him. When he had finished reading the editorial matter, he turned to the advertisements on the opposite page, and slowly, painstakingly, his eyes guided by a stubby finger laid upon the page, he followed down first one column and then the other. He read every ad, and he read them thoroughly.

"Now I advertise in certain Stamp Papers, but I do not believe that with them one reader in ten reads every ad. Moreover, I believe that ninety-nine per cent. of their readers already own the stamps I offer. But, with St. Nicholas, I believe that of your subscribers who are stamp collectors, ninety-nine per cent. read every ad, and I believe that not ten per cent. of those who read your page of stamp ads, have the stamps I offer. That is why I advertise in St. Nicholas.

"Boiled down, however, the real reason I use your columns is because of the results I get from them."

This man is in earnest. He knows. We are sincere. We know. Maybe we can't help you, but we would like to try. This includes every dealer that advertises—(auction dealers excepted) and some that don't. Wholesalers, specialists and others who think St. Nicholas is just an ordinary small-boy magazine are taking too much for granted. Will you celebrate the Leap Year by sending this slip?

THE STAMPS OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

I. Geographical and Historical.

The group of islands known as the Virgin Islands come under the main title and heading of the Leeward Islands—a large number of small islands grouped together in the British West Indies zone.

These islands are divided into five groups for the purpose of local legislation; the seat of government and residence of the governor-in-chief being at St. John's, Antigua.

The Leeward Islands are divided into the following groups:

- Antigua (including Barbuda and Redunda).
- St. Christopher and Nevis (and Anguilla).
- Dominica.
- Montserrat.
- Virgin Islands (British group).

Strictly speaking the appellation Virgin Islands includes St. Thomas, Santa Cruz, St. Johns and various small islets belonging to Denmark (Danish West Indies), not to mention Culebra and Crab Island which were taken from Spain after the Spanish-American War.

In these few notes we will deal with the British portion of the Virgin Islands only.

The British group consists of about 50 islands of varying sizes, out of a total of roughly 100 thickly studded islands and rocks. The islands form a connecting link between the Greater and Lesser Antilles: the British portion having an area of nearly 60 square miles and a population of 5000—of which number only about 150 are whites.

Tortola, Virgin Gorda and Anegada are the three most important islands, with Road Town (Tortola) as the capital. The population of the capital, however, is barely 400.

That portion of the Virgin Islands under British control was acquired in 1866.

The discovery of the islands by Columbus is described in Washington Irving's "Life of Columbus":—"Columbus having sailed from Cadiz on September 25th, 1493, on his second voyage of discovery landed on the 4th of November on an island which he named Guadeloupe, in honour of a convent of that name in Estramadura; he weighed anchor on the 10th . . . and soon came in sight of a great cluster of islands, to the largest of which he gave the name of St. Ursula and called the others the Eleven Thousand Virgins . . . he reached Hispaniola [Hayti] on the 22nd of the same month."

It is well-known that a great number of the West Indian Islands have been re-named—among them being Santa Ursula and the Eleven Thousand Virgins, which by their position and natural characteristics are obviously that branch of the Leeward Islands known as the Virgin Islands.

The Legend of "St. Ursula and the Eleven Thousand Virgins of Cologne" is one of those old stories built on slender foundations and handed down from generation to generation. Mr. Harland tells us that: "Simond, a Jesuit writer of the 17th century, acknowledged it to arise from the misreading of an ancient Latin manuscript, describing the martyrdom of two nuns named Ursula and Undecimella, who were captured and done to death by a horde of Huns about A. D. 384. The latter name was mistaken for undecimille, the Latin for 11,000, hence the legend, which, once having spread, the monks naturally did not put themselves out to contradict."

II. The Design of Mystery.

Upon the issue of the first stamps of the Virgin Islands much was written regarding what the design was actually meant to represent. In 1867 the Postmaster of Tortola wrote that "the Virgin Islands were discovered by Columbus on the Virgin's day, he accordingly named them after the Virgin; the twelve lamps represent the twelve primitive Christian charities."

This statement was quickly challenged by various writers of the period. "Feutonia"—a well informed writer—pointed out that there were no less than fifteen days in the year which might be designated "the Virgin's day," but on none of these dates was Columbus anywhere near Santa Ursula. "As to the real meaning of the device [on the stamps] which also constitutes the armorial bearings of such of the Virgin Islands as belong to Great Britain, I am of opinion that it represents the constellation Virgo, the Virgin, the sixth sign of the Zodiac, the latter fact well typified by her holding the sixth lamp, the twelve lamps symbolizing the twelve signs of the Zodiac. Notwithstanding the discrepancy between the seal and the stamp in the number of lamps on each side, she still holds the sixth lamp, if reckoned the reverse way . . . it is remarkable that the engraver actually had a seal given him for a pattern of the 4d and 1s stamps, bearing the figure of Justice; and it is further remarkable that the learned Sir Wm. Jones, describing an ancient Indian zodiac in the second volume of his Asiatic Researches mentions that Virgo is there represented carrying a lamp. . . . To sum up: my opinion is, that the lady represented on the pair of stamps first issued for the Virgin Islands, is the Constellation Virgo, the Virgin; while she on the last issued pair, is the Virgin Mary in her assumed glorified state, the Maria Virgo Assumpta of the Romish Church."

The name "Virgin Islands" (Insulae Virginum) means "Islands of Virgins" and not "Islands of the Virgin." This substantially affirms the interpretation of the design on the first stamps as given by "Feutonia," i. e., the Constellation of the Virgo.

The design for the first two stamps (1d and 6d 1866) was copied from a panel of the colonial seal. The figure depicted on the 4d and 1s stamps was taken, presumably, from the seal of some judiciary court, bearing a somewhat fanciful depiction of the Goddess of Justice—"full-faced, bandaged, crowned with stars, and gracefully draped in flowing robes with hanging sleeves; holding, as usual, a sword in her right, and scales in her left hand."

Impressions of this seal are known and Moens even included it in one or two editions of his catalogue (1868-69) as "Sceau de la justice."

III. Rare Stamps at Normal Prices.

The philatelic history of the Virgin Islands dates back to the year 1866 when the first two adhesives were put into circulation. Since that date many most interesting stamps have been issued; their quaint designs, colourings and straightforwardness making them very desirable acquisitions to all stamp albums.

It is worth while noting a really important point concerning the issues of the Virgin Islands—all the earlier issues are rarer than the catalogue quotations suggest. In postally used or mint condition these early emissions are much rarer than is generally supposed. The would-be specialist will be able to verify this point. He will be surprised that he cannot find nice copies (used or mint) of certain stamps, even if he is prepared to pay considerably above catalogue prices.

In reality most early Virgin Islands stamps are extremely scarce, and the low prices for many items in the catalogue may be attributed to the fact that these stamps do not, at present, enjoy the popularity which they undoubtedly deserve. Their time will come, however, and then many collectors who have blanks will regret that they did not "fill up" at present day prices.

The abnormal scarcity of many Virgin Islands stamps has attracted the attention of more than one shrewd philatelist so the odd "good thing" which ever turns up in a stock book or an auction quickly finds its way into one or two recognised channels.

The supplies sent out from England in the early days were, comparatively speaking, small, although at the same time more than sufficient for the postal requirements of the small population.

The truth of the matter was that the correspondence from these islands was practically nil, the frequent sendings of stamps about 1870 from this country being to meet the wants of the trade. The quantities of stamps imported by stamp dealers was small—in the light of modern importation—so the unused stamps were easily absorbed by collectors, whilst those kept on hand for the use of the inhabitants were used in such small numbers that postally used copies are generally about ten times as rare as unused. The present day market shows this clearly enough—unused the stamps (1866-90) are scarce; used they are rare.

In two instances only do the catalogues prices—for used as compared with unused specimens—show anything approaching the comparative degree of scarcity between the two.

Assuming that the quotations in our standard catalogues for unused Virgin Islands stamps are more or less correct (in 75% of the early issues they are undoubtedly too low), then the prices for postally used copies should, in a number of cases, be quadrupled; we will even go so far as to say that this increase does not represent the relative degrees of rarity in certain instances!

IV. Some Postal Statistics.

In order to fully emphasise our remarks upon the diminutive dimensions of the Virgin Islands postal organisation we herewith reproduce some statistics of interest.

Unfortunately there appears to be no reliable statistics available prior to 1900. The figures for the Leeward Islands group including the Virgin Islands (representing but a small fraction of the totals) are as follows:

	Revenue.	Expenditure.
1900	£3,771	£5,298
1901	4,008	5,454
1902	5,799	5,407
1903	7,762	6,835
1904	5,925	4,980
1905	6,353	3,835

V. General Notes.
The Commissioner of the Virgin Islands, formerly styled the President, holds a multitude of onerous positions.
In addition to his title of Commissioner
he is also Treasurer, Registrar General of Deeds, Births, Deaths and Marriages, Provost Marshal, Coroner, Manager Government Savings Bank, Deputy
Judge of the Summary Jurisdiction Court, District Magistrate, Harbour and Shipping Master, Postmaster General and sometimes Medical Officer!

The powers of the Commissioner are laid down by a Local Act. In the capacity of Magistrate he travels round the islands once a month holding Courts at Virgin Gorda, Jost Van Dykes and Anegada, and in case of any misunderstanding, etc., among "the local police" (consisting we believe of two constables) he settles the case. There is no Legislative body in the Virgin Islands
—the Governor being fully acquainted with the inhabitants makes all Local Acts himself which are passed by Council at Antigua.

During the absence of the Commissioner on his rounds as Magistrate, the Medical Officer acts in his stead. There is a non-official Executive body which acts on its own initiative. In the early days the Postmaster was a separate official, but this was later included on the long list of ex-officio duties of the Commissioner.

Mr. Smith tells us that "there is also a sub-postmaster at Virgin Gorda, but there are no inter-island postal arrangements. The exterior postal communication is by small sailing-craft to St.
Thomas, and mails are dispatched to St.
Thomas nearly every day. By the postoffice ordinance of 1860, the Governor has the authorisation to order and procure such number of postage stamps, of such colour and design and values as he shall deem fit, etc.

VI. British Used in Virgin Islands.
("A13" Tortola and "A91" Naval Station, Virgin Islands.)

Like so many of our Colonies, the Virgin Isles made use of ordinary un-surcharged contemporary British stamps prior to the issue of a special distinctive series. Adhesives thus employed can be distinguished by the postmark only.
The two "used abroad" cancellations in this instance were "A13" and "A91" in the usual well-known type.

VERY FINE AUCTION, FEB. 24TH

Our 204th Auction Sale will be held in Philadelphia at the Club Room of the Phila. Stamp Club on the evening of Thursday, February 24th, at 8 P. M. It will be rich in fine old issues of the 19th Century, including numerous Imperforate Pairs, Blocks, etc., of desirable countries like Sydney Views, first issues Victorias, etc. Also over 200 lots of United States.
The catalogs are "FREE" to Auction Buyers. Are you on our mailing list?

British stamps bearing these obliterationare of extreme rarity—in fact, they stand very high on the list of the rarest
"used abroads."

Tortola ("A13") is the principal of the Virgin group and it held the distinction (philatelic) of being the office with the smallest amount of correspondence in the British West Indies. This is sufficient evidence of the rarity of "A13" stamps! The postmark "A91" was employed in the Virgin Isles from 1859-71: in 1872 the number was transferred to Southsea, Hants.

Gibbons lists three stamps under "A13" and six under "A91". Both lists appear to be accurate as far as they go. The 5sh plate 1 (1867) is known cancelled
"A13", and we have seen a copy of the 9d straw (1865) used at the (V. I.) Naval Station. It is curious that the 5sh, issued after the first Virgin Isles stamps were in circulation, should have been used at all. The island issues at this time lacked any high value denominations and it is thus probable that a few odd copies of the British 5sh were kept in stock in case of any postal need.
One catalogue lists plates 1 and 2 of the 5sh used at Tortola. We have never seen or heard of a plate 2 with the "A13" postmark

A PHILATELIC LAY.

By BOSTONIAN.

The shades of night were falling fast
As 'cross the Common swiftly passed
A man who clasped tight as a vice
A stamp surcharged with this device:

A stranger stopped him as he sped
And in an anxious whisper said:
"Pray pardon, sir, but canst tell me
The meaning of this filigree?"—

Then each from out his pocket drew
A pocket stock book and the two
In transports of philatelic bliss Explained the which and why of this:

FINE APPROVAL SELECTIONS

FOR THE GENERAL COLLECTOR.

My approval books, containing Twentieth Century issues of South and Central American and British Colonial Countries, only, are all arranged chronologically, priced net, generally 50% and upwards discount from Scott's Catalog quotations.

Stocking only the issues above mentioned, I am able to carry a more complete stock with more of the really "hard-to-get" stamps, than the dealer who tries to carry a stock covering the entire world.

Being able to buy in larger lots, and by doing much direct importing, I can buy cheaper, and by selling on a strict cost plus reasonable profit basis, I can fill more spaces for less money than most other dealers.

In NICARAGUA, I have four books, containing about 350 varieties. Surcharges of 1911 to 1915, are practically complete, with some of the minor varieties. With one exception the Cordoba set is complete. Some prices are lower than any wholesale quotations.

Chile, one book of about 70 varieties; Venezuela and Uruguay, about 60 each.

In British Colonials, I have eight books, averaging 80 varieties each. These books contain a very nice line of the medium priced stamps, but are not as complete as the S. & C. A. Books.

From my practically complete stock of S. & C. A., I am well fitted to fill want lists, satisfactorily. Let me have a chance at your list of "stickers", that the other fellow couldn't fill.

THE STAMPS OF SAMOA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

The Samoa or Navigators' Islands are a group in the western Pacific between 400 and 500 miles north-east of Fiji. The group consists of nine islands, besides rocks and islets. All, except Rose Island, are volcanic, and are for the most part surrounded by coral reefs. They are very mountainous, well wooded, and of very fertile soil. Four islands alone are of any size, Savaii, Upolu, Tutuila, and Manua (the latter really consisting of four small islands). Savaii, the westernmost and largest, is about 40 miles in length by 20 in breadth and has an estimated area of 700 square miles. Upolu, about 8 miles south-east of Savaii, has an area of between 550 and 600 square miles; on its northern side is the bay and harbor of Apia, the center of all political and commercial life in the Samoan group. Upon this island, the famous novelist, Robert Louis Stevenson, made his home from 1889 and he is buried on the summit of Vailima Mountain there. On this island, also, is the peak of Tafua, 2500 feet high, which forms a perfectly round lava cone and crater, completely filled with a dense forest. Thirty-six miles south-east of Upolu is Tutuila, which possesses a well-sheltered harbor in Pango-Pango.

Samoa has just claims to the title of being the loveliest, most agreeable and productive of the South Sea group. The fertility of the soil is so rich, and the cultivation of tropical plants so delightfully simple, that the necessities of life can be obtained more easily than perhaps anywhere else in the world. The climate is moist and variable, the pleasantest time of the year being from May to November. During the rest of the year heavy rains and gales are frequent and occasionally disastrous hurricanes occur—indeed, in 1850, Apia was almost entirely destroyed by one. Earthquakes are frequent, but are as a rule not very severe.

The islands were visited by Bougainville in 1768, and from him they received the name of Iles des Navigateurs, as a tribute to the skill of the native boatmen. After 1889, Great Britain, Germany and the United States recognized the independence of the Samoan government, making provision for a supreme court and the regulation of taxation and land claims. By a further agreement between these three powers, in 1899, Upolu and Savaii were assigned absolutely to Germany and the other islands to the United States.

The Samoans belong to the brown Polynesian race and Captain Erskine, the well-known traveler, who explored some of the islands in 1850, says of them:—"The men were a remarkably fine looking set of people, and among them were several over six feet high and of Herculean proportions. One stout fellow attracted attention as soon as he crossed the gangway, and I found that his arm measured above the elbow 15½ inches, whilst that of one of our fore-castle men, probably the stoutest man in the ship, was but 14 inches. . . . The manly beauty of the young men is very remarkable; one in particular, who had decked his hair with the flowers of the scarlet Hibiscus, might have sat for an Antinous. Their features are often beautiful, although the nose is somewhat flatter than with us; but this, I believe, is done by the mothers in the children's early youth as an improvement to their appearance."

Mr. A. R. Wallace, the famous naturalist-traveler, comments on this practice of flattening the nose in his book, "Australasia", and gives other particulars as follows:—"This practice broadens, and to our eyes disfigures, the nose, which is naturally rather long and somewhat arched, as shown by portraits, and can hardly differ in its normal state from that of good-looking Europeans. The hair is dark brown or black, smooth and curly, and totally unlike either the frizzled mop of the Melanesian (i. e., the Papuans), or the perfectly straight black hair of the true Malay. They have little beard generally, though sometimes it grows quite freely. Their average stature is fully equal to that of Europeans. The form of their heads is broad, high, and flattened at the back; the latter feature may, however, be artificial. In character, they are cheerful and joyous, fond of dancing and song and a variety of amusements. Although ceremonious and stately in many of their customs, gloom and moroseness are contrary to their nature. They are very cleanly in all their habits, and have a taste for neatness and order such as never exists elsewhere among people in a barbarous state. Though without written language, they have abundance of songs and traditions, handed down from one generation to another, as among the ancient bards of our own country."

The Samoans were at one time warlike, though they never exhibited the savage thirst for blood found in the Fijians. In 1836 the group became a chief center of missionary zeal, and since then the character of the people has undergone a complete change. They are great orators and undaunted sailors. Their ceremonies were never polluted by human sacrifices, and cannibalism never became a habit with the Polynesians as a whole.

When visited by Captain Cook, the islands appear to have been very populous and the people remarkably healthy, but they have sadly diminished since, until now the native population of the German islands is less than 30,000. Such has been the effect of contact with European civilisation on a people who were declared by the great navigator, Captain Cook, to be "Liberal, brave, open and candid, without either suspicion or treachery, cruelty or revenge"; while the naturalist, Foster, who accompanied him, declared that he "never saw any of a morose or discontented disposition in the whole nation," and that, "they all join to their cheerful temper a politeness and elegance which is happily blended with the most innocent simplicity of manners." Unfortunately for its inhabitants, the Samoan islands were long the prey of foreign adventurers, whose intrigues caused a chronic native war which lasted from 1875 until the joint protectorate was formed by Britain, Germany and the United States.

According to Wallace, the traditions of the Polynesians point to Savaii, the largest of the Samoan Islands, as the home of their ancestors; and many peculiarities in language and local nomenclature indicate that the various branches of the race, from the Hawaiian Islands to Tahiti, and even to New Zealand, have migrated from this center. Raiatea, 120 miles west of Tahiti, is another mythological center to which many traditions refer, as well as Rarotonga, almost midway between Tahiti and Samoa. These may, certainly, be indications as to the process of dispersion of the Mahori race, but they are of practically no value in determining the origin or first entrance into the Pacific—an event which must be far too remote for legendary lore to afford any trustworthy evidence. Their antiquity is proved by language and by customs. The languages of the Samoans and other brown Polynesians are all dialects of one common tongue; and because many Malay and Javanese words occur in these dialects, it has been hastily assumed by some writers that the Mahoris are really Malays, and originally came direct from the Malay Archipelago, passing by the islands inhabited by the fierce Melanesians till they found unoccupied lands further to the east. But the best authorities are agreed that such was not the case, and assert that a careful study of the Mahori language shows that it is radically distinct from the Malay, both in grammatical structure and vocabulary. The actual Malay words do not exceed 3 or 4 per cent., and as these are mostly modern words, it is quite evident they have been assimilated into the language in quite recent times. Not less clear, according to Mr. Wallace, as evidence of the very remote antiquity of the Polynesians, is the absence of the art of making pottery among the whole of the race; for it implies they left the continent or the western islands before that art was known, its practice being so simple and at the same time so useful, that, once known, it would certainly never have been lost. But on all the great continents and continental islands, this is a universal and very ancient art. There is not a single tribe in the whole

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT STAMPS.

By FRANK E. GOODWIN.

The War Department Stamps.

The stamps of the War Department follow closely in design those of the departments which have been described in previous chapters. These were first printed by the Continental Bank Note Company in 11 denominations, including the seven cent. The design contains the initials "U." and "S." in the left and right hand upper corners respectively, with "War" and "Dep't" under these.

Dies were made and plates contracted for early and the stamps were printed and delivered between May 24 and July 1, 1873. They were issued for use on the latter date. The manufacturers delivered 440,500 stamps prior to July 1st.

The following plate numbers were used:

1c	No. 48	12c	No. 54
2c	No. 35	15c	No. 87
3c	No. 32	24c	No. 86
6c	No. 60	30c	No. 81
7c	No. 102	90c	No. 89
10c	No. 79

The stamps made by the Continental Bank Note Company were printed on hard paper with yellowish gum, and come in the following shades:—pale rose red, rose red, dull rose red, pale brown rose, and deep brown rose.

A number of denominations are found on vertical and horizontal ribbed paper. The three cent war department is also found on double paper.

Upon the consolidation of the Continental Bank Note Company with the American Bank Note Company, all denominations except the 7c, 15c, 24c and 90c, were printed by the latter company on soft paper.

Deliveries were made as follows:

In 1873,	1,685,200
In 1874,	1,540,000
In 1875,	2,317,500

Stamps were made and delivered in smaller quantities each succeeding year up to 1884.

Collectors should not overlook the addition of specimens and proofs which may now be obtained at prices lower than those of the future, no doubt.

Specialists will find a great deal of pleasure and some profit in collecting the town cancellations and dates as the war department stamps were in use in every army post throughout the country at that time. Some of these "Fort" cancellations are unique and are well worth the collector's while.

The Treasury Department Stamps.

The general design was followed in the stamps of the Treasury Department. Plates for 11 denominations were made, from one cent to 90 cent, including the seven cent which is missing in some of the departments. The word "Treasury" waves over the medallion and "U. S."

of the Malay Archipelago but what possesses it; and there is evidence in many parts of the world that it dates far back into prehistoric times. In Eastern Asia, where it attained a high development much earlier than in Europe, it is certainly of extreme antiquity. Already mention has been made of the tall stature, curly hair, well formed and rather prominent features, and joyous and laughter loving dispositions of the Samoans and Polynesians generally—all of which characteristics widely separate them from true Malays. Yet they have many characteristics of an Asiatic race, and it therefore seems probable that they came originally, but at a very remote epoch, from some part of Southern Asia, and that they found the islands more or less occupied by dark Melanesians, whom they have displaced, and with whom they partially intermixed.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

Samoa, the youngest of the German colonies, used the ordinary unsurcharged German stamps of the 1889 issue for a short time after the Samoa Treaty of 1899 had given her sole rights to the larger portion of the group. In 1900, these same six values were surcharged "Samoa" reading diagonally upwards from left to right.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

The surcharged stamps had but a short life, for late in 1900 the colony was supplied with the complete set of thirteen values of the ship type in common with the other German possessions. These call for no special remarks and we have only to record the different denominations.

and "Dep't" at left and right below the word treasury. These stamps, as was the case with other departments, were printed between May 24 and July 1, 1873, and were issued for use on the latter date.

The stamps were made by the Continental Bank Note Company and were printed on hard white paper. There were delivered and ready for use to July 1, 1873, 6,317,500 stamps.

Plate numbers are as follows:

1c	No. 44	12c	No. 46
2c	No. 42	15c	No. 84
3c	Nos. 29-39	24c	No. 134
6c	No. 51	30c	No. 69
7c	No. 103	90c	No. 61
10c	No. 58

These come in the following shades: pale yellow brown, yellow brown, brown and dark brown.

The following varieties exist: Ribbed paper, so-called, in most denominations; on double paper, 3c, 10c and 90c.

Stamps of the Treasury Department were printed by the American Bank Note Company after the consolidation of that concern and the Continental Bank Note Company. These were on soft porous paper in a velvety brown shade and all denominations have been found printed if all reports are accepted by the American Bank Note Company, except 2c, 7c and 24c.

From the beginning of printing these stamps to December 31, 1873, there were printed and delivered 18,916,400 stamps. In 1874, the only stamps of the Treasury Department printed were the six cent of which 684,000 were delivered. In 1875 there were 5,398,500 stamps delivered.

An interesting section of the collection of these stamps is that of the specimen and proofs. These should not be overlooked and ought to be collected and completed now while prices are within reason. The usual error in the printing of the word "specimen" occurs.

An opportunity is afforded the collector to specialize in town cancellations and year dates. The cheapness of the stamps and the fact that they were used in many sections of the country allows of this form of specialism. These will likely come in handy at some future date when the history of departmental stamps is more thoroughly written.

U. S. TO START AERIAL MAIL SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—An aerial mail service will be started as soon as Congress appropriates the necessary money. The Post Office Department is considering several routes, including one from Key West to Havana. This will require an over-sea flight of 100 miles.

Postmaster-General Burleson believes the aeroplane will solve many postal problems.

EDITORIAL.

Here They Are—In the Scott catalogue which recently appeared, the 1/2, 1, 1 1/2, 2 and 3 cent proprietary are included in the list of the current United States revenue stamps and in the Annual Report of the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, these stamps are included. Early last year, when the WEEKLY included these values in its list of the new revenues, it was declared with every show of reason by many well-informed correspondents, usually, that these certain stamps had not been issued. However, it was shown by the appearance of the 2 cent proprietary which was sent in to us from different sections of the country that it would have to be excepted from the ruling as it had certainly been printed and issued. The 2 cent is the only one of these five stamps that is priced in the catalogue, it may be added. The remaining denominations at least were prepared and though they have not been sent out from Washington, these "mystery stamps" must be reckoned with. The stamps exist; we have seen them.

* * *

Figuring It Out—A study of the proprietary tax schedule will prove that there is no primary need for the 1/2, 1, 1 1/2, 2 and 3 cent varieties and so it may be contended that the preparation of them was not really necessary as fulfilling a proprietary taxation need. To account for their existence one may resort to theoretical conjecture; and a fair supposition is that the values were in the nature of an emergency issue. Almost up to the time of the actual issue of the wines and cordials series, it was predicted that even by working under pressure with all the extensive resources of the Bureau at command, it would not be possible to distribute the wines and cordials stamps at the beginning of the tax period, December 1, 1914. In fact, the Washington correspondent of one of the great newspapers in his despatch published a day or two before the tax became operative said that the proprietary stamps would be used for payment of the wine tax as the wines and cordials stamps could not be got ready in time. Thanks to the facility of the offset printing process, as Director Ralph gratefully acknowledges in his report, the third series was ready for use on the appointed day. The surmise is that in order to be fortified against the possibility of failure to issue special wines and cordials stamps, complementary values were included in the proprietary set but in view of the facility of action of the Bureau, the emergency stamps were not needed. We have been shown the different values under discussion and so, we know that some of these stamps are available for collectors.

EUGENE KLEIN, 142 So. 15th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Explanation—Mr. Roscoe L. Wickes, Chicago, states that these stamps were printed before it was decided to issue the wines and cordials set as separate stamps; and consequently, the department proceeded to print what was then to be known as proprietary wine stamps, so-called, in denominations ranging from one-eighth to twenty cents, the set including stamps of the denominations that would be used for wines and cordials tax payment. When later it was decided that a distinctive set of stamps would be made for wines and cordials, naturally the denominations whose use was not called for under the proprietary tax were not included in the proprietary list on the printed slip that was given out at the revenue offices.

Adhesive—In a recent issue, under the heading, "No Such Animals," we said: "We have been asked to account for the existence of an entire envelope bearing the three cent, U. S. 1857-60 issue, with the cancellation of Wells, Fargo & Company. An envelope of the kind as well as those with steamboat cancellations and adhesive stamps should not exist, strictly speaking." While the idea of adhesive stamps is not brought forward so forcefully as it should have been in this opening sentence, yet the context of the editorial showed that envelopes bearing adhesive stamps and not stamped envelopes were under notice. The cover on which our remarks were based bore the three cent, 1857-60 adhesive with the Wells, Fargo & Company cancellation, in blue. Several readers have called attention to Wells, Fargo & Company franked envelopes, with and without the stamped envelope, after having read the paragraph and we are pleased to have received from Mr. H. B. Phillips, Berkeley, California, a director of the American Philatelic Society, the letter: "Referring to a recent article in the WEEKLY, 'No Such Animals,' I enclose a copy of Vol. III, No. 2, Filatellic Facts and Fallacies, for November, 1894, and refer you to pages 34-35 thereof for an article by myself that is pertinent to the subject of your article referred to." Mr. Phillips is an authority (and the term is used advisedly) on western franks and his compilation of them issued in 1895 is the only standard we have of these mementos that so nicely combine the postal and the historical. Further, Mr. Phillips conducted a department regularly in Filatellic Facts and Fallacies, one of the really valuable philatelic journals that represented San Francisco in years gone by, in which western franks and locals were discussed instructively and interestingly.

Express Carriers—In the paper that Mr. Phillips sent us there are "Notes on Some Early Provisionals," that tell how many western express carriers organized a profitable business in establishing postal communication with points that the government department, owing to distance from Washington and the sudden fluctuations in population characteristic of mining sections, had not established connections with. Mr. Phillips says that while there was a governmental regulation "that all letters carried by private expresses should be enclosed in Government stamped envelopes and fully prepaid," it sometimes happened that the agents while wishing to observe this requirement could not always do so. Mr. Phillips says: "The easiest and almost universal way out of such a difficulty was had in recourse to the hand stamp for improvising franks for sale to the public, for marking up letters deposited in plain envelopes or without envelopes, for franking letters enclosed in plain Government envelopes deposited for transmission, the expressage on which had been paid in coin." The "Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, San Fran., 16 May," that we have referred to as canceled on the adhesive stamp on envelope does not come under the foregoing classification but as a correspondent says, "In California, Wells, Fargo & Company at one time were granted extraordinary postal privileges; and in some respects, the company vicariously was the postal department." As the envelope under notice was sent from San Francisco (we infer) to Sacramento, it may be accounted for under this explanation.

Another—Recently, the Chicago Daily News published a letter from a prisoner of war, a Belgian soldier in a detention camp in Holland, asking for donations of stamps in order that time might be made to pass more pleasantly through his indulgence in stamp collecting. The writer says: "Mr. Editor: As a Belgian soldier prisoner of war, I am taking the liberty of sending you a little request. I was collecting postage stamps in Belgium and my son, too. Having much time to spend in camp, I would

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 WEST 42ND ST., NEW YORK CITYSOME NOTES.By PERCY MCG. MANN.

Capt. Karl Pember's discovery of the double transfers of the current 12-cent United States stamp, perforated 12, has, naturally, caused many students of United States stamps to look for the varieties. I, among others, have given some the once over and good fortune smiled, because I have been discovering many of the doubles.

In fact, I have found a triple entry of the transfer roll evident in the same 12-cent stamps. It occurs in the lower right pane of plate No. 6900. To the left of it the next stamp is a normal one, and to the right a double is found.

I have also examined quite a quantity of the 12-cent stamps perforated 10, and I find that the double transfers occur on them also. This is a natural course of events, because the same plates were used both for stamps perforated 12 and those perforated 10.

Although it may have been chronicled, a recent notice that the 50-cent stamps had not appeared yet with the 10 perf. causes me to let you know that such a stamp has appeared. Dropping a copy into benzine, I was confused by the fact that it was without a watermark. I would have passed it by, thinking that it might perhaps have an end of a letter faintly watermarked somewhere near its edge, but for the circumstance that I saw the announcement in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, where it was stated that our United States stamps were coming without watermark.

Regarding the latter, there seems to be some reason for such a thing as unwatermarked stamps come to pass as a philatelic event of the War. Collectors surely know that the dandy rolls, used for impressing the watermark in paper during its manufacture, especially the dandy rolls used for the United States postage stamp paper, have come from England. Now, England at war, and in need of every scrap of brass and copper, it seems probable that few, if any, dandy rolls, which are made of brass and copper or brass only, are coming from that country. The American paper manufacturers' dandy rolls are perhaps worn out and if they cannot be replaced, since the war continues, the result is that watermarked postage stamp paper is, at least temporarily nil.

F. MCCREERY, ROCKVILLE, CONN.THE WORTHINGTON COLLECTION.

A well-informed correspondent in the United States writes us as follows:—

"Mr. Worthington has disposed of his collections of New South Wales, New Zealand, and Victoria, and some others. In the first-named country he possessed a beautiful block of four, unused, of the Sydney View One Penny, Plate I, which has been sold to Mr. Henry Duveen. I had an opportunity to secure it, but the price was a high one, although I think the piece was worth it.

"Mr. C. L. Pack has secured from Mr. Worthington's collection the pick of the used Sydney Views, so far as they were needed for his plates, and the same applies to the collection of Laureates. This gentleman has also secured the fine Eight Pence Laureate—partially completed—plate, and a beautiful lot of Registered stamps."

Our correspondent has good grounds for believing that only relatively small portions of Mr. Worthington's collection will be disposed of, which will be, we believe, news to his many friends on both sides of the Atlantic.—London Philatelist.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels reports the following new envelopes:

Denom.	Die.	Var.	Size.	Paper.	Knife.	Wmk.
1c	A	13	Amber	89	19
2c	A	3	Blue	92	19

BRAZIL.—Maury's Collectionneur reports that Brazil issued a stamp Nov. 13, 1915, to commemorate the Tricentenary of the discovery of Cape Frio in 1615. The stamp is a large oblong, with a view of Cape Frio, "Tricentenario Cabo Frio" above and "1615 13 de Novembro 1915" below the picture. At the bottom of the stamp are the words "Brazil" and "Correio" in large letters, separated by a shield bearing "100 Reis." A conventional border of foliage completes the design.

Adhesive.

100r blue green.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—According to Hermann Focke, the 1c green, with overprint of purple network, issued early in December, is just coming through the mails.

CHILE.—The latest provisional from Chile has been shown us by Hermann Focke, the 2c green on white envelope of 1911 having been surcharged "10" in three places in large figures, with "Diez Centavos" below the stamp.

Provisional Envelope.

10c on 2c green on white; black surcharge.

DENMARK.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly reports that the 1 ore and 5 ore values of the official set and the 5k value of the postage set have been seen on the paper watermarked multiple crosses.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly supplies the missing links in the locally printed set, overprinted "1915" in carmine, and we find that Mr. Focke's prediction in No. 1291 as to the probable colors is completely borne out. We have already noted the ½c, 1c, 2c, and 20c.

Adhesives.

5c lilac and black.
10c blue and black.
50c green and black.
1p orange and black.

ECUADOR.—Another stamp of the design of the 1911-13 set has been issued in a single color, like the 5c recently noted. The 3c is the victim this time, and as the new printing is in jet black, it presents a sombre appearance, compared with the original issue. As we have but one stamp, we are unable to say whether it was printed in one impression. Jacques Krebs has shown us the stamp.

Adhesive.

3c black.

FRENCH INDIA.—A new printing of the Red Cross stamps for this Colony has been made, the only difference from the original printing being the position of the Red Cross and new value. As only 20,000 were overprinted, they will be comparatively rare.

HAYTI.—Hermann Focke has now shown us the 50c claret of 1904, sur-

MEXICO.—In a recent note, Roy S. Farley relates a little experience which well illustrates the difficulties attending philatelic activities in Mexico, even when one proceeds along legitimate lines. We quote: "Nine months or so ago, I sent a letter to the Postmaster at La Paz, Southern California, enclosing a five peso bill and requesting him to forward the value in stamps of 'Distrito Sur. de la Baja Cal.' printing. Under date of June 7, 1915, the Postmaster replied, returning the money and stating that there were none of the stamps available." This letter was duly registered and postmarked at La Paz, June 7, but was not received in Ensenada until January 4 of this year, when the "Certificado" postmark of that office was placed on the cover. Later postmarks were stamped at San Diego, Cal., January 8, and Colton, Cal., January 10. Seven months to go a matter of 1200 miles! Safe, but slow? It may be interesting to note that the cover was the 10c blue envelope of 1910, with head of Hidalgo, and in addition was franked with a 20c stamp of the 1910 issue, overprinted "Gobierno Constitucionalista."

We are indebted to S. A. Ware and Thomas J. Gabriel for further information regarding the perforated 10c stamp of the recent issue. According to both correspondents, the perforated 10c is in a darker shade than the rouletted one. Mr. Ware mentions many other points of difference, including a hard, smooth, semi-transparent paper, much whiter than the rouletted, with the whole design changed in detail and cleaner cut.

Hermann Focke sends us the 1p value of the engraved series, issued from Mexico City by the Carranza Government. This stamp is of the same size and shape as the 40c recently noted, but is printed in two colors. The frame is conventional, but the centre shows the Light-house at Vera Cruz. The title is printed below the frame to the left, and the name of the printer to the left.

Adhesive.

1p yellow brown and black.

Mr. Focke also reports the 2c and 5c of the lithographed set as coming perforated 12, and S. A. Ware reports the 2c in the same form.

PERU.—Jacques Krebs has shown us two new provisionals, the 12c of 1905 and the 10c of 1907 having been surcharged with new values and date, "1915" in deep lake.

Provisional Adhesives.

THE 10c U. S. 1890, 1894-8.

By A. B. SLATER, Slocums, R. I.

Referring to the article by R. McP. Cabeen on page 16 of your issue of 8th inst., and to the three remarkably well drawn illustrations, I wish to say in response to his last sentence that I have a few die (not plate) proofs from the die referred to and showing its several stages. Each one is in the normal color of the stamp of the period represented, and all have wide margins. They are as follows:—

No. 1.—Type of 1890 (no triangles) showing oval and corner ornaments as per Cabeen's upper figure. (Plates E 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30.)

No. 2.—Type of 1890 (no triangles) showing oval and corner ornaments as per Cabeen's lower figure. (I believe no plate was made showing this stage of the die.)

No. 3.—Type of 1894-5 (with triangles) showing oval and corner ornaments as per Cabeen's lower figure (Proof in green).

HUB POSTAGE STAMP CO., 345A Washington St., Boston, Mass.

No. 4.—Type of 1898 (in brown with triangles) on careful examination with glass is of same figure as No. 3 but cursory examination would class it as like Cabeen's middle figure as the lines inside the white oval are not missing but appear to be much reduced. This could be intentionally done on the die only by grinding or otherwise cutting down the face of the whole die which is out of the question, but possibly might have been done in the process of making the transfer rolls if the die were not as hard as it should be. The proof prints are all clear and sharp so it is not a case of imperfect printing. I have in my collection pairs of the orange brown stamps showing in the same pair both the middle and lower types of Cabeen's but this is due only to defective printing or wear of plate. Won't some plate number collector give us list of plates specifying types?

THE FIRM OF R. ROBERTS.

Last week we introduced to our readers a new advertiser in the person of R. Roberts, 60 Strand, London, England. Mr. Roberts was for over seventeen years connected with the firm of W. H. Peckitt and will be remembered as an attendant at the great International Stamp Exhibition held at New York.

Mr. Roberts has a very high class stock and also specializes in new issues. His advertising will be found in alternate issues of the WEEKLY and a special position has been assigned him on our new issues page.

We give Mr. Roberts a hearty welcome and can most cordially recommend him to our many readers.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER V—(Continued).

With regard to the varieties perforated 13 and 14—while these are undoubtedly rare, all the evidence strongly points to the fact that they are unofficial varieties, a statement, we believe, which has never been seriously combated by students of the early Canadian stamps.

Thus, most of the "contrary" evidence adduced by Mr. King carries no weight with it at all. The most interesting point he raises is the fact that, though the 7½d and 10d denominations were current at the same time as the ½d, 3d and 6d, these values were not perforated. So far as the 10d is concerned this seems all the more strange when it is considered that one supply of this value was certainly printed after September, 1857, the date of the Report mentioning the adoption of perforation.

Mr. Howes has made diligent search through official records and carefully scanned itemised reports of more or less petty expenditures, and he was unable to find any reference whatsoever to a disbursement such as would have been necessary had the Government purchased a perforating machine or had the stamps perforated by some private concern. It is, therefore, unquestionable that the natural course—i. e., that the manufacturers should perforate the stamps—was the one followed.

The real root cause of all the problems surrounding these perforated stamps seems to lie in the general acceptance of the assumption that they were issued in 1857 or early in 1858—an assumption that appears to be entirely devoid of the support of tangible facts when the matter is scrutinised thoroughly. Mr. Howes has delved into the subject with his usual thoroughness and his deductions are so well founded that we imagine no unbiased student will venture to do other than agree that his findings are fully borne out by the history of the stamps so far as we know it. We, therefore, make no apology for reproducing his arguments in full:—

The date usually assigned to the appearance of the perforated stamps is January, 1858. The London Society gave simply "1857," which is apparently set down merely because they have just quoted the announcement from the Postmaster General's Report for that year. Evans and Moens, in their catalogues, both name the date as November, 1858. Unfortunately, no more authoritative statement has been found, except that in Messrs. Corwin and King's article they say "Mr. Hooper positively states that it took place in January, 1858." Mr. John R. Hooper was at that time (1890) connected with the Canadian Post Office Department at Ottawa and took pains to look up much information for the above-mentioned gentlemen. His reasons for the "positive statement" are not given, and inasmuch as he is quoted elsewhere as saying that "the records of the Post Office Department are silent as to where this perforation was performed and by whom," and also seems a little uncertain in some other details, we feel that further confirmation is needed.

In our table above we have given the supplies received after the 30th September, 1857, and deducted the remainders so as to have the actual number issued. The 10d has already proved a stumbling block, for it was not perforated at all! Next we find the 6d to the number of 150,000, when the total issue, including the laid paper, was but 400,000; yet the catalogue value of the imperforates is some $6 for each variety, and of the perforated stamp at least $30! Can anyone doubt that all these 150,000 6d stamps were not perforated? In the case of the 3d we have one and a third millions to compare with a total issue of three and a half millions—about a third in the supposed perforated class. Yet the catalogue value of the latter is $2.50 against 36 cents for the wove paper imperforate alone. With the ½d stamp there are two millions against a total of three and a third millions, or about two to one in favor of the supposed perforated stamps, yet the latter are double the catalogue price of the former! The only conclusion to be drawn from these regularly appearing inconsistencies in each value is that all the supplies after 30th September, 1857, were not perforated, as the 10d stamp very glaringly intimates!

If this be so, is it not possible that the order to perforate the new supplies was given to the manufacturers much later than has hitherto been thought to be the case? It hardly seems likely that this improvement would be ordered for a few supplies and then dropped, only to re-appear a year and a half later as a permanent feature of the new set. Once adopted it was more than likely to be retained.

Let us see, then, just for curiosity's sake, what the supplies of the last six months of issue yield us for data. For the ½d we find 850,000 roughly, with 60,000 remainders. Call it 800,000 issued which, if perforated, would be a quarter of the total issue of ½d stamps, or a ratio to the imperforates of one to three. This is not so far away from the catalogue ratio of two to one (inversely, of course,) in the value of the perforated stamps. With the 3d stamp we have 450,000 roughly, with 20,000 remainders, say 430,000 issued. Of a total issue of 3,500,000 this represents one-eighth, or a ratio of one to seven. The inverse ratio of seven to one for catalogue value comes pretty close when we compare $2.50 with 36 cents! In the case of the 6d there are 70,000, less 17,500 remainders, or 52,500. This is approximately one-eighth the total issue of 400,000, or again a ratio of one in seven. The inverse ratio of seven to one for a catalogue value would make the perforated stamp list $42 with the imperforate at $6. But both laid and wove paper 6d stamps list at approximately $6, whereas, if all had been issued on but one variety of paper, we might find, perhaps, a single list price of, say $4. With this as a basis, the catalogue value of $30 for the perforated 6d is in as close agreement with our supposition as are the others. And, best of all, the second supply of the 10d stamp is disposed of without any difficulty whatever under this hypothesis!

It may be argued that reasoning thus from catalogue prices is too uncertain to prove of value. Granted in many cases. But here is an issue from fifty to sixty years old; the stamps were regularly used in increasing numbers during their years of issue; they have always been popular and eagerly collected, so that the stock in existence has been pretty well handled and pretty well distributed. Under these conditions the catalogue prices should by this time reflect fairly accurately the relative rarity of the main varieties of each stamp at least; and it is this relative rarity that we are after in order to approximate the original supplies of the main varieties. The result is certainly of more than mere interest, the agreement being such that we are tempted to lay down the following propositions in regard to the perforated stamps for further proof or disproof:—

First. The regular perforation (gauge 12) was done by the manufacturers and applied to the last requisitions previous to the change to decimal stamps.

Second. The date of the supposed issue of the perforated stamps should be changed from January, 1858, to November, 1858, or January, 1859.

Third. The quantities of perforated stamps issued are placed approximately at:—½d, 789,440; 3d, 428,200; 6d, 52,422. In further support of the above postulates, we must say that every cover bearing any one of the three perforated stamps which we have been able to get a satisfactory date from has been postmarked in 1859! Not one has yet been seen which bore a date in 1858 even, and one 6d from the Seybold collection, which was dated at Brantford, December 29, 1857, turned out to be bad. Of course, perforated stamps are hard to find on original covers, but it is curious that so far not one has upset the theory we have laid down.

These three perforated stamps do not provide much variation in the quality of the paper. Most of the stamps are found on a hard wove paper, varying slightly in thickness, and though the ½d and 3d are listed on ribbed paper, we venture to doubt that this is a true ribbed paper for the reasons set forth in our last chapter.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—"The first meeting of the Pass City Stamp Exchange Society (El Paso, Tex.) was held Jan. 19. We are coming finely and expect to have a larger attendance next meeting, as other collectors have signified their intention of coming."—W. E. DOWSER.

—"We beg to call your attention to an attempt to swindle stamp dealers. About Dec. 15 a letter (on engraved stationery, with picture of large building) was received from H. F. Adams, P. O. B. 608, Liberty, N. Y. He requested a good selection, saying that he could spend up to $5 each time. Inasmuch as he wrote on this H. F. Adams Co. engraved stationery, indicating a large wholesale grocery business, selection was sent him and letter was returned stamped "unclaimed." Wrote to the postmaster at Liberty for explanation and received the following answer: "Under misrepresentation, H. F. Adams did rent box 608 in this office. He is not in the grocery business in this place nor in any other. Under the advice of our Post-Office Inspector, we have held up his mail, that is why your letter has been returned. We have caused investigation to be made and find that he has not told the truth in any statement he has made to us."—THE STAMP SHOP, Chicago.

be familiar to many WEEKLY readers, as he has advertised considerably with us.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Chas. H. Hennann (13), Raymond V. Seaman and H. E. Crede (2).

—E. F. Blackmarr has purchased the stock of P. W. Riedell and commences this week an advertising campaign by using our columns. Mr. Blackmarr comes well recommended and we hope he will get a fair share of WEEKLY business. Mr. Blackmarr's address is:—4609 Cambridge St., Duluth, Minn.

—We do not usually review auction catalogs but the one on our desk from the Franklin Stamp Co. listing the contents of the sale to be held Friday and Saturday, Feb. 18 and 19, is so unusually interesting that it seems deserving of review. The sale was arranged and cataloged by Percival Parrish and consists of specialized Papua, specialized Netherlands and colonies, together with a fine general collection especially strong in 20th century. The listing of the Papua collection is a very comprehensive work and is accompanied by an article written by Wm. H. Matthes giving a specialized list of "The Main Varieties of the Bi-Colored Papuan Stamps." We congratulate the firm upon the catalog it has produced.

—F. W. McCreery of Rockville, Conn., resumes his advertising this week. Mr. McCreery used the WEEKLY last spring for a considerable period of time. He was, however, compelled to enter a hospital for a serious operation and now that he has returned home he again takes space in our columns. His numerous correspondents will join with us in sincere wishes for his speedy recovery.

—In the Popular Science Monthly for February is an article "Mining the Air Against Zeppelins" written by Carl Dienstbach. It occupies the leading place in the magazine and is of interest to philatelists in that the writer throws cold water upon the bomb-carrying balloons invented by Jos. A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia. It will be remembered that some months ago the WEEKLY stated that Mr. Steinmetz had succeeded in securing favorable consideration of his invention by the English military authorities.

—"Referring to complaints against Charles L. Hall of this city, which you forwarded to the Department at Washington, I have to inform you that I caused the arrest of Hall on the 20th instant on the charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Therefore, kindly forward to me direct any additional complaints against this party which come to your attention."—Inspector in Charge, Chicago, Ill.

THE CONVERSION OF EDDY FYNE.

By Edwin B. Hill.

The first time I saw Eddy Fyne he was slumbering in my hammock. On the ground, at his side, sat Jimmy O', deep in a game of solitaire. They had ridden in before daylight, silently staked out their horses, and patiently awaited signs of life in my shack. There was none, for I was asleep on my cot, the far side of the tent-house, in the open. When I awoke in the gray dawn, I ambled around the corner of the shack. From the contour of Jimmy's back, I knew there was something adrift in that brain of his besides solitaire. It couldn't bode good for Jimmy's companion.

Eddy had a sweetly childish face,—also the reddest hair and the curliest I had ever seen. Also, he was the typical cowpuncher even in sleep.

As soon as Jimmy O' heard my footsteps, without turning his head or saying "hello!" he began his usual monologue.

"As I was tellin' my recumbent an' slumberin' friend, you are the most hospitable man off the range. You 'low us to occupy your best hammock; you permit me to play solitaire on the spot where your lawn refuses to grow; you let us feed an' anchor our cayuses anywhere we opine; you sure grub us like men when we ought to eat husks with the swine."

Jimmy rolled a cigarette, deftly lighted a match with his fingernail, ostentatiously, however, touching it to Eddy's curls, and then resumed:

"And you let us read your papers an' books an' look at your stamps. Now Eddy, here, opines he hates stamps, so I bought a book—'Care an' Feedin' o' Infants'—when I was over in Phoenicia las' month. Then I played poker with Eddy, loser to read the book. Nine games I won, so far, off Eddy. He sure has got the infant dope properly broke. Why, las' week they was a Mex. kid at El Rancho Chiquita had colic or something—fit to die. Eddy saved his life, all account o' them poker games he lost. I tell you, Eddy's some doctor. Took charge o' that kid's grub an' his ma's diet an' now—now you ought to see him—the kid."

Eddy, showing signs of awaking, Jimmy promptly yelled, "Yi! Yah!" in his ear. Eddy immediately rolled out of the hammock, hit the ground full length, gasped for breath, and finally sat up, speechless.

"Some day he'll be hammock-broke," said Jimmy, with his slow grin. "Meantime, seein' he's shed his gun, we're safe."

Eddy rose slowly to his feet, was properly introduced and, at Jimmy's instigation, explained why he chose the hammock instead of the ground for his slumbers.

"You see, it's this way. Jimmy O', here, was brought up in a hammock, holdin' hands bein' his strongest point."

"Yep. Poker hands," interjected Jimmy O'.

"Me, I was born on the range," continued Eddy.

"Nursed by a wolf, like the Roman twins, which makes him so fierce," grinned Jimmy.

"An' this hammock game continues new to me," completed Eddy.

Then Eddy looked at his disenchanted again, crawled in carefully, and, to Jimmy's sharp—"in agin—an' out agin"—promptly rolled out the opposite side, flop.

"Me—I stick to the ground," Eddy declared, finally, as he sagged against the cool sides of the water barrel.

"So I see—so I see," said Jimmy. "Which causes me to recall the time thet Michigan kid rode the range for four months an' four days, because his pa owned the ranche, an' the kid an' he was some sore at each other, all on account o' a girl. Now the kid had ideas, an' he was hammock-broke—used to sit in one o' nights, an' swing an' swing till he near swung himself to sleep—him an' the girl. The kid had ideas, too, as I said before. But—ride! Say! he wouldn't learn horse in 'leven-teen years. Swim, though, like a fish, an' always in the water when he wasn't in the saddle. Now me—I used to swim nine strokes er more in my innocent youth—"

"—which was innocent in a pre-vi-ous existence," interpolated Eddy.

Jimmy O' rolled another cigarette, lighted the match via Eddy's hair, and swept on with his narrative.

"Rio Salada is sure tame up Blue Point way, except in flood-time. Then she's worse'n an outlaw broncho. Well, one morning the river come up flyin',—rose 'leven feet—me on one side, with a big bunch o' cattle, an' the kid on the other with a big bunch o' grub. Say! I near choked I was so hungry—an' 'leven feet o' water only a stone's throw between. Me—I know the ole Rio Salada. The kid don't. Well, sir, as we sat there, lookin' calm an' pleasant an' feelin' properly unfit, along comes a dead sheep. Then another. Then more sheep. Then a burro, laigs up.

"When I see that burro, I knew what's next. An' then, sir, along floats a herder, hangin' to a log.

"Now the river makes a bend half a mile down an' they's a whirlpool there. That herder—I knew him—he sure was white as any Mex. you ever see. He called out somethin' an' shook his head. One arm was hangin' loose—broke—an' he couldn't do much but hang on. Me—I just run fer my cayuse, but the kid yelled at me an' took a dive into that there yellow hell. I seen my best hold was to catch 'em at the whirl, as they come out—if they did. So I raced fer it, an' got there just in time to see the kid helpin' that Mex. by his good arm an' both windin' their laigs around that log. Then, sir,—well, I took plum' sick to my stummick, fer they both disappeared. What seemed to me 'bout a week er mebbe ten days later they popped up an' floated off down stream, the kid hangin' to that Mex. some fierce. That time they was both still. Me—I swum out on Pinto an' got 'em. The Mex. was mighty grateful—and the kid—"

Jimmy rocked back and forth in joyous laughter.

"The kid 'lowed I was the one who was doin' the great an' noble—me! Swimmin' ole Pinto into smooth water an' towin' them two ashore!"

I knew the spot; also, I knew that half a mile below the place Jimmy O' made his entry into the water, which ran like a mill-race, was another and a far worse swirl wherein was hope for neither man nor beast. Jimmy knew it, too,—only he didn't know that I knew,—which is the reason he told the tale.

Jimmy rolled another cigarette.

"The kid an' the Mex. an' me there—was so busy we didn't notice the kid's pa an' a lady lookin' on, havin' just rode up. Say, just about that time I had stage-fright somethin' fierce. But it was all right. Pa was busy forgivin' the kid—an' the lady—say, I got the cards las' week—named him Jimmy, too."

"Might send 'em the 'Care an' Feedin'," interpolated Eddy.

"No, sir; you need that there book, 'specially the care," carromed Jimmy.

"Nope. I yearn fer one more game," said Eddy.

"An' fer the tenth time you read up on babies," chortled Jimmy.

"No, sir," declared Eddy, finally; "not fer me. I know it all by heart, now, for'ard an' back. But I tell you what—play you for that seven-dollar collection o' stamps you bought off that kid in Phoenicia."

The game progressed. It was carefully played on both sides—artfully as well, I thought, on Jimmy's part. When it was ended, Jimmy's slow grin did its usual stunt.

"An' by such unholy means are c'lecters made," he said as he passed over the seven-dollar outfit.

"Born, Jimmy O', born," corrected Eddy. "I been wantin' that c'lection ever since I read that kid book fer the ninth time. I sure couldn't go it ten an' live. I tell you what—I'm goin' to make that Mex. kid a c'lector before he grows up to the age of indiscretion."

Then we all hit the olla for a drink of cool water.

THE STAMPS OF MARSHALL ISLANDS.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

The Marshall Islands are a group in the western Pacific to the east of the Caroline Islands. They consist of two parallel chains of low coral reefs—one, the Ratak group, having thirteen islands with a total area of 48 square miles; and the other, the Ralik group, containing eleven islands with a united area of 107 square miles. Copra is the only export. The inhabitants are Micronesians and are very skilful navigators. They number about 15,000 and in addition there are probably 200 whites of whom perhaps a third are Germans. The islands were placed under German protection on October 15th, 1885. According to a treaty made with Great Britain in April, 1886, some small islets known as the Brown and Providence Islands and another island known as Nauru were included in the German "sphere of influence" and in April, 1888, Nauru was formally taken under German protection and included in the Marshall group. The development of the colony is in the hands of a private company—the Jaluit Company—who have stations on Jaluit, Jalwor, Majuru, Likieb, and Nauru. Only one post office is maintained and that is at Jaluit, the incidental work of the office forming one of the duties of the harbor master.

Before the Spanish-American War, there was a regular mail service by sailing boats between the islands and Pohnape, but after the war the delivery and despatch of mail was accidental and coincided with the arrival or departure of any vessel. The North German-Lloyd proposed inaugurating a regular service in connection with their China-Japan sailings, but whether this service was definitely established or not, I have been unable to find out.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

From 1885, the date of the Teutonic influence in these parts, until 1897, ordinary German stamps were used, but in the latter year, the 3, 5, 10 and 20pf stamps of the German issue of 1889 were overprinted "Marshall-Inseln" diagonally upwards from left to right for use in the colony. Whether the two lower values were ever used or not seems doubtful. Eight hundred of each of the 25 and 50pf denominations were similarly overprinted and sent to the Postal Union at Berne but these values were never issued for use in the Marshall Islands. In addition to the Postal Union specimens a number were sold to a Berlin dealer in 1897 and again in 1899 and though possibly some were sent to the islands to be cancelled they were never on sale at the Jaluit post office.

Reference List.

1897. German stamps of 1889 overprinted "Marshall-Inseln".

2. 5pf green, Scott's No. 2.
3. 10pf carmine, Scott's No. 3.
4. 20pf ultramarine, Scott's No. 4.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

In 1899 a new supply of surcharged stamps comprising all six values of the German issue of 1889 were sent to the colony. This overprint was also applied diagonally upwards from left to right but the spelling was revised so that the first word read "Marshall"—the "c" being omitted. The 3, 5, 24 and 50pf values were placed on sale at Jaluit on September 27th, 1899, the other two values being issued later.

THE STAMPS OF MARIANNE ISLANDS.

The Marianne Islands, or Ladrões, are a group of fifteen islands in the western Pacific, north of the Carolines, disposed in a row almost due north and south. Their united area is only about 420 square miles. Ten of the islands are volcanic and of these only four are inhabited, viz:—Agrigan, Anatahan, Alamagan, and Pagan. The other five islands—Guam, Rota, Aguigan, Tinian, and Saipan—are coralline and all are inhabited except Aguigan. The chief products are corn, coconut, coffee, cocoa, sugar, cotton, and tobacco, while the principal export is copra. The islands were first discovered by Magellan in 1521, and his sailors called them the Ladrões (Thieves) in allusion to the thievish propensities of their inhabitants. In 1688 the Spaniards obtained possession of the group and re-named them the Mariannas. Guam was occupied by the United States during the Spanish-American War, and by the treaty of 1899 was retained by them. In the same year, the rest of the islands were purchased from Spain by Germany and though they have had their own distinctive stamps since 1900, they are administratively part of German New Guinea. The seat of government is on the island of Saipan. The total population of the German islands is less than 3,000, while Guam has a population at least three times as great.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

Shortly after Germany obtained possession of the islands, a special set of stamps was issued for their use, this—as in the case of other "first issues" of German possessions—being made by overprinting the 1889 series of the Fatherland. The overprint consists of the name "Marianen" applied diagonally upwards from left to right. There are two varieties differing according to the slope of the overprint. The first supply sent out shows the name at a much more acute angle than the later printings. These are all quite scarce, with the exception of the 20pf

BARGAINING IN STAMPS.

Percy C. Bishop has a very interesting article in No. 1 of the Stamp Collectors' Quarterly entitled "Bargaining in the Stamp Trade," the perusal of which we urge upon the editors of various house organs who have severely criticised the WEEKLY for its attitude on discount headlines. Mr. Bishop is a collector and not a dealer and what he writes is all the more interesting because of that fact.
We should like to quote the article in full if our space permitted. We quote the following paragraphs:—

"It is notorious that many advertised stamp bargains are in the nature of a decoy—a sprat to catch a mackerel.
That is legitimate enterprise when not carried too far; but any advertiser who makes it appear from his announcements that he is in a position to sell good stamps at an enormous discount off recognised catalogue prices is not only doing Philately and the stamp trade a grave disservice, but is probably guilty also of the authorship of a false and fraudulent advertisement. The managers of certain papers have set their faces against these tricky methods of business, and have made it known that advertisements calculated to shake public confidence in the stability of Philatelately by persistent under-cutting of prices will not be permitted to appear in their journals.

This is a notable and a most laudable departure in philatelic journalistic practice. I commend it to the careful attention of my colleagues of the British philatelic Press."

The WEEKLY is satisfied that it rendered a distinct service to philately in the step it has taken. It simply insists that dealers using a 75% discount line, or any discount over 50%, shall name the stamps that he proposes to sell. The advertisement of the Edmund Stamp
Co. in our issue of Jan. 8, is an apt illustration. We simply maintain that a few dealers shall not destroy the collectors' confidence in the stability of stamp collecting by the use of flaring headlines covering stock of a rubbishy character and to the detriment of other dealers!

GERMAN WAR PRISONERS' RELIEF.

Mrs. Paul Getzschman of Omaha, Neb., sending in the advertisement of the German Women's Relief Society, found elsewhere in this issue, writes some particulars of the work from which we quote. Mrs. Getzschman has a fine general collection of some 12,000 varieties and is one of the best if not the best in the state. She writes in part:
"I am at the head of the German Red Cross movement in Nebraska and we have been able to do a great deal for the relief of the wounded soldiers. To the prisoners we send reading matter and as there are many stamp collectors among them I am trying to get contributions that will be of special interest to them. They send such grateful letters for all little favors received.

In case I should be fortunate enough to win a prize in the rebus contest I shall donate it to the prisoners' camp at Naashimo, Japan. The prisoners say they are treated well, but that they are shut off from the world and without anything to do. Newspapers are not allowed them and all letters are censored so we cannot write anything pertaining to the war. They have no work to do and are very miserable on that account. You can imagine what a Godsend gifts of stamps would be to them.

Please insert the enclosed advertisement in your paper. The collectors here in Omaha and this vicinity have freely contributed to the cause and we should like to have a wider range of support, which we believe will be possible through an advertisement in your publication."

he will find on investigation that the Chicago and sent to Springfield by —Geo. A. Hunt submits a pair and strip of three of the current two-cent U.

S. taken off the regular mail. The strip is evidently from a coil but the paper is thinner and tougher than the pair and on a bluish paper, but not as pronounced as the so-called experimental paper. Mr.
Hunt ventures the suggestion that for coil purposes a much stronger paper is required than that for regular postage.

EDITORIAL.

In Their Wake.—The somewhat spectacular appearance on the philatelic stage of the ½, 1, 1½ and 3 cent proprietary revenue stamps has caused some speculation as to the history of the denominations that have come to the philatelic surface so belatedly. The list of proprietary stamps given in the WEEKLY about a year ago now becomes complete; and in this connection it is worthy of remark that the mysterious stamps were given place in the catalogue which appeared several months ago. Our comment last week will be proved to be approximately correct, we believe; and the fact that the stamps really never were sent out from Washington bears out our findings. The 2 cent proprietary was sent to offices in some of the different cities, even though there was no call for the stamps to be used singly under the provision of the bill. We know that the 2 cent proprietary was used commercially, to refer to a specific instance, in pair, to pay the four cent tax on boxes of chewing gum by a manufacturer.

Early Railroad Cancellations.—We have received an interesting letter from Mr. H. R. Lloyd, editor of the Springfield Republican, accompanied by a clipping from the paper on the subject of early railroad post offices in this country. Mr. Lloyd says: "As one of your subscribers I am interested in all things related to postal matters and therefore send you the enclosed clipping which is taken from a recent issue of the Republican. The writer of the letter, Mr. B. B. Adams, is the editor of the Railway Age-Gazette and was formerly an employee of the Boston and Albany railroad. With his letter he sent us the letter to which he refers and on which he bases his claim of railway postal routes as far back as 1852. The letter bears a three cent red, imperforate, 1851, and the postmark shows clearly the words, 'Boston & Albany Jan. 2,' in a circle but some further lettering, possibly the date, at the bottom of the circle is undecipherable. He seems to have evidence in the fact that the letter was written to a person at the Westfield normal school in 1852, as shown by the school catalogue, who would not have been addressed by the name on the letter later than 1853 as she was married in that year. I have been through some of the files of the Republican to see if I could discover any reference to the postal system of this kind about this time but have been unsuccessful, though I found some interesting references and complaints about the new postal regulations which went into force in 1851." The railroad postmark in question is an early one as we should say that the date of its use is well established through the circumstances related. Dr. Carroll Chase said some years ago that railroad cancellations were certainly used to a rather limited extent while the 1851 issue was current; and latterly, it has been ascertained that this statement is conservative enough. The other day a batch of three cent, 1851, revealed a dozen Boston & Albany markings and we have before us, a Baltimore & Ohio cancellation, on an envelope with a Paid 5 impression that is endorsed in writing with a date in 1840! We shall reserve our comment on the clipping from the Republican for the next number. The Springfield, Mass., Republican, we are pleased to say, is one of the great newspapers of the United States and for many years it has evinced an intelligent interest in postal or philatelic affairs.

Inside View.—In a "statement as to certain operations of the office of purchasing agent for the post office department during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915," that has just been published for "information of contractors," we find some interesting references to the manufacture of stamps and postal supplies generally. For instance, it is said that the four year contract recently entered into with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will result in the saving of $58,000 for the government during the term; and further economies will result, it is confidently expected, through the agency of the new machinery that has been installed for the manufacture of stamps. Recognition is made of the adverse criticism that has been bestowed on the stamps perforated ten and the statement is made that the public on finding "that the stamps tear across their face instead of along the perforated lines" attributes the fault to the deterioration in the quality of the paper used for the stamps. The somewhat obvious assertion is made that the defect was not associated with the paper "but rather to the wider spaces between perforations, which are now being corrected." The paper is uniform in quality with that in use for the past two years, it is mentioned. In this report as in that of the director of the bureau of engraving and printing, the difficulties as a consequence of the war arising from the "resultant dearth of dyestuffs" in procuring ink, especially for the two cent stamp, are spoken of; and any "slight modification of shade" may be accounted for under this explanation.

Stamped Envelopes.—In the report under notice in the foregoing paragraph, there is an illuminating reference to the contract for stamped envelopes that was awarded some time ago. The stamped envelope contract is the largest in a monetary sense that is entered into by the government, the amount involved "for manufacture alone for the four year period being approximately $7,000,000." There were three bidders, one of whom withdrew competitively before the opening of bids, and the prices quoted by the former contractors. The Mercantile Corporation, of Dayton, Ohio, were higher than those in force under the contract expiring. So, the award was made to the low bidder, the Middle West Supply Co., Columbus, Ohio, at prices that represented a saving of nearly a half million under the prices then effective. Here we read: "Subsequently, the Middle West Supply Co. leased the plant of the Mercantile Corporation at Dayton, Ohio, and a consolidation of the two companies has been effected The low bid on stamped envelopes was in part made possible by improved machinery that cuts, folds, prints, and embosses the envelopes at one operation. Under the new specifications it is also expected that some improvement in paper and in the appearance of these envelopes will be effected." In the present contract provision is made for other "cuts and designs" of envelopes and consideration of the issue of a stamped "window envelope" and an extra quality stamped envelope is likely.

Special Overprint.—In our issue of October 23, 1915, several Chinese stamps of the junk type were described as having an overprint vertically of five characters entirely different from any of the other Republic overprints. In response to the request of the chronicler of new issues for information about the varieties, Mr. R. E. Scatchard, Shanghai, China, writes under date of December 9, 1915, as follows: "I notice that you ask for information re the Chinese stamps overprinted with five Chinese characters, emanating from Luikiang province. These stamps are specially overprinted for Luikiang, those without overprint now being useless for postage purpose there. This special overprinting was done in order to put a stop to the sending of money in the form of stamps instead of money-orders. It seems a good deal of this was done as money-orders are somewhat expensive. I may say that a journey to Luikiang from Shanghai is not a matter of a few days but of weeks."

Sent Collect.—From I. Thurman Mann, M. D., High Point, North Carolina, we have received a penalty envelope that was addressed to him and which bears a one cent postage due stamp and the rubber-stamp inscription: "Collect 1 cent on delivery." The envelope was on "official business" and came from the division of dead letters of the Post Office Department of Washington; and we are unable to answer Dr. Mann's inquiry as to the why and wherefore of the postage due charge. It is likely that under some ruling of the department the instance is made plain but we cannot speak with authority on the subject. The rules and regulations of the post office department make a ponderous volume and some time we shall really read them, when we have a week off.

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 W. 42nd Street, NEW YORKAUCTION PRICES LISTED.

By MRS. LOUISE W. KELLOGG.

Recognizing the fact that, to an increasing extent, auction sales now set the prices for blocks, varieties, covers and proofs, as well as for many of the medium to high-priced stamps, I have thought it might be of assistance both to dealers and collectors, to have a list of such quotations, to which reference could be made. To be of actual service, such a list should be up-to-date, subject to frequent changes.It is therefore, my intent, to have on file in my office, the latest prices obtainable, for both U. S. and foreign stamps. Priced catalogs of all representative sales will be purchased, and quotations will be filed ready for immediate reference.It is hoped that collectors may benefit by this service, in that they can learn fair prices for any purchases they contemplate. There are many dealers, more or less isolated from the acknowledged philatelic centers, who should be glad to know prevailing prices on any good things that chance their way. Anyone "writing up" his favorite country for the public, may be glad of a few sensational auction prices, to use in connection with his article, or his club paper.
If desired, specialists may engage service by the year, receiving lists of all prices realized on the stamps of their favorite countries.U. S. items are more fully listed at present, than foreign. But there is a good showing of the latter. Prices—(5c for single quotations; 2c each for 4 or more at a time) are intended to cover postage, and cost of catalogs, only. With all quotations, the name of the firm holding the sale, will be given. So that the co-operation of all auction firms will be appreciated. Also, as librarian of the
A. S. D. A., I shall expect to publish in their bulletin any items of particular interest. Any assistance, too, will gladly be rendered the editors of all philatelic publications.GERMAN DYES ON THE WAY.The consignment of dyes to the bureau of engraving and printing now on the way to the United States was purchased by the American consul at Rotterdam. The cargo consists of five colors, the essentials for the work of printing money and stamps. They are lake red, No. 1, which is a carmine;
lake red, No. 2, a scarlet; Prussian blue, Chinese blue and chrome green.The present supply of lake red at the bureau of engraving and printing is just sufficient to last until March. The last pound of lake red that is known to Director Joseph E. Ralph to be anywhere in the United States was just purchased by him. He obtained 3,000 pounds in New York city, paying about $1.50 a pound, in contrast with the ante-war price of 24 cents.Director Ralph admits that the stamps being printed at the bureau of engraving and printing are of varied intensity of color. He explains that the available dyes are only about one-fourth the color intensity of the German dyes. To bring up the color, it has been necessary to experiment with mixtures to obtain the desired strength. As the dyes vary in intensity, the results have been uncertain, resulting in stamps of many hues."It is true," said Mr. Ralph, "that the lack of German dyes has resulted in a slight change in the color of our stamps.
The red two-cent stamps are lighter.
The eight-cent stamp, which used to be olive green, is yellowish green. Slight color variations may be noted in other stamps, as we have been without German dyes for about eight months."—

JOSEPH B. LEAVY.

Here is a nice little outfit for the specialist, whether or no he collects coils he must of necessity recognize the 1c and 2c coils perf. 10, as there are three distinct varieties of each value, and a logical reason for their existence.First: The printings from the regular flat coil plates. These plates were of four hundred subjects, divided by guide lines into panes of one hundred, the same as the regulation postage stamp plates, except that the vertical space between panes was 10 mm. instead of 3 mm. Sheets of four hundred impressions were printed from these plates in the regulation manner for flat plate printing, the paper being dampened when placed upon the inked plate, and shrinking somewhat in consequence.
Whether perforated vertically or horizontally, and coiled sidewise or endwise, the impressions were the same, measuring 19 by 22 1/4 mm. with the portrait oval measuring 13 by 16 mm.Second: The printings from the first cylindrical plates. These plates were of 170 subjects, ten rows of 17 sidewise by 10 endwise, and were curved so that two plates fitted together formed a cylinder; the impressions being sidewise around the cylinder, each revolution of the cylinder in the rotary press printed 340 stamps. Large drums or rolls of paper were placed in the press and the stamps printed upon the paper in long ribbons or rolls of ten endwise by as many sidewise as the roll would hold.
The crevice formed by the joining of the plates caught the ink and printed a vertical line dividing the stamps into panes of 170. The paper was not dampened in printing, consequently the only shrinkage was that caused by the gum-ming. The measurements of these stamps are: 1c, 19 1/2 by 22 1/2 mm., portrait oval 13 1/2 by 15 1/4 mm.; 2c, 19 1/2 by 22 mm., portrait oval 13 1/4 by 16 mm.Third: The printings from the second cylindrical plates. These plates are of 150 subjects, ten rows of 15 endwise by 10 sidewise, and curved so that two plates fitted together form a cylinder; the impressions being endwise around the cylinder, each revolution of this cylinder in the rotary press printed 300 stamps. The crevice formed by the joining of the plates caught the ink and printed a horizontal line dividing the stamps into panes of 150. The printing was made upon drums of paper in every way the same as the printing from the preceding plates, except that the stamps ran endwise upon the ribbon of paper, consequently the gum shrinkage was horizontal instead of vertical. The measurements of the stamps are: 1c, 19 by 23 mm., portrait oval 13 1/4 by 16 1/2 mm.; 2c, 19 1/4 by 23 mm., portrait oval 13 1/2 by 16 1/2 mm.Stamps from the first cylindrical plates were perforated vertically and coiled sidewise, stamps from the secondSOME MIXTURE, All Fine CopiesFINLAND 1902, 10M, No. 69$1.00

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—O. D. Challans reports having seen the current 12c stamp in a maroon shade, quite different from the first printings. Mr. Challans says it is almost exactly the shade of the 1k Bosnia of 1906.

Bartlett Gatchell was the first to show the Chronicle the new 2c envelope. The design has already been printed in the WEEKLY, but the official description hardly does justice to the printing or the general effect. Apparently the officials have taken to heart the experience with the last design, as the inscriptions and figures of value are strong and will be likely to show the inevitable wearing of the dies in a less degree. In order to accommodate the bust of Washington to the smaller circle, the lower part has been nearly all cut away, only a sharp point showing below the neck at the front. These first printings have every line of the engraving clearly defined, the eyes having expression and the hair texture. Even the cord in the neck is clearly marked. Probably the general opinion will be that the new envelope is a great improvement over those that have preceded it.

Envelope.

2c carmine on white.

Judging from the envelope sent us by William F. Works, it was high time that new dies should be provided for envelope stamps. This particular one has a white dot below the queue; various nicks and breaks in different parts of the stamp; the letter "U" has the left hand vertical line extended below the letter, and the left hand "2" is separated into two parts by a broad line of color. Certainly a dilapidated specimen!

S. E. Colman reports having a pleasant interview recently with Director Ralph and Assistant Director Ferguson of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving. They informed him that the 2c stamp of the current issue, perforated 12x10 was never officially issued by the Bureau (the WEEKLY chronicled this compound perforation some time since, and there is no doubt about its existence). We have before called attention to the fact that the Bureau way of counting perforations is radically different from the philatelic method. This is Mr. Colman's explanation: "The Bureau speaks of a stamp perforated by the number of holes the perforating machine makes at the top and side of stamp; so if you count the number of holes, you will find 10 at the top and 12 at the side, which the Bureau speaks of as 10x12. The perforating wheel now in use at the Bureau makes 160 holes per revolution (this must be the 10 perforation). The old wheel made 192 holes per revolution (this was the old 12 perforation). We are to have a new perforation which will be issued in about five weeks, and known at the Bureau as 176 (or 11 as philatelists measure)."

CANADA.—Two specimens of the new ribbon shaped war tax stamps have been sent us by G. Hemond of Montreal. They are the 5c and 50c in black and are used "on bottles of wine, so placed that in opening the bottles the stamps are torn in two."

DENMARK.—Scott's Circular reports a variety, "POSTERIM" instead of "POSTFRIM" in the surcharge of "80ore" on the 8 ore official stamp.

FIJI ISLANDS.—This Colony has received a 2sh 6d stamp, with portrait of King George.

Adhesive.

2sh 6d black and red on blue.

JAMAICA.—D. C. Alexander has shown us a cover from Jamaica with one of the new Red Cross stamps. This is type set with a plain rule border, a large cross in the lower part, and a large aeroplane at the top, above some shadowy clouds, all printed in carmine. No value is expressed, and the cover bore the regulation postage.

LIBERIA.—According to Maury's Collectionneur, a number of provisionals have appeared, made necessary by a shortage of the regular stamps. Seven values of the 1906 issue have been surcharged, some values with a large figure alone, and others with a small figure, accompanied by "cents" or "cts." Examination of the list shows that the plea that there was a shortage of stamps is wrong, as the 25c, 50c and $1 stamps are surcharged for lower values, and then higher denominations have in turn received the same three values.

Provisional Adhesives.

2c on 25c dull blue and gray.
5c on 30c deep violet.
10c on 50c green and black.
20c on 75c brown and black.
25c on $1 rose and gray.
50c on $2 green and black.
$1 on $5 red brown and black.

MEXICO.—We are indebted to Lowell J. Ragatz, O. D. Challans and Thomas J. Gabriel for specimens of the new perforated portrait set, and information regarding the same. It seems to be understood that the perforated stamps are also temporary, and are to be replaced by the engraved set as soon as possible.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Albert D. Tschudin reports having found "a strip of the 10c violet yellow white back, Scott's No. 161, in what looks to be a double transfer. Instead of the outside line being heavy, this appears in two lines, the word postage appears to be shaded, the scroll work at the bottom appearing also in double lines; but the word "Straits" is the same as on other stamps. This is rather odd, at first, thought the stamp was faded while taken off the paper but this is not the case, as one can see the finish which most of the Colonials have. There are a few minor differences, but these mentioned above are visible to the naked eye. This only appears on the left side of the stamp."

DO YOU KNOW THEY EXIST ?

REPORT OF SECRETARY.

Fellow Members:

Thus far there has been nothing going on in the U. S. R. S. Don't you think it is time for us to get busy and get a few members, get our Sales Dept. in good working order, and sort of wake up. President Stone has made the following appointments:

Sales Supt., V. Mozian, 203 Broadway, New York, N. Y.; Attorney, H. D. Watson, 100 Williams St., New York, N. Y.; Counterfeit Detector, J. M. Bartels, 99 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.; Librarian, H. E. Deats, Flemington, N. J. Expert Comm., Eugene Klein, 142 So. 15th St., Phila., Pa.; E. L. Green, Broad and Vine Sts., Phila., Pa.; E. B. Sterling, 941 Edgewood St., Trenton, N. J. Literary Comm., W. R. Ricketts, 1577 Wyoming Ave., Wilkesbarre, Pa.; C. W. Kissinger, 335 Walnut St., Reading, Pa. Recruiting Comm., K. M. Sherman, 953 Paulding St., Peekskill, N. Y.; W. C. Polk, 47 Court St., Boston, Mass. Obituary Comm., W. O. Wylie, 104 Hanover St., Boston, Mass.; J. C. Hoffstetter, Box 465, Erie, Pa.; George Hetrick, Birdsboro, Pa.

There are still two to be appointed and their names will appear as soon as they are made known to me. The year book will make its appearance soon. It has been held up on account of the work in getting the appointed officers in line. We have a few tardy members on our roll and they will be suspended soon if nothing is heard from them. Please look at the date on your card and see if it reads as paid up to September 1, 1916. If it does not, please send your dues in or send in a resignation, as I would rather post a resignation than a "Dropped for non-payment of dues."

Boston, Jan'y 17, 1916.

To the Members of the Boston Philatelic Society,

Gentlemen:—Another year has passed and next month the Boston Philatelic Society will complete 25 years of existence. This is a record few Philatelic Societies can boast of, especially as during all this time meetings have been held regularly without a break.

We shall celebrate our Silver Anniversary by entertaining the American Philatelic Society which will meet with us next August in response to the invitation extended to them at their last convention in San Francisco and I hope that each and every member will do all in their power to make the convention a success and to see that the visitors go away with the same good opinion of Boston and Boston's collectors that they have had in the past.

We have entertained the Society three times previously (in 1887, 1896 and 1906) and have established an enviable reputation for hospitality which we cannot afford to lose this year when one of our esteemed past presidents is now at the head of the national body. It will require liberal donations of both time and money, but I feel confident that you will not be found wanting.

I am sorry that the past year has not been as successful from the membership standpoint as some of the preceding ones but we have not been at a standstill by any means as 13 new collectors have joined.

During the coming year I hope we shall be able to raise our membership to 250. With the attraction of the Convention and the liberal offer decided upon by your Council and which you will hear in the report of their doings it ought to be easy to accomplish. There are certainly more than one hundred good collectors living in or near Boston who should be members and if each of you will make an effort to get at least one new member we shall easily pass that mark.

We have a nice reading room in a convenient location, one of the best philatelic libraries in the United States and an exhibit of rare and interesting stamps at every meeting, usually accompanied by a talk, and all for the small sum of $3.00 per year. With a larger membership we could furnish even more attractions as it has been our custom to spend all of our income on matters of interest to stamp collectors.

Your council has had regular meetings and has tried to provide entertainments that would interest the members. They have had exhibits of stamps at every meeting and among them three collections from New York shown and explained by their owners, in each case the finest and most complete in its line, in existence. They have also had competitions and talks on stamps, one being illustrated by the stereopticon.

It is the aim of the council to furnish what the majority of the members would be most interested in and I can assure you that any suggestions for entertainments will be welcomed and if considered favorably by a majority will be carried out. There were two suggestions last year both of which were adopted.

During the past year a fine stereopticon has been purchased for the Society by subscription and a lecture is being written and lantern slides prepared to illustrate it. It will be written with the idea of interesting Young Men's Christian Associations, Boy Scouts and other clubs and organizations, and it is hoped that our members will make arrangements to have it delivered in their home neighborhoods as it can be used in any hall or room equipped with electric lights. I believe if the member does not feel like delivering the lecture himself that some other member of the Society will be willing to officiate for him.

We also hope in the near future to add other lectures and slides to supplement the initial one and in that way make new collectors and members and also stimulate the interest of the older ones.

The secretary will probably give you the statistics and the treasurer the finances of the Society so I will not touch on these subjects and in closing I wish to thank you all for the courtesy you have shown me, also to thank one and all who have assisted to make my term such a pleasant one. I can only hope that if I am again chosen President that I shall have as faithful a council as the one which finishes its term of office tonight and that we shall all work together to make 1916 the banner year of the Society.

Respectfully submitted, ERNEST M. CARPENTER, Pres.

Brooklyn Stamp Society.

The second regular meeting of The Brooklyn (N. Y.) Stamp Society for 1916 was held Friday evening, January 21, at headquarters, 393 Bridge Street, President L. A. Missbach presiding. Present: President Missbach, Vice-President F. M. Smith, Secretary William Lycett, Treasurer E. N. Costales, Financial Secretary W. J. Coleman, Custodian M. Neel, Governors J. W. Nicklin and George Gandenberger, Jr., and a good attendance of members. The application of M. Henriot was received and referred to the Membership Committee. (Mr. Henriot is an engraver, and engraved the present series of French stamps.)

The Banquet Committee reported $3.50 profit on the banquet, and a sale of 31 tickets.

The Membership Committee suggested an aggressive campaign for new members, and that greater publicity be given the doings of the Society. It was moved and carried that the proceedings of this meeting be published in the WEEKLY and that announcement be made therein of the exhibition of United States and France covers by Edgar Nelson Bradford on the 11th of February, an invitation to be extended all Brooklyn collectors to attend. It was further decided to serve refreshments.

Other routine business was transacted, an auction held, and receipts of $8.62 recorded.

WM. LYCETT, Sec.

The general collection of covers of Mr. Bradford is probably one of the finest in the country, if not in the world. Portions of it will be exhibited from time to time in the rooms of the Brooklyn Stamp Society. His collection of U. S. is almost complete. Brooklyn collectors should avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing it on the evening of Friday, February 11th, when they will be welcomed at 393 Bridge Street, the welcome including refreshments.

The German Women's Relief Society, Omaha, Neb., is very desirous of securing donations of stamps for the use of prisoners at the camp at Naashimo, Japan. Surely you have some duplicates that you will donate for so worthy a purpose. These prisoners are denied the use of newspapers, letters are severely censored and the collecting of stamps becomes a veritable blessing to them.

For references we offer:—F. S. Parmelee the well known Omaha dealer, the First National Bank and the Omaha Commercial Club. Consignments of stamps will be promptly forwarded.

Scott Stamp & Coin Co. writes:

"In looking over our advertising results for the year just ended, we have no hesitancy in saying our advertising campaign in ST. NICHOLAS has been most satisfactory from every standpoint. As further evidence of this fact we (as your records will show) have been continuous advertisers since the first appearance of your valued magazine ST. NICHOLAS."

STARTED 1888

Frank E. Thorp says:

"I think I first began using ST. NICHOLAS about 1888, and have always had a high regard for this magazine as a Stamp medium since that time. The returns are always very satisfactory and the class of customers secured are among the best."

SIMPLE FACTS

We are making the St. Nicholas Stamp Department larger and more interesting every month. One result is that we are interesting many new collectors, as well as new advertisers,—(forty-one are now advertising). But many other dealers ought to be using our Stamp Directory regularly. Continuous advertising is the right kind of advertising. Read what those who have done it right, say about it. They have used St. Nicholas from six to forty years. Their letters were written to us in connection with the celebration of the twenty-second year of our Stamp Page, which is completed this month. Most of these folks are well-known to you. You can rely on their judgment. ADDRESS, 355 FOURTH AVE., N. Y. CITY

Chalmers Stamp Company tells us:

"We have a warm place in our heart for ST. NICHOLAS because of the high standard it has always taken, as well as the results of our advertising. We have noticed the purchasing power of your readers is greater than any other publication for young people. We are always glad to speak or write a good word for ST. NICHOLAS and our continuous advertising is a testimonial of the good results obtained."

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF TOGO.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

The German colony of Togo, or Togo-land, forms part of Upper Guinea, in West Africa, being bounded on the east by French Dahomey and on the west by British Gold Coast. The colony was acquired in 1884 by treaty with the King of Togoland, the boundaries being regulated later by agreements with France and Britain. It covers a total area of 33,000 square miles and its population of about two millions consists chiefly of Ewe negroes. Togo is the most prosperous of Germany's African possessions. The coast-land has numerous lagoons and is unhealthy, while the interior is mountainous. The first capital and residence of the Governor was at Sebbe but the seat of government was later moved to Lome, which is also the chief port of the colony, on account of its healthier climate. The second town of importance is Little Popo, while the largest native town is Togo (Population about 8,000) on Lake Togo.

THE FIRST ISSUE.

The first post-office was opened at Little Popo on March 1st, 1888, and soon afterwards an office was established at Lome. Until 1898, and possibly a little later, these were the only offices in the colony the stamps used being the current ones of Germany, until the special surcharged series appeared in 1897. These surcharged stamps, like those of the other possessions, have the name overprinted diagonally upwards from left to right. The 3pf value may be found in three fairly well marked shades but the others do not vary at all.

Reference List.

- 20pf ultramarine, Scott's No. 4.
- 25pf orange, Scott's No. 5.
- 50pf red-brown, Scott's No. 6.

THE SECOND ISSUE.

During the later months of 1900 Togo was provided with a new set of stamps in the usual "ship" type as supplied to all the other German possessions. These differ from the series for Samoa, Kiautschou, etc., only in the name "TOGO" shown at the top of each denomination.

THE THIRD ISSUE.

In September, 1909, the 5pf value appeared on the paper watermarked lozenges then in use in the Fatherland, and in 1914 the 10pf appeared. None of the other values have been issued on this paper.

Reference List.

CONCLUDING NOTES ON GERMAN COLONIES.

COLONIAL STAMPS SOLD IN BERLIN.

In 1900, co-incidental with the issue of the stamps of the "Hohenzollern" type for the various colonies, the German government decided to place all colonial stamps, as well as those specially surcharged for the foreign offices maintained in China, Morocco and the Turkish Empire, on sale in Berlin. The reason for this step was said to be "the desire to facilitate the beginning of commercial relations of the Empire with the colonies. When making enquiries or sending offers to commercial houses, it is generally considered good policy to enclose the first few times stamped addressed envelopes for the reply; furthermore, small amounts can be remitted in the easiest possible manner by unused stamps."

H. F. COLMAN,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

age with their communications was a perfectly legitimate one, of course, but it is open to doubt that the government would trouble to maintain an office for a restricted trade of this sort. The real reason for the establishment of the office was that a lucrative trade with dealers and collectors was expected and in this the officials were not disappointed for the stamps sold for "philatelic" purposes in Berlin far exceeded the postal revenue obtained by selling the stamps in the various colonies.

"THE DISGRACE OF GERMANY."

Under this heading numerous articles appeared in the philatelic press some ten years ago dealing with a somewhat unsavory scandal in connection with the Postal Museum at Berlin. This Museum as doubtless most of my readers are fully aware, contains, as all Postal Museums should—a very fine collection of postage stamps. This collection was formed, to commence with, from the stamps distributed as specimens from the Postal Union headquarters at Berne, and from sets of current and obsolete stamps obtained from the Postal departments of other countries. Many stamps, too, were obtained from dealers in exchange for duplicates of various kinds which came into the possession of the Director of the Museum. At one time the Museum was fortunate in possessing a large stock of some of the issues of the German States and the North German Confederation and these were not only a valuable source of entire sheets, etc. for the Museum itself but through the disposal of the duplicates many additions were possible to the official collection. So far all was perfectly right and proper but the stock of remainders coming to an end and the Museum authorities, having acquired a taste for rare items like the "Post Office" Mauritius and Hawaiian "Missionaries", for which they neither had the funds to purchase or duplicates to offer in exchange, went beyond their legitimate rights and foisted numerous doubtful varieties on the philatelic public through certain dealers in Berlin. Not only were the Museum authorities instrumental in circulating certain "errors" which had been carefully gleaned from the Printers' waste basket, but in some cases "errors" were made to their specific order. A committee, appointed by the Berliner Philatelisten Klub in 1904 succeeded in elucidating the history of some of the doubtful varieties and I append a few notes, culled from their "findings", relating to the "philatelic" nature of certain errors in the colonial issues.

German Levant.—The scarce variety of 1884, the 20pf surcharged 1 piaster in blue, was reprinted though the committee were unable to find definitely by whose orders this was done. At any rate they were made some time after the stamp had been out of issue and the color is dark blue instead of the ultramarine of the issued stamps. The blue of the surcharge does not differ materially from that of the originals. Two of the 25pias on 5 marks, both listed in Scott's catalogue, were circulated with double surcharge. One sheet of 20 of the 1900 variety was actually sent to Constantinople and two were sold there but the balance were returned to Berlin and handed to the Museum authorities with other waste sheets of a similar nature.

German East Africa.—A few sheets of the 2 pesa were ordered from the printers in imperforate condition for "exchange purposes."

German South-West Africa.—Originally only 1000 of each of the unissued 25pf and 50pf of the first type were made but before the second issue was ready the Museum ordered an additional 5000 of each from the State Printing Works so that an ample supply should be available for trading purposes.

German New Guinea.—The 25pf value of the first issue with inverted surcharge recorded in Scott's catalogue, is from a waste sheet sent to the Postal Museum with other waste material from the printers.

Marianne Islands.—The 25pf inverted surcharge of this colony is also a printers' waste variety.

Marshall Islands.—All values of the first series were reprinted but in what numbers and whether it is possible to distinguish them from originals or not we are not told.

Kiautschou.—A number of the "spoilt" sheets, showing defective and bad printings of the provisionals of 1900 were sent to the Museum by request of the authorities and these ultimately found their way into certain dealers' hands.

When the surcharged stamps were about to be produced for the various colonies in 1897, trial sheets were printed with the different names side by side on the same sheet to show the effect. These proof sheets were, presumably, handed to the Museum, and later on they had similar sheets made to order so that all sorts of fancy varieties in pairs and blocks were available for exchange.

Errors and varieties of German colonial stamps are, therefore to be looked on with suspicion in the main. As Gibbons' catalogue pithily puts it, "These were never issued for use, or even re-tailed in Berlin to collectors or dealers, but are from waste sheets of the printers, which should have been destroyed, but were retained, and afterwards leaked out into the hands of certain dealers."

OUR SECOND REBUS CONTEST.

We have been very much pleased with the responses that have come in in our first rebus contest. The entries are being examined by the editor of the WEEKLY and in due season a report in detail will be made in our columns.

In the issue of Jan. 29 we pictured the cover to be used on our issue of Feb. 26 and we invite our subscribers' attention to it. How many stamps are represented in the design that is shown?

We shall offer a number of prizes to those who send in the best solutions. The Nassau Stamp Co. has offered one of their Popular Blank Albums as a prize and Geo. J. Carter one of his revenue stamp albums. There will be other prizes that will be announced in due season. The closing date of the contest will be stated in the issue of Feb. 26.

UNUSUAL AUCTION, FEBRUARY 18TH AND 19TH

We call special attention to our two session sale to be held on the above dates, consisting of superb specialized collections of Papua and Netherlands and Colonies, also an unusually fine general U. S. and Foreign collection, including many stamps of the 20th Century. The auction catalog contains in addition a valuable reference list of the "Main Varieties of the Bi-colored Papuan Stamps", free for the asking to all auction buyers. Write today.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Charles Huscher, a prominent philatelist of Denver, Colo., and former president of the old Denver Stamp Club and the Mountain State Philatelic Society, has been appointed acting superintendent for the Colorado Industrial School for Boys at Golden. Mr. Huscher has a fine collection of U. S. postage, revenue and match and medicine stamps and his many friends will rejoice in the promotion which comes to him after several years of faithful work at the School in various capacities.

—The General Electric Stamp & Coin Club and the Lynn Philatelic Society will hold a joint exhibition of stamps and coins at the Lynn Public Library, Feb. 18 and 19. A prospectus of the various competitions has been received and the scheme presented shows an ambitious exhibit. The committee in charge has E. L. Clark as chairman, and L. M. Whiting as secretary-treasurer.

—The American Stamp Dealer's Association has now published its weekly bulletin for sixty weeks and it has proven its stability in a remarkable way by so doing. The Association is increasing in membership and is entering on a big year's work. C. V. Webb, Perry, Ohio, is secretary.

—H. R. Hendricks, who takes displayed space this week, comes to us well recommended. He is a member of the Texas Philatelic Association and also the S. P. A.

—"I've had letters from six dealers altogether who have received the same treatment from Chas. Weisser that I had—substitution and either didn't return selections or didn't pay for what he kept. As far as I know, losses were not large, still anyone like that ought to be looked after."—Mrs E. W. OURHRED.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from S. G. Bixby, C. M. Breder (2), Rev. Dr. Wright, I. B. Robinson and H. W. Boers.

—"I have in preparation a work on the double transfers of United States stamps, postage and revenue, and would appreciate the loan of any double transfers for illustration. I will pay postage both ways and return the stamps in good condition."—J. W. BRADBURY, A. P. S. 4452, 1562 Eliot St., Denver, Colo.

—"I am officially informed that the new 3c Canadian Postage and War Tax stamp will shortly appear in coil form perforated sideways, and that the P. O. Dept. has also under consideration the project of issuing the 3c stamp in booklet form also."—GLADSTONE PERRY.

—Charles Lathrop Pack, philatelist, financier, worker in many public-spirited movements and one of the fathers of the conservation movement, was unanimously elected president of the American Forestry Association at its thirty-fifth annual convention in Boston a few days ago.

—The Mountain States Philatelic Society has elected the following officers for the year 1916:—John W. Bradbury, President; Chas. A. Nast, Vice President; Robert A. Turner, Secretary; Maitland Milliken, Treasurer; Directors:—Godfrey Schirmer, Chas. Huscher, W. W. Bigler, and the above officers as ex-officio members. Regular meetings will be held on first and third Thursdays. The Society had 50 members last year and expects to double it this year. Collectors anywhere are invited to become members. Only 50c per annum. A sales department will soon be in active operation. Write the treasurer at 404 Foster Bldg., Denver, for further information.

—"I have just received a postal from across the pond, and although marked 'Postage Free Military' I had to 'come across' with 4c postage due. The postal reads as follows:—

'Herewith I take the liberty to asked you if you could not me a little pleasure. I am a Belgian Corporal interned in Hollande after the fall off Antwerp. To pass a little more agreeable my captivity I have take the resolution to collection all the different used postage stamps. I should be very obliged if you could send me the post stamps you do not care for it. In exchange I will send you if you will like them the sightcards off the Belgian Interary camp.'

The letter was signed 'Alex De Rocker.' What a terrible fall he must have had 'off Antwerp' and what a swell chance he has of collecting 'all the different used postage stamps.'—CHAS. M. BREDER.

—"Will you please say that I have sold out of Guam and early used U. S.? I am still getting orders, but cannot fill them. You may be interested to note the wholesale offers in this ad. I have 500 or more of some items, and I am anxious to sell in larger quantities, so as to get through this year."—ANDREW SLEDD.

City, appealing for assistance from stamp collectors for a stamp booth in connection with a bazaar to be held at Madison Square Garden, N. Y. City, March 11-24. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the 'orphans and widows of fallen soldiers.

Mr. Clauss writing the WEEKLY says: "As your records will show, I have been for many years a subscriber to your esteemed paper, and as your records also must show, I have taken much interest in your paper. I have been a stamp collector since 1868 and during these years I have used every opportunity to advance the interests of stamp collecting and share our hobby with others.

During the bazaar at the Armory, New York, in December, 1914, I undertook the care of a booth for the sale of postage stamps to collectors and dealers, in fact, anyone who might be interested. Everything was donated and the proceeds, without deducting one cent for expense went to the fund for the war sufferers, the widows and orphans of soldiers.

Two days after the opening of my stand and two days before the closing of the bazaar I had sold out everything I had.

I shall undertake a similar task in connection with the bazaar from March 11 to 24, and I want to ask stamp collectors who will do so to send donations of stamps, etc., promising that

PLEASE NOTE!

Our special number of Feb. 26 will be a winner. It will have a special cover and should be well patronized from the advertising standpoint. If you intend to take goodly space let us know copy is coming and have it reach this office not later than Saturday, February 19.

Are you a booster? We have a pretty subscription coupon and urge you to send for a supply to use in your correspondence. You get a premium and the new subscriber gets a premium. You will have the satisfaction of knowing, too, that you are helping us on toward the 10,000 mark.

The WEEKLY is mailed every week just as soon as it is off the press. It may be Friday or Saturday, and sometimes as late even as Monday. It is gratifying to us to know that so many of our readers would like to receive the paper on Saturday, its day of issue, but this is impossible. We do our best to get the paper to you just as soon as we possibly can.

$3.00 for a six years' renewal will give you a Scott 1916 catalog free of charge. $3.50 for a seven years' renewal will give you a clothbound copy.

EDITORIAL.

Treat In Store.—Our February special number to be dated the 26th will be one that will gladden the soul of the reader. This assurance is given advisedly as the reading matter in the issue will be of superior merit. The cover will be one of the most sightly and significant from a philatelic view that may be imagined; and the crowning feature will be two striking page illustrations of a line of stamps that yield to no other in point of popularity. For the first time, the stamps in question will be presented so graphically that their interesting variations will be understood. Visual evidence will be presented so that pages of descriptive text may be dispensed with. This most valuable contribution will have a setting of other worthy articles and the Missioner will be a number that will show the WEEKLY at its best. We hope to make the issue one that our readers will be pleased to bring to the attention of their friends, especially to that of those who have philatelic possibilities.

* * *

Great Go.—The prize contest based on the cover design of the special number of the WEEKLY of January 8th has proved the most popular of any contest that we have ever held. The entries have been made in such number that if they were the result of an advertisement, the advertiser would think that the well-known millennium had come. We have started our work of selection with a vim but some time will elapse before the report is ready. All attention will be given to the humblest effort, let us say, as well as to the pretentious answers; and the fulfilment of this promise is not a light task, by any means.

* * *

Fragments.—On passing mail we have seen several novelties. There is a new red cross label, showing an aeroplane at top and the design of the red cross at bottom, red on white. One of these labels coming from Jamaica bore the inscription in black, "Jamaica," across the stamp. A surcharge from Egypt has been noticed in the shape of the "2 Milliemes" in black on the 3 milliemes orange of the 1914 issue. A reader has shown us a large batch of the current two cent red on blue stamped envelope each one of which has a crease through the "o" of "Two" in the lower label. The fold approximately was at the same place in each envelope and it resulted from some mechanical mischance, although slips of the kind usually do not produce results that are so uniform.

Expectancy Runs High.—An enterprising "missionaire" in Gabon, Africa, has sent a circular to stamp folks in the United States proposing exchange relations and his wantlist includes practically all the U. S. from 1847 to date, in unused condition. Emphasis is placed on the consideration of unused and for instance, the 1861 set complete "with grating" is wanted; and likewise, the 1870 set with grille. In view of the fact that the 1861 set grided unused is particularly good property and the 1870 grided 12 and 24 unused practically among the unattainables, the remark of one of our readers is pertinent: "I admire the nerve of the Christian who wants U. S. first issues, set 1861 'with grating,' etc., all unused, for French colonial stamps, from 1c to 5fr used." Nowadays, when U. S. are in such strong demand it is futile to ask collectors here to part with their good stamps for foreign on any uncertain basis. The wise hunter is said not to expect to bag deer at Deer Run and catch trout in Trout Lake; and U. S. are not to be had most advantageously in this country. Recently, we have heard dealers bemoaning the fact that Europe no longer could be depended upon for supplies of early U. S. as formerly and the stringency is not attributed to the war but to a greatly diminished hoard of the U. S. stamps that were largely used in the old days in correspondence to European countries. Constantly rising prices will be the consequence of this condition. In making the general observation that the country of issue is not always the best place to buy the stamps, it is to be said that recently a collector thought that the first issue of Sweden was held too closely by dealers in this country and he decided to get these scarcities in Sweden through connections there. When he saw the prices asked for good copies "at home" he decided that this country was the place to buy the stamps in question.

Never Again.—We have been inundated with requests from readers for another original movie scenario. (We have had three letters in fact but in editorial parlance, two are a flood and three an inundation.) However, so complete was our triumph with the first and only scenario that we forbore to paint the lily. A reader tells us that the movies and philately are his two fads; and to prove that the juxtaposition of these two hobbies in mortal mind is not bizarre, we quote from a recent editorial, "Spending Money," in the Chicago Tribune: "Probably he would prefer spending all his money going to the movie shows or collecting postage stamps to eating off a delicate mahogany table."

* * *

Spray.—A distracted reader says that he has just met the old-fashioned collector who literally spouts his enthusiasm over his pages of rarities in their pride and panoply of more or less fugitive colors; and he wants to know if there is a transparent rubberized paper that may be used as waterproofing when a human shower is looking over the collection. Information will be gratefully received.

Trouble, Trouble.—The wailing-place is now occupied by a reader who says that he has just entertained an old-fashioned collector who got as far as Austria in the album, only to transfix him with a bony finger and ask him menacingly, "Where are your St. Andrew's crosses?" "I said apologetically that I did not keep my decorations in the stamp album, whereupon the o. f. c. chortled, 'There were no such dunces when I collected stamps,' and we had a row right there. His parting shot was: 'You wouldn't know a St. Andrew's cross from a bean-pot.' I wouldn't. What is it?' Briefly, the St. Andrew's cross was an expediency used by Austria in the shape of a complimentary label, bearing two lines crossed, to fill out the sheet so that it would make a convenient monetary total. When the sheets of stamps were perforated, the blanks with the crosses likewise were perforated. In the old days when everything in the shape of an addition to the supply of stamps was eagerly welcomed, these labels enjoyed some recognition and esteem as album ornaments.

Digging It Out—From Mr. R. J. Tarpy of Knoxville, Illinois, we have received the following timely and valuable information concerning the current U. S. stamped envelopes; and it may be added that the data came to Mr. Tarpy through the intermediary of a member of Congress:

"The U. S. Stamped Envelope Agent at Dayton has referred to the Department your letter of January 7th, with the communication addressed to you January 3d by Mr. R. J. Tarpy, Box 602, Knoxville, Ill. The twelve inquiries of Mr. Tarpy are answered as follows:

1. The stamped envelope factory is now producing envelopes bearing the new 2c embossed stamp of 1915.

2. The design of the 1c embossed stamp is undergoing alteration. Whether the 4c and 5c embossed stamps will be changed cannot now be stated.

3, 4, 5. The number of embossing dies produced of the design of 1907, the number of master dies, and the identity of master dies from which each embossing die was made, could not be stated without a search of records which the Department cannot, on account of other pressing matters, undertake.

6. The number of stamping presses used in the stamped envelope factory when the information was last obtained, about a year ago, was 74.

7, 8.—Envelopes are stamped on three different styles of machines, one of which will stamp any size of envelope, while the other two styles are limited to a single size. Folders are adapted to a single size.

9. The different styles of stamping presses require embossing dies of differing curvatures.

10. Formerly both flat and curved embossing dies were used; now curved dies only are used.

11. The engraver of the dies is G. T. Morgan.

12. The Aetna Paper Co. produces stamped envelope paper having a watermark in which the year 1915 runs downwardly from left to right through a monogram composed of the letters U. S.; in the Dickinson Paper Co. watermark the year 1915 runs horizontally through the upper part of the monogram; in the Champion Coated Paper Co. watermark the year 1915 runs horizontally through the lower part of the monogram.

Respectfully,

(W. J. BARROW),

Acting Third Assistant Postmaster General.

NICARAGUA "CORDOBAS."

By EDWIN W. FUSS.

I always take particular interest in the notes which mention how many stamps of a set were issued and the number of errors and their location in the sheet. I find there are many stamps which were issued in small quantities, but which, in the catalogue, are priced the same as some stamps that were issued in much larger quantities. I notice this in the stamps of Nicaragua, which I specialize in. I have kept an account of the surcharged stamps which I have received from the Republic, in used condition, and accompanying these notes you will find a list of the Cordoba surcharges on the liberty, locomotive and blue official sets.

During the past three years, I have received from four persons, none of whom are stamp dealers or collectors, over 160,000 used Nicaraguan stamps. Out of these, I found 5,035 Cordoba surcharges of the three issues mentioned. It will be noticed that the low values were rarely found and yet these are priced in the catalogue at three cents unused, and would possibly be priced the same used, if that column were filled out.

Another note worthy of mention, is the wide spacing (18 mm.) of the surcharge found on the Cordoba surcharge on the Liberty set. Several Nicaragua collectors and myself have come to the conclusion that the first printing, used on the Liberty set, was closely spaced

dos	dos
centavos	centavos
de cordoba	de cordoba
1913	1913

(14 mm.) to fit the stamp, but when the surcharge was applied to the Locomotive set, the stamps being larger, the spacings were widened. Finding that the new permanent set was not ready and that further surcharging had to be done, the same form was again used on the Liberty set, resulting in having the wide spacing the same as was used on the Locomotive issue. The wide spacing is scarce, and is not mentioned in the catalogue, although it is a distinct variety. My list follows:—

UNITED STATES.—The following chronicle of new envelopes has been kindly furnished by J. M. Bartels:

1916 Issue, new design, Two Cents, Die 128.

2c — 5 White 20 87
In Nos. 1241 and 1243 was described a watermarked paper used for the printing of the current perforated Officially Sealed stamps. That watermark was an enlarged representation of the Great Seal of the United States. Now comes the Gray Stamp Co. with a sheet of the same stamps rouletted, with an entirely different watermark. This appears in this case only on the top row of five stamps, and reads "Rolleston Mills." Presumably other sheets of stamps cut from the same large sheet of plain paper, might not have any watermark at all. The letters of the watermark are large, about the full width of stamp design for the capitals and tall letters.

ARGENTINE.—Ewen's Weekly reports the 24c as having been seen on paper watermarked four arrow heads, one in each corner. The 10c on the same paper was chronicled some time since.

BELGIUM.—W. T. Wilson sends us a complete set of the Belgian postage due stamps, which are now printed in London (presumably). The shades of all values differ from the Belgian prints, those of the 5c, 20c and 50c being totally different. A prominent difference in the design may be noted in the tail of the left-hand lion, the tuft having a quite different finish towards the foot of the lion, and is smaller and of different shape from the first issue.

Postage Due Adhesives.

10c bright carmine.

50c pearl gray.

BRAZIL.—In No. 1309, on the authority of Mawry's Collectionneur, we described the stamp issued late last year to commemorate the discovery of Cape Frio. Hermann Focke has now shown us this stamp, which is evidently printed locally, as it is poorly designed and roughly executed. Mr. Focke also shows us another commemorative stamp from this country, issued this year to commemorate the tricentenary of the founding of the city of Belem-Para at the mouth of the Amazon. This is the port known in commercial circles as Para, and as the great crude rubber shipping port of Brazil. The stamp is of the same size and shape as the Cape Frio stamp, with "Brazil" in the upper left "Tri Centenario da Fundacao da Cidade de Belem-Para" across the top, the value, 100 reis, in the lower left corner, the dates "1616" and "1916" at the bottom, and "Sello Postal" reading up at the left. The main portion of the design is divided into two parts by a column of foliage, and shows to the left a Portuguese vessel of three hundred years ago, and a modern freight steamer, with a steam crane for transferring cargo. Printed on white wove paper, and perforated 11.

BUSHIRE.—W. T. Wilson writes as follows: I find in my second consignment that there has been a new setting of the overprint—printed on horizontal strips of 10 as before. The salient differences in the new setting are, no stop after "Occupation" 9th stamp. The 10th stamp has the capitals "U & B" in "Under British" of the same size as all the others in strip whereas on the 1st setting they were smaller, the spacing in these two words also differs.

COLOMBIA.—Elliott Perry has shown us the 1/2c, 1c and 2c stamps of the current figure set, 1908 issue, "Lit. Nacional," with the overprint noted on page 210 of the latest Catalogue. In spite of Scott's note there printed, these stamps are coming through on the mail to New York, indicating either a scarcity of stamps or an extended use to which the Catalogue note does not apply. Mr. Perry submits specimens of the 1c, thus overprinted, both Nos. 362 and 362a. As the covers had no other stamps, these Department stamps evidently paid foreign postage.

CUBA.—Elliott Perry has shown us a new Officially Sealed stamp for Cuba. The design is the same as the previous issue as far as arrangement, but is lithographed, and entirely changed as far as type and ornaments, as well as color and perforation, are concerned. The new stamps are rouletted and printed in gray blue instead of light blue.

Officially Sealed Adhesive.

No value, gray blue.

ICELAND.—The Sterling Stamp Co. has shown us the 3a and 5a of the double portrait set, on paper watermarked multiple crosses.

ITALY.—The Red Cross stamps, mentioned some time since, have been shown us by the Sterling Stamp Co. They are of large size, 22x27 mm., and of striking appearance. "Poste Italiane" runs across the top, with the selling value at the top, and the Red Cross part of the value at the bottom. For instance the value expressed at the top is "Cent. 10" for one and "Cent. 15" for the other, while at MEXICO.—Anent the controversy which has arisen over the Anvil Seal stamps of Sonora, the following sent us by George W. Linn will be of interest:

Jan. 6, 1916.

Messrs. G. W. LINN Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Dear Sirs:—

By the present I make it known that, till the eleventh day of November, 1915, I was General Postmaster of the State of Sonora, Republic of Mexico, and that I can give truthful information about the postage stamps used till that date in the State of Sonora, and about the stamp known by the name of "Yunque," "Anvil Seal," as you call them.

The Anvil Seal five and ten cent stamps, without overprint, were the only ones in circulation. Although there were stamps of other values, they were never put in circulation in the postoffices, all of which were under my supervision. Later, and upon orders from the Citizen Governor Randall, I ordered to Hermosillo to print, or place, the overprint "plata" on all the stock of "yunque" stamps, from the 1c to the 50c values, but there was no time nor facility to put into circulation in any of the postal offices, the stamps with the overprint "plata."

Yours very truly,

MANUEL LACARRA M.

The above is a translation from the Spanish, the original of which is in the possession of Mr. Linn, the writer of the letter being Postmaster General of Sonora under the Villa regime. Mr. Linn adds the following:—

"I have steadfastly claimed that the Anvil Seal stamps, other than the 5c and 10c values, were never issued by the Government. The values 1, 2, 20 and 50c are being offered with various claims for their authenticity and I firmly believe that they deserve no recognition. I fully admit that these four values were prepared by the Government and that they were intended to be issued but do not believe that they were ever issued for use as large lots of the Coach Seal stamps of these values were still available and are still being offered and there was for this reason no immediate need for the Anvil stamps other than the 5c and 10c values. Made to order covers bearing the 1, 2, 5, 10 and 20c Anvil stamps are being offered as proof of their use but the fact that covers genuinely used with values other than the 5c and 10c have never turned up in sufficient number or in such manner as to show that they were actually used for postage purposes and not for sale to collectors is a fact. In fact I have never seen any other than 5c and 10c genuinely used on genuine covers."

NAURU.—According to the Schweizer Briefmarken-Zeitung, this small island in the South Pacific has just established a postal service of its own. It was formerly one of the German Marshall Islands group. Six values of the current English stamps have been overprinted "NAURU" in thin type on the pence values and in large type on the high values.

THE 2c CANAL ZONE INVERT.

Emil J. Rall submits for our inspection a specimen copy of the 2c Canal Zone invert, reference to which has already been made in our columns. Mr. Rall writes us in relation to this stamp as follows:—

Incredible as it may seem, the American Bank Note Co. allowed a sheet of Panama 2-cent stamps with inverted head to slip by. It was cut up on the Zone for books of 24 stamps each, and placed on sale at one of the postoffices here, and a number of the stamps had been used before their condition was discovered."

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322 Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P.M.

Boston, Feb. 7, 1916.

The 252nd (regular) meeting of the Society will be held at the Club Room, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15th, at 8.15 p. m.

Before the meeting at 6 p. m., we will have a dinner at the "Hayward", notice of which has already been sent out.

The application of Mr. H. F. Bucknam will be voted upon.

Mr. Carpenter will exhibit as part of the entertainment of the evening, his complete set of Portuguese stamps and Portuguese Colonies, which are the same as were made for the King of Spain. A portion of these were of necessity reprinted and they form a very interesting collection. The lantern will be used to show a set of slides illustrating the development of the modern steam engine, also a few stamp slides. If you cannot get to the dinner, make an effort to be at the meeting. Don't forget that the Society is forming a collection! Look over the books and see if you haven't something good among your duplicates which is lacking in them. At the next informal meeting, there will be an auction sale. Send your lots to the new Supt., A. M. Wright, 47 Court St., Boston.

Special Prices on British North America

I offer the following desirable stamps at specially low prices for cash with order. The stamps are in good to fine condition; unused for the most part with original gum,—but this is not guaranteed for the earlier issues. As my stock of some numbers is very low, I should appreciate an alternative selection in the case of issues before 1880. Some items I can still offer in mint sheets, and the attention of dealers is invited to such offerings. Every item is offered subject to my money-back guarantee. If YOU are not satisfied, for any reason, you will receive a full refund, and no questions asked, upon the return of stamps. The prices will speak for themselves.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

VII. First Issue of 1866.

On November 26, 1866, the first 1d and 6d stamps were dispatched from London to the Virgin Islands. The new stamps were on sale about the end of the year. This first consignment was supplied by Messrs. Nissen & Parker of London, but the stamps were printed for this firm by Messrs. Waterlow & Sons.

A single die was engraved on sheet for each value, and then lithographic transfers were made in plate form. The plate contained 25 impressions (5x5) for each value. One early writer stated that the first 1d stamps were in sheets of 24 (4x6), but we believe this statement to be incorrect.

Later on we shall see that certain values are known to have been printed from different sized plates, but in this case we cannot confirm the statement that either value was ever issued other than 25 stamps to the sheet.

The parcel of stamps mailed from London on November 26, 1866, contained:

1d	20,000
	2,000
6d	10,000
	1,000

The above figures are those supplied by the Royal Society's work; the explanation of the split in the figures being that the large parcel of each value was sent direct to St. Thomas, whilst the smaller quantities were mailed direct to Sir Arthur Rumbold, Bart., the President of the Virgin Islands. Sir Arthur was a brother to Sir Horace Rumbold, the well-known diplomatist.

The stamps were printed on wove unwatermarked paper—white and "toned". Chroniclers of the period tell us that the paper makers' "watermark" consisting of "the letters AC or N's in double-lined Egyptian characters" is in the paper. Another describes it as "A. CO., watermarked in letters about 3/4 in. high." We think collectors would be well advised to practically ignore the description "toned" paper. The stamps were printed on white paper, and in the case of the 6d denomination it is definitely known that only one consignment was sent out: perforated 12. This being the case it is most unlikely that this one printing should have been on two different papers.

It is much more likely that the so-called "toned paper" specimens of these stamps are changelings of some description—the white paper becoming "toned" in certain instances through some sort of atmospheric or chemical influence.

There is a well-known variety of the first 6d stamp consisting of a large "V" in "Virgin" (a faulty retouch by the lithographer?). This variety is the last stamp in the third row of the sheet. This stamp also shows a thickening of the border line above the "V" of "Virgin".

Both values exist imperforate. The 1d green is known perforated 12x15 but does not appear to have been issued in that condition.

Two very pronounced shades of the 1d belong to this perf. 12 issue, and it is probable, therefore, that one of the later consignments of this value was perforated 12; this at least is a logical conclusion.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

new values—4d lake-red and 1sh rose-carmine and black—in a larger format and in new designs to the first 1d and 6d stamps. The designs we are told may be compared with Guido Reni's picture, "Our Lady of the Immaculate Conception—Clothed with the sun, having the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars." As has already been stated the engraver was given the seal of the Judiciary Court portraying the Goddess of Justice as his model for the design.

It is impossible, however, to say what the exact significance of the design on the 4d and 1sh denominations may be, although it is fairly safe to assume that the figure represents the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The subsequent sendings of 1d and 6d stamps were of the same design as the first issue, but the perforation gauged 15. The complete list of consignments sent to the Virgin Islands (after Nov. 26, 1866) by Messrs. Nissen & Parker (printed by Waterlow & Sons) were:

- 1867 (July 12th)—4 pence, perf. 15: 10,000 and 2,000.
1 shilling, perf. 15: 10,000 coloured border, and 1,000 plain border (double lined).
1868 (June 6th)—1 penny, perf. uncertain: 1,000.
4 pence, perf. 15: 1,000.
6 pence, perf. 15: 1,000.
1 shilling, plain border (single lined) perf. 15: 1,000 and 1,000.
1870 (October 25th)—1 penny, perf. 15: 2,000.
1871 (January 12th)—1 penny, perf. 15: 2,000.
(March 21st)—1 penny, perf. 15: 3,500.
(September 6th)—1 penny, perf. 15: 4,000.
1872 (February 7th)—1 penny, perf. 15: 6,300.
1873 (March 15th)—1 penny, perf. 15: 2,000.
1874 (January 1st)—1 penny, perf. 15: 4,000.
(October 14th)—1 penny, perf. 15: 7,000.
1876 (September 2nd)—1 penny, perf. 15: 6,000.

In the case of the 1d and 6d denominations there is nothing to show whether the lithographic stones were cleaned and new transfers taken for each supply subsequent to the first 1866 printing, as has been suggested. The existence of a sheet of 12 (4x3) of the 1d value (1870) certainly adds weight to the argument, but on the other hand it seems unlikely that this trouble was taken for each fresh supply—more especially when the supplies followed each other in such rapid succession from 1870-74.

It is curious that so many consignments of the 1d value were required during so brief a period. The quantities supplied were of course comparatively small, but they were above the postal needs of these sparsely populated islands. The sudden increase in demand recorded around the year 1870 was due to the importations of stamp dealers—the orders for two or three hundred copies from the few odd firms making all the difference. All four values of the "perf. 15" series were the work of Waterlow & Sons and were supplied by Messrs. Nissen & Parker as before.

—"Enclosed is sample of the new 1916 Panama-California Int. Expo. postal cancellation at San Diego which you may not yet have seen. The newly installed San Francisco exhibits are not all in yet and the enlarged expo. will not formally open till March, but the original exhibits are still drawing attendance. We hear the U. S. Government exhibits and the Canadian exhibit will all be there, which is good news."—ARTHUR W. LINE.

—A new advertising postmark is shown in connection with the San Diego Exposition. This exposition will continue during the year 1916 and mail matter from Los Angeles bears the inscription in five lines in the cancellation, "Panama California—International—Exposition—At San Diego—1916".

—There is a letter at this office for Chas. W. A. Braun. Once more we must remind our subscribers that our mailing list is not arranged alphabetically, but by mailing routes, and it is impossible for us to find addresses.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Charles H. Hermann (3), V. W. Rotnem, Chas. B. Lazar, Hollis Thacher.

—Dr. L. A. Micheloni sends the WEEKLY greetings from Barbados. The doctor is on his way south to Montevideo, sailing on the "Crofton Hall".

—The adlet of the Fordham Stamp Exchange shows that the firm is now located at 132 Nassau St. The firm will no doubt profit by its close proximity to the stamp mart of the United States, as the neighborhood of Nassau Street is now recognized to be.

—Over 750 stamp-collectors, headed by King George, have given valuable stamps from their collections to the National Philatelic War Funds Auction which will take place in London in March. An estimate of the value of the stamps given to date, is $10,000, but it is hoped to receive additional gifts to ensure a sum of $15,000 being realised, that being the approximate cost of the Red Cross work in the war for one day.

—If you are a collector of United States stamps you cannot afford to dispense with Goodwin's book "Specialized United States". It covers every issue in detail and the price is only 50c. Address this office.

—"With reference to your editorial on page 64 about the mysterious proprietary revenue stamps, it may be of interest to know that the 2 cent variety is apparently being put to actual use. I saw one today in connection with a 4c stamp on a card to which were attached several bottles of Colgate's perfume. It was in a 5 and 10c store, and instead of attaching a stamp to each of the little bottles, the tax for the lot was paid by attaching the stamps to the card, 2 plus 4 or 6c in all."—BENJAMIN CADBURY.

—"I have never forgotten the series of articles written by Mr. Goodwin and first published about four years ago, entitled, 'Specialized United States,' and with these articles in my mind I take the liberty of asking some one rise up and write another series of articles in the same style and along the same lines, about 'Specialized Paraguay.' STAMP AUCTIONS

stamps of this interesting country are my especial favorites and it has occurred to me that there might be some others, perhaps many, who would agree with me. A well written article would draw the attention of others to Paraguay who had not previously thought of it, especially those who might be looking for some country to specialize in which is a little out of the beaten track."—W. H. ZIMMER.

—G. W. Armitage, an English philatelist, has given his entire collection valued at $4,500 to the auction to be held in connection with the National Philatelic War Fund. It comprises a fine lot of early Ceylon, Nevis, St. Helena, St. Vincent, Nova Scotia, etc.

—One of our contemporaries says editorially that it is not in favor of amateur stamp dealing and that its columns will not be used in that direction. We note that this paper and other papers as well, while condemning our propaganda in this direction, do not hesitate to accept advertising from some of the newer dealers that the WEEKLY has been instrumental in assisting.

—An English paper, The Bazaar, is authority for the statement that a series of postage stamps is in preparation for Servia. It will be prepared at the Italian Printing Works at Turin.

—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. of St. Louis, Mo., has removed from Garrison Av. to 2600 Olive St., where the firm has a very pretty suite of office rooms, six in number.

—The A. S. C. calling attention to the chronicle of the series of Madero stamps in a recent issue of the WEEKLY charges that the floating of this set "is simply a stamp dealing trick and its timely exposure will prevent the uninitiated from being stung." It further adds that the WEEKLY was no doubt honest in its chronicle of the set but says:—"Errors of judgment of this kind have a tendency to destroy confidence." This is all very interesting but when you turn over a couple of pages and find the set advertised for sale a big question mark looms up before one.

—Cuba Filatelica announces that about the middle of this year a new issue of stamps will be put into circulation in that country, the different values bearing portraits of Cuban leaders as follows: 1c green, Cespedes; 2c red, M. Gomez; 3c violet, J. Sanguilly; 5c blue, Marti; 8c orange, Estrada Palma; 10c gray, Calixto Garcia; 50c lilac, Agramonte; $1 orange, Maceo. In addition there will be three new postal cards put out.—Stamp Trade.

—There is a letter at this office from A. F. Reynolds. Will the party who desired his address please communicate with us? Will the party in Hollister, Cal., who on Feb. 7th ordered the book "U. S. Stamped Envelopes" please send his name to the WEEKLY office?

—"I am very glad that a number of letters have been sent you in regard to the use of carbon-tetrachloride for detecting watermarks. When I first read the article on its use I bought some for use on about a dozen stamps. I ruined all of them."—L. L. STEIMLEY.

—"Supplementing your comment regarding the Department stamps of Columbia I can state that these stamps have been used on mail coming to the U. S. from the time they were issued. I have six values of the first setting (a) on the Arango issue and four values on the 1908 issue, and in addition to these have just received a cover with a registration stamp (Lit. National) carrying a double surcharge. All of them paid postage and came through without postage due. The second setting (b) is much scarcer and I have never received but two covers with stamps so surcharged."—FRANK C. DAVIS.

—Any persons having claims against Carl Hirsch, Needles, Cala., please communicate with L. Lazorus, 836 13th St., Oakland, Cala. This party has been previously reported in the WEEKLY.

—"I notice from time to time the reporting of 'unsatisfactory dealings with' this or that person, often several dealers reporting the same person. There is a sure remedy here—simply the presentation of such cases to the United States Post Office Inspector located at the nearest point to such dealer. These transactions are usually carried on postally, and Postal Laws are violated where selections or quantities of stamps are secured on approval by persons who neglect to pay for them or make any returns, and one prosecution along this line would tend to put a stop to the practice, especially if much publicity was given the action."—HENRY B. EVANS.

COLLECTORS CLUB ANNIVERSARY.

Complete preparations have been made for the twentieth annual dinner of the New York Collectors Club, to be held Thursday evening, March 9th. This promises to be the biggest affair ever held by the club.

The place selected has been the Hotel Savoy, Fifth Avenue and 59th St., in the main ball room. Reservations have been made for 100 people. The chairman of the Dinner Committee, Mr. P. C. Hartell has promised many novel features for the dinner, and the souvenirs are useful for philatelists.

The price per plate has been fixed at $2.50, and tickets may be secured from any New York dealer or from Mr. Herman Toasperm, 233 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The club has been unusually active during the last season and a long and spirited competition has been going on for a handsome silver cup. To date Senator E. R. Ackerman leads, with Messrs. T. L. Wells and H. B. Newman close behind. The February meeting takes place on the 17th, at the club rooms, 30 West 42nd St., when U. S. revenues will be shown. Some of the exhibitors will be Mr. Clarence H. Eagle, winner of the same class at the International exhibition, two years ago, Mr. P. C. Hartell, and Mr. William White. Mr. Wells will exhibit several volumes of his 20th century collection as well.

Visitors are always welcome.

ATTENTION MR. AULT.

In justification of the interview relative to our philatelists discontinuing their hobby after marriage, accredited to our philatelic friend, Mr. Ault, as carried in the press dispatches at the time of the A. P. S. Convention in San Francisco, we will let the following appear just this once, and withhold sentence on the party who submitted it.

The following is alleged to have been overheard during a lull of conversation as to the latest styles, at an afternoon bridge party.

"My husband", said one matron, "was a confirmed stamp collector when I married him a year ago, but today he never touches a stamp".

"That is fine", approved one of the group, "to break off the habit of a life time in one year requires a strong will."

"Well," softly remarked the aforesaid matron, "that is just the kind of a will I've got."—Collectors' Companion.

EDITORIAL.

Next Week—The special issue of February 26th will meet the expectations of readers we feel sure; and the pages of the number will bear testimony to the present day activity. We hope to include the judge's report on the recent "cover contest" in the issue in question and in view of the fact that there were upwards of eighty entries in the competition, we shall provide ample space for the findings in recognition of the great degree of interest that was manifested by the entrants.

An Addition—We were unable to include in last week's issue, further comment on Mr. H. R. Lloyd's interesting letter enclosing clipping, both on the subject of early postal routes, from the Springfield Republican; and by a coincidence we are enabled to supplement our remarks by data timely and of some importance. First, let us read a further explanation of Mr. Lloyd which gives a somewhat deeper significance to his previous contribution: "There is one important point in connection with the matter that I did not emphasize though the clipping notes it. This is that in 1851, the present Boston and Albany railroad was made up of two lines, the Boston and Worcester road and the 'eastern railroad' so that there would be no excuse for a 'Boston & Albany R. R.' postmark, unless there existed some sort of mail route." This contention gives rise to the question of any distinction between a "mail route" and a railroad post office, in the early days and presents a phase that at this time we cannot discuss authoritatively. However, we now have conclusive proof that the "Boston & Albany R. R." route was in existence in 1848, as we have before us a letter-sheet bearing the "5" handstamp and the postmark under notice, that was written January 2, 1848, and sent from Millbury, Mass., to North Wilbraham, Mass. Evidently, there was no "Boston & Albany R. R." in existence in 1851 even, as Mr. Lloyd's statement is confirmed by a table of railroad statistics compiled in 1853, in which the Boston and Albany road is not mentioned, though the Boston and Worcester and the Eastern have place. It would appear that so early as January, 1848, there was a purely postal route in distinction from "offices" as the mail car or mail compartment car on regular runs were called. The scope of our inquiry now becomes widened and we hope to have fuller information of this interesting fragment of postal history. We may add that Mr. H. R. Lloyd local editor of the Springfield, Mass., Republican, is attracted by the early postal history of our country, a field that sometimes richly rewards cultivation.

Death Stamp—The Associated Press circulated some time ago, a most interesting account of Switzerland's operation of the international mail service for the prisoners of war of all nations engaged in the conflict. Mention has been made heretofore of Switzerland's generous impulse in attending to the task of mail establishment between the prisoners and their families and all tribute may be given to the republic for its humanitarian work, the expense of which is borne by the country itself. In the press story a label is described that has a pathetic significance. It has a black border and the single word, "Decede." The "Decede" label is used to indicate that the addressee has died on the field or in the hospital and the letter or package is returned to the sender with the sombre label attached. It is only after every effort has been made to deliver the mail without success that the official records and other sources of authoritative information are searched; and when confirmation is had of the fate of the addressee, the story is told by the "Decede" label.

Fire—From Mr. George W. Linn Columbus, Ohio, we have heard that his printing office has burned. The "fire fiend" got in some good licks and the loss was considerable but covered by insurance. Mr. Linn's book on Sonora, the preparation of which has long engaged Mr. Linn's attention was practically ready to go to press as some of the forms were locked up and the others were in page forms awaiting a few corrections; and several of these were "pied." In consequence, part of the book must be re-set but Mr. Linn calculates that the delay in publication will not be above thirty days.

Off Color—Correspondents occasionally call attention to the 3 cent red of Canada, the 3 cent, U. S., 1851, and other stamps red in color normally, in shades that range from a light brown to almost black. Naturally, varieties of the kind are the source of some speculation on the part of the collector who sees them for the first time. These color variants are changelings and at times in the past, certain ones of them have been the subject of warm discussion; e. g., the 2 cent Canada registered, first issue, in brown was upheld once upon a time as a genuine issue by a band of partizans. The stamps under notice printed in red mineral inks become sulphuretted under certain chemical conditions and the resulting sulphides darken the stamps to brown or even black. Often, peroxide of hydrogen of the right potency will restore the original color, the extra atom of oxygen eliminating the sulphur cast.

Society Activity—We have been informed that during the latter part of January, the Niagara Philatelic Club held an exhibition of stamps in a prominent down-town store window in Niagara Falls, New York, in commemoration of the first anniversary of the organization of the society. The Niagara Philatelic Club was a consequence of the American Philatelic Society convention at Niagara Falls in 1914. Through the efforts of Mr. Harry C. Burns whose inspiration came from the convention, a society with a membership of twelve live collectors was organized and subsequently, not a few of the members joined leading national organizations. Mr. Burns has reason to feel proud of the results of his work in a city of comparatively small population. Mr. Joseph S. Davis writes that the annual banquet of the South California Branch of the American Philatelic Society will be held in Los Angeles on the evening of March 21, 1916. Plans embracing novel ideas have been adopted and it is the expectation to make the occasion of unusual enjoyment. In fact, no pains will be spared to make the banquet one of the most brilliant in the annals of California philately and visiting collectors in particular will be heartily welcomed to the feast, the date of which should be kept in mind so that plans may be made accordingly.

Sir David Masson—The death of Sir David Parkes Masson, Kt., C. I. E., V. D., is recorded in the English stamp papers as having occurred in London on December 30, 1915. Sir David Masson spent much time in India where he was honored with the presidency of the Philatelic Society of India; and he is well remembered through his exhaustive studies of the stamps of some of the Indian states in the Philatelic Journal of India, the journal of the society. He was the foremost specialist in the stamps of Kashmir and perhaps of Afghanistan, his Kashmir handbook having been a remarkable contribution to the literature of philately. The decedent's long residence in India afforded him advantageous opportunities for his thorough studies and he embraced them intelligently. Sir David Masson's death at the age of 68 removes one of the great philatelists of the times from our world.

An Aid—A London firm's advertisements exemplify the application of philately to geography in a graphic manner. The claim is made fairly that "a pioneer step" has been taken "in combining philately with geography by mounting sets of foreign and colonial stamps on cards illustrated with a first-class map of the country of issue, and with some valuable information respecting that country."

Celebration—The twentieth annual dinner of the Collectors Club, New York City, to be given at the Hotel Savoy will be an occasion of no little significance. We remember when the Collectors Club was organized and how the establishing of the Club was regarded as having marked an epoch in the advance of philately in this country. That the formidable undertaking was carried out successfully is a source of gratification to all philatelists and much pride was felt at the time in the knowledge that philately was substantial enough to support a real club, in the metropolis of the country. The Collectors Club has every right to celebrate its twentieth anniversary with unusual spirit and enthusiasm; and we trust that the event will be as pleasantly impressive as it deserves to be. Our wish is that this Club may ever continue to be a dignified exponent of philately.

1c DUE ON RETURNED DEAD LETTERS.

By W. R. HARRISON.

Noting your reference to an inquiry made by your subscriber, Dr. I. Thurman Mann, regarding the collection on delivery of 1c due upon a returned dead letter, I am able to give the necessary enlightenment.

On and after December 1, 1915, Sec. 630 of the Postal Laws and Regulations was amended by the insertion of the words "or on return through the Division of Dead Letters." I think this will be more clear when I quote the section referred to and the same section as amended.

Sec. 630, par. 1. All letters published as non-delivered shall be charged with one cent in addition to the regular postage, to be accounted for as part of the postal revenue.

Par. 2. The same charge as on letters shall be made on all other advertised matter. Such charge shall be collected on delivery by means of a postage due stamp, which shall not be affixed until the charge has been paid.

The December, 1915, Official Postal Guide contains the following:

November 6, 1915.

Order No. 9264,
Effective December 1, 1915.
Sec. 630, paragraph 2, P. L. & R. is amended to read as follows:

The same charge as on letters shall be made on all other advertised matter. Such charge shall be collected on delivery, or on return through the Division of Dead Letters, by means of a postage due stamp, which shall not be affixed until the charge has been paid.

From all of the above we are to deduct the following; Paragraph 1 provides for a charge of one cent on all letters which are advertised. Advertised letters which are unclaimed are sent to the Division of Dead Letters, and there opened and returned to the sender when known. Such returned dead letters are sent in penalty envelopes. Heretofore, there was no charge made on these letters when they were returned to the senders, but paragraph 2 as now amended, provides that this one cent charge may be collected on return as well as on delivery to the addressee. If Uncle Sam does not get it going he may come back, a source of considerable revenue, as you will readily see.

MAIL SERVICE BY AEROPLANE.

Clipping by H. W. BOERS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12—In advertisements issued today for bids upon contracts for providing aerial mail service, the Postmaster General gives manufacturers of aeroplanes and hydroplanes opportunity to meet practical tests as regular carriers of the United States mails. The bids are to be opened May 12, and October 1 next is named as the date for beginning service.

The action is taken both to improve mail service and to stimulate the development of the science of aviation in the United States because of its close relation to the general question of military preparedness. In view of philanthropic effort already begun to finance undertakings which involve more general use of aeroplanes, such as that of maintaining an aerial patrol of the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts as an adjunct of the Coast Guard, it is believed that the capital will be raised to make the tests in the postal service.

The advertisements cover one mail route across Buzzards Bay and Nantucket Sound, in Southern Massachusetts, and seven routes in Alaska. If such service is proven feasible and reliable over these routes, a gradual expansion to many other routes upon which present means of transportation are slow and inadequate will follow.

In the past 10 years United States mails have been carried by aeroplane many times, but never regularly over authorized mail routes. Usually such feats have been incidental features of fairs and expositions, and have merely involved trips in good weather from the Post office to the fair grounds.

"THE CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

On April 8 we shall issue a special number of the WEEKLY that will have a very large circulation. It will be made particularly attractive to young stamp collectors, and with that idea in mind we solicit short articles dealing with "The Charm of Stamp Collecting". Articles of not more than 1,000 words are desired and $5 will be given for the best entry. We reserve the right to publish any other entry that we may desire and if the contest should prove successful enough to warrant it, one or more consolation prizes will also be given. Entries must be made on or before March 20 and we hope there will be a strong competition.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—E. J. Gifford has shown us the 12c in the new shade reported by O. D. Challans recently. It is certainly a nondescript shade,—an expert says rose brown—certainly not the maroon of the English catalogues. Mr. Gifford's specimen is perforated 10.

BUSHIRE.—Alfred Smith's Circular has the following regarding the Persian stamps overprinted for the British occupation, which will be interesting reading to many people:

"The British occupation of Bushire was only temporary and ceased, by mutual agreement of the two countries, on October 22nd. The provisional stamps (which included surcharges on the Coronation series and on a postcard) were not a British emission but were issued by the Persian authorities themselves to mark the occupation of Bushire by a foreign and friendly power. Their issue seems to have been of a philatelic nature, as it is stated that during the occupation the surcharged and unsurcharged Persian stamps were used quite indiscriminately."

CAMEROONS.—Smith's Circular says that the 5c, 10c, 25c and 35c stamps of Gabon, issue of 1910, have been overprinted "Corps expeditionnaire Franco-Anglais, Cameroun," for the use of the expeditionary force, now operating in that German Colony.

CANADA.—We have received from Mrs. E. W. Oughtred a specimen of the new 3c war stamp as issued in coil form. Mrs. Oughtred states that there is a strong objection to the use of the provisional because of its similarity to the regular 2c stamp.

Gladstone Perry informs us that the new 3c stamp, combining war tax and postage, in coil form is perforated 8 vertically.

CANAL ZONE.—Benjamin Cadbury reports having received a cover, postmarked, "Ancon, Nov. 8, 1915," with both centre and "Canal Zone" overprint inverted. This is Scott's No. 42.

The New England Stamp Co. has shown us a new printing of the postage due stamps of 1915, the overprint being in red, while each stamp has a large figure of value in the overprint.

EPHRAIM.—The 1, 2, 3, and 5 lepta Greek stamps of the Occupation series of 1913, have been overprinted in red, in the type of Scott's Nos. 49 to 60.

FIJI ISLANDS.—Another value has been issued in the Georgian series.

2sh 6d red and black on blue.

FRENCH OCEANICA.—Scott's Circular has the following: "The islands constituting the French Establishments in Oceanica are scattered over a large area in the Pacific Ocean east of Australia. They include the Society, Marquesas, Tuamotu, Gambier and several smaller groups. Tahiti is the most important of the islands. In April last two Red Cross stamps were issued in Tahiti.

They were made by surcharging a cross and the word 'Tahiti' in red on two stamps of French Oceanica, the 15c blue of 1892 and the 15c gray of 1900. The issue was limited and was quickly exhausted. We are not informed if its use was restricted to Tahiti but there were probably not enough of the stamps to be sent elsewhere. It is treated by most catalogues as an issue for Tahiti only.

"In May the 10c red of the 1900 issue of Oceanica, which had been withdrawn from use, was surcharged 'E. F. O. 1915' and became again available for postage. This stamp received a further surcharge of a cross and '5c.' One stamp in the setting of twenty-five had a small 'e' in place of the 'c.' This issue did not last very long and in September a third issue of charity stamps was made. For this 30,000 copies of the 10c of 1893 were surcharged with a cross and 5c. The surcharge was in vermilion and placed across the lower part of the stamp. It is known with the surcharge inverted, with letter 'c' inverted, and with 'e' instead of 'c'.

"Now we learn that in October a fourth Red Cross stamp was made by surcharging 45,000 copies of the 10c of 1913. The surcharge is quite like that on the third issue but has a short bar below the 'c' and is printed in deep carmine near the top of the stamp."

The New England Stamp Co. has shown us this latest overprint.

ITALY.—The Red Cross stamps described last week, have been overprinted "LIBIA" in black.

LIBERIA.—The New England Stamp Co. has shown us two Red Cross stamps from this Republic, the triangular stamps, Scott's type A 49, having been surcharged with a red cross and "2c" in red.

LICHENSTEIN.—The stamps of this Principality have appeared on ordinary paper, instead of chalk-surfaced.

POLAND.—The following regarding the Warsaw stamps recently chronicled is from Scott's Circular:

It appears that the German forces now in occupation of Poland made no provision for postal service in the city of Warsaw. Therefore, a committee of citizens applied for permission to conduct such a service, which was granted. The stamps were, of course, a necessary feature of the undertaking. They are not issued by a firm for private gain but a body of citizens acting in an official capacity and under the sanction of the German government. Thus they would seem to be more than local stamps (as that term is usually understood) and in the same class as the stamps issued for the cities of St. Petersburg, Medellin, Tangier, etc.

It was the original intention to have stamps of 5 and 10 groszy. The groszy is the Polish groschen and is equivalent to 1/2 kopec. It is stated that before the stamps were issued it was decided that the 5g rate was insufficient and it was advanced to 6g and the 5g stamps were surcharged in accordance. Copies of the 5g are known without surcharge but it is not certain that they were regularly issued in this shape. There have already been seen the 5g, 6g on 5g, 10g and 2g on 10g stamps.

The stamps are printed by lithography in two operations, first a light background tint and then the design in a much darker color. They are in sheets of forty, five rows of eight, and perforated 11 1/2. The designs and execution are somewhat primitive and suggestive of the "horrors of war." The 5g has the arms of the city of Warsaw, a figure said to symbolize the river Vistula, having the head and torso of a

NEW YORK, Feb. 3, 1916.

Mr. J. M. Bartels presided, 20 members and 3 visitors being present. In the absence of Mr. W. O. Staeb, Mr. H. Meininger was appointed Secretary pro tem.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted. After regular routine of meeting was finished, Mr. E. A. Fleisher's collection of Sudan was exhibited by Mr. E. Klein, Mr. Fleisher being unable to attend. Mr. Klein called attention to the fact that this collection was a medal winner at the recent N. Y. Exhibition. Votes of thanks were rendered to Messrs. Fleisher and Klein. Mr. Jancovich also addressed and thanked Mr. Klein in Arabic, a language which is rarely heard in cosmopolitan New York.

Mr. Meininger gave a very interesting and amusing talk on his experience as stamp collector.

Mr. Klein donated two hand books on Sudan for free drawing which were won by Messrs. Stypman and Eggers.

Mr. Jancovich returned under the rules of the contest the President's cup, which he had held for the past year. Messrs. Jancovich and Schlesinger, who were tied for the prizes for this year, was decided by drawing for the prizes. Mr. Jancovich getting the president's cup and Mr. Schlesinger the N. Y. Stamp Society's cup.

Dr. Homburger has agreed to take Mr. Schlesinger's place and give us a talk as per our printed program.

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

Edited by BILL BLOSS, 2729 Hampden Court, Chicago, Ill.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

E. T. N.—In mounting your stamps, use a good peelable hinge. This can be obtained from any of the dealers in your town. Moisten one end of the hinge about one-eighth inch and apply to the top of the stamp, on reverse side. Now moisten the other end of the hinge for one-eighth inch and apply to your album page. Bend the hinge so that the crease comes to the top of the perforations on the stamp. This will protect them when the stamp is raised. If care is taken to moisten the ends only of the hinge, the lower end of the hinge should be fastened to the page while the middle section should not adhere to the page, but should be free to allow the stamp to be raised for inspection. A little practice will soon enable you to work quickly. If this is not sufficiently clear, send 2c stamp and I shall be glad to explain it more fully in a private reply.

2.—Labuan and North Borneo stamps are available for postage, though postally used copies are much rare than the cancelled to order. In fact, postally cancelled copies are worth over catalog in most instances. The circular town cancellation is generally a sign of a postally used copy, while the oval bar cancellation in the corner indicates cancelled to order.

3.—Sorry you've missed this department. I shall try to be a little more regular in the future.

4.—Don't send your stamps for inspection, please. I can't take the responsibility of handling other peoples' stamps. Ask as many questions as you like. I'm always glad to hear from you.

E. C. B.—Your Mexican stamps surcharged with date "1908-09" and similar dates, and with or without label, are revenues. Costa Rica is one of my favorites, too. I don't know of any work on that country. I am specializing in it myself. Perhaps you or some of the literature collectors can give me some light on articles on this country. Some day I may know enough to write one myself.

R. M.—Your 4 sen Japan is surcharged for use in China, and is listed at 8c unused.

A. J. J.—Your red sticker inscribed "The Postamper saves time, prevents loss, audits postage account—The Postamper Co.—Chicago" is an advertising label. This was undoubtedly made for demonstration in the Postamper machine, a device for stamping mail. The Schermack Company used a similar label in their machine a few years ago for advertising purposes.

2.—The label inscribed "half your letter postage is a tax" was issued by the National One Cent Letter Postage Association, Cleveland, Ohio, for use in their fight for one cent postage on first class matter.

3.—Your label inscribed "Protective Stamp" and "National Wholesale Liquor Dealers Association" is a new one on me.

The above are all "cousins of stamps" and are not stamps in the philatelic sense. Many collectors include these things as a side line, as they are more or less interesting.

E. R.—Livonia is a Russian province on the Baltic Sea, about 178 miles long and 111 miles wide. Wenden is a district in this province. Livonia is governed under the Russian Empire. It is a flat, sandy country, but produces fair crops when cultivated. Riga is the capital.

2.—Marokko is the correct German spelling for Morocco. This accounts for the correction made on the surcharged stamps.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE STAMP WORLD?

The war is bringing the mail orders of South America to U. S. instead of to Europe. We're glad to get the stamps over here.

The 4c Ecuador is ranking with the 4c Costa Rica in scarcity. The 3c is worth saving, too. They are few and far between.

A block of 10c Mexican 1915 unroulletted between failed to cause a sensation at a local dealer's store. These things must be expected from a country that has the stamp habit. Look out for other values.

Ever see any 14c Chile used? Evidently the Chileans don't like to lick Sr. Pinto's portrait, for the 12c wasn't used extensively.

Not having followed current issues for a month or two, we are surprised by the new Honduras set, and the Dominican Republic surcharges. These surcharges may prove good property. Many of the Dominican stamps are far scarcer than one would suppose.

Liberia has issued a red cross stamp. It is Iceland's turn next.

Someone is overlooking a bet. Why not a set of stamps for the Friendly Islands, or Christmas Island.

Keep your weather eye open for the two types of the new King George New Zealand stamps. What are they? Why the first type has a background of lines, while the second has a solid background. I have seen the second type with war surcharge only.

Cancelling ink must be getting expensive. In a recent lot of mail order covers, the stamps are only half obliterated, so I can make out the designs quite readily. Three Philippine stamps were fine! Really, though, they are hitting them lighter.

And Costa Rica still uses the 1910 issue. Pretty good for Central America. Five years since this country broke loose.

Business is good. Local dealers are all looking healthy. I saw one man eyeing a S—Six at the Auto Show. I looked at one. Anyone can do that.

Isn't it about time for Hayti or Nicaragua to erupt again?

Why not start a collection of 20th Century from 1916?

Will You Help a Fellow Collector?

The German Women's Relief Society, Omaha, Neb., is very desirous of securing donations of stamps for the use of prisoners at the camp at Naashimo, Japan. Surely you have some duplicates that you will donate for so worthy a purpose. These prisoners are denied the use of newspapers, letters are severely censored and the collecting of stamps becomes a veritable blessing to them.

For references we offer:—F. S. Parmelee the well known Omaha dealer, the First National Bank and the Omaha Commercial Club. Consignments of stamps will be promptly forwarded.

118 Nassau Street, NEW YORK CITY

THE STAMPS OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

For the purposes of easy reference we will discuss the four stamps separately and not in order of the consignments.

The One Penny Value.—It is stated in "West Indies" that all consignments of this denomination after the first shipment [Nov. 26, 1866, 22,000] were uniformly perforated 15.

Personally we doubt the accuracy of this statement. We have no proof to bring forward against the assertion made, but there are at least two good explanations that can be brought forward. First of all, the 1d perf. 15 was only chronicled as a novelty early in 1872, therefore one might assume that the 1d of 1870 was the first with the new perforation—although this does not necessarily follow.

Then again there are the two very distinct shades of the 1d perf. 12. One would not expect such variation in one consignment (printing). It also sounds reasonable to query the compound perforation variety: was this also in the "one" consignment?

These facts lead one to the belief that the 1d of June 6th, 1868, belonged to the perf. 12 issue, and consequently that the first consignment of this value with the new perforation was in October, 1870.

The sheets of this value were made up of 25 stamps (5x5). An exception is a sheet in the possession of Mr. Maycock which contains only 12 stamps made up in 4 rows of 3 stamps. Whether any other sized stones were ever made it is not known.

The 1d exists imperforate in the blue and yellow-green shades.

The Four Pence.—As was the case with the earliest consignment, the small parcels of this value and the 1d (1867) were sent direct to Sir Arthur Rumbold, the bulk going direct to St. Thomas.

The 4d was printed in sheets of 25 (5x5). We have heard a rumour of a sheet of 24, but this is probably a mistake and refers to the "re-issue" which will be dealt with later.

There are two distinct shades of this stamp, lake and lake-brown. The descriptions "pale rose" and "flesh-coloured paper" are undoubtedly superfluous. There certainly are variations in the tint of the paper, but there is no fast line as there is every conceivable minor shade between the so-called "rose" and "flesh" papers to be found. The paper as supplied might be styled pale dull brownish rose, the various offshoots in our opinion being changelings.

There are a few minor varieties in the sheet, but they are of the usual unimportant type associated with all lithographed stamps. The one minor variety worth consideration is a broken A in ISLANDS, which appears thus A.

The Six Pence.—Once again the so-called two colours of paper require some explanation. There was only one consignment of this stamp consisting of 40 sheets (1,000 stamps). The catalogue would have us believe therefore that 20 sheets were on white and 20 on toned paper. It is possible but most improbable.

This value with the perforation gauging 15 is extremely scarce and genuinely postally used may be termed a rarity. In all cases the "A91" cancellation is a sign of genuine usage, but although the "A13" may be quite legitimate in a few cases; in the majority it was applied to this stamp by favour at a much later date.

This denomination with the genuine "A91" postmark is very considerably under catalogued—it is worth quite double.

A variety on the sheet has a curious long tailed S in ISLANDS.

The One Shilling.—This value was printed in sheets of 20 (4 rows of 5) in two operations. The rose-carmine portion of the design (frame and background) was lithographed: the central figure (in black) was printed from a typographic plate.

NOW IT'S THE 12-CENT VALUE

This has begun to run wild. We have it in a brick red instead of purple brown, so different that it must be catalogued without doubt. New issue subscribers get it at 18 cents but to those not belonging to our service we quote

Twenty-five Cents Each

Centering is fair, and blocks are on hand. All corner arrows and plate numbers are sold.

H. F. COLMAN,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

There are three variations of the frames of this value consisting of:

- (i) Single lined frame. [Plain border.]
- (ii) Double lined frame. [Plain border.]
- (iii) Solid coloured border. [Coloured border.]

The "coloured border" (iii) is an addition to the "double lined" frame (ii) variety, this being clearly proved by the obvious impression of the latter on all specimens. The "single lined" type (according to "West Indies") is attributed to "a defective transfer or to wearing of the die, the colour thus running and joining the two lines into one."

We can find nothing to substantiate the above theories. Why the die should have worn in this instance requires a lot of proving: what was there to wear the die—a few proofs and a few impressions for transfers? The "defective transfer" is of course possible. We prefer Mr. Smith's assumption that the die itself was retouched. There is little doubt that too much importance is attached to the "single" and "double lined" frames for in very many cases the difference is more imaginary than real.

As regards the consignments sent out, Messrs. Bacon & Maycock suggest that the 10,000 of 1867 were exclusively of the "coloured margins" type and the two entries of 1s stamps in 1868 indicate 1,000 of each variety "in the uncertainty as to which variety of the 1s was preferred." From the above we therefore have a total of 2000 plain border against 11,000 coloured (less 2500 surcharged "4d" later). Commenting upon these figures Mr. Smith observed: "it follows that the 11,000 1s stamps of 1866 were all of the "double-lined" variety; 1,000 of these, as has been said, were no doubt with "plain border"; the remaining 10,000 were in great part (probably wholly, as Messrs. Bacon & Maycock believe) with coloured margins in addition. But since the "coloured margin" stamps were all with "double lines", we would have to suppose (if we accept the theory that the consignment of 1868 was divided into "plain border" and "coloured margins"—1,000 of each) that 50 sheets were printed off and that the die was then retouched and a fresh transfer made to print off the other 50 sheets. Is it not more reasonable to suppose that the whole 100 sheets were of the "single line" type, and that the division of them was due simply to an invoicing-clerk's copy of the symmetrical arrangement of the consignment into packets of 1000?" An interesting unissued variety of the 1sh "coloured border" is known with the central figure missing. This is merely a printer's trial, and not an issued error as it is often described.

Another variety (which does not appear to have been noted anywhere) consists of a defective (?) "coloured border"—the border being about twice as thick as the normal variety. Probably a complete sheet was printed with this "double" coloured border.

The only minor variety of interest is a curious long tailed S.

SIGNIFICANCE OF MEXICAN EAGLE.

Legend Tells of Aztec Founding of Mexico City Where Eagle Flew With Serpent.

Some of the stamps of Mexico show an eagle on a brush or branch of nopal—a common cactus—holding a serpent in his beak. The interpretation is sometimes given that this is the serpent of despotism, but the legend of the seal goes further back than the time of the Spaniards with the various forms of civil and ecclesiastical control that were imposed by them on the land, from 1512 to 1821, when the Spanish yoke was thrown off.

The story is that during the time of the Aztecs the people were looking for a place to found their city. They came to the borders of Lake Texcoco, and there they halted. The legend says that they saw before them an immense golden eagle—some say a small eagle—on a cactus with a serpent in its talons and its wings spread to the rising sun. Forthwith, they laid their foundation of the great city, Tenochtitlan, which is the City of Mexico of today. The date set for this, of course conjectural, is about 1325.

At first built with reeds and rushes on piles on the edge of the lake, the rude Indian huts were in time replaced by a huge city of stone, very massive and with something of the engineering and artistic skill which the ancient monuments of Egypt display. Mexico City today stands in the midst of streets that ran outside the walls along the very causeways where the streets entered Tenochtitlan of old. The Aztec temple was a pyramid 100 feet high with 114 steps from the ground to the broad esplanade upon which 30 horsemen could ride in tourney. From the top of this temple, Cortez looked down on the beautiful land which he was to dominate. A causeway led from Lake Chalco to Lake Texcoco, and over this the Spaniards came. The old city was intersected with canals, like a veritable Venice, and these canals have today become streets of the City of Mexico.

"MARSHALL" IDS. POSTALLY USED.

By HUBERT LYMAN CLARK.

I was much interested in Mr. Poole's article on the stamps of the Marshall Islands, but with two of his statements I have reason to differ. In the second paragraph he states that since the Spanish-American war, the "delivery and despatch of mail" has been "accidental." Now I have no direct proof in reference to mail carriage but for many years the steamers of Burns, Philp and Company of Sydney have made regular bi-monthly trips between that city and the Marshall Islands. I feel fairly sure that they are regular carriers of mail, but possibly I am wrong.

The second matter is more important. Mr. Poole says in regard to the first issue of stamps, those surcharged "Marshall-Inseln;" "Whether the two lower values were ever used or not seems doubtful." I was much surprised at this statement for my son has in his collection fine postally used copies of each. Regarding the 5pf I know nothing except that it bears the cancellation "Jaluit—Marshall Inseln—10/11—99," and appears to have done postal service. But of the 3pf I know the history, which I think is of some interest. In 1899-1900, Professor Alexander Agassiz of Harvard University made one of his extended cruises in the Pacific to study coral reefs and islands. He visited the Marshall Islands and was at Jaluit, Jan. 9-13, 1900. This place was one of his coaling stations and for more than a year before leaving America, he had been laying and perfecting his plans for having coal ready for him at strategically selected points. He had thus had some correspondence with Jaluit and among other pieces of mail which reached him at the Museum in Cambridge was a printed circular of some kind in a wrapper bearing a horizontal pair of the "Marshall-Inseln" 3pf. For some unknown reason, this wrapper lay in a drawer of Mr. Agassiz's desk until 1907 when it was dropped into a box of stamps on pieces of cover. One day I took my boy into Mr. Agassiz's room and he asked the secretary for some stamps. She produced the box and he saw the Marshall Island stamps at once. Seeing his interest she promptly and generously broke the pair with care and gave him one! Had we known as much of stamps then as we do now, I wonder if we could have stood seeing the pair broken! Or would we have nobly sacrificed our prize, that the pair might remain intact? The stamp he has is a beauty but the cancellation just fails to show the year; the date otherwise is 17/11 and I think the year was probably 1899, though it is possible that it was 1898. At any rate, that the stamp was postally used from Jaluit before 1900 is perfectly certain.

It may be of interest to add that altho my son has made special efforts to complete his series of postally used Marshall Islands stamps, he has not yet succeeded in finding a copy of the 25pf of the second series (Scott's No. 11), nor the mark values of the third series. The catalogue prices of used copies do not seem to me to be in keeping with their rarity.

OUR FEBRUARY COVER REBUS.

We provide our readers with another contest this week and one that will test their philatelic eye and interest. How many stamps are pictured in part on this cover designed by W. G. Birdseye of Roselle, N. J.? You may have until March 20 to send in your answers and the best solutions will be awarded the following prizes:

(1) A Popular Blank Album donated by the Nassau Stamp Co. of New York.

(2) Any five books published by the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co.

(3) Transvaal, '93, ½p on 2p block of four with two of variety "b".

(4) Carter Revenue U. S. Album, donated by Geo. J. Carter.

(5) 500 different foreign stamps.

Contest closes March 20.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—No doubt some of our subscribers who have sent us clippings feel disappointed in that they are not reprinted in the WEEKLY. We gladly use all clippings that have a connection with philately but in many instances the connection is so remote that we cannot give them space in our publication. The editor knows what he is best able to use and is very grateful to those who give him the privilege of examining the clippings that come to him from week to week.

—"I have a sheet of 70 of the 1m black Aguinaldo stamps (Scott's No. 2). On this sheet I have noticed several minor varieties. What strikes me most is that these varieties always occur in the corners of a block of 30 stamps, six wide and five high. For instance one is a small dot after the P of "Filipinas", and other similar ones. There are just four of each variety on the sheet, and always in the corners of the block of 30. How is it explained?"—HERBERT RICHTER.

—"The Post Office Department recently issued an order to the effect that all letters upon which delivery could not be effected, and were advertised, then forwarded to the Dead Letter Office, should be returned to the sender collecting 1c postage. It is evident that the ruling is intended to offset some of the cost attached to maintaining the dead letter office."—WALLACE K. AUSTIN.

—"Early in January a bag of registered mail was stolen in San Antonio, Texas, and among the various packages in this bag was one of my 20th century selections of Hayti mounted in a 'Miniature' album and value about $250. The selection included a number of scarce varieties, such as the 'Gt Pre 1902' surcharges in tête-bêche blocks, double and inverted, blocks of the 1907 provls. showing errors without surcharge, block of four of the 10c of 1904 with inverted centre, etc. Should any reader of your paper be offered such a selection I shall be glad if he will kindly communicate with me."—B. W. H. POOLE.

—"I have an account against Charles Wirioski, 212 E. 22nd St., Chicago Heights, Ill., Mr. Guest is collecting for me. Would like to hear from other dealers who have had unsatisfactory dealings with him."—V. W. ROTNEM.

—Feb. 18th, Secretary Webb of the S. P. A. stated that they had 1361 members counting applications pending. According to the last published report of the A. P. S. they have 1482 members counting applications pending. Secretary Webb claims that the S. P. A. will have more members than the A. P. S. by time the S. P. A. meets in Washington, D. C., August 15-17, for their annual convention.

—The WEEKLY is published for the benefit of both stamp collector and dealer. Its chief aim is to advance the interests of stamp collecting. If "Johnny Jones of Podunk" wants to advertise stamps in the WEEKLY at 70% discount we are perfectly willing that he shall do so, providing that he will name the stamps and give us a reference that will satisfy us. We simply demand that huge discounts on worthless stuff shall not be used to blacken the character of the holdings of other dealers. It is purely a matter of business and the reform inaugurated by the WEEKLY has been far-reaching in its benefits.

EDITORIAL.

A Favorite—The illustrations that are given in this issue of the complete sheet of fifty examples of the five cent black New York as they were arranged originally on the plate is a most important contribution to the fund of public philatelic knowledge. Through the intelligent co-operation of Mr. E. R. Jacobs and Mr. R. McP. Cabeen, we are enabled to present visibly the position of each stamp on the plate all in the compass of two pages; and it is needless to say that it would be impossible to furnish absolute descriptions of the characteristics under notice in text. For necessary reasons, the "effigy of Washington" is omitted from the reproduction but a glance will show that the space gained through the exigency is put to good service as in it, the essentials of identification are given. That the WEEKLY's enterprise in giving the illustration will be appreciated is certain as for some time past, we have been aware of the demand of not a few collectors for descriptions that would allow of an understanding of the sheet units and particularly, the shifts of their New Yorks; and now this knowledge will not be the exclusive property of a favored few.

Sportsmanship—It was gratifying to observe the friendly and cheerful spirit in which the eighty-two participants in our January cover rebus contest entered it. The battle of wits attracted all classes of readers and we were not prepared for the exhibit of literary and artistic skill that made a number of the entries a delight to the eye and the mind. The boy of eight enlisted with the sage of eighty-three years "young" in the wit's-sharpening. The report of the judge will be found on another page; and in this connection we thank all of those who helped to make the competition a success.

New To Us—A railroad postal marking both interesting and unusual has been shown to us by Mr. F. H. Drury, St. Louis, 5c, 10c, 20c.

1847, 10c strip of three on cover.
1851, 5c extra fine.
1851, 5c vertical pair and strip of three.
1857, 1c type I, block of three on cover.

in consequence of the recent observations on the subject of similar markings in this column. On the upper left-hand corner of a letter-sheet that is dated Wilbraham, Mass., August 27th, 1844, is the impression in dark red ink: "Railroad Car." It is noticed that the writer of the letter started the epistle: "I am this morning at Wilbraham Station and was expecting to start on the cars for Worcester, etc." It would be a satisfaction to know just what the circumstances were that explained the use of the "Railroad Car" hand-stamp.

First of All—Dr. Carroll Chase, Brooklyn, New York, who is steeped in the lore of early United States stamps and postal customs, speaks as follows: "I was much interested in your little article headed 'Early Cancellations' in the WEEKLY for February 5th. In my article in the Philatelic Gazette for November, 1914, there is a more recent and much more extensive list of these cancellations than in the article published several years ago to which you refer. In that later article, the earliest railroad cancellation that I had seen (one in 1843) was mentioned. Many exist on the 1847 issue. I am wondering if the cover you mention with the B. O. cancellation used in 1840 is entirely authentic. There was no five cent rate of inland postage at that time, this rate being first used in 1845." We do not attach much importance to the date that was written on our envelope; and we used an exclamation point in speaking of the date to mildly suggest our skepticism. The notation on the envelope in question would not be accepted as proving the abnormally early date, 1840, of railroad cancellation.

Black Deed—Speaking of smudge cancellations, which we were not, of course, Captain Clyde B. Parker, Fort Shafter, H. T., submits the worst or best horrible example that we have seen for some time past. One piece of cover bears fourteen of the current ten cent, canceled "Lima, Ohio" in fat letters half an inch high. A second cover with twelve of the ten cent is as badly decorated. The "red on yellow" so dear to the heart of the circus folk is not as striking as this black on yellow. We have seen stamps completely covered with the ink so that no sign of the color was seen; and this smudging was due according to the explanation of the post office potentates to an excess of ink in trying out the canceling pad but Lima's deed is one of deliberate iniquity.

Wrong Cap—From Mr. Wm. E. Schilling, Baltimore, Md., we have received two stamps with the letter of explanation: "In No. 1309 of your WEEKLY, 'Philatelic Father Goose' reminded me of the enclosed two stamps that I found several months ago in looking through a boxful of the two cent, 1890. I found a good many left caps and both caps,—but these two I do not think are right caps." The accompanying stamps are not right caps although they show a thinner inked impression about where the right cap would be. Since our reference to the "right cap" stamp some time ago, we have received several confirmatory letters of the existence of the right cap 2. Why not round up a few right caps that are a credit to their class and submit them to the chief skeptics and thereby convert them to the paths of philatelic righteousness.

Think Again—"My idea of zero in philatelic excitement is to attend an auction sale of 673 lots and bid just once or when the two shilling multiple Jamaica, the scarce one, is started at fifty cents," yawns a reader. "What is yours?" Our orgy of emotion is to represent an out-of-town bidder at an auction sale and find that each stamp that he bid upon starts at a price just above his limit.

Recovered—Practically all of the stamps stolen from the vault in St. Paul some time ago have been recovered in Chicago where those charged with the crime are under arrest. An inventory of the stolen goods makes interesting reading as the "loot" comprised documentary stamps ranging from the one cent to the five hundred dollar, inclusive. In addition proprietary, wines and cordials and tobacco stamps were taken. Over one million of the one cent documentary were among the spoils while but three of the $500 are listed. Of the ten dollar, 16,300 were stolen; thirty dollar, 802; sixty dollar, 218; one hundred dollar, 88; and of the five dollar, 2,500.

Advertising—We have received a photograph of the display of stamps made in the window of a down-town store at Niagara Falls, New York, under the auspices of the Niagara Philatelic Club as well as several newspaper clippings from the dailies of the city, all of which show that the club worked to excellent purpose. For three days the window was dedicated to a really meritorious exhibition of attractive stamps on sheets, philatelic publications and accessories and the public flocked to the scene. A card was devoted to the issues of the "Warring Nations" and the claims of philately were made in the following words: "Beacon lights of history, gems of art, disseminators of universal knowledge, monuments of heroes, records of industrial achievements, mute witnesses of the rise and fall of empires,—all these and more are stamps." We hope that the commendable example of the Niagara Philatelic Club will inspire a spirit of emulation on the part of other societies, as successful efforts of the kind accomplish more practical good for philately than pages of verbal exhortation.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Two new books are published this week by the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co. One is "Germany and Its Colonies" by B. W. H. Poole, and though it is a book of seventy pages, the price is only 25c. It is a companion book to "The Stamps of the German States," by the same author and no philatelic library will be complete without both of these standard publications. The other book is "U. S. Department Stamps", by F. E. Goodwin. This is a useful little handbook and all collectors of United States stamps will need it. Price 10c. Our next book will be "The Stamps of Virgin Islands", by R. E. R. Dalwick and this will be followed closely by "Range Tales", by E. B. Hill. Who will say that the WEEKLY is not making permanent contributions to the literature of our hobby?

—In our issue of February 5th, we entered the query as to what stamp has the word "love" on it. It has been answered by several of our subscribers who offer Liberia as a winner. Solutions were received from Rev. Joseph Dreyer, Frank Kocher, E. P. Morehouse and Frank H. Koon.

—"I will be with you for the next year under your continuous advertising plan. Have bought the stamp business of Pierce & Co., of Manchester, Mich. This gives me, I believe, with my own stock, one of the best as well as the oldest stamp business in Mich."—HARRISON F. HOVEY.

THE COVER REBUS CONTEST.

The competition based on the stamps shown in a small detail of their design on the cover of our twenty-fifth anniversary number dated January 8th, 1916, was a singularly successful one. Eighty-two of our readers submitted their findings and the average merit of the entries was surprisingly high. Indeed, so clever artistically and in a literary sense were not a few of the contributions that the judge feels it incumbent upon himself to recommend honorable mention to some of the efforts that did not qualify for prizes on the essential of correctness but which nevertheless deserve recognition for their merit otherwise.

The following is the list of countries, twenty in all, that is the key as given by the ingenious creator of the cover: The central design of ship, British Guiana; and the frame surrounding the whole design, Great Britain, 1887-92. The label bearing the name of the WEEKLY, 3 and 5pf, Germany, 1889. The ornament in the upper left-hand corner, Samoa; and that in the upper right-hand corner, Jamaica, four pence orange while the leaves at right and left of the ends of label indicated New South Wales, one penny, 1888. Flanking the ship at left, Labuan, above and Greece, 1891, below. Correspondingly at left, is the corner ornament of "swastika" of early Hong Kong and below, the U. P. U. monogram of Costa Rica, 1889, two pesos. Turkey's crescent is found above the left wing of eagle of Ecuador and Norway's post-horn above the right pinion. The frame below the water is Honduras, 1890, and just below is Paraguay's liberty pole with star and cap. In the lower left corner, detail of Falkland Islands, 1891; and in the lower right corner, Japan's chrysanthemum. The eagle is perched on Corea's sign of the "dual forces of nature."

Eight competitors, as follows, had a perfect score, having named the twenty countries:

First: HOWARD R. SHERMAN, JR., 24 Union St., Montclair, New Jersey.

Second: M. and F. WILLIAMS, 28 Gorcham St., Cambridge, Mass.

Third: FRANK L. APPLGATE, Klamath Falls, Oregon.

Fourth: E. P. MOREHOUSE, Williams-town, Mass.

Fifth: PAUL EHMAN, 330 E. Cass St., Ypsilanti, Michigan; HOWARD ALGEO, 233 W. 143rd St., New York City; RAYMOND VAN BUSKIRK, 129 Claremont Av., Montclair, New Jersey, and A. ORENASEK, 142 S. 6th Avenue, Mt. Vernon, New York.

Mr. Sherman's contribution was a beautifully executed drawing of the cover in miniature with the neatest of lettering, all on the sheet of note size paper; and his idea of the fitness of the design was conveyed in the following words: "This design is an appropriate one for the WEEKLY in that every stamp represented was issued at about the time the paper made its first appearance, so that they, too, are celebrating their Quarter Centennial with the WEEKLY. The stately ship in the center is a splendid representation of the paper—every sail set to grasp each opportunity as it comes along, and sailing steadily and safely through every stormy tempest to a golden jubilee in the future."

The winners of the second prize, M. and F. Williams, submitted a paraphrase of Hiawatha embodying the answers with marginal drawings of the clues in the quest. The literary merit of this contribution entitles it to high commendation.

Frank L. Applegate sent a cleverly conceived letter that made a good setting for his answers in the course of which he said truly that the scrolled ornament under the ship was considered the most elusive ornament of them all.

E. P. Morehouse was awarded fourth prize on the strength of a thoughtful and philosophical letter that was a veritable fountain of inspiration. While Mr. Morehouse is not our oldest subscriber being only eighty-three years young, he is entitled to venerable mention.

The fifth prize was gained by Paul Ehman who in a ten page letter entered most exhaustively into the subject, in fact, he found twenty-one subjects without disturbing his correct count.

The entries of Howard Algeo, Raymond Van Buskirk and A. Orenasek met all requirements and attained the necessary one hundred percentage of correctness.

Honorable Mention:

Harold L. Hock, 17 South Ave., Ithaca, N. Y.
Elton H. Thompson, 72 Park Avenue, Portland, Maine.

Mrs. E. W. Sherman, 61 Cottage St., New Bedford, Mass.

Wm. J. Bates, 38 Pierson St., Beverly, Mass.

Mrs. I. Horine, 5003 S. 3rd St., Louisville, Ky.

Frank C. Clark, 219 W. Main St., Medford, Oregon.

L. R. Wells, 1422 W. Monroe St., Chicago, Ill.

Dr. B. F. Wells, 39 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.

W. G. Birdseye, 189 Broadway, New York City

H. M. Sawyer, 51 Sixteenth St., Wheeling, West Virginia.

A. A. Cohl, 35 Melrose Ave., Detroit, Michigan.

Oscar Beck, 811 Borthwick St., Portland, Oregon.

Dr. Edward A. Schumann, 1823 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

C. M. Breder, 15 Humboldt St., Newark, New Jersey.

Geo. N. Hargraft, 62 Glen Road, Toronto, Canada.

Allan Greeley, 117 West Forsyth St., Jacksonville, Florida.

H. B. Gamberston, 4837 17th St., San Francisco, Cal.

Practically all of those named on the roll of honor had nineteen answers right and some who are on the list are entitled to the highest commendation. Mr. Hock's entry was a wonderfully elaborate one; it was to all effect, an extra-illustrated volume of many type-written pages, illustrated not alone with handsome enlarged drawings of the subjects but also by the stamps themselves. This contribution cannot be described too enthusiastically and we are almost too impressed for words by this splendid piece of work, so eloquently bespeaking the genius of the maker. Mr. Thompson scored an artistic triumph and a poetic hit by his brilliant effort, while Mrs. Sherman, Mr. Bates and Mrs. Horine excelled in artistic effects. The stories of Mr. Clark and Mr. Wells were most ingenious and should have fuller recognition than we give them at present; and we must not forget to acknowledge the clever rhymes of Dr. Wells. The contest was one of the most satisfactory ever held by the WEEKLY and we make grateful acknowledgement to all those who aided in achieving the happy result. The reliquary of the WEEKLY is enriched by additions of great sentimental value.

Those receiving honorable mention may select three books from our list of publications.

It may be added that the scroll of Honduras was very elusive and some of the competitors ignored it completely. Ceylon was incorrectly given in place of Jamaica in many instances and the leaves of New South Wales on different papers were wrongly assigned. Samoa, Falkland Islands and Iceland were minor stumbling blocks.

905 Keefer Pl., N. W., WASHINGTON, D. C.

NEW YORK 5c 1845.

By E. R. JACOBS.

In presenting the accompanying plate of New York Postmaster Stamps, I first wish to thank Mr. R. McP. Cabeen for his most kind assistance in the preparation of this work.

A great deal has been written about this stamp, the most valuable piece of work being Hart's book published in 1911 from which I gained a great deal of assistance, particularly at the start of my work.

The description of every position has been secured and checked by means of pairs. You really must appreciate, of course, that in attempting to plate any single stamp from the accompanying plate the secret marks were necessarily exaggerated. In some positions it is very difficult to locate a single stamp as the marks are so indistinct, especially on later prints. In pairs, however they can be absolutely located.

There are six shifts in the plate, being numbers 2, 4, 7, 30, 33 and 39; 2 and 7 being the most pronounced. These, together with Nos. 41 and 46, the former being Scott's No. 17a and No. 46 showing the top line recut, may be classed as the major varieties.

Of the remaining 42 stamps, the following have marks which identify them clearly: Nos. 1, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 17, 19, 21, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 34, 37, 38, 42, 43, 44, 45, 47, 48, 49 and 50.

This leaves fourteen stamps which are very difficult to locate with single copies. Any student plating should not be satisfied to locate these positions without actually checking them with pairs or with copies that have been compared, and, of course, the ideal way is to reconstruct your plate with these positions in pairs.

F. J. Rider of the Gray Stamp Co. has shown us the current 12c in a fine reddish brown so distinct from the catalogued shade that it must be recognized as a shade variety. It is a result of the shortage of dyes, as with the 2c and 3c previously noted.

BELGIUM.—Ewen's Weekly chronicles a new series of Postal Packet stamps, consisting of 20 values. The lower values, 10c to 90c are a revised and improved design of the franc values of the railway stamps of 1902 for this country, with the exception that the Belgian lion is at the bottom of the stamp in the centre and the value either side of it, whereas the 1902 issue has the lion at the top and the value forms the centre design at the bottom of the adhesive. The franc values represent a railway engine in the centre. At the top is written "Chemin de Fer" "Spoorwegen," immediately underneath are the words "BELGIQUE" "BELGIE." In the top left hand corner is a "hand" and in the top right corner the Belgian lion. In both of the bottom corners of the stamp is the value, beside the left value is the word "Francs," then the Belgian lion in a shield, and following that is written "Franken" which comes just to the left of the value in the right-hand lower corner. The whole series are on unwatermarked paper.

GRENADA.—This Colony has issued a Red Cross stamp almost identical with that issued for Trinidad, except the necessary change of name. Like the latter, it has a semi-official character, in that it is allowed to be placed on the face of letters.

INDIA.—Ewen's Weekly notes the 6a King George stamp in a new shade, probably due to the lack of German dyes.

Adhesive.

6a orange brown.

ITALY.—Hermann Focke has shown us the unofficial Red Cross stamp of Italy, which is not to be confused with the two official stamps chronicled in No. 1311. This stamp is of large size, and shows a "map of the Kingdom, as the Irredentistas would like it to be, the maker of the stamp evidently considering the Trentino, as well as Istria (Trieste) and Dalmatia, virtually Italian property." The Italian territory is printed in red, and as Mr. Focke says the artist has made it include provinces still to be acquired. At the top is a large red cross in a circle, and "Pro Croce Rossa" and at the bottom "1915" also in red. Below the frame is the imprint "Istituto Geografico de Agostini, Novara." It is sold at 5 centesimi each, but has no postal value.

The Sterling Stamp Co. has also shown us the new "Cent. 20" on 15c as previously chronicled.

LIBERIA.—We are also indebted to the Sterling Stamp Co. for specimens of the new triangular Red Cross stamps, recently chronicled.

MOROCCO.—French Protectorate.—Three values of the current postage due stamps of France have been overprinted for use in this Protectorate, the 1c black, 10c chocolate and 20c olive green being thus treated. Stamp Collecting thus describes a new series of stamps issued for the Protectorate, but without giving colors:

There are six different types, representing monuments and views of six towns in Morocco, the designs being the work of M. de la Negiere on the spot. The views are printed in black, the frames, in colour, being based on architectural motifs of the quaint local style. The stamps, being recess-printed, indeed form a handsome set, made up of the following:—

- 1, 2 and 3c, View of the "Tour Hassan" at Rabat.
- 5, 10 and 15c, View of Bab-el-Djedid.
- 20, 25 and 30c, General view of ruins of Bab-Chillah, near Rabat.
- 35, 40 and 45c, View of the "Koutoubia" of Marrakech.
- 50c and 1f, View of Bab el Mansour, Meknes.
- 2, 5 and 10f, View of ruins of Volubilis, near Fez.

POLAND.—Warsaw.—Lemaire's Journal says that there were three types of the 6gr on 5gr recently chronicled: a. surcharged "6 groszy" without frame; b. surcharged "6 GROSZY" in plain rule frame; c. surcharged "6" twice.

SWITZERLAND.—According to Ewen's Weekly, a new value has been added to BOOKLET NOVELTIES.

Robert F. Chambers writes us as follows:—"Your editorial on St. Andrew's crosses was interesting to me in view of the fact that the present stamp booklets of Bavaria contain them. I enclose one for your inspection, also one of the older issues showing advertisements. I also enclose a German stamp booklet which shows on the fourth pane the 5 and 10pf together."

The three booklets submitted by Mr. Chambers are certainly very interesting. The Bavaria book with the St. Andrew's crosses is made up of twenty 5pf stamps and ten 10pf stamps, making a total book value of 2 marks. There is one of these St. Andrew crosses on each of the six pages.

The second Bavarian book is made up similarly but instead of the crosses there are six advertisements and we notice one of the Chemnitz stamp dealer, Paul Köhl.

In the German book the page which has the combination of fives and tens has two of the 5pf value and four of the 10pf.

Anyone interested in the collecting of booklet panes would certainly find those submitted by Mr. Chambers very attractive.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322 Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P.M.

February 21, 1916.

The 352nd (regular) meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, Inc., was called to order at 8.15 this evening. The meeting was preceded by a dinner at the Hayward, at which 27 members and friends partook of a dinner which reflected great credit upon the management of the hostelry and upon the committee who made arrangements for same.

The application of Mr. C. O. Hurd was posted. Mr. H. F. Bucknam was elected to membership as No. 614. The President called upon various members to speak, it seeming appropriate to do so as this was our 25th anniversary. Messrs. Geo. L. Toppin, L. L. Greene, W. C. Stone, C. A. Howes, J. W. Prevost, Alex. Holland, C. K. B. Nevin, E. F. Sawyer, Chas. S. Hill and Oscar Hill responded and the evening proved to be a very sociable one. Mr. Carpenter then exhibited his duplicate of the collection of Portuguese stamps and its colonies as made for the King of Spain which was a very interesting one, and the 37 members and friends present passed a very enjoyable evening.

Reports of the various officers laid on the table from the previous meeting were approved.

Dear Fellow Members:

At last the ice is broken and we have an application. Who will be the next one to secure a new name. Any question asked concerning the Society will be promptly answered.

The year book is now on the Press and will be out in a short time, probably by the time this report reaches you. You will all note the short list of names. This is because many have not paid their dues, but they have not been posted as yet as all members of the Board of Governors have not been heard from. CHAPTER VI.

The First "Cents" Issue.

While the somewhat cumbersome English currency of pounds, shillings and pence has presented little or no difficulty in those parts of the Empire where it has always been on the same basis as in the Mother country, the fact that in Canada it had two valuations—"currency" and "sterling"—made it an inevitable conclusion that a change would have to be made sooner or later. The close proximity of Canada to the United States gave it a very practical illustration of the advantages of a decimal system of money; the American currency of dollars and cents was legalised in the Province of Canada in 1853; and it is, therefore, small matter for wonder that ultimately a decimal system of currency similar to that in vogue in the United States was adopted. This change took place in 1859 and the Postmaster-General's Report for that year alluded to the necessary changes in the postage stamps as follows:

The Law of last Session directing the conversion of all postage rates into decimals, and the collection of postage in the new decimal currency, was put in operation on the 1st July. Decimal stamps of the value of 1 cent, 5 cents, and 10 cents for ordinary correspondence, and of 12 1/2 cents for Canadian, and of 17 cents for British Packet Postage Rates were obtained in readiness for the commencement of the Decimal Postage Law in July, 1859, and have from that date been issued in lieu of the stamps previously in use.

The Law referred to on the above mentioned Report was assented to on May 4th, 1859, and as some of the provisions are of philatelic interest we reproduce them as follows:—

1.—There shall be payable on all Newspapers sent by Post in Canada, except "Exchange Papers" addressed to Editors and Publishers of Newspapers, such rate of Postage, not exceeding one cent on each such Newspaper, as the Governor in Council shall from time to time direct by regulation and such rate shall be payable on all such Newspapers, posted on or after the first day of July next.

2.—So much of any Act as provides that Newspapers posted within this Province shall pass free of postage, in cases other than those in which they will be free under this Act is hereby repealed.

3.—In order to adapt the operations of the Post Office to the Decimal Currency, the internal letter postage rate shall be changed from three pence to its equivalent of five cents, per half ounce—the charge for advertising a dead letter from three farthings to two cents—the charge for returning a dead letter to the writer, from one penny to three cents; and in all cases where a one half-penny or penny rate of Postage is chargeable, these rates shall be changed to one cent and two cents respectively.

4.—To promote simplicity and economy in the business of the Post Office, all letters posted in Canada for any place within the Province, and not prepaid, shall be charged seven instead of five cents per half ounce on delivery; and on letters posted for the British Mails, for the other British North American Provinces, or for the United States, when not prepaid, there shall be charged such addition to the ordinary rate, not in any case exceeding a double rate, as the Post Master General may agree upon with the Post Office Authorities of those Countries, for the purpose of enforcing prepayment.

5.—The Post Master General may establish a Parcel Post and parcels other than letters and not containing letters, may be sent by such Parcel Post, and when so sent shall be liable to such charges for conveyance and to such regulations as the Governor in Council shall from time to time see fit to make.

It will be noted that the above Act, aside from showing the rates in the new currency as compared with the old, provides for a greater limitation of the privilege of free transmission of newspapers, and also provides for the establishment of a Parcel Post.

No further reference seems to have been made to the parcel post until the

BUSHIRE

Under British Occupation, on OLD TYPE 1911-13 issue Persian Stamps. Clients who purchased from me the 5 shahi (unused) may congratulate themselves upon having secured a rare bargain and what is likely to prove one of the rarest War Provisionals, 257 only having been issued. The British Occupation terminated suddenly on October 15th (much sooner than was anticipated) and the stamps consequently became obsolete before most people were even aware of their existence! I sold these originally at $2.60 and then at $5.20 each; their present value is $25.

Having just received a few more strips of 10 (but no 5sh!) I find they are a new and different setting.—In the 1st setting the right hand (10th) stamp has small capitals in "(U)nder (B)ritish" whereas in the new setting the "U" and "B" are normal, and the 9th stamp has no period after "Occupation!"

H. F. COLMAN, WASHINGTON, D. C.
SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

Postmaster-General's Report for June 30th, 1864, where it is stated:—

By means of the Parcel Post a parcel may be sent within the Province to or from any place, however remote from the ordinary lines of traffic conveyance, on prepayment of a postage rate of 25 cents per lb., provided that the weight or size of the parcel does not exceed the carrying capacity of an ordinary mail bag; and provided that the contents of the parcel are not of a character to injure the rest of the mail.

Later the parcel post system was extended so that it embraced the sister Provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, the rate remaining at 25c per lb. Apparently the weight and size of a parcel acceptable by the postal authorities still remained delightfully vague and indefinite and was simply limited by "the carrying capacity of an ordinary mail bag."

As we have seen from the Postmaster-General's Report for 1859 the first "cents" stamps were placed in use on July 1st of that year. The series comprised the values 1c, 5c, 10c, 12 1/2c and 17c these corresponding to the 1/2d, 3d, 6d, 7 1/2d and 10d denominations previously in use. The designs of the new stamps were adapted from those of the corresponding values of the old issue as a comparison of the two series will amply demonstrate. The 1c differs from the 1/2d only in the words denoting the value below the portrait. The 5c differs from the 3d not only as regards the new inscription of value but has small ornaments on the oval band dividing CANADA POSTAGE from FIVE CENTS. In the corners the numerals "5," replacing "3," are placed in an oblique position on a ground of crossed lines. The 10c differs from the 6d in having the corner numerals (represented by the Roman "X") placed obliquely on a cross hatched ground instead of upright on a ground of foliate ornamentation, while TEN CENTS replaces SIX PENCE under the portrait. The 12 1/2c differs from the 7 1/2d only as regards the corners where "12 1/2c" replaces the former values of "6d. stg" and "7 1/2d cy". On the new 17c the words of value required so much more room than the TEN PENCE on the old denomination that the emblems between the upper and lower inscriptions on the oval were retired in favor of small elliptical ornaments. The upper corners were unaltered but in the lower ones

"10cy" was removed and "17" substituted.

It is obvious that the original dies were made use of in each case, the central portions being retained and new orders engraved.

The stamps were manufactured by the American Bank Note Company, of New York, which firm had succeeded to the business established by Messrs. Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson. The new firm name came into effect on May 1st, 1858.

The stamps were printed in sheets of 100 by the line-engraved process the manufacturers' imprint, "American Bank Note Co., New York" appearing twice in each margin in very small letters. For some reason or other no imprint was applied to the plate for the 17c value.

In the Law relating to the adoption of decimal currency, reproduced above, we read in section 3 that "in all cases where a one-half penny or penny rate of Postage is chargeable, these rates shall be changed to one cent and two cents respectively." Yet, though a 1c stamp was included in the series in 1859 no 2c made its appearance until 1864. This new value was issued on August 1st, 1864, according to the Postmaster-General's Report for that year while the Report for the following year states that "A provision has been made for the transmission and delivery of Canadian periodicals, addressed to the United Kingdom, at the reduced rate of two cents each" and it is probably due to the increased demand for the 2c denomination under this new rate that the stamp made its appearance.

The design was evidently copied from the 1c though the addition of numerals in each of the lower corners gives it a strikingly different appearance from that of the lower value. Curiously enough the 2c was printed in almost the same color as the 1c and in commenting on this fact the Stamp Collectors' Magazine for October 1st, 1864, stated:—

We are surprised that a different hue was not chosen for the 2 cents, and should imagine its great similarity to the 1 cent, should the latter not be withdrawn from circulation, would tend to create confusion.

This new denomination was printed in sheets of 100 like the others of the series, and also had eight imprints in the margins.

VARIETY OF THE 1c 1890.

G. A. Roush has submitted a variety of the 1c, 1890, U. S. in dull blue to which no reference is made by Mr. Goodwin in his monograph on the stamps of the United States. We quote from Mr. Roush's letter as follows:
"The decoration at the top of the left hand value oval is prolonged down the right hand side of the figure 1 midway between the figure and the side of the oval, and in the right hand value oval the inside of the decoration on the right hand, instead of being perfectly rounded droops down in a point. I am not very much of an artist, but I have made a rough sketch of these two modifications, Varieties drawn by W. H. Hoagland. showing the variations from the standard variety. I enclose a damaged stamp which shows these modifications, although not as perfectly as other copies I have seen. In this copy the "icicle effect" on the right hand decoration is not as pronounced as on the copy that I have in my collection; also the streak in the left hand oval is not quite as long in this copy as in the one in my collection. In addition to this copy and the one that I have in my collection, a friend of mine has a horizontal pair of these stamps both of which show these variations perfectly and apparently identically the same."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Dick Green, L. A. Judkins, Hugh P. Dunn, S. A. Ware (2), Malcolm H. Ganzer, Herman W. Boers (3), L. B. Gatchell, E. A. Kairies, Terrell Hauser, H. F. Christensen, F. W. Hayden, C. M. Breder, Hollis Thacher, C. A. Townsend, J. F. T. Galloway, A. E. Drought.

—S. A. Ware of Los Angeles, Cal., is another of our subscribers who takes the trouble to quote the section of the postal laws and regulations covering the 1c tax on letters returned from the Division of Dead Letters.

—One of our advertisers calls attention to the remissness of collectors in the matter of enclosing postage when small stamp purchases are made. We quote from the letter just at hand: "We often get small orders where return postage is not enclosed although our advertisement calls for it. For instance, we advertised the 2c Lincoln, Hudson-Fulton and Alaska-Yukon unused for 8c per set just for a leader. A party orders just this set and sends 8c. After we have paid 2c for postage there is nothing left even for cost of the envelope."

—C. A. Brewster, 1432 Belt Av., St. Louis, Mo., can get no reply to letters sent David Kapelson, 7 Logan St., Lawrence, Mass. Mr. Brewster would like to hear from interested parties.

—Robt. J. Wagner, commenting on the article on Nicaragua Cordoba surcharges by Mr. Fuss, says that he cannot find in his large stock of Nicaraguas a single copy of the wide spacing on the locomotive set. He affirms the findings of Mr. Martin printed elsewhere in this issue to the effect that there were several different settings, many of them too minor to deserve mention. Mr. Wagner would like to hear from anyone interested in the Cordoba surcharges and our readers may profit at some future time by the exchange of information bearing on this subject, in which much interest is being taken.

—The Medina Branch (S. P. A.) held a large meeting February 15 with forty-nine present. The boys were given an album each, a packet of stamps and sample copies of various stamp papers. Silas Weatherby is entitled to the credit for the interest that is being shown in this Ohio center of stamp collecting activity.

—"I recently secured what strikes me as a distinct oddity, and perhaps an error in the current 2c U. S. It is a 10 perf. in a plum shade—almost exactly that of the 12c! I realize that the difficulty which the Bureau of Engraving is having with dyes is responsible for most of the variant shades which we are getting, but it seems difficult to believe that a striking difference such as this would be explained that way."—RALPH NORTON.

—Make a note of this name and address:—Ernest King, Van Buren, Ind., writes Alfred Lechner, N. Y. City, for stamps on approval and gives four local references. Letters sent to two of these references were returned marked "Unclaimed".

—L. E. S.—The most acceptable way for you to send a remittance to Europe is by international money order. This can be easily cashed and just now the rates of exchanges are very favorable for the remitter.

—A subscriber in Middletown, N. Y., writes B. L. Drew & Co., 7 Water St., Boston, for a selection of Hayti but neglects to sign his name to the letter. This is very awkward for Mr. Drew and will prove unsatisfactory to our subscriber. If he will send his name to Mr. Drew his wants will be quickly attended to.

—The New York Times published a news item in regard to the Morgenthau sale of Charles Gregory's collection and stated that the Canada 1852 12p black brought $457. It was called the gem of the Gregory collection. At the International Exhibition held in New York two years ago the Gregory collection won two silver medals.

—"In compliance with my physician's orders, I expect to be away during the entire month of March. Registered letters will be acknowledged and any orders will be promptly attended to upon my return."—A. W. DUNNING.

—Several of our subscribers have sent us in a very interesting portion of the New York World Magazine of Feb. 27. We shall refer to the same editorially.

—Charles Lathrop Pack made a notable gift to the auction to be held this month in London for the benefit of the National Philatelic War Fund. He has presented an almost complete collection of Transvaal from 1878 to date, also fine collections of Orange River Colony and Sarawak. The proceeds of the sale will be devoted to the Red Cross relief movement.

EDITORIAL.

From His Own Hand—We thank Mr. Jos. A. Steinmetz, Philadelphia, for his letter and its enclosure, which we are pleased to refer to our readers. Mr. Steinmetz says: "In looking over some old stamp history notes, I found a copy of Lamenberg's letter about his stamp patent, all of record. Every collector for many years has come across this essay printed in various colors, on thin transparent paper. Should you wish to note this letter in view of fixing the date of these printings, you may use the text. I do not ever remember having seen it mentioned though it is almost certain that you have had it before." The letter that fixes the date of the appearance of these familiar essays is as follows: "New York, November 19, 1867. To the Postmaster General, Washington, D. C. Honored Sir: I take the liberty to enclose you some stamps, printed with my soluble ink, patented. I claim for these stamps protection against fraud by any attempt to remove cancellation marks, as all attempts to remove the cancellation marks will deface the stamps. The samples I send are freshly printed. They are printed on different kinds of paper. They are of various colors. They are less expensive than the stamps now in use. May I beg that you will submit these stamps to such tests as you choose and report the result at your earliest opportunity to: Yours very Truly, Henry Lamenberg, Care Alex. Ostrander, Atty., No. 1 Park Place, New York." We may add that Mr. Steinmetz is a well-spring of interesting historical information about the earlier issues of the United States and that his contributions are always welcomed, in consequence.

In The Chest—Sometime ago, we received the inquiry: "Kindly inform me whether or not a box made of cedar will in any way be hurtful to stamps contained therein." After due deliberation on our part and that of several experts who were called upon as consultants, the opinion was rendered in a befittingly conservative manner that stamps would not be harmed if immured in a cedar box. The finding is sustained through the recent good fortune of a reader who found recently, some old correspondence in a cedar chest where it had lain undisturbed for many years and the colors of the stamps were the freshest imaginable. It would seem that the cedar box is protectful of the original color of the stamps.

Made In Germany—The Chicago Daily News under a Berlin date of February 23rd says that the German government has released 430 tons of aniline colors, especially blue, green and carmine for the United States bureau of engraving and printing. The special order for release is said to have been consequent upon the representation to the German authorities that the U. S. government was "unable to continue the proper printing of stamps and money without the coloring from Germany." In its recent report, the bureau of engraving and printing admitted its dependence on the German supplies for its color bases and said that it was its purpose to conserve the ink now on hand, even though slight variations in the colors of the stamps be noticed as a result of this economy. It will be remembered that in our issue of February 5th, it was related how a consignment of dyes that was purchased by the American consul at Rotterdam was on the way to the United States. The inference is that the consignment released by Germany is a second one.

Dots And Dashes—In the Germania-Herald, Milwaukee, February 10, 1916, is a translation by Mr. Ernst Karl of "German Dyes on the Way," which appeared in our issue of February 5th, as we have mentioned; and in sending the clipping to us, Mr. Karl takes occasion to call our attention to two minor varieties of United States that he sends for inspection. He submits the one cent blue, 1879, "with a kind of color-triangle in the neck part of the bust." Mr. Karl thinks that possibly the blot is due to a damaged plate but unless a second stamp could be shown, the theory would not be given serious attention. A little gob of ink flattened out might cause the color spot. Of a second stamp, Mr. Karl says: "The 'variety' consists of a kind of colorless 'bridge' on the two cent, 1890, in the right 2 and a dot or a pearl in the left 2. So we might call it with 'pearl on left and bridge on right.' I looked over 22,000 of the 1890 two cent and found three specimens two of which I enclose." These slight variations seem to be permanent at least and come in the category of the capped 2, relatively speaking, and we can imagine how the heart of the advanced student of U. S. would warm at finding the "bridge" on the right 2, which is a thin line extending upwards from the middle of the tail stroke of the 2 to the white curve above. We may add that our correspondent truly has the "researchive eye."

Mexico Moves—Some information comes from Mexico that will bring that country before the philatelic public. It is to the effect that there was seized in Chihuahua by the Carranza forces upon the capitulation of the Villa opposition in this stronghold of Villa a large quantity of the federal issue, 1910 unsurcharged. Irrespective of denomination, the stamps are to be surcharged with an indicated value of ten centavos. By means of a special overprint, consisting of "G. P. de N.—10—Centavos" in three lines in an oval, the stamps will be converted to present day use. We have been promised statistics as to the number of stamps that are to be surcharged. In this connection, it may be added that the current issue of Mexico is yielding curiosities; the one centavo is shown in gray and the five and ten centavos, as double prints while the imperforate and part roulettes are no treat.

Edmund Shorthouse—In the English papers, the death of Mr. Edmund Shorthouse who is the last but one "of the older school of the Birmingham philatelists" is made the occasion of extended biographical notices. In the London Philatelist, Mr. Chas. J. Phillips, who before going to London, was a dealer in Birmingham, gives some intimate recollections of the gentleman that are readable. While a keen student of stamps, Mr. Shorthouse at the same time brought to bear such business acumen on his collecting that he profited handsomely through his operations. For instance, Mr. Shorthouse paid ten pounds in the late seventies for a mint strip of the four rappen Zurich which is now worth four hundred pounds. In 1887, Mr. Phillips induced Mr. Shorthouse to go to Australia for the sole purpose of buying stamps; and his trip was highly successful although the prices at which the stamps were resold in London were but a fraction of those that could be had today. In connection with a note in the London Daily Telegraph that said: "After about twenty years of collecting, the careful account he kept of his purchases and sales showed that his philatelic hobby had produced a profit in 1900 of 3200 pounds," the observation is made by the editor of the London Philatelist: "We should, however, be inclined to think that the total financial results of Mr. Shorthouse's investments far transcend this sum, which is inconsiderable beside the amounts realized by other leading collectors. Mr. Shorthouse, however, though a very fine judge and keen buyer did not keep his purchases long

UNITED STATES.—Edward Wintermute sends us a block of the 12c in the new shade, printed from plate 6900. He also sends a specimen from the same plate in the old shade. The new shade might well be called copper red, and can hardly be called a shade of the original color.

Raymond V. Seaman sends us a copy of the brown 5c Garfield, that shows colorless spots in the star containing the figure "5" and a blurred appearance of the inscription, "U. S. Postage." The upper part of the design shows up sharp and clear.

J. M. Bartels reports the following new envelopes:

BOSNIA.—New war stamps have been issued by Austria, the Bosnian 5h and 10h stamps of 1912 being used. The overprint reads "1915" at the top and the raised value at the bottom, "7 Heller" or "12 Heller" as the case may be. Specimens have been shown us by J. M. Bartels.

Charity Stamps.

5 2h green and carmine.
10 2h rose and blue.

BRAZIL.—L. B. Gatchell has shown us a new printing of the 1000r stamp of 1913.

Adhesive.

1000r slate blue.

CANADA.—Grant L. Paul submits a specimen of the Canada war tax stamp recently issued, with "1 T c" recessed on the face of the stamp in a coil perforation. The specimen submitted is from a sideways coil, the stamps being separated by ten perforations about 2½ mm. apart.

CANAL ZONE.—C. K. Harris informs us that three sheets of 100 2c stamps with inverted head represents the total number discovered. Mr. Harris states that the majority of these stamps were sold through the post offices before the error was discovered.

The Sterling Stamp Co. has shown us the new postage dues recently chronicled.

GERMANY.—Offices in Russia.—J. M. Bartels has shown us four values of the current German stamps, overprinted in two lines, "Postgebiet—Ob. Ost" for use in the conquered Russian provinces of Lithuania and Courland. The type of the overprint is the same as on the overprinted issues for Belgium and Poland, and is in black on all values.

Adhesives.

3pf brown.
5pf green.
10pf carmine.
40pf carmine and black.

MEXICO.—W. Parker Lyon criticizes the statement recently made in our chronicle in connection with the 1, 2 and 20c values of the anvil issue of Sonora. He states that they are as legitimate as any of the issues of the Constitutionalist government, their issue having been regularly ordered and all values used for the prepayment of postage. Mr. Lyon says that he has in possession envelopes mailed from the Hermosillo postoffice addressed to Los Angeles and Pasadena with these three values used for the payment of postage. Mr. Lyon writes us in part as follows: "What I am at a loss to understand is why your informant should give you any such statement. I don't suppose his postmaster ever saw one of the 1, 2 or 20 cent values as they were never in any post office but Hermosillo and he was at Nogales."

While these stamps were used Hermosillo was entirely shut off from Nogales. When the 5 and 10 cent values were sent to Nogales they were the only values they needed. Later train service, telephone and telegraph communication was entirely cut off and only once during the few days these stamps were used at the Hermosillo postoffice did a train leave Hermosillo. The last train that left Hermosillo before the city was occupied by the Carranza forces carried all the Villa stamps and money and when 60 miles out the entire stock of stamps, money and books of the Villa government from the capital of the State of Sonora (Hermosillo) was burned to keep them from falling into Carranza hands."

We can only add that the stamps of this much-troubled country will prove a troublesome field for specialism in coming years.

PERU.—Jacques Krebs sends us a new provisional from Peru, the 1s of 1909 having been overprinted "Vale—10 Centavos—1916" in three lines in green. The surcharge is of large form, nearly covering the stamp.

Provisional Adhesive.

10c on 1s red and black.

RUSSIA.—New printings of the 1k and 3k charity stamps of 1914 have been made, specimens having been shown us by A. C. Roessler. The designs are unchanged, but the colors are new and both are on white paper.

Charity Adhesives.

1k red and gray.
3k brown orange and gray.

THE NICARAGUA "CORDOBAS."

Fred S. Martin supplements the article by Mr. Fuss with further information dealing with the overprinting of Nicaragua stamps with the 1913 "Cordoba" surcharge. Mr. Fuss described two spacings of 14 mm. and 18 mm. respectively, but Mr. Martin submits specimens of these stamps which show spacing of 14½, 15, 15½ and 18½ mm. In fact it is very evident that in setting up this overprint for the several printings little attention was paid to the spacing of the type, hence the numerous measurements recorded. Mr. Martin submits the following list of additional measurements and has furnished us with specimens for our inspection:

ST. NICHOLAS AND PHILATELY.

St. Nicholas Magazine is rendering philately splendid service in these days, and the publication is entitled to dealers' support, especially in view of the fact that advertising in its columns brings good returns. Mr. Guion of the advertising department writes us an interesting letter from which we take the liberty of quoting the following paragraph:

"We are doing much to encourage the hobby of stamp collecting among our readers, but I feel that we are doing no more than we ought to do. It really seems to me that it is a hobby which deserves a lot more thoughtful consideration and encouragement on the part of parents than it is getting, and anything that we can do to spread the good work is going to be undertaken with spirit."

Over 8000 stamp collectors read this paper. They will read your adv. as you read this.

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

Edited by BILL BLOSS, 2729 Hampden Court, Chicago, Ill.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

WHAT DO YOU WANT?

Are you satisfied with the WEEKLY? Do you consider you are getting your money's worth? What do you want that you are not getting? How could you improve the WEEKLY?

We are not satisfied with our efforts. We want to give you more for your money. We want to give you what you want in the way of philatelic reading. If you will take the trouble to write us your ideas and likes and dislikes, we will be able to turn out a better paper.

Write to me whenever you have a philatelic knot to be untied. This service is a part of your compensation for the money you spend with us. I am always glad to answer inquiries and to receive letters from collectors. Force of circumstances often make it necessary for me to delay replying to personal correspondence, so whenever possible, ask for an answer through the paper, and give the other fellows the benefit of your question.

If you don't tell us what you like and want, how can we give it to you? Let's get acquainted. Everybody.

No matter how much a paper advertises for subscribers, it will not grow without the support of the readers. The larger we grow, the more you will get for your money. If you like the WEEKLY tell your friends. Boost for us. Get the other collectors interested. The WEEKLY is the only philatelic newspaper published in America. It is foremost in spreading the news of every event in the stamp world. Other papers may excel in scientific articles and in fancy make-up, but when it comes to news, the WEEKLY is ahead of the others. If you appreciate this service, help us by getting your friends interested. Help them by introducing them to the WEEKLY. If every reader could send in one new subscription, the WEEKLY could grow to a much larger size and you would get twice as much for your 50c a year.

PRINTER'S WASTE.

Now that Mexico has apparently settled down, and the perf. 10 set is completed here at home, we can all get set for the next bunch of Nicaragua surcharges.

The esteemed Albemarle Stamp Collector proudly writes of one subscriber whose subscription is paid up for four years in advance. That's nothing, anyone can pay in advance. But—I owe one paper for four years' subscription. That is a matter that would be hard to duplicate.

Cell No. 684 in the Piker's Ward is reserved for the ginkob who writes for a specialized selection of Greece and keeps it for a month so he can mount his own sets correctly.

You're wrong. I never had a specialized book of Greece.

THE SECOND POST.

(Received by a New York Dealer.)

10,000 CIRCULATION TO LIVE COLLECTORS

IT is not an easy task to make up a profitable extra circulation for a newspaper of any kind but we come as near to it as any publication possibly can.

THE special number of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, to be issued Saturday, April 8, will go to actual collectors and the names are guaranteed to be live ones—in fact we take them from original orders of the past six months.

OUR aim will be to picture "The Charm of Stamp Collecting" and the issue will be widely used as a missionary for philately.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU?

Of the 113 stamp dealers who used St. Nicholas during 1915, eight started in our Stamp Directory over twelve years ago—four over twenty years. Best test in the world, isn't it? Would they keep it up if it didn't pay big returns?

These facts and figures must convince. You cannot help but be impressed with the results they indicate.

The problems of these stamp dealers then are the same you are facing today. We know St. Nicholas can give you better customers than the use of a young folks magazine would lead you to expect. We don't need to prove it, for you know it. Moreover, we can help you get results.

St. Nicholas Stamp Directory,
357 Fourth Ave., N. Y. C.

You sincerely believe in St. Nicholas for my use, but I want facts on which to form my own opinion. Send along the dope and I'll read it.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF CANADA.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

A close study of these stamps should reveal many points of interest. For many years a double transfer of the 5c, of a similar character to that found on its predecessor the 3d has been known. This is recorded in Scott's catalogue as a "double transfer" while Gibbons notes it as a variety "with extra line in outer oval at left". This variety, which is simply the most prominent of many double transfers found in connection with this 5c stamp, shows the outer line of the oval at left distinctly doubled, and the frame lines above are also double. Other varieties which, though not so prominent, are of equal philatelic importance are found. We have seen the following and have no doubt many others exist:—

(1) There are distinct traces of doubling in the letters ADA and POST of CANADA POSTAGE, in the numerals in the upper angles, and of the lines of the oval band.

(2) There is a faint doubling of the outer frame lines at the top right hand corner.

(3) There is a similar doubling of the outer frame lines affecting the lower right hand corner.

(5) The letters POST of POSTAGE, the "5" above, and the lines of oval and frame all show distinct signs of double transferring.

(6) This double transfer affects the lines, numeral, and letters NADA of CANADA at the upper left corner and while not so distinct as No. 5 is nevertheless a true plate variety.

We have found no traces of double transfers in the other denominations except a slight one on the 12 1/2c. This shows a slight doubling of the frame lines in the top left corner, as well as traces of colored lines in the adjacent "12 1/2c". It is quite probable that any collector having sufficient material would find "doubles" in all of these values.

In laying down the impressions on the plate or plates for the 5c value a guide dot was applied to the transfer roll. This occupied such a position that as each succeeding impression was applied to the plate it fell so that the guide dot would fall about the centre of the C of CENTS. Consequently, the vast majority of these stamps show a conspicuous dot of color in the position indicated. The stamps without the colored dot are, usually, those from the extreme left vertical row of the sheet. On this same value—the 5c—we have seen specimens with colored dots outside and slightly to the left of the lower left corner. These are possibly plate dots marked to indicate where each row should commence. Varieties with broken frame lines are not uncommon and these may be due in part to defective transfers and in part to wear. Extreme wear is also shown, in some instances, by the numerals appearing on an almost plain ground.

Whether guide dots were used for the other denominations or not we cannot say. At any rate if they were used they were applied in such a position as to be completely hidden by some part or other of the designs. A small peculiarity in the 10c is worth noting. On the majority of specimens there is a slight defect or break in the outer line of the oval band above and to the right of the O of POSTAGE. This is probably due to a minute defect on the transfer-roll impression. Many specimens of the 12 1/2c value show the tongue of the E of POSTAGE the same length as the upper and lower arms though the end is generally covered with a colored smudge. We are at a loss to account for the cause of this variety but that it is a "constant" one we have satisfied ourselves by the examination of a number of identical specimens. The 17c also exhibits a small peculiarity of engraving. A colored line projects upwards into the uncolored oval band above the space between OS of POSTAGE. This was evidently caused by an accidental touch of the engraver's tool on the die for it is quite distinct on every specimen we have examined.

The paper upon which the stamps of this series were printed does not provide so much variation as that of the earlier emissions. Mr. D. A. King in his article in the Monthly Journal says:

The papers upon which these stamps

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—A foreign letter in the Pittsburgh
Sun makes note of the fact that King George has made a good contribution to the stamp auction sale the proceeds of which are to go to the Red Cross.
The article states that besides being a stamp collector since his boyhood the King also has a large collection of posters, some of them so large as to cover the wall of a fair-sized room.

—We need several copies of the issue of the WEEKLY for January 1, 1916.
Who of our subscribers will favor us?
We shall be glad to send one of our exchanges in return for each copy we receive of the number desired.

—J. M. Stonier informs us that mail matter going through the Hamilton, Ont., postoffice from soldiers in Great Britain and France, though entitled to free delivery as soldiers' letters have 2c Canadian stamps affixed to them. Inquiry at the Hamilton office showed that the 2c stamp is used to keep a record of the mail thus delivered, but no charge is made for the stamp.

—"A few nights ago I visited the Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington. I saw the drawing of the designs, engraving of the dies, making of the plates, and the entire printing operation by both the old hand press and the new rotary, also perforating the sheets, making stamp booklets, etc." . . .

the Bureau of Civil Service in the Philippines and sails on the "China" for Manila from San Francisco, March 14.

—According to the British Philatelist
the 2 1/2, 5 and 10sh stamps of Great Britain are now being printed by De La Rue & Co., instead of Waterlow Brothers.

—The Westchester Philatelist, Mt.

contest and will be glad to send the particulars to any interested parties. We have been requested to publish the rules of the contest, but owing to lack of space we are unable to comply with the request.

—Frederick T. Pratt submits for our inspection specimens of two censor markings used on Bermuda mail. The first type consisted of a triangular shaped design with the inscription
"Passed—Postal—Censor Bermuda" on the three sides of the same. This was superseded the middle of February by a circular design in which are the initial letters, "P. C.", and the word, "Bermuda", in two lines.

—Wendover Neefus sends out a novel invitation to his New York patrons to inspect the contents of his fifth sale composed of "all United States". It consisted of a Grant letter-sheet printed in imitation typewritten form.

OUR AERIAL MAIL SERVICE.

By OTTO PRAEGER, 2nd Asst. P. M. G.

The first and up to the present time
the only class of mail service performed by aeroplane has been the transportation of small quantities of first-class mail between temporary postal stations usually established in connection with fairs or at aviation grounds and the regular postoffice in the adjacent city or town. In all cases the service has been performed by a sworn carrier and without expense to the department. This service has been regarded as experimental in character, and in numerous cases no mail has been carried after the route has been authorized.

The records indicate that from November 3, 1910, to September 3, 1915, 69 aerial mail routes of the above character had been authorized, while mail had been carried on but 47 of them. It is to be regretted that in all cases accurate counts of the number of letters carried have not been kept by the postmasters whose offices were served by the routes, but it is believed that the largest amount of mail transported on any one route was 43,247 pieces, between Garden City,
L. I., and the postoffice at Mineola, N.
Y., from September 23 to October 1, 1911.
In a number of cases the department has permitted the use of a special canceling stamp for the mail carried by aeroplane, and many of the letters so marked have undoubtedly been preserved, to serve as reminders of the early days of aerial mail service.

Some months ago the department was asked by Alan R. Hawley, chairman of the Contest Committee of the National Aeroplane Competition, for a list of possible aerial routes. In compliance with this request, a list was prepared giving data on routes in all parts of the country. The routes were selected with special reference to the saving of time and distance, in the mountainous sections of the country the distance by rail or wagon road being often four or five times that by air line.

Since 1911 the Postoffice Department has submitted in its annual estimates to Congress an item for aeroplane mail service, but up to the present time no further action has been taken. The estimate for the fiscal year 1917 includes such an item, and it is hoped that Congress will give it favorable consideration. In the meantime it has been deemed advisable to advertise for service by aeroplane between New Bedford and Nantucket Island and on certain routes in Alaska, where the bids received for aerial service might actually be lower than the cost of the present service.—Phila. Ledger.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

To the Fore—The World Magazine for February 27th, 1916, was almost a philatelic special number as one entire page was devoted to "Postage Stamps that Caught the Imprint of War," and another to Marcus P. Norton and the "postmark and cancellation" that he invented. The explanatory text of the war stamp page, illustrated with eleven enlarged stamp reproductions in colors, reads: "War has laid his red finger even on the postage stamp—firmly on those of conquered countries; lightly and with the Red Cross of mercy on those of nations that must resort to their postal revenue to add to funds for the wounded. Herewith are reproduced some of the war-time stamps of Germany, Great Britain, Russia, Austria-Hungary, Belgium and Switzerland. Some of them have histories that sum up all the paths they may have borne in individual letters from the trenches." The explanation given under each stamp is concise and meaningful and if the combination of picture and description does not impress many a non-philatelic whose eye is attracted to the striking page, then intelligent publicity for stamp collecting is bootless. The circulation of the publication in question is immense and our notice has been directed to the graphic stamp display by many readers.

Norton Cancellation—The second article in the World Magazine tells of the invention in 1853 by Marcus P. Norton of Troy, New York, of the simple device that applied both the postmark and obliteration mark on the stamp and envelope at one operation. In the few succeeding years, improvements were made on the patented process and they were covered by patents, likewise. Previously, two applications were employed in the treatment of the letter as the "cork" cancellation and the postmark were impressed separately. It is related that immediately postmasters began to use the time and labor saving instrument but the government on pretexts more or less plausible deferred that definite action opening up the avenue of compensation for the inventor. In 1867, Postmaster General Randall, in a report to a congressional committee, said: "Norton's stamp is the one desired. It is the best stamp there is. The department has already saved several hundred thousand dollars by its use and I have no doubt it will continue to save large sums. It is necessary that some settlement be immediately made." It is said that in 1870 Congress authorized the payment of $100,000 to Mr. Norton who refused the settlement; and then began the period of hope deferred that made the heart sick. About fifteen years ago, Mr. Norton died and his widow is still awaiting the just award of the government. The government has its side to the story; and it claims that it "did pay for every Norton stamp used, though these payments were made to the manufacturing contractor and did not benefit the inventor and patentee himself."

Good Offices—A postal marking of quasi-official character, one that we do not remember ever having seen before, is on an envelope that has recently been acquired. A "soldier's letter" addressed to an officer in Huntsville, Alabama, and postmarked Chattanooga, Tenn., bears the "Due 3" impression in circle; and in addition it shows the words, "Paid by U. S. Sanitary Com." in an ellipsis. Another envelope addressed to the same officer has "O. B." written in ink in the upper left hand corner but there are no markings on the envelope to show that it was carried through the mails.

Rah—An interesting letter has been received from Mr. Harold Hock, Ithaca, New York, whose elaborate and artistically executed entry in the January cover contest so aroused our admiration. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Hock says: "There are several collectors here in Cornell University among the students and faculty and we are now planning the formation of a club." In a way, Mr. Hock specializes in the stamps of Hawaii, and among the revenues of the territory in his possession is a block of four of the one hundred dollar revenue. He sent us a specimen of the six cent current issue, precanceled

"Honolulu, Hawaii," whose appearance with other denominations of the set created a ripple of interest recently among collectors of precanceled stamps. We may add that Mr. Hock translates the familiar "Uku Leta" on the Hawaiian stamps as "Jumping Letter," a term that is logical in its application, whimsical though it is.

Why and Wherefore—An inquiry recently received is discussed at some length because of the frequency with which we are asked to identify alleged special printings of U. S. issues that are sent in for inspection. We are asked: "Are used copies of the special printings of the various printings of our issues as rare used as unused?" The special printings practically do not exist used; and moreover if any of them exist used they should not! There is no reason of course why the special printings could not have been used for the payment of postage but the cancellation on a special printing is at least adventitious. Statistics show that the account of the proceeds from the sale at Washington of the special printings was very short; and it is safe to say that those who went to the pains of obtaining the stamps did not proceed with the idea of using the specimens for postage. Even unused special printings are found few and far between and if there was any extensive demand for the stamps in question, the prices would be truly prohibitive. The source of supply of the stamps is in the comparatively few that were distributed when they were available; and in this connection, it may be said that the supply of these stamps was increased by the finding of a set or two of the special printings in the effects of a postal officer who served in an important position at Washington before his death at his home in Michigan.

Quite So—We notice in the Complete Post Office Manual, No. 2, April 1st, 1851, that postmasters "not entitled to office stamps from the Department can obtain a complete set, for name of office, months, figures for dates and rates of postage, Paid and Free—all made of hard wood (better than steel) by remitting $2 to E. B. Zeverly, P. M., Pleasant Grove, Alleghany Co., Maryland, who is authorized by the Department to send them by mail free of postage. Write to Mr. Zeverly and be assured of satisfaction." If we are not mistaken, Mr. Zeverly became one of the assistants of the postmaster-general at Washington in later years. In a casual sort of way, we may say that No. 2 of the Complete Post Office Manual is rather scarce; in fact, we may own the only copy known of the number before us. (With nonchalant air).

the local stamp society and listen almost the whole evening to the exhortations of the sales superintendent to patronize his department," confesses a reader, who asks that we similarly take him into our confidence. Our joy supreme is to wait six months, expectantly; one year, un- easily; eighteen months, impatiently and two years, despairingly, for stamps circulated in the aforesaid department.

Converted Official—A copy of the Peru, 10c bistre brown, official, 1909, has come to us with the surcharge in green in two lines, "Franqueo, 1916." Our informant neglects to say anything about the treatment of the other stamps in the set but it is intimated that there may be a host of varieties from South American countries at any time due to a wish to conserve the stamps in consequence of the war. It is within the bounds of probability that stocks of denominations that are used sparingly will be converted into the values for which there is a heavy demand by some of the countries that depend upon distant places for the production of their stamps; and the difficulty in obtaining color bases from Germany has been dwelled upon at some length, heretofore.

SOME U. S. NOTES.

By PERCY MCG. MANN.

It seems that I am fated to discover double and triple transfers! Last year I found beautiful doubles of the 2c type I, 1894, and the 2c, Shield, 1903,—and now I have just found a distinct doubling of the transfer on the 1c, 1910, imperf., single lined letter watermark. The double is best seen in the doubling of the top and bottom frame lines. I'm sorry I cannot name the plate.

Regarding the 1c, 1912-15, with compound perf. 12 x 10, I have, it seems, the only known copies in existence. They came to light, twenty-three of them, last August, and none have, to my knowledge, been found since. I have also seen the 2c perf. 12 x 10 used on cover, from a non-philatelic party to a firm, one of the members of which happens to be a confirmed philatelist—but the genuineness of the perf. and the use of the stamp to pay postage by an unknowing person, is assured.

Therefore, when anyone says they do not believe such stamps exist, that is simply because they have not seen them. They do exist. I have carefully examined an irregularly shaped block of fifteen, the perforation is 12 horizontally and 10 vertically, and they measure up to both perfs. perfectly and what is more, they have the earmarks of the Bureau's perforating machines—and if anybody is capable of imitating such a thing, they will have to show me! I will not pass an opinion on a single stamp, but a block of four is different!

Messrs. Smyth & Co. in discussing the second edition of "Melville's Catalogue of War Stamps," points out that these are listed under "New Britain," in consequence of a "lead" given by them some time ago, but add that they have now come to the conclusion that it is incorrect, for while New Britain is the location of the headquarters of the Administrator, it only represents one portion of the territory which comprises Frederick-Wilhelmshaven on the mainland, and the Bismarck Archipelago, and includes Nauru or Pleasant Island, which was, before the occupation, under the jurisdiction of the Marshall Islands (now being occupied by the Japanese). The Gilbert and Ellice Islands stamps are issued mainly at Ocean Islands, but that would be no justification for the stamps being listed under "Ocean Island." It has been admitted officially that the term "N. W. Pacific Islands" is incorrect so far as the relation of these stamps to German New Guinea is concerned, and it is generally well known now why they were so overprinted. Until the conclusion of the war, therefore, it will be a difficult matter to give the proper title to any of these stamps.

Various suggestions have been made for an improvement in the wording of the overprint. One is that the letters "N. W." be eliminated altogether, and another is that the word "West" should be substituted, but both these designations would be obviously wrong for the stamps are not used exclusively for the islands of the West Pacific nor for the entire Pacific, and the other British dependencies in the Pacific would probably growl if such were done.

Messrs. Smyth were informed some time ago that the Defence Department had no intention of making any change in the wording of the overprint. The new supply of stamps sent out, some on the King George paper, as already reported in The Postage Stamp, is now said to be from a newly made electro of the overprint in the De Vinne type, so specialists will find the issue full of interest in the settings.—Postage Stamp.

"THE CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING."

On April 8 we shall issue a special number of the WEEKLY that will have a very large circulation. It will be made particularly attractive to young stamp collectors, and with that idea in mind we solicit short articles dealing with "The Charm of Stamp Collecting". Articles of not more than 1,000 words are desired and $5 will be given for the best entry. We reserve the right to publish any other entry that we may desire and if the contest should prove successful enough to warrant it, one or more consolation prizes will also be given. Entries must be made on or before March 20 and we hope there will be a strong competition.

A Hope That Failed

For a quarter of a century I have been building a collection, and for the past ten years I have been accumulating stamps in the fond hope of blossoming out as a full-fledged dealer. Vain hope. An inexorable decree bars the way; not only that but I must disperse everything except my collection; that I decline to part with, decree or no decree. The accumulation consists almost entirely of

We have been shown a specimen of the new 2c envelope by Arthur J. Peterson of Chicago. This envelope is now being seen in the mails frequently.

Willard S. Fuller sends us a copy of the 2c envelope just going out, which shows a spot of color filling the outer colorless line near the top of "t" of "United." This freak occurred every other one in a single box of envelopes.

ANTIGUA.—Ewen's Weekly says:—Following the issue in August last of the 1d bright scarlet on thin paper, in place of the former carmine colour, we received word that the new printings, appearing on sale in September of the 1/2d, 2d, 6d and 1s were also in new shades. It is to be noted these have deep yellow gum, instead of thin white as previously. We now list the colours in both the old 1908-14 and new 1915 shades as precisely as it is possible to define.

CAMEROONS.—Marsh's Philatelist reports that the 1c, 2c, 4c, 20c, 30c, 40c, 45c, 50c, 75c, 1fr and 2fr stamps of Gabon have received the overprint "Corps expéditionnaire franco-anglais Cameroun" for the use of the corps of the Allies now operating in this German Colony. The 5c, 10c, 25c and 35c stamps with the same overprint were noted in No. 1312. The number printed were as follows: 1c, 3,000; 2c, 1,000; 4c, 1,000; 5c, 10,000; 10c, 30,000; 20c, 1,000; 25c, 6,000; 30c, 1,000; 35c, 6,000; 40c, 1,000; 45c, 1,000; 50c, 1,000; 75c, 1,000; 1fr, 1,000; 2fr, 1,000.

COOK ISLANDS.—The 1 1/2d stamp of the Cook Islands, in the design showing a portrait of the late Queen Makea, has been issued, printed on chalk-surfaced paper, perforated 14 by 14 1/2.

Fiji.—The Australian Philatelist states that it is proposed to impose a war tax of 1/2d on postcards, 1d on letters and 3d on telegrams. Presumably this tax will be collected by means of stamps. It remains to be seen if they will be restricted to fiscal use or will be allowed to do postal duty.

The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly reports that the halfpenny value has been overprinted "WAR STAMP", similarly to the recent War issue in New Zealand. War Tax Stamp.

1d green and black.

GERMANY.—Offices in Lithuania.—The meaning of "Ob. Ost." on the German stamps overprinted for use in Lithuania and Courland, as noted last week is "Upper Eastern." The whole overprint being translated, "Postal District, Upper Eastern." We are indebted to Stanley R. Massman and W. G. Birdseye for further particulars regarding this issue.

GREAT BRITAIN.—The British Philatelist says: "When Messrs. De La Rue & Co. lost the contract for printing the British postage stamps, few thought that we should, within five years, again find them printing some of the values. Since the end of 1910, Somerset House and Messrs. Harrison & Son have between them produced all the postage stamps, except the 2s 6d, 5s, 10s and £1 of the present issue, which have been hitherto printed by Messrs. Waterlow Bros. & Layton, a well-known City house. Have our readers noticed that very many of the post offices, even large ones, are out of the £1? Various reasons have been semi-officially advanced for the dearth in this stamp—difficulty in obtaining the necessary coloured ink; possible abandonment of the use of the highest value, and so on. The truth is now out, for we have positive information that the issue of this value is to cease—certainly for the present; probably altogether.

The other values, all of the large emblematic type, are being printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. Both the 2sh 6d and 10sh stamps are being printed in paler shades than formerly.

HAYTI.—Robert A. Wilson, writing direct from the Island, reports the following additional overprinted varieties not in Scott's Catalogue: "Gl. O. Z." first type, on 1c ultramarine of 1898, on 2c de g orange and 7c de g green of 1906; on 1c de g lake and black of 1910. The 1c ultramarine was chronicled in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in 1914.

HONDURAS.—H. Chitraro has shown us a new stamp, though we are uncertain as to whether it is the first of a series or a single commemorative stamp. The name of the country does not appear. The inscriptions read "U P U" in each of the upper corners, "1916" at the top and "Recuerdo de 1 de Febrero" in a curved line over the portrait, which is that of Francisco Bertrand, President of the Republic. The stamp is of good design, and lithographed or surface printed. The figures of value are very small, and arranged in small ovals in the lower corners. The stamp is printed on white, unwatermarked paper, and perforated 11 1/2.

Adhesive.
1c brown orange.
The Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly reports a further value of the "Puente Ulua".

Adhesive.
2c carmine.

ITALY.—As recently noted the Italian 15c has been converted into a 20c stamp by surcharging, and this surcharge is repeated on all the stamps overprinted for the Italian islands in the Aegean Sea, thirteen in number, and named: Calimno, Caso, Cos, Karki, Leros, Lipso, Nisiro, Patmos, Piscopi, Rodi, Scarpanto, Simi and Stampalia. The 15c stamps have also been surcharged 20c for the Levantine offices, namely Durazzo, Scutari and Valona.

The 15+5 centesimi Red Cross stamps are also to be surcharged to 25 centesimi.

N. W. PACIFIC ISLANDS.—In No. 1299 we recorded the fact that the Raboul German registration label had been surcharged "G. R. I. 3d." It is now re-

The London Telegraph says the North West Pacific Islands stamps have been reprinted again, and the setting of the overprint "N. W. Pacific Islands" has been newly contrived so that all the letters "S" in the bottom row are uniform. The earlier overprintings were in a fount of type which had two different styles of letter "S," and the use of these for a stamp overprint created varieties for the philatelist.

It is also expected that the set of Australian stamps already overprinted for these islands, which only goes up to the 1s value, is to be extended by the addition of the 2s, 5s, 10s and £1. The other British issues for former German Islands in the Pacific, namely, for Nauru and Samoa, include values up to £1, though it may be remarked that the Germans never required postage stamps of higher value than 5 marks in these colonies.

PANAMA.—Scott's Circular has the following letter on the subject of the 1/2c printed in rose. We reprint it for the benefit of our readers.

Secretary of Government and Justice, PANAMA, Nov. 17, 1915.

MR. FRANK E. GREEN, BALBOA HEIGHTS.

I am answering your letter of the 11th instant, informing you that the 1/2 centesimo of Balboa stamps of the class that you forwarded to me were printed for the postal service of the Republic; but the circulation was never authorized and on account of the shortage of special stamps to collect the new commercial tax decreed by Law No. 24 of this year, they were authorized for that object.

I am your attentive and sincere servant,

(Signed) JUAN B. SOSA.

From this we infer the stamp was issued for fiscal purposes, but it remains to be learned if it was also available for postal use.

ROUMANIA.—It is reported that a new series of stamps is in preparation. They will bear the portrait of King Ferdinand and will include a 35 bani stamp, a value not hitherto included in the issues of that country.

SERBIA.—Champion's Bulletin reports having seen the latest issue of Serbian stamps, which bear a picture showing King Peter and his officers on the battlefield. These stamps had only just been issued at Nish and other of the chief Serbian towns when the Serbians had to retreat from their country. The design is a transverse oblong showing the King seated, with a group of officers behind him, watching the progress of the fighting. The inscriptions are in Slavonic characters, and represent the name of the country, "Serbia," at the top, and at the bottom the words, "King Peter on the Battlefield, 1914."

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Dues received from No. 213, $1.00, which with former receipts since January 1st have been forwarded to the treasurer.

Dues from all members, excepting those paid in advance for next year, are now due. It will save the secretary much unnecessary work if all will attend to this matter at once. And kindly remit for two years if convenient to save trouble for yourselves and the secretary. Kindly look up your last certificate of membership.

Resignation; 227, Robinson, F. M. Mr. Robinson resigned last August, but for some unaccountable reason, notice thereof was overlooked and not reported at that time.

No response has been received from the Secretary's call for nominees to be voted on for officers for the ensuing year, consequently no election was held; therefore the present officers will hold until others are duly elected in their places.

Very fraternally,

WE have put into operation a new Issue Service for U. S. Stamps. This small and simple statement does not look to be very unusual. Dealers have supplied new issues to their clients since time immemorial. English, French, German and other dealers have conducted new issue services at a fixed percentage over face, or over cost, for many a long day, some make a profit, some don't, all conduct it at a very small cost because one can hire a very competent stamp clerk for $30.00 a month in Europe—but you can't do that here. That is why we do not propose to fix any percentage—we want to put Service first and price last—and we want to make this service a success.

WHY DID WE DO IT?

Because the changes of inks and perforations and whatnot are taking place every day and we are letting these things get away from us. Just as an example here is the 10 cent coil of 1908 selling at $7.50 a pair and we could have had rolls of them for face value and distributed them at, say, 30 cents a pair. Take the whole proposition of modern U. S. and you have one of the most difficult and complex lots of stamps to follow and yet the cost is not high. Who knows that there are three styles of imprints on plates, two kinds of Coils, etc., etc.? Very few of you and yet if you had them consistently supplied to you you would know it and you would have them and that is the most important thing of all.

HOW WILL WE DO IT?

Just about like this. We shall lay ourselves out to secure every possible variety of shade, perforation, coil, etc. Do you know that some of the colours of our present issue are running wild? Do you know the Bureau can't get the proper inks and are turning out some very queer looking things that will be scarcer than hens' teeth soon? Do you know that the present 2c stamps come in more than twenty shades—from deep carmine to a pink vermilion? Do you know the old flat plate coils are being discarded for rotary coils whose product is a different size, a different paper and a different colour? Do you know that this big perf. 10 is being superseded by a new machine perforating nearly 11 and perforating the stamps better than they have been in years? Oh yes, we're getting on—slowly. Well, we propose to supply you with all these things. Figuratively speaking, you can read in the stamp papers of changes in U. S. stamps and say to yourself, "Gibbons have them in my box for me." We do the work and you get your little envelope full on the 10th of the month—even if we stay up all night to do it. We are going to reserve the right to kick out the kickers, because we expect probably four perhaps five hundred box holders inside of a year. Neither are we going to have the conditional man—the fellow who says send me a block of anything up to a nickel, a pair up to a dime, one copy up to half a dollar, and if they aren't absolutely centred don't send them, etc., etc. We don't want that fellow at all. That's why we lay down the rules we do and those rules will not be changed for anyone.

ABSOLUTELY NO

To do our best we must have free scope of action, a willing help from our box holders and a reasonable profit because we can't get dollar a day help—neither do you wish us to. Neither does it make any difference to the real collector if he pays 14 cents or 16 cents or 18 cents for a twelve cent stamp provided he is sure he is going to get it and doesn't have to watch every line in the papers to see if there is anything new or finds the dealer he expected to send it to him didn't do so because the dealer either forgot him or didn't buy enough of them or possibly didn't know of the thing at all. With us there isn't going to be any forgetting nor lack of cash. Not much. If you pay your deposit you are entitled to good service and you're going to get it.

NOW THE RULES AND THE REASONS FOR THEM

RULE 1.—TEN DOLLARS IN ADVANCE, AND ANOTHER TEN DOLLARS AND SO ON WHEN WE NOTIFY YOU YOUR FIRST TEN IS EXHAUSTED.

REASON.—The deposit prevents the slick person getting into us for a bad debt which the honest fellow has to pay. It's always like that. In addition to which the face value is so close to the sending price we cannot afford to lose a single dollar. Neither do you (nor we) want to be sending in 96 cents here and nine cents there, etc. Too much book-keeping.

RULE 2.—NO GOODS RETURNABLE.

REASON.—The United States stamps are poorly centered as a rule and centering cranks are still around. Now if we only buy absolutely centred stamps we're not going to get enough to go round and by the time we do get some the colour has probably gone off again to something else. So you must take what we send and we'll do the best we can and let it go at that. If they don't suit them up on the mail.

RULE 3.—NO FIXED PERCENTAGE OVER FACE.

REASON.—We cannot tell the cost. If we get them at the P. O. just down the street we shall charge for them just as much as some we had to telegraph to California for, etc. We paid 50% over face for a current stamp the other day and then got about a dozen sheets at face but we couldn't tell that nor could you—if we could we shouldn't be fooling our time in the stamp business. We should say that we shall try to be reasonable and if the prices are NOT satisfactory run your ten dollars out and close your box. Once closed we shall reserve the right to refuse you re-admission.

RULE 4.—NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR LOSS IN TRANSIT.

REASON.—Whilst the percentage of loss in the mails is reduced to practically nothing—still once in a while a letter gets lost. We guarantee to address our letters absolutely plainly and can go no further.

RULE 5.—NO RE-ORDERS.

REASON.—We supply you a 12 cents for, say, 18 cents, it gets rare, and is quoted 50 cents elsewhere. Some smart duck says I got one from Gibbons in my new issues, I'll write for a block of four more. NOTHING DOING. Once a distribution is made it's finished and that ends it. If the 12 cent stamp gets to be 50c or $1.00 or whatnot we will attend to selling any we have left ourselves.

RULE 6.—NO BACK DATING.

REASON.—If you send in your ten dollars the service begins from that day. We cannot, under the intricate system of distributing that is required, undertake to go back and give you previous distributions. THE STAMPS ARE NOT THERE, they have gone into the retail books at full retail prices.

We have gone to considerable trouble to explain this new system which ought to be a godsend to the busy man who wants to keep up-to-date in our U. S. stamps. We confidently expect a very heavy answer to this announcement and on account of the quantity involved would like to say our book-keeper says that the accounts are going to be very simple, thus "We enclose to the value of $1.50, your deposit $10.00, balance credit $8.50," and so on; and that's all and a good job, too. If you wish to join this service you must fill out this form:

Name (Please print it out—very plain.)
Street
Town (Please print it out—very plain.)
State
Requirements—(State whether singles, pairs or blocks, and stick to it.)
Deposit—$10.00 enclosed with this form.

When you return this to us it is agreed that you have read our rules and agree to them.

NOW LET THE BAND MARCH OUT!

NOTES ON THE U. S. 12c, 1912-15.

Double and Triple Transfers.

By PERCY MCG. MANN.

Continuing the notes set forth by me in the WEEKLY of February 19, I am able to furnish further interesting information in regard to the positions on the sheet occupied by the double and triple transfers of the 12c, 1912-15, U. S. postage stamps.

I have examined a part sheet, lower left pane of plate No. 6900 and the following is the result: Nos. 1, 2, 3 normal, No. 4 double, No. 5 normal, Nos. 6, 7, 8 double, No. 9 triple, No. 10 double, Nos. 11, 12, 13, 14 normal, Nos. 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 double, Nos. 21, 22, 23 normal, No. 24 double, No. 25 normal, Nos. 26, 27, 28 double, No. 29 triple, No. 30 double, Nos. 31, 32, 33 normal, Nos. 34, 35, 36 double, Nos. 37, 38, 39 triple, Nos. 40, 41, 42, 43 normal, Nos. 44, 45, 46 double, No. 47 normal, No. 48 double, No. 49 triple, No. 50 normal, No. 51 double, Nos. 52, 53 normal, No. 54 double, Nos. 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72 normal, No. 73 double, Nos. 74, 75, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 91, 92, 93, 94 and 95 normal.

After examining hundreds of these double and triple transfer varieties I find the prettiest "shifts" showing a distinct line through the top of the word "CENTS", in Nos. 19 and 48 of the above mentioned pane (lower left plate number 6900).

I regret that I cannot give complete information about full panes, as I have only had access to part sheets, but perhaps this information will appear in due season.

THE STAMPS OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

IX. 1879. First De La Rue Prints.

In 1876 the dies of all four values were handed over to the Crown Agents, who in turn passed them on to Messrs. De La Rue & Co., as per contract. Three years later, in 1879, the first De La Rue printed stamp was produced: the 1d in green from Messrs. Nissen & Parker's original die of this denomination.

Paper watermarked "Crown C.C." was employed and perforation 14. The watermark is found upright and sideways—the latter being the more common, which goes to prove that the sheets were square, or at any rate practically square.

One writer has said that this first De La Rue print was lithographed in sheets of 60 stamps. We have not been fortunate enough to acquire any blocks of sufficient dimensions to either substantiate or disprove this statement, but another writer upon the subject suggests that the sheets were probably "made up of 24 stamps in 4 rows of 6, the same as those supplied in later years by this firm with colours changed."

There are two very distinct shades of this stamp—green and yellow-green, but it is more than doubtful whether these divergencies are to be attributed to separate printings. The stamp is scarce in both shades and very seldom seen in blocks of any size.

Postally used copies are really rare; much rarer, in fact, than the catalogue quotation would suggest. If unused, 20sh represents the market value (which is about right) then used the stamp, according to its scarcity, is worth at least 80sh.

X. Queen's Head Issue.

The Virgin Islands joined the Universal Postal Union on July 1, 1879, and this event necessitated the issue of a stamp of the facial value of 2 1/2d.

Messrs. De La Rue & Co. thereupon prepared a surface printed plate in the well-known "De La Rue General Plate, Die I" type. The 2 1/2d was issued in March, 1880, and the 1d in the same type appeared about six months later.

Both denominations, 1d emerald-green and 2 1/2d red-brown, were printed in panes of 60 stamps upon Crown C.C. paper; the perforations gauging 14 as before.

Sometime in June, 1883, a 1/2d stamp was issued, printed in yellow-buff. In this instance, the paper bore the watermark Crown C.A., but the design, perforation and size of sheet remained as before.

All three stamps are scarce, especially in used condition.

It was not long, however, before changes of colour had to be adopted in order to conform to the regulations of the Postal Union, which stated definitely that stamps of the denominations of 1/2d were to be printed in green, 1d in red and 2 1/2d in blue. Accordingly, re-sort was made to these colours, and all three stamps were printed on the Crown C.A. paper. The 1/2d and 1d were issued in November and September, 1883, respectively, and the 2 1/2d in September, 1884.

The gum upon the stamps of this issue varies from white to pale yellow-brown. The 1/2d green shows the two extremes to the best advantage, copies with the brownish gum being much darker in colour.

The top and bottom labels being printed at a second operation, no importance need be attached to slight variations in the position of the name and value.

All sheets bear the plate numbers "1" or "2" only.

XIII. 1890-99. Leeward Islands.

On October 31st, 1890, the various issues of the greater group (Antigua, Dominica, Montserrat, Nevis, St. Christopher and Virgin Islands) were superseded by a Federation set of stamps comprising eight values:—1/2d, 1d, 2 1/2d, 4d, 6d, 7d, 1sh and 5sh in the well-known Queen's head De La Rue type.

The stamps were inscribed at top LEeward ISLANDS, the value in label at bottom and POSTAGE and REVENUE at the sides.

Any collection of Virgin Islands stamps must at least contain copies of this Federation issue used in the group. The postmarks in all cases are straightforward and copies used in the Virgin Islands group should not be missed, they greatly increase the interest of the collection, are cheap and fill up what would otherwise be a big gap in the postal history of the islands.

The postmarks by which these stamps can be allotted to the Virgin Islands are dealt with later on. In a few cases the old duplex cancellation may be found, but more generally the obliteration in vogue contained the name VIRGIN ISLANDS or the abbreviated form V.I.

The "Sexagenary" issue of 1897 was also in circulation in the Virgin Islands.

Reference List.

1890. Federated Leeward Islands. Typographed on Crown C. A. paper. Perf. 14. (Virgin Islands Cancellations.)

5sh green and blue.

1897. Same overprinted in black V. R. I. in a buckled garter, containing words SEXAGENARY 1897. Issued to Commemorate 60 years' reign of Queen Victoria.

It should be noted that the following errors occur in this series: (i) inverted overprint 1/2d, and (ii) double overprint 1/2d, 1d and 2 1/2d. All are scarce.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Whitfield King & Co's Standard Catalog.—A review copy of the 1916 edition of this catalog is at hand. Its appearance has been somewhat delayed due to war conditions but the publishers state that the delay in getting stock has made it possible to make the revision of the catalog all the more thorough, and "right up to date". Attention is called to the fact that certain countries have been re-arranged.

A noteworthy feature about the new catalog is the fact that many new illustrations are used. Many of the old illustrations have been replaced by new ones, and the marvel is that such small cuts are so true in detail. We must compliment the publishers upon this feature of the catalog.

The Sonora and other revolutionary issues of Mexico are not given any attention, for self-evident reasons. It is stated that the publishers hope to have a reliable list of these stamps in the next edition and will trust to Father Time to separate the chaff from the wheat.

The total number of stamps issued to date included in the catalog is 28,591. Of this number 8,343 are apportioned to the British Empire, Europe has issues 6,011, Asia 5,648, Africa 6,955, America 5,815, West Indies 2,216 and Oceania 1,946.

The book is attractively bound in khaki-cloth and can be had of the publishers, Whitfield King & Co., Ipswich, Eng., for 70c post-free. If you want to renew your subscription to the WEEKLY for four years we shall give you a copy free of charge.

KANGAROO ISSUE PERF. "O. S."

Occasionally a correspondent calls our attention to the fact that the stamps of the Australian Commonwealth, kangaroo issue, are appearing perforated with the letters "O. S." and in two distinct types. This is not a new thing and we deem it wise to call the attention of our readers to this fact. We quote from a letter just at hand from H. A. Bernard:

"In going over a lot of Australian stamps I received a few weeks ago, I came across several values perforated "O S" as per attached 1d Kangaroo. There were two distinct varieties of perforations, one stamp having the "O" and "S" about 1/8 inch longer than on stamp herein. Am curious to know if this would likely be in place of the Official Service surcharge (O. S.)."

Scott's catalog does not recognize what might be called "perforated officials." A paragraph under Luxemburg dealing with the stamps of that country that are perforated OFFICIEL for official use reads, "We no longer list stamps of this character." We do not blame the collector for adding a set of these stamps to his collection.

CANADA WAR TAX STAMPS.

We have in course of preparation a manuscript dealing with the war tax stamps of Canada. If any of our subscribers have any figures or other data dealing with these stamps, either revenue or postage, we shall be pleased to receive the same.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

It Beats All—From Mr. Roscoe T. Foust, Portsmouth, New Hampshire, we have received a sample of imaginative or interpretive information that interests us strangely. We share the following extract from printed records: "Like many other inventions, perforated stamps were the result of an accident. According to a story which is told, a man about to start on a horseback ride, wanted to stamp a letter, but could not find knife or scissors with which to cut a single stamp from the sheet. He suddenly thought of his spur. Running the rowel along, he perforated the edges of the stamp, tore it off, and thus started a new invention." Shades of Archer! but this is an ingenious tale. We remember how a writer in one of our publications was rebuked in England for giving currency to a story to the effect that the inventor of perforations on stamps was a Yankee but the foregoing account is too good to ignore. The British government, it is of record, began the use of Archer's perforating machine on January 27th or 28th, 1854.

Romance—The reports of philatelic societies read somewhat prosaically as a rule but in the minutes of the Philatelic Society of Victoria, Australia, there is a departure from the ordinary in the following circumstance. A member displayed a superb mint copy of the Sydney view, one penny carmine, type I, plate I, no clouds, on soft yellowish paper; and it is needless to say that the stamp unused is a great rarity. The father of the exhibitor of the stamp left New South Wales for New Zealand in 1854, and afterwards went to Victoria, where he died in 1861. "He left a desk that had a secret drawer. This desk was lying in a barn until 1875. It was then opened and among other good things in the stamp line was this 'View.' Here is a tabloid mystery story compressed into the space of a few lines.

* * *

Priority—We have received an interesting budget from Miss Amy L. Swift, Whitman, Mass. Miss Swift calls attention to a variety of the two cent Canada Christmas or map stamp of Canada, that she sends for inspection. The normal stamp shows "Canada Postage" on a background of solid black "but on the second copy that background instead of being solid color is shaded at each end, under the first and last letters, C and E. I found this while the stamp was current but found only the one. Are other copies known?" While the engraved lines of the background of the variety are thinner than on the usual specimen, the difference could still be the result of variation in inking the plate. It would be impractical to polish a plate so that each of the stamp subjects on it at either end of the background referred to would have the tone effects on Miss Swift's specimen, which is an interesting if accidental example of mechanical possibilities. Miss Swift in speaking of the paragraph, "Dots and Dashes," says that she discovered the "pearl on left and bridge on right" of the 2 of the two cent 1890, years ago, "probably between 1893 and 1898" and reported the discovery in the stamp papers of the time. Of a variety with the bridge on right 2 but no pearl on the left 2, Miss Swift found sixteen copies in looking over about 30,000 stamps. Miss Swift illustrated her remarks with the stamps themselves.

Right—Here we have it. Mr. Raymond V. Seaman, Craigville, New York, writes: "After reading your editorials in the WEEKLY of February 26th, it occurred to me that you might be interested in the enclosed cover bearing a two cent, 1890, right cap. The postmark shows that this variety came early in 1890. If the 'caps' are due to damaged transfer rolls, it is strange that so few right caps are found. Mr. — of New York, after examining this cap told me that it was as good a 'right cap' as one ever sees as they nearly all show faint color marks between the numeral and the cap." This right cap is on a letter postmarked at Emporia, Kansas, March 25, 1890, and it is a superb example of the coy and uncertain right cap. If an expert will declare that this specimen is not a right cap, we will eat our hat, or a left cap, anyway.

Then Again—Mr. Carle H. Schafer, Niles, Michigan, speaks out: "I was interested in your recent remarks on the 1890, right cap, two cent. I have always been attentive to this stamp. At the American Philatelic Society exhibit in Chicago, I took special pains to look up the 'right caps' that were displayed. I found three of them there but not one of them resembled another. I have also examined about a dozen or so on auction slips but have yet to see two alike. The only perfect one that I ever saw was submitted to me by a collector who asked seven dollars for it. It may have been worth it if the right shade of red had been used when the left cap was painted over!" Heigh-ho. Escape is at hand. As we remember, Mr. Schafer is an artist who formerly was located in Chicago. He has a philatelic book plate, we believe, and if he and the few others who indulge in the satisfaction of contemplating this badge of ownership will send us copies, we should be able to reproduce them for the delectation of readers. (Regards to W. H. R.; H. E. D., please write.)

Censored—The collector of censored envelopes has a field worthy of his unremitting efforts. We notice that Swiss mail is opened "par l'autorite militaire." France is using pasters with "Controle postal" inscription. Italy has the printed label, "Verificato per Censura" and stamped impression with the same notice. Russia uses label and rubber-stamped impression. India, Australia, etc., have different styles of "Passed by Censor" markings.

Growing—Our handbook series has been augmented by "Germany and Its Colonies," by Bertram W. H. Poole and "United States Department Stamps," by Frank E. Goodwin, priced at twenty-five cents and ten cents, respectively. We feel that we are rendering philately a substantial service by publishing our series of low priced books; and in recommending them to the attention of readers we have every confidence that we are giving the fullest value to buyers. Books of the kind do much to establish the permanent interest of the owner in philately.

Cancellations—Writing from San Diego, California, Mr. L. Kopf says: "In looking through a very large lot of United States recently, I found a great many odd and interesting cancellations; and some of them I have never seen mentioned. Among the latter are the 1c, 1882 and 2c, brown, 1883, with a perfect picture of a shoe used as a canceling device. Who knows the office of origination? I found also several masonic square and compass cancellations

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Frank F. Wills informs us that the only values of stamps on sale at the St. Johns, Newfoundland, post offices are 1c, 2c and 5c. Anyway only these values are sold over the counter to the public.

—A special advertising or poster stamp has been issued in connection with the English National Philatelic War Fund. The label is described as a very pretty one and it is issued in a series of six colors, and sold for a penny each or 12c for the set. The stamps have been engraved and printed by Perkins, Bacon & Co., and the design shows "The Sword of Justice." The stamps are printed in sheets of twelve with black center and the following frame colors:—blue, green, lake, purple, orange and brown. The stamps are donated to the Fund by the engravers and printers and a handsome sum should be realized from their sale.

—The Exchange Stamp Co. of San Francisco, Cal., takes a quarter page this week to advertise an auction sale. More and more our columns are being used for sales of this character and dealers recognize the fact that our 8,000 subscribers have buying qualities in this direction that may well be cultivated. This firm was formerly located in New York and has advertised previously in our publication. Albert Miller is the manager of the company, which comes to us well recommended.

—Victor G. Bloede, Jr., a Baltimore manufacturer of dyes for the U. S., in an interview says that currency and stamps soon would have to be in black and white on account of the lack of fast dyes.

—The San Diego Stamp Club has elected the following officers for the coming year:—L. N. Skinner, president; M. M. Kaufman, vice-president; C. V. Scaife, secretary-treasurer; A. H. Wright and O. H. Phinney additional members of the executive committee. We regret that we do not have the space to publish the very interesting program of club events for 1916, but interested readers can no doubt obtain a copy by writing C. V. Scaife, 802 Timken Bdg., San Diego, Cal.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Wm. F. Works, W. G. Birdseye, Henry Jonas.

—"I note with much interest Mr. Martin's list of measurements of the Nicaragua Cordoba surcharges and find in looking over my copies that I can add the following to the list:

318, 2c on 4c, 14 and 18m

320, 2c on 25c, 18m

321, 2c on 35c, 16m

324, 2c on 6c, 15 1/2m

It may be interesting to know that there is a double surcharge on the 1/2 on 15 on 35c and also a double on the new 5c on 6c."—KARL A. PEMBER.

—According to word that has been received from the publishers, the 20th century albums will be on sale May 15th, 1916. Correspondents who have made inquiry on the subject are now answered.

—A price list of new issues that has been forwarded by Fred Michael, Chicago, is of a size to make one realize that this advertiser has established a new issue business in this country that perhaps is second to none. In this connection, it is to be reported that war issues are ruling strong.

—The Collectors' Club of New York City recently observed its 20th anniversary with a banquet at the Hotel Savoy with seventy-five members and friends present. C. E. Hatfield, Newton, Mass., vice-president of the Club, presided and the speakers of the evening were Arthur Wells, A. Hatfield, Jr., J. C. Morgenthau, John N. Luff, J. W. Scott and Charles L. Pack. P. C. Hartell was the chairman of the banquet committee and the occasion was a marked success.

—We have received from the Economist Stamp Co. the new price and check list of United States stamps issued from 1882 to 1916. The list is a very comprehensive one in the matter of including shades, blocks, imperforates, coils, dues, special deliveries, revenues, plate number strips, etc. It will be sent to anyone on request.

—The entertainment committee of the Boston Philatelic Society has secured a double attraction for the next meeting which comes on the evening of March 21st. W. B. Sprague of New York City will show the result of his studies of the 1861-8 issues of United States stamps and H. H. Wilson will exhibit his fine collection of proofs and essays. Mr. Sprague has made this issue his specialty and is considered the authority on these stamps. Every member should endeavor to be present and bring a friend to enjoy this philatelic treat. In view of the approaching convention of the American Philatelic Society in Boston this summer there is an additional interest in this meeting as both of these gentlemen are vice presidents of the national body.

WE MAY RUN TO 11,000.

We have previously announced our intention to issue an edition of the WEEKLY on April 8 that will run to ten thousand copies but we shall do better than that. The figure will be around the 11,000 mark due to the receipt of a larger number of orders than anticipated.

Remember we don't advertise "circulation." Ours is a paid subscription basis and when we go over the usual figures we state just where the extra circulation comes in.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels reports the following new envelopes:

BOSNIA.—A. C. Roessler has shown us an unused block of the 7th Bosnia Charity Stamp, dated "1915", one stamp having the date at both top and bottom, instead of date at the top and new value at the bottom. This error occurs on the 49th stamp on each sheet. Mr. Roessler informs us that the new set with "1916" date is ready for distribution.

GERMANY.—Offices in Lithuania.—We are also indebted to Frank P. Brown and A. C. Roessler for information regarding the new occupation stamps for the conquered Baltic provinces. The 10c carmine should have been included in the list thus overprinted.

HONDURAS.—Hermann Focke also sends us a specimen of the new Bertrand stamp, chronicled last week.

MEXICO.—Wm. E. Dowser is informed that the plates are being prepared for the new engraved series, and the stamps will be issued shortly. The colors and portraits or pictures will be as follows, the 40c and 1p values having already been issued:

Adhesives.

- 1c violet; coat of arms.
- 2c green; Dr. Belisario Dominguez.
- 3c brown; J. M. Pino Suarez.
- 4c red; Gen. Maclonio Herreia.
- 5c yellow; Gen. Jesus Carranza.
- 10c blue; Francisco I. Madero.
- 20c olive green; Gen. Ildefonso Vasquez.
- 30c sepia; Aguilas Seidan.
- 50c blue; Great Seal of Republic.
- 5p rose and blue; P. O. at Mexico City.

PANAMA.—Raymond Freshwater also informs us that the 1/2c rose recently noted was intended for fiscal use.

PERU.—Further provisionals from this country have come to hand, specimens having been shown us by Hermann Focke. Those previously chronicled were the 1c on 10c red brown and black of 1907, 2c on 12c deep blue and black of 1905, and 10c on 1s carmine and black of 1909. Like the previous surcharges, the new efforts are either lithographed or printed from engraved plates. The 12c of 1909, has been surcharged, "Vale —1 Centavo—1916," in red; the 10c official of 1909, "Franqueo—1916" in green; and the 50c official of 1909, "Franqueo—Vale 2 Cts—1916" in red. A. C. Roessler also reports the overprinted officials.

Provisional Adhesives.

- 1c on 12c pale blue.
- 10c bistre brown.
- 2c on 50c olive green.

RUSSIA.—Ludwig Simon sends us a clipping from the New York Staats Zeitung from which we learn that the Post office of the City of Zawierice in Russian Poland has issued two postage stamps for the delivery of letters from the "Reichspost" in Sosnoroice to neighboring places. The stamps are beautifully executed, printed in two colors and appear in two values 10pf and 20pf. They are surcharged in German as well as in Polish reading, "Postal Service of the City of Zawierice."

THE VALENCIENNES PROVISIONAL.

D. B. ARMSTRONG in the S. C. F.

A provisional war stamp of a purely local character had, in point of fact, been issued in Northern France some weeks previous to the advent of the German "Belgien" series, to which however it is inferior in philatelic importance.

When the German forces entered the important French industrial centre of Valenciennes on August 29th, 1914, during their ill-starred dash for Paris, the postal service of the town and surrounding district was in a state of chaos, owing to the hasty withdrawal of the French officials before the German advance. Accordingly, the Committee of the Valenciennes Chamber of Commerce approached the Commandant of the garrison (Lt.-Col. Kintzell), to obtain his permission for the establishment of a provisional post, to serve the town and adjacent communes, and to issue a special 10 centimes local postage-stamp for the prepayment of postage on letters, which was duly sanctioned.

On September 3rd, the service was inaugurated as set forth in the following official communication:—

"PROVISIONAL POSTAL SERVICE.

"In consequence of the interruption of the normal postal arrangements, the Chamber of Commerce of Valenciennes has undertaken to re-establish provisionally, to a certain extent, and only between the communes of the district, a postal system for business or family communications.

"To commence with, it is fixed to leave on Monday, 7th September, for the carriage and distribution of letters and post cards between the communes served by the tramways delivering on the route (Valenciennes, Raignes, Ormaing, Quievrechain, Buray, Tresnes, Conde, etc.)

"Letters and cards accepted for transmission must conform to the undermentioned requirements:—
1st. To be left open.

2nd. Not to contain any mention of the belligerent armies.

3rd. Be franked, not by means of the usual postage stamps (which will not be recognised), but by means of a special stamp of 10 centimes, which may be obtained at Valenciennes, from the tobacco shops in the Place d'Armes, or from the office of the Chamber of Commerce."

The special stamp referred to was a type-set production, roughly printed in reverse (i. e., white lettering on a coloured ground, obtained by electro-typing) in red upon white paper and perforated 11. Its inscriptions, partly enclosed within a plain rectangular frame, read "Chambre de Commerce de Valenciennes—Service Postal—Intermaire—10c—1914". A total of 8,000 copies of this historical local stamp are said to have been struck off, and used between September 3rd and October 30th, 1914, when the postal arrangements of the district were taken over by the Imperial German Postal Administration and the notorious "Belgien" overprinted stamps brought into general use.

Check List.

1914. September 3rd—October 30th. Provisional local postage stamp issued by the Valenciennes Chamber of Commerce. Type-set design as above Surface-printed from electrotypes locally on white paper. No wmk. Perf 11.

NOURISHMENT IN POSTAGE STAMPS.

NEWTON NEWKIRK in Boston Post.

"Dear Sir—Are postage stamps nourishing? Furthermore, is there more nutriment in a 10-cent stamp than there is in a 2-cent stamp?"—LICKEM.
"Boston."

Yes, there is considerable nutriment to be found on the adhesive side of postage stamps. This consists of sugar, glucose, albumenoids, proteids, etc. If people would lick their own stamps instead of asking the postmaster to do it for them, they would be able to reduce the high cost of living considerably.

You will observe that most postmasters who lick stamps for customers are light eaters and rarely ever go out to lunch. The stickum on postage stamps would be much more palatable if the government saw fit to flavor the different denominations with vanilla, sarsaparilla, strawberry, etc. The nutriment of a 10-cent stamp is no greater than that on the back of a 2-center; whereas, according to the price charged, it ought to be five times as nutritious.

ADLETS.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world.

We shall use every possible endeavor to protect our subscribers, but we cannot undertake to be responsible for unsatisfactory trade relations. Advertisers against whom complaints are proven will be debarred the further use of these columns.

A LAWYER—BUT A PHILATELIST.

He's a lawyer by profession, but his most beloved possession.

Isn't knowledge of the law—and he's a light; And it isn't all the dollars that for services he collars—

Why, a check for half a million he could write;

And it's not the people's praises—adulation never fades—

If they didn't say a word 'twould not be missed;

But he makes his genuflection to his postage stamp collection—

He's an ardent and a skilled philatelist.

He has stamps from every nation—every size and perforation;

Every color, die, and watermark he knows; And he talks of different issues, ponders long on shades and tissues.

Spots the difference at a glance 'twixt pink and rose;

He will speak with lots of feeling of the hinge they call "self-peeling"—

Oh, he knows the game, its every curve and twist!

He could go to Congress easy but he never will, for he's a

JIMMY O'. WORKS A REFORM.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

"When I see w'at this here Arizony air does fer lungs, it sure rejices me."

Jimmy O'. swung lazily to and fro in a new hammock which he had evolved from the staves of two old barrels and a cast-off riata. The outfit hung from a catalpa tree and a eucalyptus, where the shadow of the pepper trees occasionally fell. Having constructed his hammock, Jimmy O' felt it incumbent upon him to occupy it at all times of day, regardless of the position of the sun. Sometimes he baked, sometimes he boiled; all times he felt a seraphic peace resultant upon achievement.

"One time they comes here, one time they goes. Lots uv 'em stays under groun', more uv 'em stays above an' makes good citizens. W'y, out at Pozo del Desiertos you c'd take care o' a big bunch. I got it, by heck! Let's start a sanatorium fer c'lecters!"

Jimmy O'. began to roll a cigarette while I cogitated, Pozo del Desiertos—or, Englished, Well of the Desert, is eight miles due east of Willow, on the great Santa Fe trail, the highway to the Roosevelt dam. It is the last desert rancho, for the government land borders it on the east. There is a deep well of purest water—a gasoline engine—a pump—a barn—a house of three rooms, and one hundred and sixty acres of uncultivated desert. But tenant none. I had bought the place a year before, but my tenant had so effectively disagreed with a man that the free air would know him no more for a long term of years. Since that time I had stayed with my dreams which, so far, had failed to come true.

"Well, you c'n think it over," said Jimmy, from his obscurity, an' maybe we c'n git a colony o' c'lecters out here t' breathe our good air an' drink our pure water an'—"

"Swap stamps. Yes, sir," broke in Eddy, from his refuge on the ground. "That's what'll cheer 'em up. An' you, frien' o' ours, c'n start a paper, an' we c'n learn 'em all to set type an' kick th' press, an' the desert'll bloom like—like—"

"A bee sting," Jimmy O'. finished the sentence, and Eddy subsided.

"Speakin' o' c'lecters, I nev' tole yuh 'bout that preacher I met up with onct? No? Well, it sure was some humersome. Yuh see, they was a conf'rence in Willow, one time back, an' some tenderfeet was there. Me—I drifts in t' hear 'em preach. Some uv 'em was middlin'—some of 'em was pretty poor—one was fine. Methodis, I fergot t' say. Well, I kind-a cottons t' th' good un, an' mills aroun' a little hearin' 'm w'enever I gits a chanst. He was a kind-a ole chap, an' he had a son there, too—Harold—an' 'is son's wife war with 'em. Well, me an' th' ole gent meets up, fin'ly, an' he tells me all about it. Son gits th' bugs, back East. Dad packs up an' comes West t' save 'im. By heck! I met son, an' I thinks he sure aint wuth ary sacrifice—not him. Wife's a dandy woman. C'lects. Me an' her takes t' one 'nother but son takes to me like I was pizen.

"Well, dad buys a dinky rancho for son, who 'pricates it 'bout as much as a diamon'-back can, an' perceeds to stay wit' 'em an' stake 'em. I see 'em some frequent, me passin' th' rancho on my way in an' out o' town.

"Well, one day they-all thought a picnic would be fine over t' th' foothills o' Superstition, an' th' ole gent invites me to 'light, as I were passin'. Now the ole gent was some c'lector, onct, w'en 'e was a kid—had a pretty nice bunch o' U. S. that he'd drag out an' show me, now an' then, invitin' me in w'en 'e see me ridin' by. I hated t' stop, son bein' so derved peevish, but I jest had t' do that same. Son's wife was mighty kind t' me that picnic day, me bein' a jest, but son he strolls off fer a lonesome. After awhile I climbs on ole pinto an' hits out for th' range. 'Bout half a mile out I meets up wit' son. He flags me.

"A word with you, Mr. O'Callaghan," says 'e.

UNITED STATES PROOFS.

The recent exhibition at the Boston Philatelic Society of some twenty volumes of the late Earl of Crawford's highly specialized collection of United States stamps was a revelation of scientific work in gathering material, both objective and subjective, for the proper historical treatment in "writing up" a series of stamp issues. The position of influence and wealth of the late Earl of course gave him opportunities that are not open to all stamp collectors for gathering much information and material along what are often termed "side lines" of collecting, yet which frequently have a direct and important bearing on the main "issue," so to speak. The material and information once in Lord Crawford's hands, his method was to start with the first conception of a stamp—the portrait, the picture, or what not—stating its source and sometimes being able to exhibit a reproduction in some form. Next he was able, through his purchase of the Mandel collection, to present many original sketches for the frames to surround the subjects chosen, accompanied often by proofs or "pulls" from the engraving as it progressed until the completed design was shown as a "die proof" in various colors. Sometimes these dies were modified before the final "O. K." was given and plates prepared for printing. Lastly there were the plate proofs and then the finished stamps as issued—together with subsequent varieties such as we know them from the catalogues. In all this we see the complete history of the various stamps from their conception to the termination of their "life." In many cases it makes a most interesting story and always an interesting showing.

How many would like to follow out these lines in their own collections of United States! But the full material would be lacking in most cases since the original sketches and many other items of the Crawford collection are unique and therefore unattainable. But many of those who examined these volumes were much impressed with the addition which the proofs made to the exhibit, and most of these, at least, are within reach of the collector at present. As a matter of fact there are many collectors already interested in these beautiful "half-brothers" of stamps, and they are wise who have already made their choice and can exhibit a collection of United States proofs, for each day sees them more sought for and less plentiful, all of which tends to increase the difficulty of obtaining them finally.

It is a curious fact that we usually see "Proofs and Essays" grouped together into this one familiar heading, so that it has become almost a habit to consider them together. But while they are closely related there is no real necessity of putting them together; the "proof," as we use the term, is a proof or trial print of the accepted design and therefore, as previously remarked, a "half-brother" to the finished stamp; the "essay," to hark back to its etymology (from the French essai), is a trial design and unless finally accepted remains an essay forever. Many essays are of course closely connected with the finally accepted designs—for example the "small figure" designs of the United States 1869 issue, and the bi-colored proofs for the "Omaha" issue of 1898, the latter being issued as unicolor stamps because of the exigencies of the Spanish War revenue act which taxed the resources of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. In such cases they have more than ordinary interest. But multitudes of essays have nothing in common with issued stamps except as showing the diversity of opinion as to what those stamps should be. In earlier philatelic times, however, essays were assiduously collected, largely because the regular field was much more restricted than at present in all probability, and possibly—speak it gently—because it was quite easy to foist certain essays upon gullible collectors as the essay has no real official standing anyway.

But, "to return to our sheep," let us consider the "Proofs." In the first place they may be roughly divided into two classes, the "die" proofs and the "plate" proofs. As their names indicate, they are made respectively from the original die, a single engraving on a small block of steel, or from a printing plate with perhaps 100 to 400 subjects on it as used in producing the sheets of regular stamps. The former can generally be readily distinguished by the wide margins of the paper on which they are struck, and are usually considered rather more desirable, both because they are from the original engraving and by rea-

Headquarters for Stamps of U. S. and Its Colonies

Mr. Collector: It will pay you to write me if you want something in the above line. I now have on "tap" a complete sheet of $10 State Department stamps in superb condition, never hinged; a block of four $20, same condition; 1880, 1c, 5c and 12c Special Printing; the blue paper stamps complete of the 1908 issue including the rare 4c and 8c and practically all of the U. S. Colonies issued under U. S. occupancy. I also have a fine lot of blocks of the U. S. and Its Colonies. Send me your want list.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

son of their comparative scarcity. The plate proofs, naturally, have rather limited margins and therefore do not show off to quite the advantage of the die proofs.

But the main point in regard to proofs is that they are always produced with very great care in every detail of their printing, and the paper or card upon which they are struck is selected with special reference to its fitness for showing up the finest detail of the engraving. The result is naturally the best obtainable and shows just how the stamp itself ought to look as a work of art—but usually doesn't because of the limitations of commercial work and vast production. If now we add a range of "trial colors" in these proofs as well as the accepted color, we not only add to the attractiveness of our pages but have a chance to make an estimate of the fitness of the chosen color to the design used—which does not always show up to advantage, by the way.

United States proofs are usually found on India paper or card board, with an occasional value on bond paper, though most of these are revenue proofs. The cardboard employed is of several qualities and thicknesses, probably due to different periods of printing, and is usually found with plate proofs, being seldom used for die proofs. India paper is of course well known to most collectors, and is very soft, thin, white and of a silky appearance, taking the impression of an engraving most beautifully. Bond paper is a thin, tough, hard and somewhat brittle paper. It is even possible to find proofs on regular paper, gummed and perforated, but not in the normal color, naturally, which would make such indistinguishable from the regularly issued stamps.

In regard to colors, besides the adopted colors of the issued stamps the earlier issues and the Departments can be found in at least five colors—black, blue, brown, green and vermilion—and sometimes there are a dozen or more. The bi-colored stamps of the 1869 issue come in a dozen or fifteen combinations of colors, some of which are very handsome, and the high value State Department appear in at least ten combinations.

Turning from the postage stamps of the United States to the revenue stamps, we find a no less interesting field but one much less familiar. Nor is the material so abundant, for it consists mostly of plate proofs on cardboard in the normal colors, with plate proofs on India paper in both normal and trial colors much scarcer. Die proofs in the general issues are extremely scarce, but in the case of the private proprietaries the reverse is the case, die proofs on India paper being the commonest both in normal and trial colors, doubtless from the fact that many proofs had to be submitted to the proprietors ordering dies before the final making of the plates. When the latter were ready plate proofs on India paper were made of many of them, but only in few cases on cardboard, the latter being very scarce.

If a collection of proofs of United States postage stamps is a "thing of beauty", surely a collection of proofs of the revenue stamps is not only that but

"a joy forever." To anyone who has collected and studied United States revenues no mention need be made of the beauty of many of the designs and the fineness of the engraving employed.—N. E. Stamp Monthly.

STAMP DEALER HELD UP.

Last Monday evening A. W. Bullard, proprietor of the stamp firm of A. Bullard & Co., 446 Tremont St., Boston, was held up by a boy "bandit" by the name of George Peckham. Peckham, who is fifteen years old, had spent the day reading the life of Jesse James, the famous bandit, and early in the evening entered the shop of Mr. Bullard. After talking with him a few minutes about the price of stamps he drew a revolver and ordered the stamp man to throw up his hands.

The latter stared at the boy in amazement, from whom the command came a second time, followed quickly by three shots, two of which hit Mr. Bullard. The boy then darted from the office and, intercepted by the janitor, fired another shot. Both Bullard and the janitor were taken to the City Hospital. The injury sustained by the latter was trifling and Mr. Bullard's condition is not considered critical. Peckham was subsequently arrested.

CINCINNATI ORGANIZES.

After several years of attempts to start a local society of philatelists at Cincinnati, O., Mr. J. A. McCullough has finally succeeded in getting together an initial gathering of stamp men that promises much for the future of the hobby in this city. The Cincinnati Philatelic Society was temporarily organized at the Stag Hotel, March 12 and will be permanently established Sunday afternoon, March 19, at 2 P. M., at this hotel. Those who were at the opening meeting are J. A. McCullough, M. H. Weber, C. E. White, N. J. Ossege, G. L. Ringland, H. Karch, Erwin L. Fischer, G. M. Trumbell, G. D. Kitzinger, H. K. Smith, Jr., A. Shircliffe, G. H. Welborne. The society expects to start off with a charter membership of twenty-five members.

As one of the objects of the society will be to purchase stamps collectively for its members, dealers are requested to send their regular and special lists of bargains to Mr. J. A. McCullough, Care Stag Hotel, Cincinnati, Ohio.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—In the last number of the Stamp Trade Donald Martin of Hamilton, Mo., entered a complaint against Dr. Pelaez of Remedios, Cuba, stating that no reply could be received to any communication sent him. All the facts in the case have been laid before us by Dr. Pelaez and the failure of Mr. Martin to receive any reply was due to mis-addressed mail matter. This has been submitted to us for our examination and two letters sent Mr. Martin were returned marked "unclaimed." The matter has now been adjusted and the WEEKLY desires to remove any suspicions that may have been cast upon the dealer in question.

—"Page 110, No. 11 (Vol. 30) of March 11th just to hand, I read the meaning of "Ob. Ost" on the German stamps for Lithuania to be "Upper Eastern." Pardon my giving you the real meaning of the overprint on these German stamps. The overprint reads: "Postgebiet (des) Ob(er)befehlshabers (im) Ost(en)." The postal service in that territory is known officially as "Kaiserlich Deutsche Post-und Telegraphenverwaltung in Postgebiete des Oberbefehlshabers Ost." Hence "Postal Territory under the jurisdiction of the supreme Military Commander in the East."—REV. JOSEPH DREYER.

—Occasionally a subscriber calls our attention to the fact that a label is being used advertising and advocating 1c letter postage. This was noted in the WEEKLY many months ago.

—We can supplement our editorial mention of the featured war stamp article published in the New York World Magazine, February 27 with the information that it was written by Malcolm H. Ganser, Norristown, Pa. Mr. Ganser writes that he is preparing another war stamp article for a newspaper of wide circulation and we congratulate him upon the splendid publicity work that he is doing.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Charles B. Lazar, I. B. Robinson (2), George Kump, Charles H. Hermann, Charles J. Geyer, L. A. Judkins, F. C. DePuy (2), Louis Frey.

—F. E. P.—We know of no such list as you describe having been issued.

—Miss Amelia Blydenburgh writes us as follows concerning the variety of the 1c 1890, described and illustrated in our issue of March 4:—"I was interested in the variety submitted by G. A. Roush and looked through between three and four hundred stamps for the same. I found five, so they cannot be very scarce. I found, however, that while the five had the elongated ornament on the left oval, only two of these showed the variety referred to on the right oval."

—In Flying for March there is an article on the U. S. aerial mail service with pictures of aeroplane stamps. Several subscribers call our attention to this fact.

—We are advised that Leon V. Cass has removed to Great Bend, Pa., and his customers are requested to note the change.

—Will Philip A. Cann send his address to the office of the WEEKLY? We have a cover rebus entry entered in his name, but address is lacking.

—There are letters at this office for Ralph Norton and Edw. Wintermute. Will these subscribers please send their addresses in? Once more we must remind our readers that our subscription list is so arranged by mail routes that we cannot supply addresses of subscribers.

—Designs for a new issue of Greek postage stamps have been approved, and, unless the Serbian occupation of Corfu interferes with the printing of them, the stamps will be on sale within a few months. Greek paper money is printed in the United States, but the postage stamps are printed in Corfu.

—"I note in your editorial in the issue of March 11th that you refer to 'E. B. Zeverly', P. M., Pleasant Grove, Md., and state your impression that he subsequently became one of the Assistant Postmasters General. I have examined the roster of the Department and can find no one by the name of 'ZEVERLY' as having held the position of Assistant Postmaster General, but I do find that the Hon. A. N. Zevely held the office of Third Asst. P. M. G. from March 5th, 1859, to May 22nd, 1869. As the Third Asst. P. M. G. handles all matters relating to stamps and postage, Mr. Zevely no doubt was closely associated with the development of the United States postage stamps during his tenure of office. I trust that this information will be of interest to you."—C. H. MCBRIDE.

—"Sent a U. S. postal order to a Postmaster in Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, for some unused Mexican stamps? The P. M. cashed the M. O. at the El Paso P. O. (M. O. transactions between U. S. and Mexico were at a standstill then) but he neither sent me the stamps nor refunded the money. Would like to know if anyone had a similar case in Ciudad Juarez or elsewhere in Mexico and what their success was. The P. O. Department at Washington made some efforts but could not recover."—MAITLAND MILLIKEN.

—The article on the aeroplane mail service in Flying for March is attracting not a little attention upon the part of our readers. Montgomery Evans, 2nd, calls our attention and states that there are numerous illustrations together with a list of aeroplane routes. We shall at some future time publish in the WEEKLY a condensed history of the various cancellations that have thus far been used in aeroplane mail service.

—Geo. Gandenberger, Jr., informs us that all correspondence sent him containing evidence against Hall has been forwarded to a Chicago Inspector. Mr. Gandenberger wishes to say that when correspondence is returned he will mail the same to the several parties concerned.

REPRINTS OF THE TWO NEW YORK PLATES.

Three of our subscribers have asked us whether we proposed to reprint the two illustrations of the New York plates. It was not our intention so to do but if ten subscribers will order copies at 20c each we shall have a supply struck off. Send your orders in at once and we shall advise you through the WEEKLY whether there is sufficient interest in this matter for us to make the reprints in question.

CANADA WAR TAX STAMPS.

We have in course of preparation a manuscript dealing with the war tax stamps of Canada. If any of our subscribers have any figures or other data dealing with these stamps, either revenue or postage, we shall be pleased to receive the same.

USE BOOSTER COUPONS.

Last week we gave S. E. Colman credit for sending in six booster coupons for yearly subscriptions and this week two more have reached our office. This goes to show that it is easy to secure new subscribers to the WEEKLY and especially under our new plan.

Mention should be made of the co-operation extended by the Universal Stamp Co. One mail this week brought three coupons from this firm.

The coupon is handsomely printed and illustrated, giving a list of premiums that the new subscriber can select from. You in turn can also secure a premium, or a cash rebate for sending in the coupon.

Get a supply, use them in your correspondence, and supplemented with a personal word a new subscription will follow. Order a supply today.

EDITORIAL.

High—One of our readers, Mr. J. M. Stromberg of Chicago, has regaled us with a view of the one thousand, five hundred and one hundred dollar, respectively, of the current documentary revenue stamps, in superb condition, canceled, "February 29, 1916." These stamps paid the tax on a transaction involving sixteen millions of dollars and we may add are the first used copies of the five hundred and one thousand that we have seen. Here it is to be said that we do not care to answer requests of correspondents for valuations on the documentary stamps, $30, $50, $60 and $100; while we know of prices at which these stamps have been sold, rather than risk giving a wrong impression, we are inclined to say nothing. We do not know today who is competent to place a true valuation on these stamps.

A Few—Mr. Robert S. Gordon, New York City, writes: "It might possibly interest you to know that I have in my possession, the following envelopes: One to German East Africa and one to Togo, both returned marked 'Undeliverable—War' and beneath that 'Onbestelbaar—Oorlog.' One from Bushire with 'Passed by censor—Karachi' in circle and number 2 inside of it; and an envelope sent from Grodno to Warsaw (before that city was taken) and franked only with a rubber-stamp impression which showed that it came from a Red Cross hospital."

Stages—An interesting illustration of the evolution of the near right cap on the two cent, 1890, U. S., is shown by Mr. Wm. C. Schilling, who sends us three stamps with gradations of the "disturbance" of the ink above the right numeral. On the first specimen there is a very faint patch of white background; on the second the variation is stronger while on the third, there are rather vague outlines of the cap but they are not marked enough to deserve recognition as the right cap. We believe that specimens of the type of the third stamp are apt to be classified as real right caps by those who have not seen the genuine article and that in consequence, confusion results. However, right caps are known to exist whose claim to title have been pronounced absolutely true.

Hear—A Washington correspondent, Mr. H. S. Austin says: "I have read with interest your editorial in reference to right cap, two cent, 1890, and noted your tone of skepticism which closely approaches ridicule of those who honestly believe in the existence of this presumably rare article. The mere fact that the right caps are seldom seen and that recently they have been omitted from the catalogue is no evidence of their non-existence. A few weeks ago, I had the pleasure of searching through a lot of the two cent of 1890; and as in the case of Mr. Schilling, I found a sprinkling of double caps and about twice the number of left caps. However, I was more fortunate than Mr. Schilling in that I found one perfect right cap. While feeling certain of the genuineness of the specimen, I submitted it to Mr. H. F. Colman of this city for inspection and examination and after due time, he pronounced it the real thing and the best example that he had ever seen. I believe that this complies with this suggestion that specimens be submitted to experts for opinion." Mr. Austin misjudges our sentiments on the subject when he assigns us to the ranks of the anti-cappers as we have always maintained that undoubted right caps were in existence although they were rare birds. ("Birds" is used advisedly; an old description read: "Cap laying on top of right 2.")

Map—From Mr. Arthur W. Line, Los Angeles, California, we have received an old "Diagram of Rail Roads Diverging from Boston," etc., and concerning it, Mr. Line says: "It is a blue print made by a roundabout process from an old engraving sent me some years ago by Mr. J. J. Prendergast of Dorchester, Mass. . . . Mr. Prendergast told me that the map was in an old almanac dated 1845." Needless to say, a map or diagram of this kind would prove an interesting adjunct to the reference division of a collection of railroad cancellations. A correspondent writing of the remarks made on the subject of railroad cancellations in a recent issue calls attention to a contradiction in the text which he says was "due to the printer, no doubt." The chances are that the mistake was our own. In this connection we do not propose to rehash the details but suffice it to say that the name of the postal route and that of the railroad are not always the same. In dealing with railroad and steamboat routes, the government, as early as 1843 posted in its accounts "the entire service and pay of the route" to the state under which it was numbered though it extended into other states instead of being divided in any proportionate way. At that date ship, steamboat and way letters were the subjects of separate appropriation and account.

Seals—We have received from Messrs. Bridger & Kay, London, a copy of "Egyptian Interpostals Or Official Local Stamps," by O. May, "Materially assisted by H. H. Harland, P. J. Evans and others." Messrs. Bridger and Kay have reprinted the study from The Postage Stamp and published in book form for the Fiscal Philatelic Society. The price of this pamphlet of forty pages is two shillings. Many of us remember these mysterious labels that emanated from Egypt whose character seemed to defy analysis. There were places for the seals in question in some of the stamp albums and it is recollected that Mr. C. F. Rothfuchs, at the time a dealer in Washington, used the seals on the reverse of his registered envelopes with the result that the philatelic recipient was spell-bound by the dealer's free-handed generosity. We quote from the "Introduction" of the little work: "A better name for these stamps would appear to be 'Egyptian Official Locals'; but in the absence of any sworn testimony as to their place in philately, no doubt the old title will continue to serve. The stamps consist of circular official labels, issued between the years of 1864 and 1890, from many of the towns and villages of Egypt, and also from a few seaports in Turkey, Palestine, Somaliland, Greece and the Aegean Islands. The majority are known with a town and dated postmark, the obliteration being almost invariably that of the town for which the particular emission was prepared. No face value appears on the stamps, so the question as to whether they are really official frank stamps or seals remains a question as before." The riddle is one that the sphynx will not answer and evidently there has been no source of inspired knowledge discovered latterly. In passing, we may say that in our recently published "Egypt" there are enlightening references to these seals. In "Egyptian Interpostals," illustrations of the dozen types, with variants, are given; and the town names from Aba-el-Wakf to Zeila are listed, requiring nearly thirty pages for their reception. As a book of reference the book must be accorded a place in any pretentious philatelic library.

FULTON STAMP CO., 102 W. 42nd Street, NEW YORK

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

THE STAMPS OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

XIV. The 1899 Issue.

In 1899 the Virgin Islands once again issued a series of distinctive stamps of its own—for what reason is still a mystery.

The new issue was the work of Messrs. De La Rue & Co., the stamps being printed on Crown C.A. paper in sheets of 120 stamps divided into two panes of 60 each. Much misconception appears to exist concerning this series; each collector holding his own views as to the great scarcity of this or that particular value or shade. Popular opinion generally credits the 4d in the "rare shade" as being the plum of the issue. Nobody however, can ever produce the so-called "rare shade" and it is undoubtedly one of those sort of stories which originate in mystery and takes a lot of killing. Personally, we have no doubt whatever that the 4d is a much overrated stamp and that the 7d denomination is far and away the scarcest value of the series, especially in postally used condition.

Three errors [mechanical flaws] crept into the sheets of the 1/2d and 4d. Two of these errors are on the 1/2d sheet—HALFPENNY (1st stamp in bottom row) and HALFPENNY (2nd stamp in 8th row). The rarest error of all is the FOURPENCE.

It has been stated that as soon as the errors were discovered they were taken out of the sheets and destroyed by order of the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

It is impossible to interpret the exact significance of the figure forming the design: there is no particular reason why any special significance should be attributed to the figure, although presumably, the artist had the Madonna before his mind's eye in executing his work.

XV. The King Edward Issue.

On June 1, 1904, a Kings Head series was put into use. The usual "postage & revenue" design was adopted, the stamps printed from Plate I in sheets of 120 divided into two panes of 60. The watermark was the ordinary multiple Crown C.A. and the perforation 14.

The designs are uniform with the exception that on 2d, 3d, 1sh and 2sh 6d values, the value is in colour (enclosed in a label) on white background. The 2d denomination is the scarcest stamp of the series and will be found quite difficult to obtain in a block of four or in fine used condition.

Reference List.

June 1, 1904. King Edward. Wmk. Multiple Crown C. A. Perf. 14. (Name and value in second colour.)
 1/2d dull purple and green.

 2 1/2d dull purple and ultramarine.

 6d dull purple and brown.
 1sh green and scarlet.
 2sh 6d green and black.
 5sh green and blue.

XVI. The King George Issue.

In 1913 a new set of stamps bearing the effigy of King George V superseded the Edward issue.

The new stamps are similar to their predecessors in design (with substituted head) and are printed in accordance with the Universal colour scheme. The above are in concurrent use with the stamps inscribed LEEWARD ISLANDS.

Reference List.

1913. King George V. Wmk. and Perf. as Last Issue.

 1d scarlet.
 2d grey.
 2 1/2d bright blue.

 6d dull and bright purple (chalky paper).
 1sh black on green (chalky paper).
 2sh 6d black and red on blue (chalky paper).
 5sh green and red on yellow (chalky paper).

XVII. Remainders.

Writing under the title "Colonial Remainders" some years ago, Mr. Ward stated: "the famous West Indian remainders are a good example of official stamp dealing. The whole remaining stocks of the islands of Antigua, Montserrat and Nevis, whose post offices had been amalgamated into the Leeward Islands Federation, were sold in 1891 to Mr. T. H. Thompson. The total face value of these stamps was £4,788, but the purchaser paid no less than £5,800!"

"Virgins.—6d carmine (perf. 12x15), 4d brown, 1sh single-line border, 1sh red border, 1/2d yellow, 1d green, 1/2d green, 1d red, 2 1/2d blue, 4d brown, 6d mauve, 1sh brown."

Nothing is said as to what actually became of these remainders, but it is on record that in 1892 the Crown Agents sold to Mr. T. H. Thompson (with other Leewards) the following Virgin Islands stamps:

1/2d green, 17,364 4d brown, 8746
 1d rose, 38,969 6d mauve, 6408
 2 1/2d ultra., 10,007 1sh brown, 3801

During the year 1894 the following material was destroyed: the lithographic stones of the 1d, 4d, 6d, 1sh together with the "key plates" and "duty plates" of the 1/2d, 1d and 2 1/2d Queen's head with a locomotive on it; issued by Uncle Sam 38 years ago and never good for any kind of postage anywhere. But it helped to pay for the Civil War and the locomotive pulled the train that carried Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency and fame—maybe.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—J. M. Bartels reports the following new envelope:

Denom.	Die.	Size.	Paper.	Wmk.	Kn.
1c	A	13	Blue	19	89

Correction.—2605A is duplicated in the chronicle of March 11, 1916, the last one should be 2674H.

J. H. Davis Reynolds sends us an envelope with a spot of color in the outer oval colorless line, like that reported in No. 1315 by Willard S. Fuller, but in this case the spot is between the "E" and "S" of "States." These are simply freaks and only of interest to collectors of such oddities. Unfortunately there were many of them found in the products of the makers of the series of envelopes just going out.

Sumner Gary has shown us two values of the 1916 issue of telegraph franks of the Western Union Telegraph Co. The design is a new one and has the signature of Newcomb Carlton. Those seen are the 5c blue and 25c lake. These stamps are now printed by the American Bank Note Co. Mr. Gary also reports having found the 25c of the 1915 issue in pairs and block, imperforate between.

BOLIVIA.—Jacques Krebs sends us a new stamp from Bolivia, of handsome appearance, though lithographed. It is of small size, printed horizontally, with "Correos de Bolivia" at the top and the value at the bottom, with the figures of value in shields in the lower corners. The central portion is filled with a picture of "El Illimani" the pride of Bolivia 21,060 feet high. It is printed on white, unwatermarked paper and perforated 11 1/2.

Adhesive.

5c blue.

CANADA.—Gladstone Perry submits specimens of the current 2c King George stamp showing marked differences of printing. Part of this is undoubtedly due to too much ink, though there appears to be a difference in the way the hair is separated from the face and neck. Still the difference is very slight, and hardly enough to suggest a new die.

FRANCE.—Theodore Champion reports that a new set of War Stamps is to be issued shortly, the current stamps of France to be used. These will be over-printed, as follows, "Guerre 14-16 Orphelins P. T. T." and additional values. These will be for interior use only, the difference between the postal value and the new value going to the work for the protection of the orphans. They will have a rather restricted issue.

Charity Stamps.

2+3c violet brown.
15+10c slate green.
25+15c dull blue.
35+25c violet.
50+50c bistre brown and lavender.
1fr+1fr claret and olive green.
5fr+5fr dark blue and buff.

GREECE.—The Edgewood Stamp Co. sends us specimens of two Red Cross stamps from Greece. As we are unable to read the inscriptions, we are unable to say whether they are anything more than labels to be used by those charitably inclined. They are handsomely printed in blue and red, and would make a good appearance in a collection of War Stamps.

Leon Jeanede informs us that a new series of stamps for this country is now in course of preparation. The 1, 2, 3 and 10 lepta bear the portrait of the King, those of 15l carry the eagle of Ptolemy, on the 20l is a Persian figure. The 25l bears the head of Minerva, the 30l a soldier charging with a bayonet, the 40l represents a lion, the 50c bears the combined portraits of the sovereigns, and the 75c represents a view of Janina. On the 1 drachme value is the King on horseback escorting his troops. The 5dr bears the bust of Zeus, and the 10dr value the view of Parthenon.

HONDURAS.—The C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. submits specimens of the 2c "Puente Ulua" stamp, recently chronicled, showing that these stamps are printed so that the two vertical rows in the centre of the sheet are printed tete beche.

MEXICO.—W. G. Birdseye also calls attention to the fact noted in No. 1309, that the perforated portrait set differs radically from the rouletted set originally issued. The design is smaller, and appears to have been redrawn, but as the stamps were lithographed such variations were to be expected.

PERU.—Jacques Krebs also submits specimens of the new provisionals noted last week, and we have also received copies from the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co.

PHILIPPINES.—Holden D. Wetherbee also reports having found defects on the Aguinaldo stamps, similar to those printed recently in the WEEKLY. These include a period after the "F" of Filipinas; and an imperfect letter for the first "I" in the same word, making it to appear like a "P". Also, two types of the "L" in the same word on the 8c stamps. As these stamps were roughly printed, these "errors" and others equally unimportant are readily accounted for.

"THE LITTLE RED STAMP."

I'm the little red stamp with Geo. Washington's picture;
I have the right of way
And the mail train thunders from under the stars
And rattles into the day.
Now clear the rail for your Uncle Sam's mail;
Ye freight trains stand aside!
Spur your iron-lunged horse to his fullest speed
For the little red stamp would ride.
So vomit your flame on the starlit night
And your smoke into the face of day.
For the little red stamp with Geo. Washington's picture MUST have the right of way.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

We have received from Arthur Maury, 6 Boul. Montmartre, Paris, a catalog of the stamps issued during 1915. The various issues are illustrated and the stamps are priced both used and unused.

From the same firm comes a pricelist of the war stamps issued 1914-1916 by the allies and the neutral nations from the beginning of the war to Jan. 15, 1916. All known varieties are listed with dates of issue, used and unused, with the firm's prices on the same.

The first list is issued as a supplement to the Collectionneur de Timbres-Poste, while the latter is sold at 40 centimes.

You can get a Scott 1916 Catalog Free if you renew your subscription to the WEEKLY for six years. It's an easy way to get a catalog. See advt. elsewhere.

COLUMBIAN STAMP CO., Arlington, Mass.

WITH THE NEW PHILATELIST.

Edited by BILL BLOSS, 2729 Hampden Court, Chicago, Ill.

We propose to insert upon this page matter that will be of interest to the boy collector. Some two thousand boys are now on our mailing list and it is our desire to come closely in contact with them in such a manner as will be most helpful. Any information desired will be cheerfully rendered through these columns. Do not submit stamps for examination.

EVERYMAN'S STAMPS.

If your bank-roll is heavy, you can afford to collect Sydney Views and Hawaiian Missionaries. Only one collector in ten thousand is troubled thus, for really, it seems to be the rule that the poorer a man is, the more he cares for stamps!

Early U. S., British Colonials, and Europeans are, of course, very popular and everyone desires to have a good collection of these. That is, everyone but Mr. — who thinks that Nicaragua has them all beaten.

No matter whether a collector is general or specialist, there will be certain stamps and issues that will draw more of his attention than others. As a rule the collector with moderate means chooses some field that will give him plenty of opportunity to study and pursue his hobby without heavy expense. Some prefer to collect one country, while others select a group. Even the general collector will often try to complete certain countries. In fact, could a true collector help but be interested more in some lines than others?

Let us consider certain countries which can be collected and if desired, specialized without great expenditure of money. In my experience with collectors of all classes, I have gained a pretty fair knowledge of the popular and unpopular countries. Therefore, I will deal only with the countries which have proven the most popular to the beginner or new collector. For instance:

CHILE.

This South American state owes its popularity to several reasons. First of all, the stamps are as a whole, clean and free from speculative issues, though it is true that one or two issues were put out which were somewhat tainted.

Next, Chile has not issued a great many varieties, and is a country that can be well represented at a very small cost. Indeed, from 1853 to 1903, a period of fifty years, only fifty-seven major varieties were issued, according to Scott. This is a record that no other South American state can excel. Even Chile has awakened to the possibilities of a revenue from stamp collectors, for in the ten years from 1903 to 1913 as many stamps were issued as in the fifty years prior to 1903.

The early issues of Chile, from 1853 to 1865 are very popular with specialists, and pairs, covers and other choice pieces are much sought after. Much work can be done in plating and shading and studying types, by the man who cares for this sort of work. Yet even these early issues are quite within the reach of the small collector, who simply wishes "one of a kind." The 5c and 10c values can be secured for a few cents, while the 1c and 20c will only cost a small sum if pen cancelled copies, and not a large amount with printed cancellation. Pen-cancelled copies of these issues are not undesirable, for the reason that very few hand-stamps and other postal obliterations were in use in Chile in the days those stamps were current, and many of the smaller offices were forced to pen-cancel their stamps. They do not indicate fiscal use, as is so often the case with pen-cancelled stamps.

From the stand-point of beauty, the stamps of Chile can scarcely be excelled. The first issues, if in fine condition, offer a most pleasing appearance when properly mounted. The rest of the nineteenth century issues are not unusually attractive, yet are not to be considered entirely lacking in beauty, for careful examination will reveal some truly fine specimens of the engravers' art. The twentieth century issues are far superior to many of the issues of larger and more important nations, when beauty is considered. In fact, very few nations can boast of a handsomer set than the 1910 Jubilee set of Chile. The current series makes a handsome showing in an album, especially if a block or strip is added to the page.

There are no great rarities among the used normal varieties of Chile. Many are very scarce, and some run into dollars, but the highest priced ordinary postage stamp of Chile catalogues $10.00 though some of the officials and dues exceed this amount. Certain of the minor varieties are priced above $10.00 and are beyond the reach of the average collector because of their scarcity, so they scarcely need be considered. Of course, an unused collection would necessitate quite an out-lay if the first issues were to be included, and very little could be done even with sufficient money, owing to the extreme scarcity of some of these printings and shades in fine unused condition. However, the "unused only" collector will find almost everything after the first type within his reach, for there are but two major varieties listing above $3.50 after the first type, and these are the ten peso values, where face value must be reckoned with.

As an investment the stamps of Chile are fair. To date, very few sharp increases have been noted. Many of the stamps have remained constant in price, yet there have been few decreases. It is quite certain that some of the earlier issues will make sharp jumps before many years, as the demands of specialists for wholesale quantities of such stamps as the 5c and 10c values will soon exhaust the supply and force the price above 10c and 5c as at present. In fact, Chile No. 8—5c brown on blued paper, London print, listing 25c, is many times scarcer than the 12c, No. 73, 1905-9, listing 75c or even the peso No. 78, listing $3.50. While both of these stamps are somewhat scarce, yet large supplies are known to be held, and copies of each are more commonly seen than No. 8, of which no great supply is known to be "cornered."

Collectors need feel little anxiety about investing in Chilean stamps. The investment will be of small consequence unless the early issues are indulged in heavily, and these are very certain to remain at their present value or to increase.

Chile is perhaps the most conservative country in the world with regard to stamp designs, for in the first fifty years of her philatelic history, only five distinct designs were employed, and all stamps from 1853 to 1910 bore the portrait of Christopher Columbus. This is a record that no other country can equal. Yet, the uninformed collector will often speak of Chilean stamps as speculative trash, placing them in the category of some of the other South American states where speculation has played a leading part.

In writing up the various issues of Chile, I shall not attempt to dwell on the technical points, as these have all been covered in other articles by writers who have gone deeply into the subject of their study. I shall attempt merely to cover the surface, and will leave the work of diving into the details of those better fitted to handle such work.

The plates of the first type were engraved in London by Perkins, Bacon & Co., and stamps of the value of 5c and 10c were printed in London by the engravers and issued in Chile in July, 1853. The 5c was printed on bluish paper, while the 10c was printed on white. The impressions were very fine and clear, since the plates were new.

Later these plates were sent to Santiago, where the firm of N. Desmadryl made several printings on white paper with a different watermark from the paper used by Perkins, Bacon & Co.

In 1854, further printings from these plates were made in Santiago by Gillet. The shades differ somewhat from the above. The 5c was also lithographed

A hint to advertisers after boy trade—particularly those in the St. Nicholas Stamp Directory.

A BEGINNER WRITES:

I am a reader of the St. Nicholas Magazine and always read the Stamp Page. I would like to start a collection of stamps but do not know how to start. I see in the directory a number of stamp agents but I wrote to two of them and received stamps nearly all the same. Hoping to hear from you soon how to start a stamp collection properly, I am, sincerely yours,

Letters like this come to the advertisers in St. Nicholas. Isn't it good to catch them young like this? And they don't own a single stamp yet! What an opportunity for a dealer to sell stamps! What an opportunity for a dealer to make a friend for life in a new collector!

St. Nicholas is engaged in an active campaign to increase interest in stamp collecting. Many new converts will be made among its readers. You are facing a golden opportunity to build a firm foundation for the coming years—Take out a "future business insurance policy" in St. Nicholas.

by Gillet and is the rarest of used Chilean stamps.

In January, 1855, a new plate was prepared by Perkins, Bacon & Co. and stamps printed therefrom, on paper bearing a different watermark. Various other printings were made both in London and Santiago from these plates, and others.

In 1867, the second type of Chilean stamps was issued, being the work of the American Bank Note Co. of New York, who have supplied the Chilean stamps to the present day with but one exception. This set consisted of five values, (a 2c stamp added) and was perforated on unwatermarked paper. Chile is one of the few countries, if not the only one, to use watermarked paper first and then discontinue its use. Others have adopted watermarked paper in preference to unwatermarked.

The third type was adopted in 1877, when a new set of the same values was issued, rouletted instead of perforated.

The fourth type, which is really but a modification of the third was adopted in 1878 and used until 1900, various new values and other changes being made from time to time.

The 30c stamp of this type, issued in 1899, is one of the scarcest of the Chilean stamps, owing to the fact that a large number were surcharged with a new value in 1901.

The twentieth century issues will be taken up at a later date.

CHAPTER VII.

The First Dominion Issue.

The steady growth of Upper Canada, chiefly due to immigration, until it had twice the population of its sister Province, Lower Canada, aroused cries for a readjusted representation, which threatened the French with a hopeless minority in Parliament and the country with another impasse. The federation of all the provinces under something like the American system was the only solution; and with, for the most part, the cordial coöperation of the maritime provinces, the great scheme was carried through, and the new dominion launched in 1867. Each province retained its local autonomy and separate legislature under a lieutenant-governor, always a Canadian, nominated by the federal executive. To the latter was reserved all great affairs, such as defense, customs, Crown lands, Indians, and the organization of the vast western territories then just beginning to open up.

The famous Sir John Macdonald, the most illustrious of Canadian statesmen, was prominent in the federal movement, as also was Sir Charles Tupper. A final meeting was held in London, and early in 1867 the British North America Act was passed through the Imperial Parliament. The new capital was fixed at Bytown, a small town up the Ottawa well removed from the frontier, fairly central to all the provinces, and felicitously rechristened Ottawa. Here were erected the stately houses of parliament for senate, commons, and the entire government staff, familiar to all travellers, and there, too, the governor-general of all British North America took up his residence, Lord Monck being the first to hold this high office, and Sir John Macdonald the first premier.

The British North America Act, referred to above, provided for the division of the Dominion of Canada into four provinces named Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick and also made provision for the admission of Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, etc., when such admission should be deemed advisable. The Act went into force on July 1st, 1867, and as a mark of the importance of this event the first day of July is now a national holiday known as "Dominion Day".

It only remains to say that Prince Edward Island, British Columbia and Manitoba (not then organized) came into the federation shortly afterwards.

One of the chief duties of the first Parliament, which met at Ottawa on November 6th, 1867, was the revision and consolidation of the laws of the various provinces now federated, and amongst these were, of course, the laws relating to the Post Office. The Act passed for the regulation of the postal service is a lengthy one and the only provisions of special interest to us as philatelists, those relating to the rates of postage,—are more clearly and definitely tabulated in a Department Order issued from Ottawa on March 1st, 1868, to which we shall make reference later. Before doing so, however, we make a short extract from the Post Office Act insofar as it relates to definitions of various terms and expressions, viz.:

The term "Letter" includes Packets of Letters;

The term "Postage" means the duty or sum chargeable for the conveyance of Post Letters, Packets and other things by Post;

The term "Foreign Country" means any country not included in the dominions of Her Majesty;

The term "Foreign Postage" means the postage on the conveyance of Letters, Packets or other things, within any Foreign Country or payable to any Foreign Government;

The term "Canada Postage" means the postage on the conveyance of Letters, Packets and other things by Post within the Dominion of Canada or by Canada Mail Packet;

The term "Mail" includes every conveyance by which Post Letters are carried, whether it be by land or water;

The term "British Packet Postage" means the postage due on the conveyance of letters by British Packet Boats, between the United Kingdom and British North America:—And the term "British Postage" includes all

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Postage not being Foreign, Colonial or Canadian;
The term "Post Letter" means any letter transmitted or deposited in any Post Office to be transmitted by Post:—And a letter shall be deemed a Post Letter from the time of its being deposited or delivered at a Post Office, to the time of its being delivered to the party to whom it is addressed.

The Department Order addressed to "All Postmasters, and Other Persons Employed in the Postal Service of Canada" dealt chiefly with the rates of postage and as these are important we feel it is necessary to reproduce most of this rather lengthy document in extenso:—

PRINCIPAL RATES OF POSTAGE.

LETTERS.

5.—On letters passing between any two places within the Dominion of Canada, a uniform rate (irrespective of distance), of three cents per ½ oz., if prepaid; and five cents per ½ oz. if unpaid.

6.—On letters between any place in the Dominion and any place in the United States, 6 cents per ½ oz., if prepaid; and ten cents per ½ oz. if unpaid.

7.—On letters to or from the United Kingdom, in Mails by Canada Packets, to or from Quebec in summer, or Portland in winter; or by Mail Packet to or from Halifax, 12½c per ½ oz. On do. in Mails by New York Packet, 15 cents per ½ oz.

On letters to Prince Edward Island, if prepaid, 3 cents per ½ oz.; if posted unpaid, 5 cents per ½ oz.

On letters to Newfoundland, to be in all cases prepaid, 12½c per ½ oz.

On letters to British Columbia and Vancouver Island, in all cases to be prepaid, 10 cents per ½ oz.

On letters to Red River, to be in all cases prepaid, 6 cents per ½ oz.

NEWSPAPER RATES.

8.—Newspapers printed and published in Canada may be sent by Post from the office of publication to any place in Canada at the following rates, if paid quarterly in advance, either by the Publisher, at the Post Office where the papers are posted, or by the subscriber, at the Post Office where the papers are delivered:—

For a paper published once a week, 5 cents per quarter of a year.

For a paper published twice a week, 10 cents per quarter.

For a paper published three times, 15 cents per quarter.

For a paper published six times, 30 cents per quarter.

If the above rates are prepaid by the Publisher, the Postmaster receiving payment must be careful to have the papers so prepaid separately put up, and marked, distinctly, as prepaid. When the above rates are not prepaid in advance, by either the Publisher at the office of posting or by the subscriber at the office of delivery, the papers are to be charged one cent each on delivery.

9.—Canadian Newspapers, addressed from the Office of publication to subscribers in the United Kingdom, the United States, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, may be forwarded, on prepayment at the Office in Canada where posted, at the above commuted rates, applicable to such papers within the Dominion.

10.—Exchange Papers passing between publishers in Canada, between publishers in Canada and publishers in the United States, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland, are to pass free—one copy of each paper to each publisher.

11.—Transient Newspapers include all Newspapers posted in Canada, other than Canadian Newspapers sent from the Office of publication, and when addressed to any place within the Dominion, to the United Kingdom, to the United States, Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland, must be prepaid two cents each by postage stamp.

12.—Newspapers coming into Canada will be subject to the following charges on delivery:—

If from the United Kingdom, by mail packet to Quebec, Halifax or Portland—Free on delivery.

By mails via the United States (New York), two cents each.

If from the United States, two cents each, to be rated at the Canada Frontier, or exchange office receiving mails from the United States.

If from Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland, when received by regular subscribers in Canada from the Office of publication, the ordinary commuted rates applicable to Canada Newspapers.

Transient Papers—two cents each.

13.—The Canada Postage rates on Newspapers coming or going to the United Kingdom and the United States, will thus be the same as those charged in the United Kingdom and the United States on Newspapers there received from or sent to Canada.

14.—Canada News Agents may post to regular subscribers in Canada, British Newspapers free, and United States Newspapers unpaid, such papers in the latter case, must be duly rated two cents each for collection on delivery.

PRINTED PAPERS, CIRCULARS, PRICES CURRENT, HAND BILLS, BOOKS, PAMPHLETS.

15.—The rate on printed matter of this description posted in Canada, and addressed to any place in Canada, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland or the United States, will be one cent per ounce, to be prepaid by Postage Stamp; and a like rate will be payable on delivery, when received from the United States, Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland.

PERIODICAL PUBLICATIONS.

16.—When posted in Canada, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland or the United States, the rate will be one cent per four ounces.

17.—A like rate will be payable on delivery in Canada, when received from the United States, Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland.

18.—Periodicals weighing less than one ounce per number, when posted in Canada for any place within the Dominion, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland or the United States may, when put up singly, pass for one-half

VARIETY OF 1c 1890.

By CHAS. A. COOLIDGE.

Regarding an article on the "Variety of 1c 1890" by G. A. Roush published by you a few weeks ago, I desire to add my corroboration to fact that this stamp presents many interesting variations in its impressions from the normal plate. I have three specimens that have a very similar appearance to your illustrations drawn by Mr. Hoagland, which I found two or three years ago and noted in my album among several others that show white streaks, or prolongations from the foot of the figures "one" where the plates failed to print the blue ink on the paper.

For some reason, that I am unable to discover, this 1c issue is quite prolific in these abnormal appearances which are not ordinarily discovered on many of the American Bank Note issues. Whether the plates became worn or that there was some cause that the ink did not "take" on the plate is a question that I should like to see determined, for I do not consider any of these variations due to defective engraving.

BE A BOOSTER.

We cannot possibly note from week to week the many evidences of good will that come to us in our mail. There are some high spots though that we are compelled to notice, and one of these is a letter from G. P. Gesner who remits $2.50 for a two years' renewal of his subscription, two new yearly subscriptions and a Goodwin book. This certainly is going some in the right direction.

Our handsome subscription coupons are coming in daily. We shall be glad to send a supply to anyone who wants them. Securing a new subscription will give you a cash rebate of 25% or a premium, while the new subscriber will also get a premium. Here is an opportunity to do a good turn by our mailing list and at the same time be remunerated for your trouble.—THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Uncertain—Speculation is being indulged in by those who have been following the course of taxation as exemplified by our revenue stamps. We have been favored with an expression of opinion on possibilities of expanded treatment of the present enactment that will have the effect of augmenting the list of stamps now in use. The following letter from Washington while lacking in definite statement reflects expectations of further issues of revenue stamps and at the same time, it may be added, chaotic conditions that do not allow of an accurate analysis of the situation. "... There is a feeling that the revenue law may be tinkered with almost any day so soon as the momentous questions now engaging the attention of congress are disposed of. Impending action is seen and feared by the proprietary medicine manufacturers who are concerned with the outcome. ... The sudden Mexican developments will have the effect undoubtedly of requiring added taxation if it becomes necessary for extensive military operations in Mexico for a considerable period of time."

copies of his artistic philatelic book-plate which is a beautiful thing to see and makes us avid for more book-plates. We shall wait a week or two before reproducing the book-plate in question, in the hope of receiving one or two of the other book-plates of philatelic kind that we are hopeful are in existence in this country. Who other than Mr. Deats has entered that delectable kingdom of philatelic book-plates?"

Hearsay—We adjure the fierce factionists who are battling over old Carbon Tetrachloride to cease their fratricidal strife and join in the closing chorus of peace. Incidentally, Mr. Thorn Smith, Detroit, twangs his lyre: "The enemies of my friend, Carbon Tetrachloride, are bound to land him in jail and yet not one of the various experts, pseudo and real, that have testified has given an iota of real evidence. If it spoiled a dozen stamps for one man as he says why does he not state what they were? Of course it is poison but so are lots of other things." Mr. Thorn Smith has had twenty-five years' experience as an analytical chemist.

Popular—Our rebus contest based on the partial illustrations of stamps that entered into our cover design of the issue of February 26th, 1916, has duplicated the success of the competition based on the cover of the issue of January 8th, 1916. The task of weighing the merits of the numerous entries is an exacting one but the report of the judge will be available in a week or two. The prize contest for the best essay on the Charm of Stamp Collecting has inspired many talented writers to their best efforts and the work of nominating the winning entry will be difficult. However, we shall cut the G. knot by printing a batch of the meritorious contributions.

Variety—Mr. R. J. C. Brown of the University of Minnesota has brought the current 12 cent into the calcium's glare again, just after it stepped off the stage after its double transfer act. He writes: "I have found a vertical strip of four of the twelve cent, perforated 12, that has been printed from a plate that has become cracked as there are two irregular lines extending down this strip. These lines are in the color of the stamp itself. I have also, another vertical pair that has one very thick irregular line on it. I have examined these with a magnifying glass and find that the horizontal lines of the stamps, in most cases are broken at this point, showing that there was a crack in the plate. I buy a great many stamps direct from the post office and I succeeded in getting only these two strips, as practically the whole sheet had been sold to the trade. There were about thirty-seven stamps of the sheet left and these were broken up into singles and irregular blocks. In looking over these, I noticed that many had the appearance of being slightly scratched; and I finally found the two stamps mentioned, indicating that the plate had been damaged. The plate was number 6902,—the upper left pane. I have since examined all the other sheets of the twelve cents here but found none in them."

* * *

Shades—We do not suppose that collectors are ignoring the present yield of remarkable shades due to the conservation of the color supply at the Bureau. It is a satisfaction to know that the color variations are to be had through one's watchfulness and the investment of face value, in many instances. Thus far, the two, three, eight and twelve cent have been among the denominations to furnish striking shades; and in all likelihood the field of this particular "aside" will increase in richness. In this connection, reports come frequently that processes for manufacturing the dyes have been successfully established here and there but it seems that dependence cannot be placed upon the statements. Germany it appears is the real custodian of colors.

* * *

Unofficial—An envelope received in the course of correspondence and postmarked, Spade, Nebr., has the additional impression in red at the left end of the stamped envelope, "Sandol, Nebr.," in postmark form, with a white cross in outline on a red field, flanked with the rubber-stamped notice: "Delayed by Want of Mail Service." These markings must be unofficial and no doubt are the fruits of enterprise of one who takes this means to call attention to the government's alleged discrimination or neglect.

Blocked—We have received a skit lampooning the collectors of unused blocks of four United States but coming as it did anonymously, we shall not publish it. The gist of this fantasy is that a collector would not buy an unused ninety cent, 1869, even though it was offered by the nettled dealer on a descending scale which struck one dollar as its final note. The explanation was that to the block of four collector a single stamp was "dross" and that only a "block of four would make him come across." The block of four collector has multiplied greatly during the last score of years and we recollect having referred to Mr. Slater of Providence, R. I., in 1893, as a veritable curiosity as a collector as he wanted U. S. in blocks of four.

Differences—The variety of the one cent, 1890, illustrated by Mr. W. H. Hoagland, in the issue of March 4th, has set some of our readers to searching for it; and several reports have been received of similar differences that have been found around the borders of the shield enclosing the numerals. Further, Mr. Clifford Moses, Delavan, Wisconsin, sends sketches of a variation in the shading of the background of the numeral which he found in two specimens, showing evidently that the variety is not due to a slip in printing.

THE STAMPS OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

By R. E. R. DALWICK.

XIX. Proofs and Colour Trials.

Proofs, die-proofs and colour trials are extremely scarce, very few being known to philately. Outside those copies in the Tapling Collection at the British Museum in London and the specimens described in the Royal Society's work
"West Indies," very few have ever turned up.

The following is a list of such proofs, etc., as are known:—

- 1d Die proof in black and green (Tap-ling Collection).
- 6d Die proof in black and pale blue (Tapling Collection).
- 4d proof in issued colour on pinkish and pink paper.
- 4d lithographed proof in red and emerald green.
- 6d rose on thin white card ("West Indies").
- 1sh (single lined with Virgin) in carmine and deep vermilion.
- 1sh (single lined without Virgin) in black.
- 1/2d (Queen's head) in green, red and blue [CANCELLED].
- 4d Queen's head of Antigua with name obliterated with black rule and underneath in small capitals VIRGIN ISLANDS.
- 1/2d (1899) imperf. proof in green.

There are doubtless colour trials of the other values of the Queen's head issue. The 4d Antigua surcharges Virgin Islands is probably the rarest of all the proofs and colour trials described.

XX. Postmarks.

Prior to the introduction of postage stamps (British used in Virgin Islands) a frank was in vogue which represented the fee paid upon a letter. Considering that the Falkland Islands franks are catalogued by Gibbons it is curious that this far rarer (and far more legitimate) frank has not received that recognition.

This extremely rare frank is composed of a double lined circle with a large crown at the top placed half inside and half outside the double circle.
Within the circles are the words PAID at top, AT in center and TORTOLA at bottom.

The frank is in black and is the earliest postal relic of the Islands.

About 1858 one or both of the cancellations described in Chapter VI were first used—the usual well-known "British used abroad" type of postmark, numbered and lettered "A13" and "A91" respectively. Although we have not been able to find out the dates when the different obliterations were first brought into use, we believe the following list gives the postmarks in their true chronological sequence:

- (i) Official frank double lined circle with crown and inscription PAID
AT TORTOLA Prior to 1858.
- (ii) British used abroad type "A13."
- (iii) British used abroad type "A91."
- (iv) Small circle inscribed (in four straight lines) A—TORTOLA—date—year.
- (v) Slightly larger circle with inscription TORTOLA (reading round top half of circumference) and in three straight lines underneath: A—date —year.
- (vi) Same as above except that the letter "A" is omitted above date.
- (vii) Double lined circle, reading between circles: on top ROADTOWN lower half TORTOLA. V. I. There is a thick black lead on either side.
Within the inner circle in three lines—hour of posting—date—year in full.
- (viii) Double lined circle. Inscription between circles; on top OFFICIAL PAID, lower half ROAD TOWN, TORTOLA. V. I. The centre is blank.
- (ix) Registration. Large thick black
"R" enclosed in thick oval.
- (x) Large thick black letter T.
- (xi) New registration mark, in black.

may be able to supply any additional notes on these interesting stamps.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The United Stamp Company, Chicago, has published a new album that combines several original features with the best of old ones; and the result is an album for the issues of the United States that will take its place among the standard publications of the kind. Indeed, basing one's premises on the merits of the Marquette Sectional Loose Leaf Album, as the work is called, one might predict that it will establish itself in high favor with the numerous collectors of United States stamps. It takes the courage of one's convictions to enter the lists of album publishing of pretentious kind; and we say that the sanguine expectations of the projectors of the album are well founded. The Marquette is a loose-leaf album that has a patent binder that allows of easy adjustment of the leaves. Ruled spaces are provided for the stamps and each space is numbered. The parts were issued in serial form and three instalments are required to complete the U.

S. section well through the civil war revenues. Each leaf has the protection of a sheet of waxed paper. A distinction is gained by the album by the historical data, concisely given, that introduces the different issues. To one who attends to this complementary study, the album becomes unrivalled, being to all intents and purposes, an album
"written up." Valuable information is given as to "authorization," "plates,"
"contracts," "reprints," etc.; and pictures of type differences abound.

The Marquette Sectional Loose Leaf Album will provide a vehicle for the collector of United States stamps that may outstrip in popularity the other al-

COVER DESIGNS WANTED.

Our subscribers have shown in a tangible manner that they are fond of contests of most any kind. Here is one that will appeal to those of an artistic temperament. We want some cover designs for some of the handbooks we shall issue in coming months.

We want three designs and will pay $5 for the best sketch submitted in the three divisions as follows:—

- (1) Design for the Canada book by Mr. Poole now running in the WEEKLY.
- (2) Design for a stock plate that will be suitable for any British Colony.
- (3) Design for a stock plate that can be used in connection with U. S. stamps.

In regard to the latter division we may add that we expect to run articles dealing with special perforations, regular revenues (including Match and Medicine) as well as articles dealing with the stamps of Canal Zone and Porto Rico.

This competition will close April 25 and those who wish can compete in all three classes. The drawings if larger than 6x9 1/2 must be made in accordance with this proportion for necessary reduction. There is absolutely no restriction as to size, form or style of sketch and entries will be considered taking but a fraction of the cover page space.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

A. W. Filstrup has shown us the current 4c stamp, in coil strips, perforated 10 vertically, as printed on the rotary machine. These come in continuous strips, without lines or joined ends.

ALBANIA.—Italian Offices.—The 2c orange brown stamp of Italy has been surcharged "Scutari di Albania—4 Para 4" for use in the Italian offices in Albania.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelist reports that a new series of military post cards has just appeared in four different colors.

BOLIVIA.—We are indebted to the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. for a specimen of the new "El Illimani" stamp as noted last week.

CANADA.—Collectors are facing the possibility of an early change in the color of the "1Tc" on 2c War Stamps of the Dominion.

CHILE.—Maury's Collectionneur reports that the 8c, 14c, 25c, 40c, and 60c values of the current series are to be suppressed.

FIJI.—The 1d stamp has also been converted into a War Stamp, according to the following letter from Maitland Milliken: "I have a pair of Fiji 1d carmine, Scott's A23, King George, surcharged in capital letters in black thus "WAR STAMP." This was in use the middle of January. It did not prepay the postage, as I had to pay double deficient postage or 10c. It is evident that this war stamp does not prepay postage like the Canadian War Tax, but is simply a tax on letters and the like.

1d scarlet and black.

GREAT BRITAIN.—All kinds of curiosities are coming to light in the way of censor marks and labels. The latest to be noted was kindly sent by D. C. Alexander, and is a registered cover from London. In addition to the usual assortment of labels showing that the letter was "Passed by Censor 1626," there are a couple of impressed seals in wax, reading "P. C."

INDIA.—Maury's Collectionneur reports that the 6a King George stamp is coming in a new color.

6a light brown.

NETHERLANDS.—The Netherlands postal authorities have issued a special stamp for the Belgian soldiers interned in that Country, according to L'Echo de la Timbrologie. These soldiers are allowed to write to their friends twice a month, and their letters are forwarded without cost. For this service a special stamp has been provided, the design representing the allegory of neutrality, and bearing the inscriptions, "Koninkrijk der Nederlanden" at the top and "Interneeringskampen" at the bottom.

NEW ZEALAND.—According to the Australian Philatelist, there has been such a demand for the 1 1/2d stamps, owing to the imposition of the 1/2d war tax, that the authorities are making arrangements to have the 1 1/2d King George stamp printed from electros as is already done in the case of the 1/2d stamps. Owing to the difficulty of getting the necessary dyes, there is a probability of an early change in some of the colors of the King George series.

PORTUGAL.—The postal authorities of this country have just closed a competition for designs for a new series of stamps. Both postage and parcel post stamps are contemplated.

URUGUAY.—The lithographed stamps of 1914-15, now current, have been overprinted "Oficial" in black for official use. The 2c, 5c, 8c, 20c, 23c, 50c, and 1p are reported with this overprint.

1c CANADA WAR TAX.

By HENRY J. PERRY, M. D.

In view of your announcement that you had in preparation a paper on the Canadian war tax stamps, I want to call your attention to one fact which I have not seen published. I have observed that the one cent war tax stamp was printed from a plate made from a different die from the regular one cent stamp. This is shown by several differences:—the shape of the figure one in the lower corners; the spacing between the right maple leaf and the square containing the numeral is narrower in the ordinary one cent stamp so that a horizontal line of background cannot pass between the leaf and the square as it does in the war tax stamp, and lastly the part of the epaulet in white where it comes nearest to the second right maple leaf is different in the two stamps. I wonder if this does not prove that the war tax stamp was not issued in a great rush as was supposed.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—C. A. Townsend sends us a clipping showing an illustration of an Erie, Pa., postmark "Feb. 30." The hour is 1.30 A. M. and doubtless the date was corrected in a "later edition."

—The Portland (Maine) Philatelic Society is doing finely. It has twenty-five members from among progressive and advanced collectors. The society has permanent quarters now at the Farrington Block and holds meetings the first and third Saturdays of each month.

—R. K.—Most collectors follow the lines laid down in Scott's catalog. A favorite method is to group a country and its colonies. It is purely a matter of individual fancy.

—Howard M. Fry has examined an upper left pane Plate 6900 of the current 12c U. S. and has placed the following transfers, showing location in the pane:—Horizontal row 1, Nos. 7 and 10; row 2, Nos. 6 and 7; row 3, Nos. 4, 5 and 6; row 4, Nos. 7, 8 and 10; row 5, Nos. 4, 7, 8 and 9; row 6, Nos. 6, 7 and 9; row 7, Nos. 6, 7, 8 and 9; row 8, Nos. 6, 7 and 8; row 9, Nos. 6 and 7; row 10, No. 7. It is interesting to note how uniformly Nos. 6, 7 and 8 are to be found with the transfers.

I find this stamp was issued in 1885-86 and if it is 'the first copy' in all this time since 1885, that a man of stamp experience (Mr. Morgenthau) 'has ever seen,' it must certainly be some rare stamp."—ALVAH G. COLUMBIAN STAMP CO., Arlington, Mass.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
PHILATELY OFF THE RANGE.

By EDWIN B. HILL.

"How many does it take to make a quorum?"

Jimmy O' looked over the top of the WEEKLY at his fidus achates, who sat upon the ground, hugging his knees and scowling fiercely apropos of nothing.

"A quorum, Eddy, consists principally of one man an' a gun," declared Jimmy O', as he resumed reading.

Eddy grinned appreciatively, arose, and, entering the house, resumed with me the subject nearest his heart.

"Frien' o' ourn, w'at we need here in Arizony is more lungs an' fewer c'lecters. W'y, in this here town o' Willow, an' up there on th' range, I count 'leven faithful men an' true who've got c'lections, an' some of 'em mighty fine ones at that—a whole lot better'n some o' their lungs. Now what we need in Arizony is—"

"More sheep an' less goats," broke in Jimmy O' from his vantage point in the doorway.

Eddy reared up. Mention of sheep always made him peevish. Then, after he'd spluttered a moment, much to Jimmy's joy, he resumed:

"W'at we need right in this here town o' Willow is a Philatelic society. An' we c'n read papers, an' exchange views an' have a forg'ry c'lection, an' trade stamps, an'—an'—"

"Have two-minute rounds wit' the gloves," Jimmy ended the sentence and Eddy subsided.

"It would be a good stunt—first-rate," I declared.

"Stamps er rounds?" questioned Jimmy, with his grin, as the boys started for the range.

* * *

About two o'clock of a cool afternoon, a fortnight after the foregoing conversation, the Philatelic Society of Arizona was born. Frevor Moore was chosen president, Jimmy O', vice-president, and Eddy treasurer. The secretarial honors fell to me.

"You're on the ground, an' c'n answer letters any time," declared Jimmy.

"An', by heck! You gotta be librarian, too—fer if they're any books comin' t' Arizony you oughta have 'em," declared the new treasurer.

"It hardly seems fair to the boys to meet and elect ourselves to office without giving them a chance to vote," suggested Moore, after we had dispensed the business.

"Oh, they'll agree, all right," said Jimmy O'. "You jest bet they'll agree." "Sure," affirmed Eddy, "sure. Else we wouldn't a-done it. No, sir. But if any of 'em would want a office, we'll give 'em one—gee! we'll cre-ate th' office now—an' it'll be—it'll be—Jimmy O', you tell."

"Authenticator of postmarks," declared Jimmy O', without batting an eyelash.

Eddy gasped. Then he solemnly arose, shook Jimmy's hand, walked quickly out of the door, down the path, and vanished.

We three fell to reading.

Half an hour later, Eddy appeared. With him was a small and slender man, forty or thereabouts. He wore a huge pair of iron-bowed spectacles, anchored behind his ears, through the binnacles of which a pair of hazel eyes looked joyously out upon a troubled world. The man's hair was almost white at the temples. His face showed traces of sorrow and suffering, commingled with a sweetness about the mouth in spite of its strength and firmness. He was dressed in the typical cowboy style,—hickory shirt, blue overalls, high heel riding boots, and the wide-brim light Stetson, so common in the southwest. His cartridge-belt hung loose about his waist. It held two Luegers, the scabbards tied down.

Before Eddy introduced him, I knew at once it was Willy Grow, cow-puncher, riata-thrower, and the quickest and most accurate shot in the entire outfit of Arizona Rangers,—now, alas! legislated out of office.

Moore's greeting was most friendly, and Jimmy's tumultuously joyful.

rors, many unknown to philatelic students here—showed me faked cancellations and genuine that could not be told apart except by an expert. Both were from the same hand-stamp, only an infinitesimal mark had been made on its face when the cancelling stamp was discarded!

"Well, I absorbed information. I found there were runaway postmasters along the border who were cancelling stamps by wholesale—stamps they had stolen when they fled. He knew them one and all.

"I never left until after breakfast. Then my two friends escorted me back to my hotel.

"El Americano," said the same Mexicans who whispered 'gringo' when I passed before. They seemed to think now I was either furnishing arms or financing the revolution.

"As I was getting on the train to go North, next day, a man unknown to me—a Mexican—pushed a package into my hands, and promptly disappeared into the crowd.

"When I opened it, I found as fine a lot of Mexican revolutionary stamps, on and off covers,—singles—pairs—blocks—and even a few sheets—as ever came out of that troubled republic.

"There was a note, too, from my old friend, in explanation. The raids were not authentic, nor the reward. It was all done as a blind to cover the running of arms and ammunition across the border.

"The reward to me was that outfit of stamps. And now, Jimmy O', you see I can be of assistance to you and the Philatelic Society of Arizona, in solving the authenticity of cancellations of Mexican stamps, if of no others."

Then the members of the society proceeded to feast their individual eyes upon as wonderful a lot of Mexican revolutionary stamps as ever pleased those of our estimable Columbus expert, to whom be all honors.

"He's th'—he's th'—anyways, he gits that there office Jimmy O'. cre-a-ted a-whiles back," said Eddy. "He's accepted—has Willy."

The hazel eyes and the entire face beamed with a smile which won me.

"You see, Eddy met me on Main street—I haven't seen him for several years—and, having learned from Jimmy O' that I was interested in stamps, he insisted on my presence and acceptance of office," said Willy.

Jimmy O' explained the jest.

"Well, not so bad, after all," said Willy. "Every philatelic society should create that particular office in these days of fraudulent cancellations,—which reminds me that I ran across the queerest outfit down in Nogales you ever saw."

Willy paused to roll a cigarette.

"Let's have the story, Willy," said Moore. "I know it's worth while."

"I hadn't been working much for about a month—just drifting along the border, looking for strays. Mexican bandits and guerillas had been running off stock from American ranches, and a reward of worth-while proportions had been offered for a certain bunch of rustlers, dead or alive."

"Me—I prefer 'em dead—that kind," chipped in Eddy.

"You're right, Eddy. They're safer to handle," declared Willy, resuming his narrative.

"I had been in Nogales only about 24 hours, but every Mexican there knew why I was there and what I wanted. 'Gringo—gringo' was whispered whenever I passed a group. Their looks did not reassure me of any mercy if I fell among them of a dark night, remote and alone.

"I was passing a little cag-mag of a hole—Mexican restaurant and hotel—when I heard a voice say in English:

"Wee-lee! One mo-ment!"

"Out of the door came an old Mexican I had known further north on the range. He was a fine old chap, and we had struck up quite a friendship. I went into the place with him, and he introduced me to a number of his friends.

"It seems it was a sort of revolutionary headquarters, and the makers of the Mexico of tomorrow congregated there to plot and plan.

"I was very frank to tell my friend the reason for being there. He looked very grave for a moment, then his kindly old face wrinkled into smiles. He called over one of his friends, and to him was expalined my presence in Nogales.

"My friend, the reward is not for you," said the old man, 'but for us. There shall be no more.'

"Then he talked of other things, finally leading up to stamps—for the old chap was interested, even as I.

"He called over another of his friends, and we talked for a couple of hours longer. It seems the younger man had been an official high in the postoffice department under the Diaz regime. What he did not know about Mexican stamps and cancellations was infinitesimal. He left for a few minutes, and when he returned he brought a bundle of all sorts and conditions of envelopes, with revolutionary stamps galore. Then we spent the rest of the night looking them over, he pointing out to me the minutest er-

SPECIAL LITERARY FEATURES.

In this issue of the WEEKLY we begin an article on China and Its Stamps by C. A. Howes, F. R. P. S., and president of the American Philatelic Society. It will be of surpassing interest and value to every collector and will subsequently be reprinted as a handbook. Mr. Poole in the Postage Stamps of Canada will discuss a favorite country and we begin this week the Postage Stamps of the Canal Zone by Wm. Evans, M. D. These three studies by experts mark the highest point in literary work that we have ever touched.

We have other good things coming along and will mention The Revenue Stamps of the U. S. by a well known specialist, also U. S. Special and Machine Perforations by an authoritative writer. The latter mss. will be fully illustrated.

REGULAR DEPARTMENTS.

Henry A. Kidder will continue the chronicle of "New Issues and Varieties" and Bill Bloss will utter words of wisdom in his efforts to keep the young collector in the right path. The editor and managing editor, with years of experience back of them, will not allow the grass to grow under their feet. The paper at 50c per year is within the reach of every collector and no one collecting stamps can afford to be without it. We urge you to look us over carefully and then take advantage of one of our premium offers. You can get a 10 weeks' subscription for 10c but we urge you to SEND 25c FOR 6 MOS. AND FREE OFFER of one of the premiums named below.

We especially recommend you to choose from:—

200 Different Foreign—This world wide packet has given great satisfaction. Stamps are nice and clean.

101 Different U. S.—This is a most popular collection of United States stamps. We recommend it.

185 Different War Nations—Made up from the Warring Nations of Europe and the best premium we offer. If you select the War Packet, you get a gem.

25 Different Persia—This packet will fill many blanks in your stamp album. How many Persia have you, anyway?

60 Different Japan—This is a strange country and the packet does full justice to its strangeness. A very fine premium.

75 Different Precancelled U. S.—This is a fine side line for every U. S. collector. And 75 diff. makes a good start.

50 Different Sweden—A collection in itself and always gives satisfaction.

We want you as a subscriber if you are at all interested in the stamp hobby, but we don't want your money if you are thinking only of the stamps you will get as a premium. We are building up a stamp paper and unless you want the paper regularly each week we don't want your cash. MEKEEL'S is the oldest stamp weekly in the world and the only one here in America. We make our appeal to your interest in stamp collecting in the knowledge that we will give you many times the value of your subscription rate during the time you are upon our mailing list.

The main office of the WEEKLY is in Boston, but branch offices are maintained at Beverly, Mass., 713 Oxford Bldg., Chicago, and 226 Federal St., Portland, Me. That we may test the pulling power of this, our special plea for coöperation, address your letter simply MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS, Beverly, Mass.

CHINA AND ITS STAMPS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., President American Philatelic Society.

CHAPTER I.—Historical.

The word "historical," when applied to China, is enough to appal one with the magnitude of the subject matter which a nation, claiming the longest continuous existence as a sovereign power of any on the earth, is able to present to the student. The origin of the Chinese is lost in the mists of antiquity—so much so that they have invented various fables to account for their appearance on the stage of human existence, and have thus rendered it more difficult to gain facts of real history. It is probable, however, that they were not indigenous, but came from Central or Western Asia at a very remote period, and were well organized as a political body long before their really authentic records begin.

With the reign of the Emperor Yao, about 2350 B. C., we emerge to some extent from the haze enveloping the earlier records of China. The so-called Hia dynasty was established about 2200 B. C. by "Yu the Great" and occupied the throne for 450 years with Emperors good, bad and indifferent, until a new line, known as the Shang dynasty, was proclaimed by revolution, as was its successor, the Chow dynasty 640 years later. Riot and rebellion seem to have been the order of the day ever since. Indeed, China has been called the "classic ground of revolution," and few of the later dynasties have lasted much over two centuries. Not only among her own people has she met with dissension, but by Mongols, Manchus, and Japanese has she been overwhelmed and laid waste, only to rise again and replace her own rulers.

About two centuries before our era there was a short but vigorous dynasty known as the Tsin dynasty, which united all the Chinese provinces under its authority and extended its conquests far to the south and west. It was this dynasty that built the Great Wall. At about the same time China became known to the western world in a vague sort of way by stories of the great empire in the East and samples of Chinese silks acquired by trade. Ptolemy and Pliny referred to the far away land as "Seres," and later, in the Middle Ages, it was known as "Cathay," which we find today in its Muscovite form of "Kitai" on the Russian stamps used in the empire. But the name "China" comes to us from this "Tsin" or "Chin" dynasty through India, where China became known at the time as "Ma Chin" or "Great Chin"—that is, the Empire of Chin or China.

Traders and missionaries visited the empire, and in the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries very complete accounts were brought to Europe of this great and civilized country. The famous traveler, Marco Polo, visited Cathay in 1295, and became a great favorite with the Emperor. In the fourteenth century, too, trade was begun by Europeans, and a certain traffic with India had long existed.

But a great change in the spirit of the Empire came with the seventeenth century. The last native dynasty, known as the Ming dynasty, fell about 1644, when the Manchus, called in to help quell rebellion, succeeded in establishing themselves in Peking and after a seven years' struggle conquered the whole country. The new dynasty set up by them was called "Ta t'sing" or "Great Pure," and was the one recently on the throne. The Manchus were, however, in the position of a very small body who by sheer force retained their domination over a vast population. In early times the Chinese do not seem to have been averse to intercourse with foreigners, but the new Manchu rulers were fearful lest the latter stir up the Chinese, and excited by acts of the Spanish and Portuguese along the coast, they determined to close all ports to foreigners and keep the empire hermetically sealed against development and innovation.

Macao, in the south, however, had already become a Portuguese possession in 1586, and the Manchu emperor did allow foreign trade and commerce at the one port of Canton, not far from Macao, while in 1771 permission was given to foreigners to reside there during the trading season. Canton thus became the center of the foreign intercourse with China and flourished accordingly, in spite of increasing friction between the traders and the imperial government.

At last, in 1840, the troubles broke into open war over the smuggling of opium from India, and the British sent an expedition which finally defeated the Chinese. In the treaty closing this "Opium War," signed at Nan-king, the "South Capital," August 29, 1842, Amoy, Foochow, Ningpo and Shanghai were opened to foreign trade in addition to Canton, and we have the first list of "treaty ports." In addition the island of Hongkong was ceded in perpetuity to Great Britain, and in 1843 it was made a Crown Colony, which it still remains.

In 1856 another Anglo-Chinese war broke out, into which the French were drawn, and when it was closed in 1860 by the treaty of Tien-tsin, eight more treaty ports were designated. Since then, by treaties and imperial decrees, many more ports have been added to the list, which is given in detail below.

CHAPTER II.—Treaty Ports.

The following list gives the Treaty Ports in the order of the opening of their custom houses, together with the date. Those listed before 1897 are the ones whose postmarks should be found on the three issues of the so-called "Customs" stamps.

In most of the Treaty Ports there are post-offices of one or more foreign countries, the postmarks of these offices being found on the stamps of their respective countries, surcharged or unsurcharged, except in the case of the British offices which use the stamps of Hongkong.

The letters after the name of the Treaty Port represent the foreign post-offices located there so far as it has been possible to determine them.

In 1897 Germany, to avenge the death of certain of her missionaries, seized the port of Kiao-chow, and under a so-called "lease" (January, 1898) had a practical protectorate over the province of Shan-tung. At the same time Russia, insatiate as usual, obtained further concessions with a "lease" (March 27, 1898), of Ta-lien-wan and Port Arthur in the Gulf of Pe-chi-li. The ball was now rolling, and Great Britain, not to be outdone, came in for a share of the spoils with a lease of Wei-hai-wei (April 2, 1898); and France, in the same month was supplied with the bay of Kwang-chow opposite the island of Hai-nan. Italy brought up the rear but got nothing. She demanded the bay of San-mum, on like terms, but the dragon flag still waves over it.

CHAPTER III.—A Republic.

The Emperor of China at the time of the institution of the Customs Post was Kuang-Hsü, who was born on August 2, 1872, and succeeded to the throne on the death of his cousin on January 22, 1875. But the real power behind the throne was the Empress Dowager, Tzu-Hsi, who was Regent during the Emperor's minority. Emperor Kuang-Hsü came of age and assumed the reins of government in March, 1887, but he proved too progressive to suit that remarkable woman, the Empress Dowager, and she forced his retirement in September, 1898. For ten years she was once more supreme, but finally died on November 15, 1908, the next day after the deposed Emperor had also died. The new Emperor, the little two and a half year old nephew of the preceding one, was proclaimed on November 14, 1908, under the reign name of Hsüan-t'ung.

Meanwhile, the progressive views of Emperor Kuang-Hsü, in spite of his forced retirement, had resulted in an edict on September 1, 1906, promising a constitution as soon as the people were ripe for it. The death of the Empress Dowager hastened matters and on October 3, 1910, a newly elected Senate, the basis of a future Parliament, met in Peking. But changes were not being made fast enough, and agitation against Manchu rule finally resulted in open rebellion in the autumn of 1911. The movement started in the south of China, but by the middle of October the great government arsenal at Wuchang had been taken and a military government declared. By the beginning of 1912 fourteen of the twenty-two provinces had joined the rebellion.

The government at Peking, seeing the seriousness of the uprising, granted everything to save itself. Many changes in administration were made, the new constitution was promulgated on November 3, 1911, two days after Yüan Shih-Kai had been called to Peking and made Dictator, and the Prince Regent took the constitutional oath on behalf of the Emperor on November 26, 1911. But the Southern provinces, in their desire to be rid of the Manchus, also decided to do away with the monarchy, and on December 29, 1911, the Nanking Assembly, representing fourteen Provinces, elected Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the leader of the rebellion, as President of the Republic of China! Meanwhile pressure was being brought to bear upon the Throne for abdication, and the edict was finally published on February 15, 1912, Yüan Shih-Kai being directed to set up a Provisional Republican government, and the new "nation" being renamed "Chung Hua Min Kuo" or literally "Middle Flowery Republic (People's State)." Yüan was elected Provisional President and took the oath on March 10.

The rebellion having accomplished its purpose, elections were held and the new Parliament met on April 8, 1913; a new Constitution was drafted and adopted on October 25, 1913. Meanwhile the Parliament elected Yüan as President and he was inaugurated on October 10 for five-years. Then began a struggle for power between Yüan and the Parliament which ended in the dissolution of the latter on January 11, 1914, and the practical dictatorship once more of Yüan Shih-Kai. Full power proved so attractive that in 1915 hints of the futility of a republican form of government for China and the desirability of a return to the monarchical form began to be spread and a gradual (and well engineered!) movement began to take shape to make Yüan the new Emperor! He was finally prevailed upon (?) to accept the Throne of the re-constituted Chinese Empire and announced this to the world in an edict of December 11, 1915. The inauguration was to take place in February, 1916, but the trend of affairs started rebellion once more in South China, and Yüan, apparently seeing the "handwriting on the wall," has indefinitely postponed the "Imperial Yellow." China is still a Republic.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Reports from several dealers seem to indicate that C. Hall of Chicago, held for defrauding stamp dealers, is making settlements with the dealers interested. The P. O. Inspector at Chicago is entitled to much credit for the interest he has manifested in this case.

—Bertram W. H. Poole will have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and acquaintances in the knowledge that on March 20 he lost his wife after a very short illness. Besides Mr. Poole, there are two small sons left to mourn her loss.

—It is a frequent occurrence for us to have auction advertisements in the WEEKLY and dealers are realizing that there is no publicity that can equal that obtained from the WEEKLY mailing list. In this number the Exchange Stamp Co. runs its third mail auction sale and the attention of our readers is invited to it.

—President Kissinger is heading a movement to incorporate the S. P. A. under a national or federal charter. Members who have expressed themselves do not seem to be content to simply incorporate under a state charter. The S. P. A. is fortunate in having among its members and friends several influential members in Congress and some action along this line will probably be taken at the coming Washington convention.

—S. B. Hopkins, Laredo, Tex., would like to know the present addresses of R. L. Newton (Jacksonville, Fla.) and Glenn R. Knight (Sherman, Cal.).

—Will the collector in Doylestown, Pa., who sent an order to W. S. Aldrich recently, without signing his name, please supply the same, when his order will be filled.

—Herbert F. Seebohm, formerly connected with the Postage Stamp Co. of San Francisco, Cal., has resigned his position as the manager of the firm's approval department and has opened a store of his own at 615 Montgomery St. Mr. Seebohm assures us that it is his intention to use the WEEKLY as a publicity medium.

—"Do you bean-eaters in Boston know that the livest stamp club in the West is located in Detroit? 50 members and the club is growing like a patch of dandelions. Meets every two weeks at the St. Clair Hotel, two years old, several A. P. S. members, lots of subscribers to MEKEEL'S (would be more if said MEKEEL'S would mention its existence), President is Chas. Brisley. Known as 'Collectors' Philatelic Society of Detroit.'—THORN SMITH."

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Herman W. Boers (2), and Frank L. Jackson (2).

—We note that J. E. Guest is a candidate for re-election to the office of Sales Manager of the Southern Philatelic Association. It is not the practise of the WEEKLY to participate in the politics of our various organizations, but as a matter of news we are pleased to lend the publicity of our columns to this announcement. Mr. Guest has conducted the affairs of his office energetically during the year that has passed.

—Harrington Adams sends us a copy of his "Buying List of U. S. Precancelled Postage Stamps". It is a copyrighted list and sells for 10c. Mr. Adams is taking adlet space in exploiting this publication.

—Any philatelic society interested in receiving a donation of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS dating back four or five years and willing to pay cost of carriage, should communicate with F. C. Ryan, Cambridge, Ohio.

—In their advertisement on page 1, Hugo Griebert & Co. calls attention to their new issue service and especially in connection with their distribution of the N. W. Pacific Islands and the Trinidad Red Cross at their ordinary new issue rates. The firm feels that considering the difficulties confronting importers of new issues, their patrons may well feel pleased with the service they have received. The motto of the firm "The service that serves" seems to fit admirably the activities of Griebert & Co. in supplying their customers with the new things as they appear.

—The Cincinnati Philatelic Society was permanently organized Mar. 28 at the Gibson House Hotel with the following officers: Pres., W. C. Kennett; V. Pres., Erwin L. Fischer; Secy.-Treas., A. D. Fennell; Trustees, J. A. McCullough, Albert S. Smith, Stanley Ashbrook and Geo. D. Kitzinger. Meetings 2nd and 4th Tuesday of each month. Cincinnati collectors will be welcomed at the April 11 meeting.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Who's Who In Philately.—The book before us published by the Philatelic Magazine, Balham, London, is a substantial book bound in cloth, but the price 60c seems most too much for a book of this character, especially in view of the fact that there are some twenty pages of advertising. As its name implies, the book contains an alphabetical list of the world's notable collectors. It is interesting to note that the places of honor go to King George, the Prince of Wales, Queen Elena of Italy and the Crown Prince of Sweden, all four of whom are keenly interested in philately. The book contains a reference list of the philatelic societies of Great Britain, British Colonies and America, with names and addresses of their leading officers.

Postage Stamps of Norway.—Published by the Philatelic Magazine, 42 Fieldhouse Rd., Balham, London. This booklet by W. Nichols is a specialistic study of the stamps of Norway, sufficiently so to please the most fastidious in this direction. A very attractive feature is a plate containing 22 illustrations, the most of which are enlarged. The varieties are contrasted in illustrations, this being true of the lion with the "clubbed" foot, the types of the "Norge" lettering, the posthorn shaded and unshaded, the varieties of the krona stamps of the issues 1907-1911, etc. The price of the book is 25c and it can be obtained from the publishers.

S. P. A. Year Book 1916.—We must congratulate the Southern Philatelic Association and Louis M. Lang, publisher, especially for the very creditable publication just at hand. The book is compiled by the secretary of the Association, C. V. Webb, and issued under the auspices of a committee consisting of Mr. Webb chairman, Wm. Lycett and Louis M. Lang. President Kissinger is ex-officio a member of the committee. The book is well-printed and in its arrangement closely follows the Year Book of our premier society. A novel feature is a photograph of the Reading convention group showing the fifty attendants in a single line formation. The price of the book is fixed at 50c and copies may be secured from C. V. Webb, Perry, Ohio. We take pleasure in reviewing this most creditable publication and feel that the membership of the S. P. A. may well take pride in it.

Year Book of the M. P. A. 1915.—A less pretentious book than the one we have previously described is the one issued by the Metropolitan Philatelic Association, nevertheless the book at hand is an excellent one and a credit to the organization. Pictures of the board of directors serve as a frontispiece and there are halftones as well of the committee on Year Book, William H. Hollenbach, Chester C. Heffner, Burtin R. Fidler and Victor V. Boyer. Accompanying the Year Book is a copy of the constitution and by-laws adopted October 10, 1914. The price of the Year Book is 25c and may be obtained from the secretary, Rasmus Bartleson, 294 Arundel St., St. Paul, Minn. Though the book contains the records of the 1915 convention, the committee would have done well to have given it the date 1916 in place of 1915.

WHOLESALE STAMP MIXTURES

MIXTURE No. 1.

U. S. POSTAGE STAMPS.

This mixture is made up of all the cheaper varieties of used postage stamps from 1861 up to and including the 1915 issue. There are no 2c reds in this mixture and very few 1c blue. All issues are represented including the 1869 issue, Columbian, Trans. Mississippi, Buffalo, Jamestown, Alaska Yukon, Hudson Fulton and San Francisco Commemoratives, Parcels Post, Postage Dues, Special Deliveries, Register Stamps and occasionally some Department Stamps, over 150 varieties, but no revenues, envelopes or post cards are included. All stamps are clean and free from paper.

1000 2.75

MIXTURE No. 2.

U. S. POSTAGE.

This mixture is collected from mail order houses, banks, etc., and is made up of current issues almost exclusively, many San Francisco issue, Special Delivery, Parcels Post, Postage Dues and Registered Letter stamps, etc., etc., will be found, and from 25 to 50 varieties, (no 2c reds are included). This mixture will be found profitable for making up sets and for exchange with foreign countries, many very large blocks will be found and 10c values are in the majority, many precancels will also be found, all stamps free of paper.

1000 1.25

MIXTURE No. 2A.

Same mixture as above on pieces of original paper. 500 for$.60
1000 for 1.00

A very large variety of perforated initials will be found in both lots.

MIXTURE No. 3.

SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA.

The stamps in this mixture are mostly from countries where even the cheapest varieties sell at 2c and up. Honduras, Paraguay, Salvador, Bolivia, Panama, Guatemala, etc., etc., quite a few from other countries. These are direct importations, clean and free from paper, and such lots as come in my large foreign exchanges. This mixture is superior and different from my No. 4 mixture and dealers ordering both grades will have a splendid assortment for sheets and high grade packets, stamps of both 19th and 20th Century are included, and an immense variety. 500$2.75
1000 5.00

MIXTURE No. 4.

SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA.

This mixture is made up of direct importations and such stamps as I have purchased from dealers in large lots, Brazil, Chile, Columbia, Peru, Argentine Rep., etc., etc., many issues and 150-200 varieties. They are mostly the cheaper grade stamps and many from countries in addition to above. As a rule this mixture will be found to contain mostly 19th Century stamps, all clean and free of paper, and if ordered in conjunction with mixture No. 3 will give a splendid start to the amateur dealer. 500$1.75
1000 3.25

MIXTURE No. 7.

ENGLISH COLONIES.

A very unusual mixture and a wonderful bargain in these popular stamps. It is a "mixture" in more ways than one, Queens heads, King Edward and King George—and even the fourth generation. Quite a few are on parts of original cover, in large strips and blocks and from all over the world. Transvaal, Mauritius, Australia, old and new—Ceylon, Natal, Tasmania, Sierra Leone, Queensland, Nigeria, Union of S. Africa, Rhodesia, Malta, Newfoundland, Bermuda, Trinidad, British Honduras, Jamaica, Gold Coast, etc., etc., a magnificent variety of the lower values many 50 years old and a great many of recent issue—

There are between 200-300 varieties in each 1000—but this must not be expected in the 500 lots. 500$2.60
1000 5.00

MIXTURE No. 8.

U. S. CIVIL WAR REVENUES.

Made up of the cheapest varieties of which I have over 100,000 in stock, 2c Bank Check, yellow and blue, U. S. Int. Rev.; 5c Cert.; 5c In. Ex.; 25c Cert. some perf., some Imperf., and some part perf., while the large majority consists of above common stamps, quite a few really good stamps from 1c to $2.00 values may be found mixed in. A low price to reduce stock. 500$1.25

APPROVAL DEPARTMENT.

For 15 years we have made a specialty of app. business. Whether you want selections of certain countries, or send want lists you will find us on the job. Our series of books and albums contain an enormous variety of stamps. A full list of books will be sent on request but we give below a list of our series of "Jumbo" books which is the best series of books out to select space fillers from.

PREMIUMS Any one of the free offers given with $1 purchases to new app. buyers to "get acquainted."

"JUMBO" APPROVAL BOOKS.

These big books have proved very popular. Each book contains about 400 stamps and there odd denominations and otherwise uncommon stamps on letters interchanged by stamp folk and we have said before that the custom should be encouraged as emphasizing one of the niceties of philatelic conduct. A Kansas reader gives practical proof of the value of this courtesy in the following expression: "If you can find space in your columns for a few words, please say for me that the dealer who uses desirable stamps on his letters always makes a hit with them. Only a small percentage of dealers do this and somehow I feel the more friendly toward such firms."

Revised for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF THE CANAL ZONE.

By WILLIAM EVANS.

CHAPTER I.—Early History of Panama.

The great discoverer, Christopher Columbus, made his last voyage in 1502. It was then that he sailed into the lagoon of Chiriqui, and established a colony at Belen, which was the first settlement of Panama. This colony did not thrive and was abandoned in a short time. Nicuesa fared better when eight years afterward he formed a settlement at Portobello, as his venture became permanent. On Sept. 26, 1513, Balboa first reached the Pacific Ocean. The next year, Pedro Arias de Avilla, lured on by reports of the vast wealth of the country, which was then known as Castilla de Oro, settled at Panama, and removed the seat of government to that city. This city flourished until 1671, when it was sacked by Morgan and his buccaneers, who after three weeks of murder and rapine, carried off six hundred of its inhabitants as prisoners, and left behind a mass of ruins. Villacorta founded a new city in 1673, where the present city now stands, which is six or seven miles from the site of the first Panama.

A Presidency was created by the Spanish Monarch for the government of the colony of New Granada, which included the territory now known as the United States of Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador, and Panama. Spain continued to rule this territory until 1811, when a revolution broke out, and after thirteen years of war, the revolutionists succeeded in establishing a Republic. Venezuela withdrew from the Republic in 1829, and Ecuador followed the next year, and each established a separate government. The remainder continued as one State until 1903 when Panama also withdrew and set up a government of its own.

Soon after the discovery of Panama the building of a canal across the Isthmus was proposed by Angel Saavedra. This was in 1520. A number of surveys were made with this object in view. But until 1881, when the French "Company of the Inter-Oceanic Canal of Panama" actually began the work, no one attempted anything practical. And even this company did little more than begin the work, though for over twenty years it was nominally laboring at the Canal. It finally collapsed and failed and negotiations were soon opened by the United States which have resulted in the successful completion of the Canal.

CHAPTER II.—The Canal Zone.

A strip of territory ten miles wide across the Isthmus of Panama was ceded to the United States for this purpose. This is known as the Canal Zone, and the seventeen Post Offices located in it are operated by that Government. These are located at Ancon, Cristobal, Culebra, Empire, Pedro Miguel, La Boca, Gatun, Paraiso, Bas Obispo, Bohio, Corozal, Gorgona, Las Cascadas, Miraflores, Matachin, San Pablo, and Taberuilla.

The distributing office is Cristobal. All the incoming mails are received and distributed at this office, and all the outgoing mails are made up for their destination. The Panama Steamship, the Royal Mail, the Hamburg-American, the Bordeaux-Colon, the St. Nazaire-Colon, the United Fruit, and the Leyland-Harrison lines of steamships carry mails from this point. The United States mails are made up into packages for each State and about one hundred of the larger cities.

The administration building at Ancon is somewhat more than a mile from the Post Office, and a clerk in this building is deputized by the Director of Posts to sell stamps to those who work there, as a matter of convenience to them.

The stamps issued for use in the Canal Zone have presented to the philatelic world many minor varieties, and have created widespread interest. Many of the issues have been complicated, and much study has been expended upon their classification. A number of the varieties are of extreme rarity and a few of them unique. In spite of the numerous minor varieties which exist, it is generally conceded that all are legitimate, and not of the speculative character which taints the issues of a number of countries. All the evidence obtainable indicates that they were issued to meet actual needs. In some instances errors were discovered and removed from the sheets and destroyed, and they have always been hard to obtain.

The first study of these issues was made by Mr. Geo. L. Toppan, and his classification of the various issues and varieties is the most feasible one yet presented, and is the basis of the one followed here. This does not classify them in chronological order. An attempt to do this would produce the greatest confusion, and make the task of arrangement much harder to understand, and is therefore not at all advisable.

U. S. IMPERFORATES

For the past six years we have made a specialty of these stamps. We find them the most satisfactory to handle as we can always supply perfect stamps and please our customers. Some dealers buy at our retail prices, which are very low at present, why not fill in your collection now. All are unused and guaranteed.

CHAPTER III.—Panama Issues.

When the Republic of Panama established itself as a separate nation in the world family, it became necessary that it should have stamps of its own, and it proceeded to have them via the surcharge route. There were in its possession plenty of the Colombian stamps issued for the State of Panama, and these were used for the new country.
Some of them, after having been surcharged, were used for the Canal Zone, and it is necessary for the student of the stamps of the latter to have some knowledge of these Panama stamps, before he can thoroughly understand his subject. There were a number of Panama surcharges, but only those used in the Canal Zone need to be described here, and the others are of no interest in this connection, and consequently no mention of them will be made.

The work of surcharging was done in a local printing plant, and the result is not as perfect as the work of some of our Bank Note Companies. There was apparently insufficient type on hand to do the work as it should have been done, and the indications are that it was hurried.

The surcharge consists of a bar across the top of the stamp and the word
"PANAMA" at each side. The bar was intended to obliterate the word
"COLOMBIA" and it did its work, when the stamps were properly placed in the press, and a sufficient amount of ink was used. This, however, did not always happen and the word can be plainly read in many instances.

What are known as the third and fourth Panama surcharges are the ones found on Canal Zone stamps and a description of them will make the study of these clearer.

The third Panama surcharge was set up to print fifty stamps. It is found in two arrangements, but as one of these has never been found on Canal Zone stamps it is unnecessary to describe it.
The one found in connection with the stamps of the Canal Zone was set up to cover ten horizontal rows and five vertical rows of stamps. The word
"PANAMA" which is 13 mm. long is on both sides of the stamp and reads in the same direction. Only two values bearing this surcharge were used in the Canal Zone, namely the two cents rose and the fifty centavos brown. The surcharge was printed differently on these two values. On the two cents rose it was first printed on the upper half of the sheet, which was then removed from the press, turned upside down, and then replaced in the press and the bottom half printed. Certain errors in the surcharge indicate this. The first stamp in the sheet has the word "PANAMA" reading up on one side and down on the other side, instead of both reading in the same direction. This error also occurs on the one hundredth stamp of the sheet. This word on the upper half of the balance of the sheet reads upward while on the lower half it reads downward. Other errors also are found which prove the same thing, being always found on complementary stamps.

The fifty centavos stamp was surcharged differently. The upper half of the sheet was printed in the same manner as above, but the lower half instead of being reversed, was simply pushed forward on the bed of the press until it was in the proper position and the surcharge printed on the lower half sheet.
Therefore the first and fifty-first stamps are complementary ones, and show the word "PANAMA" reading upward on one side and downward on the other side, and all the other stamps of the sheet show it reading upward.

This surcharge was very plentifully supplied with errors. So much so that it is possible to locate most of the stamps in the half sheet even when they are single specimens, and plating it is comparatively easy with the aid of some blocks and pairs.

The fourth Panama surcharge differs from the third in having the word
"PANAMA" reading upward on the left side and downward on the right, and in being much freer from errors.

The letters of the word are larger than those of the former surcharge and it is 15 mm. long. On part of the sheets the bar at the top is 2 mm. wide, while on others it is 2½ mm. It was set up to cover five horizontal rows and ten vertical rows, and was printed first on the left half of the sheet, and afterward on the right half. The first and sixth stamps are therefore the complementary ones in this surcharge, and in each horizontal row the first five and the last five stamps are complementary.

The errors which occur in these two Panama surcharges will be better understood if described in connection with the stamps of the Canal Zone upon which they are found. Those of the fourth Panama surcharge differ somewhat and it is quite likely that there were several printings of this surcharge and that some of the errors were discovered and corrected. The shade of ink also varies and this indicates that the printing was probably not all done at the same time.

For convenience the stamps of the Canal Zone have been divided into several series, which keeps their arrangement from being too complicated.

Edited by HENRY A. KIDDER.

Information regarding new issues gratefully received. Address HENRY A. KIDDER, Arlington, Mass. Letters calling for a reply should contain a self-addressed stamped envelope. We cannot give addresses of our correspondents.

UNITED STATES.—The Sterling Stamp Co. has shown us specimens of the new 2c envelope printed on white, amber, blue and oriental buff, and also calls attention to a variety of the same, with the "P" and "O" of "Postage" joined. This occurs on early prints showing the head sharply embossed and the hair clearly marked.

The Sterling Stamp Co. also shows us the new shade of the 12c stamp.

F. L. Greenough calls attention to the fact that the new 12c is printed with an ink that shows red on the back, like the 2c and 3c stamps previously mentioned.

Scott's Circular notes the issue of the current 3c in the new rotary coils, like the 4c noted in No. 1318. These are perforated 10 vertically, are printed in a lighter and duller shade than those printed on the ordinary presses, and the stamps are slightly wider.

Scott's Circular calls attention to the fact that new 2c is the first envelope stamp to have the value expressed in figures only, all previous designs having had the value in words or words and figures.

CANADA.—Mrs. E. W. Oughtred sends us one of the booklets of Inland Revenue War Tax stamps, the 1c orange. There are four blocks of six stamps and the cover has a suitable inscription printed in orange. The twenty-four stamps sell for 25c. We are also advised that the 2c value has appeared in the same form.

ECUADOR.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List gives a translation of a decree published in the Ecuadorean newspapers:

"Decree of 30th June:—Art. I. The current issue of Postage Stamps consists of the following:—

- (a) 1 centavo, red and black, with bust of Roca.
- (b) 2 centavos, blue and black, with bust of Noboa.
- (c) 3 centavos, yellow and black, with bust of Robles.
- (d) 5 centavos, red and black, with bust of Urbina.
- (e) 10 centavos, blue and black, with bust of Garcia Moreno.
- (f) 20 centavos, green and black, with bust of Carrion.
- (g) 50 centavos, purple and black, with bust of Espinosa.
- (h) 1 sucre, green and black, with bust of Borrero.

Art. II. The issue in reserve is composed of the following:

- (1) 1 centavo, yellow, with bust of Roca.
- (2) 2 centavos, green, with bust of Noboa.
- (3) 3 centavos, black, with bust of Robles.
- (4) 4 centavos, red and black, with bust of Valdez.
- (5) 5 centavos, purple, with bust of Urbina.
- (6) 10 centavos, blue, with bust of Garcia Moreno.

Art. III. Accordingly as the stocks of stamps "a" to "e" become exhausted they shall be replaced by the corresponding values as per Art. II, except those of the fourth class (4 cts. Valdez), which

Once the stamps "f," "g," and "h," become exhausted they will be replaced by the following:

- (7) 20 centavos, red and black, with bust of Espejo or Carrion.
- (8) 50 centavos, blue and black, with bust of Carbo or Espinosa.
- (9) 1 sucre, deep yellow, with bust of Borrero.

Of these lists the 20c of the first group has not yet been issued and only the 3, 4 and 5c of the second group.

GERMANY.—Warsaw.—A. C. Roessler is informed that the stamps issued by the Citizen's Committee of Warsaw cannot be imported into Germany now, according to the latest ruling from Berlin. The German "Polen" stamps will be used in their stead, with overprint, "Gouvernement Warchau." A new post card, double and reply was issued with above overprint on Feb. 24.

MEXICO.—The Mexican newspapers have printed a list of the engraved stamps now in preparation, which shows that the current lithographed series is not to be followed in the new set. The portraits will honor the memory of the heroes of the Revolution. The designs are to be engraved on steel by the artist engraver, Fernando Fernandez of the Stamp Printing Office. The values, designs and colors are to be:

- 1c, National Arms, violet.
- 2c, portrait of Dr. Belisario Dominguez, green.
- 3c, portrait of Lic. J. M. Pino Suarez, brown.
- 4c, portrait of Genl. Maclovio Herrera, red.
- 5c, portrait of Genl. Jesus Carranza, yellow.
- 10c, portrait of Francisco I. Madero, blue.
- 20c, portrait of Genl. Ildefonso Vasquez, olive green.
- 30c, portrait of Aquiles Serdan, sepia.
- 40c, map of the Mexican Republic, pale blue.
- 1p, lighthouse at Vera Cruz, sepia and black.
- 5p, Post Office at Mexico City, rose and blue.

The stamps of 40c and 1p are now in use and the 5p will shortly be issued. The other values will not be put in circulation until the Universal Postal Union has been notified and a sufficient quantity has been printed to supply all post offices, so that the stamps may be put in general use on the same day and all previous issues retired.

SERBIA.—Stanley R. Massman reports being informed by a correspondent abroad that the current Bosnia stamps (Feldpost?) have been overprinted "Serbien" for use in that country.

"CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING" CONTEST.

The essay competition on The Charm of Stamp Collecting was attended with surprising results in the number of entries that was made. So generous was the response to our invitation to compete for the prize of five dollars that it soon became apparent to us that this modest incentive was all that was needed to set many minds to work on a congenial subject. In fact, we must credit the theme for a good share of this interest; evidently, Charm of Stamp Collecting carried an inspiration in its very words as it would be difficult otherwise to account for the wave of authorship.

The task of selecting the prize winning contribution was one that compelled no little deliberation and study. After the essays were submitted to a somewhat broad analysis that eliminated but comparatively few of them, the arduous even if interesting work of weighing shades, as it were, was undertaken. Here was a serious problem to solve and all the intelligence that was available was brought to bear on it. The course of procedure was made none the easier when it was found that several of the contestants may have been said to have had their scores matched by one another. To use the well-worn phrase, in the last analysis, the quality of human interest, correlated to the limitations of the subject, was considered in connection with the contributions; and it was then that M. Williams, 28 Gorham Street, Cambridge, Mass., was adjudged the winner of the prize. We have a shrewd suspicion that the satisfaction of the victor in this "grueling contest" is not to be measured by the value of the prize; and at any rate we heartily congratulate Mr. Williams and we thank the host of readers who made the contest a royal one.

OUR COMMEMORATIVE COVER.

The meaning of the different figures used in the "Quarter Centennial" issue of the WEEKLY of Jan. 8th, 1916, may be briefly and generally defined as follows: Palm—Originally a symbol of victory or rejoicing; evidence of superiority, a token of success or triumph.

Scroll—Ancient form of volume or book. Ship—Sailing on even keel shows stability.

Ornament—Tee-totum, even sided figure and therefore well balanced.

Greek Anthemion—Grace or freedom expressed by its curves; no license since there is obvious self-restraint or respect for law in every part.

Swastika—Emblematic of good luck.

U. P. U.—Universal Postal Union speaks for itself and whose stamps are represented by MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

Crescent—Increasing or growing.

Horn—A symbol of strength, power, exaltation.

Star—To be brilliant, or prominent to shine as a star.

Liberty-cap—Sign of liberty, quality and fraternity.

Eagle with outstretched wings,—strength and far-reaching influence and protection.

Circles—Never ending influence.

All of the emblems are on a buckler or shield,—defence.

Yours very truly,
W. G. BIRDSEYE.
122 Chandler Ave., Roselle, N. J.

Meetings first (informal) and third (regular) Tuesdays, Room 322 Tremont Bldg., 8.15 P. M.

Boston, April 3, 1916.

The 354th (regular) meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, Inc., was held on Tuesday evening, March 14th, Pres. Carpenter presiding. The regular business was transacted, Mr. Chas. O. Hurd being admitted to membership. The President urged those present to join the A. P. S. which society is to hold its convention here in August. Announcement was made of a contest for the April meeting, the first prize for which is a silver medal offered by Mr. E. F. Sawyer. Exhibits for this contest will consist of the stamps of any one country which has issued 40 or more major varieties, the lack of any stamp of $2.50 face value or more not to count against a contestant when judging completeness. Completeness will count 40%, condition, 40% and arrangement and neatness, 20%. In case there are 5 entries a second and third prize will be awarded, these to consist of ribbons. By giving this early notice the secretary hopes to receive entries from some of our non-resident members. I regret to have to report the dropping from membership of Nos. 424, 514, 520, 589 & 591 for non-payment of dues. The entertainment for the evening was one of the most interesting and instructive that we have had for some time. The two gentlemen who favored us were not alone possessors of fine stamps with which to illustrate their remarks but also showed keen knowledge and intense interest in the stamps which they exhibited. Mr. W. F. Sprague who is recognized as an authority on the U. S. stamps of 1861-1868 talked of these while the 40 members present looked over his 5 volumes of the stamps. A strip of 7 1c 1861, grided, block of 8 of same; single, double and triple shifts of 2c black 1862; 3c scarlet; 3c grided all over, on original, etc., were a few of the interesting things shown.

Mr. H. H. Wilson who was one of the first to collect proofs and essays showed his magnificent collection of these during the evening. They were contained in 3 volumes; volume I showing reconstructed sheet of 9 5c New York (Reprint Plate), Die proofs of same in 6 colors, blocks of 4 of 1851 issue and August 1861 issue, strips with margins showing imprint and plate number of all values of 1870, etc., volume II contained essays and volume III, revenue proofs, among which were some rare "built up" essays, essays of 1869 and 1871 issue, a proof of the $5000 second issue, etc. A vote of thanks was given to the gentlemen for their kindness and the meeting adjourned at 10.30 p. m. Mr. Sprague has since manifested his interest in the Society Collection by sending us some very fine copies of U. S. stamps for same.

THE CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING.

By M. WILLIAMS.

(This is the entry in our contest that secured first honors. Other meritorious entries will be published week by week. We regret that lack of space prevents the publication of more entries in this issue.—Ed.)

It was the usual group in the smoky haze of the dealer's back office. On the table lay a perfect specimen of the Providence, Rhode Island, local.

"That," said the dealer, "is as safe to buy as a government bond."

"But is in more danger from fire—in one's collection," I replied.

"Perhaps, but it ought to be kept in your safe along with your bonds,—that is, if you have any, after you begin to collect stamps!"

"My stamp books," said Thompson, who is a small man of a deceitful mildness, "are kept in a desk drawer on the first floor of my house, and I have instructed my wife in case of fire to get our child out first and to throw the stamps out after him. I believe," he hesitated, "I'd forgive her if she threw the stamps out first!"

As the laugh subsided, I asked, "What is the charm about it—why do these 'scraps of paper' get us so? As a business, it's a business, like any other, and I have known men and boys who cared for the money side of it, and of course one takes a perfectly proper satisfaction in seeing one's collection go up in value, but after all, it isn't the financial part that holds most of us—is it?"

"No," they chorused.

"It is the gambler's instinct," averred the doctor, "the ever present chance of getting something precious for nothing, of finding a treasure in the garret or in 'a thousand for twenty-five cents' mixture. Any dealer will tell you that men with big collections buy cheap packets just to satisfy the gambling appetite. It is a mild form of speculation that hasn't any 'morning after' effects. I confess since I became what the ads call 'a serious collector' I've missed the thrills of the mixtures a lot."

"It is something higher than that," declared young Parsons, who lives only for precancels, "it is the joy of seeking for completeness, of striving for perfect sets. Of course completeness in any line is practically impossible so one is always following after—that's the charm—" his voice trailed off for his eye had caught the glint of a precancel in the wastebasket.

"To me," said Adams, who collects nothing but used blocks, "it is acquiring something hard to get—something you must plan and scheme and save for. Now I was three years searching for my cover with the block of black queens—and I get up nights to gloat over it!"

"Consider the historical interest," cried Mason, "Why you can read all modern history in stamps—changes of dynasty, battles, heroes, statesmen. Now for example, take my war collection—" But the room was in an uproar for since September, 1914, we have borne much from Mason. When he had been finally shut off, I asked, "How about the boys? Why does almost every boy collect stamps as naturally as he plays Indian?"

Their answers were various—"the collecting instinct, the fun of swapping, the fascination of the stamps themselves with their birds and beasts and ships, the touch of strangeness in the foreign stamps, an embryonic business sense, rivalry with friends."

"Rivalry," cried the doctor. "The boys have no monopoly of that. Competition is two-thirds of the whole thing."

"No, no," begged Thompson, "call it appreciative sympathy. That sounds better and is truer. We're not such a base lot as you'd make out, doctor!"

"Base! We are the salt of the earth! But we are human and we like to be a little bit ahead of the other fellow. As a general thing the boys have the disease pretty normally but with adults it goes hard and we ought to be forgiven our peculiarities. My boy has a typical case and I began by helping him. Thought it would keep him home nights and teach him history and geography—and it

THE CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING.

Prize Entry No. 2—By L. B. FERGUSON.

The charm of stamp collecting! What hours of delight this happily-chosen subject brings to mind! There are so many phases of this "charm" it is hard to see how a real devotee can ever lose his interest and one does not wonder that so much time and money are spent on the pastime.

First there is the always present fascination of collecting anything—filling in the gaps—and in this case the innumerable number of stamps makes it almost always possible to find one at least desired—one in any bunch to reward one's search.

Then there are so many ways in which stamps may come—trading, one of the most fascinating of occupations; the discarded collection one buys for a song; the bargains in the WEEKLY; approval sheets; the ransacking of old letters time and again and as one's knowledge increases to find more and more unlooked for treasures. The writer well remembers the intoxicating delight of discovering revenue stamps some worth 20 to 25 cents on the backs of old photographs which did not cease until every old album available had been gone over.

Another ever increasing source of supply is furnished by one's friends who after continual reminding after a while become fixed in the habit of saving them and any mail is liable to bring a joyous fat envelope full of current issues from many different countries with nearly always some wished for one and the rest for sorting and arranging in the different duplicate trading sheets, filing pockets, envelopes according to number. The arranging of the duplicates is almost as interesting as the original collection.

Then there is the pleasure of searching for shades and perforations and best of all that of seeing some before unknown and interesting watermark come out distinctly in the benzine cup—such as the elephant's head of India, early Great Britain watermarks, or some new variety as yet unlisted.

Then if one is wise enough to use a quadrille ruled loose leaf album for one's 20th Century stamps the pleasure of arranging these beautiful pages is immense! Each one to be studied over and loved—with no ugly blurred black cuts to disfigure it! The stamps themselves are many of them so beautifully executed and in such beautiful colors that one never tires of the soothing and restful pleasure of slowly turning the pages of one's collection.

Then, who can measure the fascination of the philatelic rebus puzzles in locating countries, and issues. To pore over each stamp and cut in catalogue with magnifying glass bearing in mind all the many figures to be looked for and then to find them one by one is a delightful pursuit that takes all too much time in this busy world—that is the one drawback.

However, when on a summer morning one can with a clear conscience feel free to take the time and with all one's stamp paraphernalia on a screened porch where one knows a passing breeze can do no damage and with one's side partner in stamps to assist in sorting out and placing in collection a traders some bunch of stamps or better still breaking up some small collection, what more charming way to spend an all too quickly ended morning!

All these varied delights and other minor joys there is not space to mention but dimly portray the charm of that most fascinating and absorbing of hobbies—stamp collecting.

SECOND REBUS CONTEST.

The interest in our second rebus contest based on the design of the cover of the special issue of February 26th, transcended that shown in the January contest. Previously, we thought that the high-water mark of enthusiasm had been registered and consequently, we were staggered by the wave of entries that rolled in. Over ninety contributions were examined; and the number of correct answers was unexpectedly large. Either our readers are becoming more acute with practice or the artist whose creation was studied did not wish to make his puzzle too involved; or perhaps, both considerations entered into the successful result. Practically all of those who engaged in the competition made a creditable showing and as before, the cleverness that marked many of the answers was astonishing. The pains that certain of the entrants took to make their work distinctive were almost beyond belief and we can readily understand that the solution of the cover problem was a labor of love with a majority of those who made the contest the great success that it was.

While the work of a dozen or more of the contributors calls for especial mention, we shall concentrate our attention on Mr. Oettinger's production, which was given first prize. Mr. Oettinger's answers were in an elaborate, extra-illustrated booklet of nearly thirty pages, bound in a heavy paper cover. The conception was most artistic and the work on the book merited all encomiums. Each page showed first a printed picture of the stamp; then an enlargement of the salient part of the design was beautifully reproduced by some wonderful process. The entablature, borders, etc., made the book a veritable joy forever.

There was no particular stumbling-block encountered by the solvers. In fact, a few of the workers included an item or two that was not in the list; and here the following official answers from Mr. Birdseye, the artist, should have place. We quote: "The star typifying MEKEEL'S as standing alone and above all other publications of like character; the boy and the cornucopia, the New Year showering plenty and peace on the World below, represented by the map; the locomotive and steamship, method of transportation; the pillars are typical of the strength of MEKEEL'S, having for their foundation the good will of nations, represented by the stamps beneath; the fleur-de-lis shows purity, uprightness; winged stamps, progressiveness; shields, protection.

Parts of the following stamps were used:—heading and upper sides, Antigua A3; star, Liberia A49; locomotive, Ecuador A55; boy and cornucopia, Uruguay A79; steamship, Cuba A23; map, Canada A33; frame for map and figure, St. Helena 1906-1912; coats of arms, each side, Italy commemorative A4; and Finland A6; pillars and base, Venezuela A38; fleur-de-lis, Spain A46; from left to right Persia A1, Spain special delivery SD1, Montenegro postage due D3, Belgium postal packet PP4, Belgium letter stamp A35; centre, Denmark A10; bottom line, Bremen A2, Portuguese India A17, New South Wales A37, Prussia A7, Portugal A54 and San Marino A12; twenty-three in all."

The five prizes are awarded as follows:

First: A Popular Blank Album donated by the Nassau Stamp Co., J. A. Oettinger, 10332 Kempton Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Second: Any five books published by the Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Co., Oscar Beck, 811 Borthwick St., Portland, Ore.

Fifth: Five Hundred different foreign stamps, J. H. Bartholomew, Jr., 106 South Cliff St., Ansonia, Conn.

Max Borowsky, 1493 Commonwealth Ave., Bronx, New York City.
Leroy C. Brown, 407 Center St., Olean, New York.
Mrs. R. H. Mason, 14 Greenleaf Ave., Medford, Mass.

Each of those receiving honorable mention are entitled to three books from the list of Mekeel-Severn-Wylie Company's publications.

On the following roll, there are the names of over thirty readers who ascribed the details of the designs to their countries correctly; and a great many of the contributions under ordinary circumstances would have been nominated for high preference.

Howard Algeo, M. H. Allen, Amelia Blydenburgh, Gerald A. Burgers, Philip A. Cann, George D. Chase, Frank C. Clark, Frank V. Cooney, A. Gorham Davis, Virginia Eddy, L. B. Gatchell, S. There are two books awaiting the selection of each of these contestants.

STAMP BOOK SUIT ENDED.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Frank G. Farnham's suit to collect $1,000,000 from the government on a patent he claims on the little wax leaved books in which postage stamps are sold, was dismissed today by the supreme court which affirmed a like action by the court of claims. The high court, however, limited its decision to a point of an "implied contract," leaving Farnham free to bring other suits if he chooses.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—An invitation has been received for the second annual exhibition of postage and poster stamps by members of the Hill Top Y. M. C. A. Stamp Club to be held April 14-15 at its rooms in the Y. M. C. A. Bldg., Knoxville, Pittsburgh, Pa. The catalog of exhibits shows that the committee in charge has exercised good judgment in arranging the exhibits. The club has twenty-six active members at the present time.

—C. H. Day.—These current 2c stamps to which you refer in varying shades do not have any commercial value. They are of interest to the specialist and may well be collected.

—Our dealer friend Dr. L. A. Micheloni sends us a view card from Montevideo and writes us that he will soon be back in New York City.

—In the New York World of April 2 was a featured article entitled "Cremation of Four Million Dollars in Stamps." The article states that the cremation had for its fuel New York state transfer stamps, but no mention is made of the particular values destroyed or the number thus destroyed. Clipping from C. M. Breder.

—The Detroit Collectors Philatelic Society observed its second anniversary recently at the Hotel St. Clair. H. D. Hubel submits the cover in which his invitation was mailed. Sent out from Windsor, Ont., it bore the postmark "Mar. 4, 3.30 P. M." and at Detroit received an exactly similar time marking.

—The Brooklyn Stamp Society has issued its second Year Book and the publicity committee has sent us a copy. It consists of 28 pages in booklet form, containing a list of members, constitution, etc. It is well patronized from an advertising standpoint and appearances would indicate that the book is a financial success.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. Rausch (2), Herman W. Boers, Henry P. Day, G. Reggiani, A. E. Drought, N. N. Cohen, C. M. Breder.

—C. J. Agnew, 2341 E. York St., Phila., Pa., would like information as to the present whereabouts of Wm. T. Castle, or Carter, formerly of Tykesland, S. C.

—The San Francisco Stamp Society will meet the first Monday in each month hereafter. A new office of librarian has been created and Oliver G. Beardslee elected for the balance of the fiscal year.

—We call the attention of our subscribers to the rather unusual announcement made this week by Isaiah Rudy. It would seem as if the prominence of this advertisement must bring it before the attention of our readers. While it is a list of wholesale offerings there are many, many collectors who do not hesitate to purchase for exchange purposes duplicates of stamps that can be obtained cheaply. A unique thing about the advertisement is the fact that it requires only 35c to make a purchase of any one of the 250 lots listed.

—Eugene Klein has removed to 1318 Chestnut St., in Philadelphia and is now centrally located opposite the Wanamaker store. Visitors to the city are urged to call.

—V. K. Yowell, 2937A Hickory St., St. Louis, Mo., would like to hear from dealers who have had business relations with Chas. Mogull, N. Y. City.

—E. K. Bacon.—It is illegal to use illustrations of U. S. stamps as indicated by you. The big papers get by with a warning when the matter is called to the attention of the department, as the violation of law is invariably unintentional. No paper would jeopardize its second class privileges by wilfully violating the law.

ably unintentional. No paper would jeopardize its second class privileges by wilfully violating the law.

—"Just noticed the write up of the experience one of your advertisers had with the Mexican postmaster. Why will dealers and collectors not learn that the cheapest way to obtain stamps is from reliable dealers? We may charge a little more than you expect to pay in Mexico, if you get the stamps, and when you send to Mexico there is absolutely no way in which your money can be gotten back, if you get 'stung.' Mr. Milliken's experience is similar to the experience of dozens of others. Some Mexican has his money, and he has experience. In the present disturbed conditions across the line nothing can be done. Personally, I never pay until the stamps are brought to my office, and then in case of doubtful surcharges, etc., I have the stamps passed on by an expert before I invest. If you can give this a little space it may save some of your readers a loss. I would not trust a 5 peso bill out of my sight in Mexico, at this time."—W. E. DOWSER.

—"Just a line to set you right regarding the stamps that are on sale at the Post Office here. In your 'News Gleanings' of Mar. 18th, Mr. F. F. Wills says the only stamps on sale here are the 1, 2 and 5 cents. This is not correct as the 6, 8, 12, 15, 24, 30, 35 and 60 cents Cabot (1897) are on sale and also the 4 cent violet 1901 (Scott's 85). I am informed the stock of these stamps is quite large and it is not likely there will be a new issue for some time."—M. P. HYNES.

—The Aero Mail Club announces the appearance of a new volume, "The Development of the U. S. Aerial Postal Service," during the present year. The work is absolutely unique in scope and will embrace the most exhaustive study of this phase of our postal service ever before attempted. In addition to its general features the book will have a large number of photographs and cuts, reproduced from the original aviation cancellations and postmarks, and distributed throughout the text. There will also appear a valuable "Appendix," consisting of an exhaustive bibliography, various chronological tables and statistics, authoritative reference and check lists, a tentative record of aerial mail cancellation values, etc., thereby rendering the work indispensable to every individual interested in the latest branch of our postal service.

ARE YOU A BOOSTER?

The best boosting that has yet been done with our subscription coupons must be credited to S. E. Colman of Washington, D. C., who has sent in no fewer than twelve new yearly subscriptions. What he has done any dealer can do.

But Mr. Colman is not the only one who is rallying to the Booster plan. We are glad to have such friends as Burt McCann, A. A. Jones, Millard Co., O. Kendall and H. S. Powell and trust others will follow. Won't you join the list?

We must also note the good work of the N. P. Subscription Agency, Reuben W. Ahlmann, proprietor, Norfolk, Neb. Mr. Ahlmann has sent in no fewer than five yearly coupons. We urge as a bit of newspaper fraternity that our readers send for a sample copy of the Nebraska Philatelist published by Mr. Ahlmann or, better, 10c for a trial subscription.

To be a member of the Booster Club get some of the fine coupons and boost.

EDITORIAL.

Soldiers' Mail—Mail that we have seen from the American forces operating in Mexico is sent without stamps but is endorsed, "Soldier's Mail, —, U. S. Army." The postmark shown is that of Columbus, N. Mex., and at the office of delivery, a two cent due stamp is affixed to ordinary letters. No departmental rulings from Washington on the treatment of soldiers' mail from Mexico have been noticed up to this time of writing.

No More—The time is near for the manifestation of interest in the nominations for office for the ensuing fiscal year in the American Philatelic Society. It will be learned with regret that Mr. Wm.

PLEASE NOTE NEW ADDRESS:

EUGENE KLEIN, 1318 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

E. Ault who has served the American Philatelic Society so faithfully and capably for five terms, as secretary declines to accept a further term. It becomes incumbent upon the members to name a worthy successor to Mr. Ault as the position of secretary is one of the utmost importance. In explanation of his decision not to serve again, Mr. Ault writes us that the demands on his time by the work of his office are such that he has been compelled to neglect many personal matters and he feels that he should now be relieved of the work. He says: "I have enjoyed to a certain extent the work involved in the duties of this office and I should not exchange anything for the many personal acquaintances and friendships formed in my term of office."

Last Word—In a report of a recent meeting of the Birmingham, England, Philatelic Society, we find the Ultima Thule of fastidiousness in collecting. A member showed an excellent collection of the stamps of many of the British African colonies and the open sesame to inclusion in the collection is indicated in the following words: "In order to be included in this select company a stamp has to be absolutely mint and well centred, and the watermark well centred if this is possible." We do not need to employ the italics of the original report to drive home this extremity of demand. The originator of the well centred front and back school may know that he has discovered something new under the philatelic sun. The idea of a well centred watermark may have been vaguely felt by the specialist heretofore but now it is a consideration that is present in full force, it seems.

Sport—The collector with a "microscopic eye" may have lots of innocent enjoyment with the commonest kind of stamps. For instance, Mr. R. H. Perry of Linton, North Dakota, has been amusing himself by closely examining the details of the design of the two cent Pacific-Panama and as he says, he has found minor varieties that "make him smile." He sends specimens where the white spaces of the lined label with "Cents" falls so as to make the "C" a "G" or Gents. However, Mr. Perry rests his chief claim to enduring philatelic fame on his discovery of a serious omission in some of the stamps that he sends for inspection. It may be said here that because of his connection with a telephone company, Mr. Perry gives keen attention to poles and hence his remarks have the tone of authority. He says that he notices that the third electric light pole on the right outer bank of the canal, counting from the end of stamp at right, is missing on some of the stamps and sure enough, on several of his samples that he submits for examination, not a vestige of the pole is to be seen.

Portraiture—A reader asks why the postal authorities of this country have selected Washington and Franklin as the sole objects of portraiture on the current U. S. issue and, inferentially, why the gallery of the famous Americans of previous issues has been dispensed with. We do not recall any published expressions to account for the change at the time it was made but, conversely, neither was there any general adverse criticism of the step. However, it is known that at different periods in the past, the selection of personages for stamp honor was attended with some embarrassment for the administration. It was not that objection was waged against the choice that was made but indignation was voiced that this or that famous American was omitted from the philatelic hall of fame. We remember the story of the Tennessee citizen who, it is alleged, wrote to the department to propound the serious question of how much it would cost to have his picture on one of the denominations of our stamps. No doubt, it was thought that by reverting to first principles and selecting Washington and Franklin, the solution of something of a problem was happily made, even though it meant, as our correspondent says, "sameness" in the eye of the stamp collector.

What!—A dealer in the "biggest" class when asked for a word of comment on the present conditions of philately as seen by him said impressively: "The price of used two cent Columbians has gone up." Needless to say that the dealer was referring to wholesale quotations, and that he was in earnest. The information is meaningful as the advance in the price of this most common stamp indicates that the market has risen superior to the mass of "undigested securities" in the shape of untold numbers of the Columbian two cent, used. No American stamp was hoarded, we believe, in the quantities that the two cent Columbian was. The novelty of the stamp and the vast amount of advertising that all the Columbian set received lead many non-philatelists to save all the Columbians, including the two cent, that could be secured; and as a matter of course, collectors and near collectors gathered up all values, not forgetting the common two cent. Speculators appeared who systematically combed their cities for all denominations through the subsidizing of janitors, clerks, etc., and the result was that millions of the stamps were available for marketing. The consequences were inevitable. After Europe had been fully supplied, prices broke until a very low level was reached for the two cent at wholesale and for years it remained about as low as it was possible to quote on any stamp. For years the market struggled to gain the upper hand of the vast horde that descended upon it and after years of effort, the market has triumphed. The humble story of the stiffening of the price of the two cent used Columbian is not one that is likely to be "featured" as the newspapers say but it is full of significance. We doubt whether the wonderful assimilative power of the stamp market could be better illustrated than by the trite remark that the wholesale price of the two cent used Columbian has advanced.

Halved—Striking examples of split stamps continue to come in the ordinary mail from Honduras and while they probably are not authorized by official decree, yet their validity is tacitly recognized by the Honduras offices. Honduras has been contributing these bisected stamps over a period of years while the halved stamps from other southern republics come only at intervals. Colombian Republic, for instance, yields these curiosities only intermittently but Honduras appears to be a consistent advocate of the split stamp, which retains an interest only when it is on the envelope, it is needless to add.

WAR FUND A SUCCESSFUL

AUCTION. STAMP SALE.

(We are indebted to Fred. J. Melville for an advance report of the Red Cross auction sale held in London, Mar. 13-14. We regret that we cannot publish it in its entirety but give herewith that portion dealing with the most interesting part of the sale. A total of $16,000 was received.)

"Great Britain: 1865, 9d straw, plate 5, unused and exceedingly fine and of the greatest rarity. This copy is as usual, perforated with the single line machine, and is one of the few copies from the imprimatur sheets so done at Somerset House for inclusion in the sets contained in 'Before and After the Stamp Commission'."

This was the King's gift, and the room was alive with excitement when the lot was reached. There had been much speculation on the figure it would fetch. There was a score of buyers for it at about £100, and in the room some bright spark had organised a shilling sweep, in which the participants estimated prices ranging from £100 to £500.

The stamp was mounted on a card which bears his Majesty's autograph at the foot of the following notice:—"This 9d, plate 5, Great Britain stamp was taken from my collection and given to the National Philatelic War Fund's auction in September, 1915."

The bidding began at £100, then went on by steady advances to £270, and the lot was then knocked down to Stanley Gibbons, Limited, for the record price (for any English stamp) of £280. Charles J. Phillips, who was present representing that firm, then rose, and addressing the auctioneer, asked if the auctioneer would accept the stamp for re-sale. The lot was then sold again. The bidding on the second occasion was started at £200, followed by bids for £210, £240, £245, being knocked down at the last-named figure to Frank Godden, the well-known and enterprising dealer in the Strand.

The lot thus realised £525, and it was held for a moment by the veteran auctioner while a press photograph was taken of the room.

One of the gifts was a fine specialised collection of Greece formed by Mr. L. L. R. Hausburg, one of the Hon. Secretaries of the Fund. This was sold on the first day of the sale for £90, the purchaser being Mr. Hausburg himself. This gentleman, when the sale was approaching its end, and it was seen that we were within a comparatively narrow sum short of £3000, generously re-offered it on condition it sold for the amount needed to complete the third thousand pounds (roughly £130). It did not find a purchaser at that, so Mr. Hausburg himself donated it again for the supplementary sale.

Another lot was reminiscent of a war charity sale held just sixteen years ago. It was a set of seven Trinidad stamps of the 1891 issue, including the 1/2d, 1d, 2 1/2d, 4d, 6d, 1s and 5s, all surcharged "9d", one of the four sets thus overprinted in commemoration of the visit of H. R. H. the Duke of York (now King George) to the island. The set was originally presented by the then Duke of York to the philatelists' national war fund in connection with the Boer war in 1900, when it was purchased by Mr. Hausburg for £30. It was amongst the gifts to the new fund and was knocked down for £52—a considerable advance on the price paid sixteen years ago.

A copy of the circular 8c green British Guiana, cut round, and a little creased, was cheap enough at £10. The Hawaiian "Missionary" 13c (type 2) fetched £47, a New Zealand 1855 1d dull carmine London print fetched £15; a somewhat clipped copy of the rare 3d on 4d Prussian blue South Australia, 1870-71, perf. 11 1/2, brought £11, and a very fine specialised collection of Victoria was keenly contested from £100 in a series of advances at £5 a time between two Strand dealers, F. Godden and F. B. Smith, being finally acquired by the latter at £135.

UNITED STATES.—Since the new design 2c U. S. envelope has made its appearance three recuts of the old dies have been discovered, which for the present have been designated as F, G and H. The first two show the general characteristics of die A while H has the head as in A2.

A careful description of the new emblems, as well as a chronicle of the envelopes found to date, according to J. M. Bartels, is as follows:

Die F.

Front end of bust redrawn similar to Die E, upper point cut off.

ES of STATES and TE widely spaced. O of TWO and C of CENTS oval. CE close.

D of UNITED broad and round.

Chin very prominent.

Die G.

Front end of bust reduced and square,

width 2 m.

Lower line of bust forms a straight line.

Large oval O in TWO and close to W.

OC very widely spaced.

Front contour of hair is nearly a straight line.

Chin extremely short.

Die H.

Front end of bust still further reduced, front line irregular and far from inner oval line.

Point of bust over TS has been cut off short.

Hair as in A2.

Lower stroke of S of CENTS extended in a straight line.

NT short.

Special Delivery Adhesive.

5d orange and black; overprint black.

BOLIVIA.—J. M. Bartels supplements the recent chronicle of the 5c El Illimani stamp with another value locally printed. The shape and size is the same, but the inscriptions are differently arranged, and the subject of the illustration is "El Potosi," another of the great mountains of South America. Mr. Bartels also shows us the 5c "El Illimani."

Adhesive.

1c greenish gray.

CANADA.—Friedel Hofmann supplements Dr. Perry's note on the differences between the regular 1c postage and 1c War Tax stamps, by calling attention to the fact that the latter were a trifle shorter and narrower than the regular issue.

GILBERT and ELLICE ISLANDS.—Ewen's Weekly reports that the 2d and 2 1/2d King George stamps, which were held in reserve at Ocean Island until the remainders of the Pandanus issue were exhausted, were placed on sale Jan. 14, 1916.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—The Rev. L. Meister reports that the 1sh value of the current set has appeared in palest shade of gray black, hitherto seen only on the stamps of Nyasaland.

NORTH BORNEO.—E. W. Fuss has shown us some new provisionals from this Protectorate. The surcharges are alike, the figure of value being about 4 mm. above the word "cents" which is all in lower case type. The stamps surcharged are of the 1909 issue. Only a few were surcharged, Mr. Fuss is informed.

Provisional Adhesives.

2c on 3c lake and black; black surcharge.

4c on 6c olive green and black; lake surcharge.

10c on 12c deep blue and black; lake sur-

charge.

PHILIPPINES.—Capt. Clyde B. Parker reports having found blocks of four of the 1c, 2c and 5c postage due stamps, surcharged on United States, which have been resurcharged (or precancelled) with a black printed line across each block.

"THE STAMP COLLECTORS' GUIDE".

A new edition of Poole's "Guide" is on the press. The book has been revised, is fully illustrated and will be a marked improvement on the one previously published. The publishers of the WEEKLY naturally feel pleased that a second edition of this book has been made necessary.

In this connection we may add that the first edition of the book "How to Deal in Stamps" is nearly exhausted and a new edition will be forthcoming very shortly.

COVER DESIGNS WANTED.

Our subscribers have shown in a tangible manner that they are fond of contests of most any kind. Here is one that will appeal to those of an artistic temperament. We want some cover designs for some of the handbooks we shall issue in coming months.

We want three designs and will pay $5 for the best sketch submitted in the three divisions as follows:—

- (1) Design for the Canada book by Mr. Poole now running in the WEEKLY.
- (2) Design for a stock plate that will be suitable for any British Colony.
- (3) Design for a stock plate that can be used in connection with U. S. stamps.

In regard to the latter division we may add that we expect to run articles dealing with special perforations, regular revenues (including Match and Medicine) as well as articles dealing with the stamps of Canal Zone and Porto Rico.

This competition will close April 25 and those who wish can compete in all three classes. The drawings if larger than 6x9½ must be made in accordance with this proportion for necessary reduction. There is absolutely no restriction as to size, form or style of sketch and entries will be considered taking but a fraction of the cover page space.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

Dues received since last report from Nos. 9, 19, 156, 182 and 209, $3.50.

Resigned: Chas. Edward Prior, Hartford, Conn.

Change of Address: Edward S. Caum from Washington, D. C., to P. O. Box 79, Honolulu, Hawaii. The Secretary from 1932 Mt. Vernon St., to 609 N. 20th St., same city.

The superintendent of the Sales Department submits the following report: Covers received to date, 126
Number of circuits sent out, 9
Total value of same, $392.95
Retired six circuits valued at, $292.77
From which have been sold, $44.48
Value of circuits still in circulation, 100.16

Two circuits to a sick member, valued at $59.51, cannot get returns from.

Mr. Heusinger is now in position and anxious to help all of our members in adding to their collections. Write him for circuits. After a long delay and a great deal of correspondence, the secretary is pleased to state that he has secured a person willing to act as our agent in purchasing new issues of postals, letter cards and envelopes. To be announced later. In the meantime he wishes every member of the Postal Card Society of America to address him and state whether or not he will give encouragement to the re-organized department by joining it. To make this department a success we must give a lift by putting our shoulders to the wheel, not only to encourage the new agent, but to also assure the secretary that you appreciate the time and expense that he has been to get the long-idle department in working order again. It will take a great deal of time for me to address each member, individually, so I trust each one will forthwith write me whether he will patronize the department or not. I must have help. A little patronage from each member counts for much when taken all together.

WHOLESALE PRICE LIST

UNITED STATES POSTAGE AND REVENUE STAMPS.

In offering the following stamps at wholesale, I have departed from the general plan of selling per 10 and per 100. I have done this thinking some dealers would prefer fewer of the higher priced stamps, while any dealer could dispose of 35c worth of the lower priced stamps. I have based my prices on my own stock, and can fill orders on all kinds offered. 3 lots for $1.00. 16 lots for $5.00. Terms cash with order. No lots sent on approval. All stamps are in good saleable condition. Money will be refunded on any lot found unsatisfactory. Dates and descriptions are from Scott's latest catalogue. Order by lot number. * Means unused.

There should be a large number of entries. A member may enter more than one country if he so desires.

There have been offered as prizes for obtaining new members during the year the following prizes:

CHINA AND ITS STAMPS.

By C. A. HOWES, F. R. P. S., President American Philatelic Society.

CHAPTER IV.—Postal Systems.

In treating of the postal matters of China one must consider two systems, the ancient and native system, which is still in use, and the modern and foreign system which was lately adopted by the Imperial Government after having been for many years simply an adjunct to the Customs Service.

The ancient system reaches back to far antiquity, having apparently been instituted by the Chou Dynasty which ruled the country from 1122 B. C. to 255 B. C. It is termed the I Chan or Government Courier Service, and has therefore been in operation for nearly 3000 years. It is under the supervision of the Board of War or "Ping Pu" at Peking, where the Cart and Chariot Department, with seven officials at its head, superintends all I Chan affairs. Two Yamens look after its workings, one, known as the Horse Office, overseeing the couriers and horses, and the other, known as the Despatch Office, attending to the mails on arrival and departure. The Service is carried on by means of a system of post-carts and runners, post stations for this purpose being located generally on the principal roads and supplied with everything necessary for the prompt despatch of the reliefs when a cart or runner arrives.

All covers for transmission through the I Chan to the Provinces have first to be inspected and stamped at the Cart and Chariot Department; they are then sent to the Despatch Office and through the Horse Office, whose horses and men are requisitioned, are forwarded to the first stage or post-station on the journey. The district town there is responsible for the transmission to the next stage, and so on until the cover reaches its destination.

Despatches so sent must be enclosed in official covers indicating on an attached slip the I Chan cities through which they are to pass; these slips are annotated at each place with the date of the passage. According to the urgency of the message, the couriers travel from 200 to 600 li (67 to 200 miles) per day, and at each station horses and men are supposed to be kept in readiness. There are said to be some 8000 offices for post-carts and some 2000 offices for runners included in this system.

But commercial and private interests could not avail themselves of the official postal system for the transmission of letters or packets, and the natural result was the establishment of private posts in the cities and chief towns for the convenience of bankers, merchants and private individuals. They employed their own couriers or made special arrangements with regular transportation agencies, and by registering all matter and allowing insurance upon it, established safe and rapid postal communication which has answered the requirements very well.

These Hsin Chü or "Letter Hongs" have a tariff, more or less fixed according to distance, ranging from 20 cash (1 cent) to 200 cash (10 cents) for each letter, but are not particular to an ounce or two in the weight. The usual practice is to leave a portion of the postage, generally half, for the addressee to pay. The rates may be reduced to an important customer or commuted for an annual subsidy.

At the time of the Tai-ping rebellion (1850) the Maritime Customs were temporarily taken under foreign protection and supervision. The system put in force worked so well that it was finally adopted by the Imperial Government, which allows a certain sum for the maintenance of the department. At its head, in Peking, was Sir Robert Hart, appointed in November, 1863, and styled the "Inspector General of Customs," and under him was a large staff of English, American and Chinese subordinates. The Custom Houses were of course located only at the Treaty Ports, and for the convenience of foreigners residing there, and business generally, the Imperial Customs department established a postal service of its own between these ports, in which was included Peking, as the chief office of the department was located there.

CHAPTER V.—Customs Postal Issues.

In July, 1878, a modest issue of three stamps made its appearance, of which cut is a sample. These stamps are so familiar that it is perhaps only necessary to translate the Chinese inscriptions. Those in the two upper corners are: at the right "ta" and at the left "ts'ing" or "ch'ing," meaning "Great Pure," that being the designation of the Manchu dynasty. In the right panel reading downwards is "Yu ch'eng chü," literally "Post-law bureau," and signifying of course "Post-office." In the left panel is "I fen yin" or "1 candarin silver" with a proper change in the top character for the other values, "san" for "3" and "wu" for "5".

The central device is of course the "dragon", that famous beast created by the Chinese mind to represent all that is terrible, imposing and powerful, and thus symbolical of the Emperor. Pictures of the dragon or "lung" are almost always accompanied by certain accessories which can be recognized upon the stamp. The curved or wavy lines beneath represent the sea, with a dot for the opening of the cave from whence he issued; the "curls" scattered around him (see the Shanghai stamps) represent clouds; and the "ball" beneath his head and within the curve of his body is the pearl or gem which the dragon is popularly supposed to carry on its forehead or in its becl, and to which are ascribed wonderful virtues and powers of healing.

The stamps come in three different values on thick and thin paper and with wide as well as narrow margins for the perforations, which gauge 12½. Copies may also be found imperforate but are very scarce in this condition.

Issued July 26, 1878, to November 25, 1885.

1 candarin, green, 206,486 stamps
3 candarins, red, 558,768 "
5 candarins, yellow, 239,610 "

The Chinese monetary system is as follows:

10 cash (li)—1 candarin or "tael cent" (fèn).

10 candarins—1 mace (ch'ien).

10 mace—1 tael (liang).

The names familiar to us, however, are not Chinese, but of foreign origin, the Chinese equivalents, whose corresponding characters appear on the stamps, being given in parentheses. The "tael" is a money of account, not a coin, and is the equivalent of 1 1-3 ounces of silver. The only coins corresponding to the above table are the familiar copper "cash" or "li." The candarins or tael cents for these stamps were based on the "Haikwan" tael, or Custom House standard, and being affected of course by the fluctuations of silver, were at the time of this issue about twice the value that they represent at present, or about a cent and a half of our money.

The cancellations on these stamps consist of an obliator, which is an upright oval enclosing two bars at top and bottom with one at each side between, the name of the city being in native characters in the center space thus formed. Occasionally this name takes up so much room that the inner two bars at top and bottom are omitted. The cut illustrates that of the city of Peking. Also the Customs post-mark of two concentric circles with "Customs" between them at the top, the name of the city at the bottom, and the date in the center.

In regard to the use of the Customs stamps, it may be said that they franked mail matter between the Customs Post Offices (including the head office at

LAST CALL

I am about to retire from the stamp trade, and am closing out all of my wholesale stock (mostly medium-price unused, no trash) at prices which you will not see again very soon.

It is an exceptional opportunity either for dealers, or for those who think of becoming dealers, to acquire a varied and desirable stock of stamps in quantities to suit, at bargain prices, before they are gone. Make your selections of what are required from my regular printed list, and if your wants amount to from $50 to $100, I will allow a satisfactory discount for net cash.

Bear in mind that when this stock is exhausted, there will be no more. At least, not from me. And the stock is limited, there being less than $20,000 worth, catalogue, remaining. So grasp the opportunity while you may.

Peking) alone, and were thus in a way
"local", but no more so than the 1 penny black of Great Britain before postal treaties were entered into with other countries by which British stamps were recognized outside of Great Britain.
Letter postage was 3 candarins per half ounce between any of the Treaty Ports including Peking, but excepting Pakhoi and Kiungchow in the extreme south.
To these two the rate was doubled, or 6 candarins per half ounce. To Japan and Korea, and the United States via Japan, the rate was 6 candarins per half ounce, the extra 3 candarins paying for the Postal Union stamp placed on the letter by the Customs office to carry the missive in the international mails. Letters to Hongkong and Postal Union countries generally were 9 candarins per half ounce, but if the sender placed the required Postal Union stamps on the letter only the inland Chinese rate was required in Customs stamps.

On November 25, 1885, a new issue took place of the same three values but in a reduced size and modified colors.
The main features of the design were retained from their larger predecessors.

The new stamps are stated to have been typographed in Shanghai, but they have every appearance of being lithographs.
They were perforated at first with the same machine as the previous set, but in 1889 a new one gauging about 12 (11 3/4 exactly) began to be used, thus making two sets. The paper was watermarked with a device arranged to fall once upon each stamp on the sheet. This has been described as a "shell", but is really the yin-yang symbol much used in Chinese geomancy. It is a graphic illustration of the two principles of nature, illustrated by the male and female in animate objects, by the union of which all things are produced.

The cancellations and postmarks found on this issue are the same as for the preceding one.

Issued from November 25, 1885, to November 16, 1894.

Perforated 12 1/2 and 11 3/4.

EDITORIAL.

Best—We feel that we have been very moderate in expressing our enthusiasm over the range and quality of the reading matter that we have begun to print and it would be unbecoming if we did not devote a few words here to mark the degree of excellence that we have achieved. In reality, the China of Mr. Howes, Canada of Mr. Poole and Canal Zone of Mr. Evans are a trilogy that merit attention and emphasize the development of our plans to make the WEEKLY so superior in its reading columns that subscribers will feel that we are deserving of the support that we have received in bountiful measure. Even so, the future will unfold greater evidences of the progress of our paper.

Upward—After paring our subscription list down to the quick and disposing of all who are in arrears for any noticeable time we are still printing 8,000 or more copies a week. We have become much interested in the prospect of attaining the coveted mark of 10,000 tried and true subscribers and the fact that the fulfillment of our ambition is not easy of accomplishing rather fans our ardor. There is a percentage of readers who send in a new subscriber's name occasionally and in this connection we have often pondered upon the problem of stimulating the larger division of "do not" with a spirit of emulation. If our interest in gaining the coveted 10,000 mark were contagious, then, the larger proportion of readers who do not bestir themselves to the extent of inducing an acquaintance to subscribe would be affected so strongly that the uplift to 10,000 would be assured. At any rate we must have a complement of 10,000 sooner or later.

Another—We have been informed by Mr. E. R. Jacobs whose illustrated plate of the five cent New York in the issue of February 26, 1916, made a profound impression, that another double transfer should be added to the list of double transfers in the position of 38, making a total of seven double transfers in the plate of fifty stamps.

Redivivus—The good old Brattleboro has come into its own again after having been ignored by the newspapers for many a day. Time was when the Brattleboro was a favorite theme for exploitation in the press but latterly the stamp has suffered an eclipse in this respect. While having relinquished its place of prominence on the stage of philately, it still has great recuperative power and that such is the case is shown by an Associated Press dispatch with the New York headline, dated April 11th, 1916, telling of the sale of two Brattleboro provisionals on original envelopes in that city, for $1,730. The two envelopes were said to have been found upon examining the effects of a lawyer in New York who died recently, we assume. We gather that the covers were sent to the lawyer at the time the Brattleboro stamps were in use, or in 1846. The newspaper accounts say that "fewer than twenty genuine canceled Brattleboro stamps are known and they are highly prized by collectors." The stamp was retired upon the government issue of 1847, although there is some testimony to the claim that the Brattleboro stamp "may have supplied a temporary shortage" of the government stamps in 1848 or 1849, as Mr. Luff says. Authorities say that but one printing consisting of five hundred sheets or 5,000 stamps was made and that it is probable that not over 500 of the stamps were ever used in the service. The price, $1,730, at which the two stamps are said to have been sold seems to be an equitable one.

Twelve years ago, we remember that a superb copy on original was offered for $600 and in the Seybold sale in 1912, No. 2 in plate, on the cover brought $700.

Business—According to a newspaper despatch from Port Huron, Michigan, a manufacturer there received an order from Dawson City, Alaska, for eighteen suits of overalls which were sent in eleven packages, the postage on which amounted to $32.60. This amount is said to have been greater than that of the overalls in the local market. We hope that the recipient of the overalls is a stamp collector and that high values were used in sending the packages. If so, in that way he will be recompensed to some extent for the heavy postal expenditure.

Vagrant—The postmark that we spoke of in our issue of April 1st, 1916, used in connection with the regular Spade, Nebraska, postmark, "Delayed for want of Mail Service," has occasioned some comment. A reader tells us that he has the postmark, "Joplin, Mo., Apr. 11, 1908, M. O. B." in purple on a two cent red envelope of the 1907-10 issue. Here is a case of the use of the "money order business" stamp for the regular postal one.

Mexico—The following official notice from Cosme Hinojosa, the postmaster general of Mexico, will clear the atmosphere in reference to the surcharged issue of Mexico concerning which we have had something to say in recent issues. Translation:

"The Secretary of Communications and Public Works, has ordered to be put in circulation for the posting of correspondence the postage stamps of obsolete issues but with the overprint as per sketch below:

The colors of the above over-print are to be the following:

For the one, two, ten, fifty cents, one peso and five pesos; RED.

For the three and five cent values: BLUE.

For the fifteen and twenty cent values: BLACK.

In regard to stamps, postal cards, envelopes, etc., at the present time in circulation, they will be considered valid for the posting of correspondence until the supply is exhausted, or until the Secretary of Communications and Public Works, through this office, should direct otherwise.

Revenues—On the left sheet of two hundred subjects of the 1/2 cent proprietary of the current "suppressed" short series, there is a variety of some interest. On the bottom row, the fourth stamp from the right shows the "2" with the upper curl of the numeral blank or without the curved line that gives the part its true form. A reader has shown us a complete sheet of the sixty dollar beautifully used, i. e., a strip of four, vertically, of the current documentary set. The three cent documentary has been found on postage paper.

THE CHARM OF STAMP COLLECTING.

Third Prize Entry—By EDWIN B. HILL.

At the threshold, one might ask, in all simplicity, What is charm? It may be described as that indefinable something which grips the personality and makes for restful delight,—that indescribable something which calls each to each,—the fireside fisherman to his Walton,—the booklover to his books,—the collector to his stamps.

He who does not know the charm of stamp collecting has missed one of the greatest joys of life,—perhaps the most restful of all pleasures, considered from the standpoint of self. It is not to be inferred that self by this designation means selfishness. Preferably, it may be termed that part of one's inner consciousness dominant of culture, of which observation is the most direct attribute. Stamp collecting demands a fine appreciation, a tireless endeavor, an acute observation, a persistency and an integrity which make for character.

He who "collects" knows the eagerness with which the new catalogue is awaited,—the anticipated advent of a favorite philatelic paper,—the delight in the altogether unexpected auction catalogue,—and, greater than the greatest of these, the unsurpassed pleasure of garnering in one's album the gap-filling stamp which has long eluded one's search,—always King Midas permitting. These are all charms describable.

Which of us older collectors does not remember most pleasurably and with a thrill living unto this day the first "Cape Triangular" which came to him! The joy,—the well-spring of romance! And who can ever forget rummaging amongst old letters and finding perhaps one or two beautiful gems to add to one's growing hundreds! How the eyes glowed! How the pulses beat! The joy of it,—the rapture! One did not think then what constituted the charm of stamp collecting,—the charm was so much part of the life that it seemed a bit of the very essence of being,—a cause of and for existence.

Looking through a dealer's advertisement, the eye may chance upon perhaps a single stamp which calls as "deep unto deep." The appeal is irresistible. How long are the days! How the hours drag! And then—what charm is here within the envelope eye hath not hitherto beheld.

The charm of stamp collecting includes also the fellowship of brother-collectors and the rare joy of exchanging. Here, perhaps, one garners a needed Newfoundland or New Brunswick or Canada, giving in its place a duplicate "U. S." or some other equally desirable stamp, never with the bargain idea, but always with that of equity.

Another charm of stamp collecting is in the arrangement of one's treasures, especially if they are placed in a blank album. Here is opportunity for display of one's artistic sense. How beautiful the pages! How altogether restful! And the "writing up"!

Many of the great collections are now coming on the market. Who would miss the charm which opportunity presents to possess a stamp from the great Crocker collection,—one of the commoner Cape triangulars, should one's likes tend toward those beautiful stamps,— or, a low-priced British North America from the Sussdorf garnerings,—some fine though not rare gem from the Osborne books,—or, a United States from the collection of the late Lord Crawford?

Of a rainy day, when one cannot be out-of-doors,—of a cold raw snowy and blowy day,—or, alas! when the ills that man is heir to confine one to one's room,—what solace and rare delight and charm one finds in stamps! And now, in the prisoners' camps at various points in the war zone, how the long hours are made to pass by the collectors who can at least talk stamps even if they cannot possess them.

A dissertation on the charm of stamp collecting would be incomplete were one to neglect the pleasure of passing on some of one's accumulations to those who appreciate,—to the more humble collector who perhaps loves his stamps even more than you and I,—loves them and feasts his eyes on them, and feeds his soul! Let us not forget this our brother, nor be ungenerous with our gifts.

There is also the charm of stamp collecting wholly indefinable. It dwells in the soul-sense,—the spiritual part of one's nature,—that Inner Shrine of which no man speaks but of which each man feels and knows and from which he draws sustenance equal to his daily needs.

Here dwells the better part of us,—the charm,—the "sweetness and light" of life, the dream, and the reality. This comprises to the full the charm of stamp collecting.

U. S. 2c 1903, DOUBLE TRANSFER.

PERCY MCG. MANN.

Mr. Frank Reeder, Jr., has submitted to me several strips of the U. S. 2c, 1903, shield type, with Scherneck perforation, issued in coils by the Mail-o-meter Co., and an imperforate block of the same stamps, which has enabled me to "plate" three double transfers in the upper left pane of plate No. 4701. Stamps Nos. 4, 5 and 6 of this pane show lines through the top of the word "POSTAGE" and other evidences of slight double transferring (downward shift) similar to the recently mentioned double transfers of the current 12c stamps. These three double transfers of the 2c 1903 are entirely different from the one I discovered last year, on which the doubling shows in parts all over the stamp.

Owing to the vast quantity of these stamps issued, and saved by collectors, especially in imperforate condition, students should be able to find many of the "doubles."

WANTED—A DRAWING.

It is our intention to issue in a near booklet form three or four of the entries that we received in our essay contest "The Charm of Stamp Collecting." We desire for use on the cover of the booklet a pretty design 1 1/2 inches square in which the above title shall appear. No frame or border lines are to be used, but merely the lettering in such form as may suit the fancy of the designer. We shall give a proper token in acknowledgment of the merit contained in the winning entry. Entries must be received April 29.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The German American Commercial League has an invitation in this issue for collectors to donate stamps to be sold for the benefit of German prisoners of war in Siberia. The League states that the appeal for clothing and other necessities is very urgent, and all donations in money have been forwarded through the Red Cross in Tientsin, China.

—"Current Philippine stamps, as purchased at the post office, will usually discourage collectors, as most of the stamps are stuck to the paraffined paper and are poorly centered. Sets offered in the States, in fine condition, at 10 to 20% over face (50c on the peso) are well worth the money. The "original cover" collector is in his element at Manila. The 1c letter rate prevails in the Philippines. Mail can only be obtained at the post-offices."—W. F. S.

—Henry Jonas of Goshen, N. Y., informs us that he recently removed from a bottle of cordial three 2c 1914 perf. 10, a pair and a single, all having been cancelled by a rubber stamp "S. Bros. & Co.—Jul. 3—1915." in three lines.

—The office of the WEEKLY was favored last week with a call from C. A. Pitkin of Montpelier, Vt. Mr. Pitkin was on his way home after a winter's stay in Florida.

—Edgar D. McIlvain reports that he is interested in Arthur G. Cole, Jonesboro, Ind., to whom reference was made in our issue of Feb. 18.

—The Franklin Stamp Co. has found it necessary to move into a larger and more commodious office. The firm is now located in Room 1015, Real Estate Trust Bldg., Philadelphia. The advertisement of the firm elsewhere in this issue will prove of interest to all who buy at auction.

—Ira M. Kells, R. D. 6, New Bethlehem, Pa., has a large supply of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY and other papers on hand and would be pleased to hear from persons interested. It is not our practice to insert notices of this kind unless papers are to be donated and subscribers will please bear this fact in mind.

—One cannot fail to note the announcement of B. W. H. Poole elsewhere in this number. Mr. Poole has acquired the entire United States and foreign stamp collection (excepting Mexico, Hawaii and Confederate States) of W. Parker Lyon, formerly of Fresno, Cal., and now residing in Pasadena. Many superb stamps are advertised by Mr. Poole and the breaking up of this fine collection will place many rarities in the channels of trade.

—If Mollie Henderson, 2971 East Boulevard, will send us the name of the city in which she resides, we shall be very pleased to fill order for premium recently at hand. Subscribers will please be careful to name town or city in correspondence. Is there an E. Boulevard in your city?

—The Washington Philatelic Association and the Branch No. 5 of the S. P. A. have taken Rooms 718-719 on the top floor of the Bond Building, Washington, D. C., as a permanent meeting place. This gives both organizations pleasant and convenient quarters and a club room for members to meet in during the day.

—We have received from M. P. Hynes, St. Johns, Newfoundland, two clippings from the London Mirror, one of which illustrates the National Philatelic War Fund auction sale in session and the other the stamp donated by the King with his autograph.

—The election time of the S. P. A. is drawing near and the following is one ticket which will be placed in the field:—president, Dr. W. I. Mitchell, Wichita, Kans.; vice pres., S. H. Barnes, Kansas City, Mo.; secretary, Benj. F. Egan, Indianapolis, Ind.; treasurer, C. V. Hollis, Indianapolis, Ind.; sales manager, J. E. Guest, Minneapolis, Minn.; exchange manager, Robt. C. Edgar, Wichita, Kans.; Inter. sec'y, Harry E. Klotzbach, Buffalo, N. Y. 1917 Convention seat, Minneapolis, Minn.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from W. G. Birdseye, Henry J. Borsch, V. W. Rotnem, Herman W. Boers.

—Dr. Luis A. Micheloni has just returned from a trip to Uruguay. His offerings elsewhere are evidently a reflection of the business end of the trip.

—"Perhaps it may interest U. S. stamp dealers and collectors who are in business relation with the European continent to know that the U. S. mails, shipped by the Netherlands steamers Rotterdam and Nvordam, 2nd and 7th February from New York, are lost. They were taken from these steamers by the English for censoring, and after they had finished their inspection, the English authorities sent the mails through by our steamer, Mecklenburg, which struck on a mine and sunk."—OTTO WEISMANN.

—Harold K. Bowen, Fort Dodge, Iowa, has announced that he will be a candidate for vice president of S. P. A. Mr. Bowen, aside from being a member of the S. P. A. recruiting committee, is secretary of the Iowa Stamp Society.

VIRGIN IDS. 1899 ISSUE.

By A. H. WEBER.

I note the completion of Dalwick's article on Virgin Is. and what he says about shades of the 1899 issue is very indefinite. I have in my collection all values 1/2d to 1sh in at least two marked distinct shades (5sh only one). As I procured a set through new issue service and the variations much later it has always seemed to me that there were several printings or lots sent out at different times. It would be well to look into this and give us the shades.

The broken type "errors" are on a par with the DFUTSCHES REICH and really do not deserve listing as they were no doubt made purposely by some one philatelically inclined. In the case of the German stamp the official was found and punished, while in this case, it has been considered a good thing.
